

1

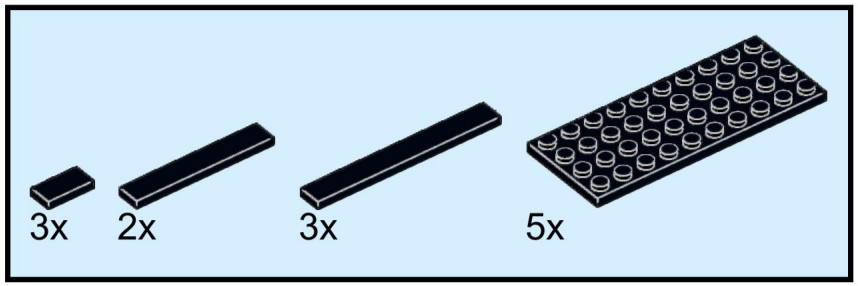

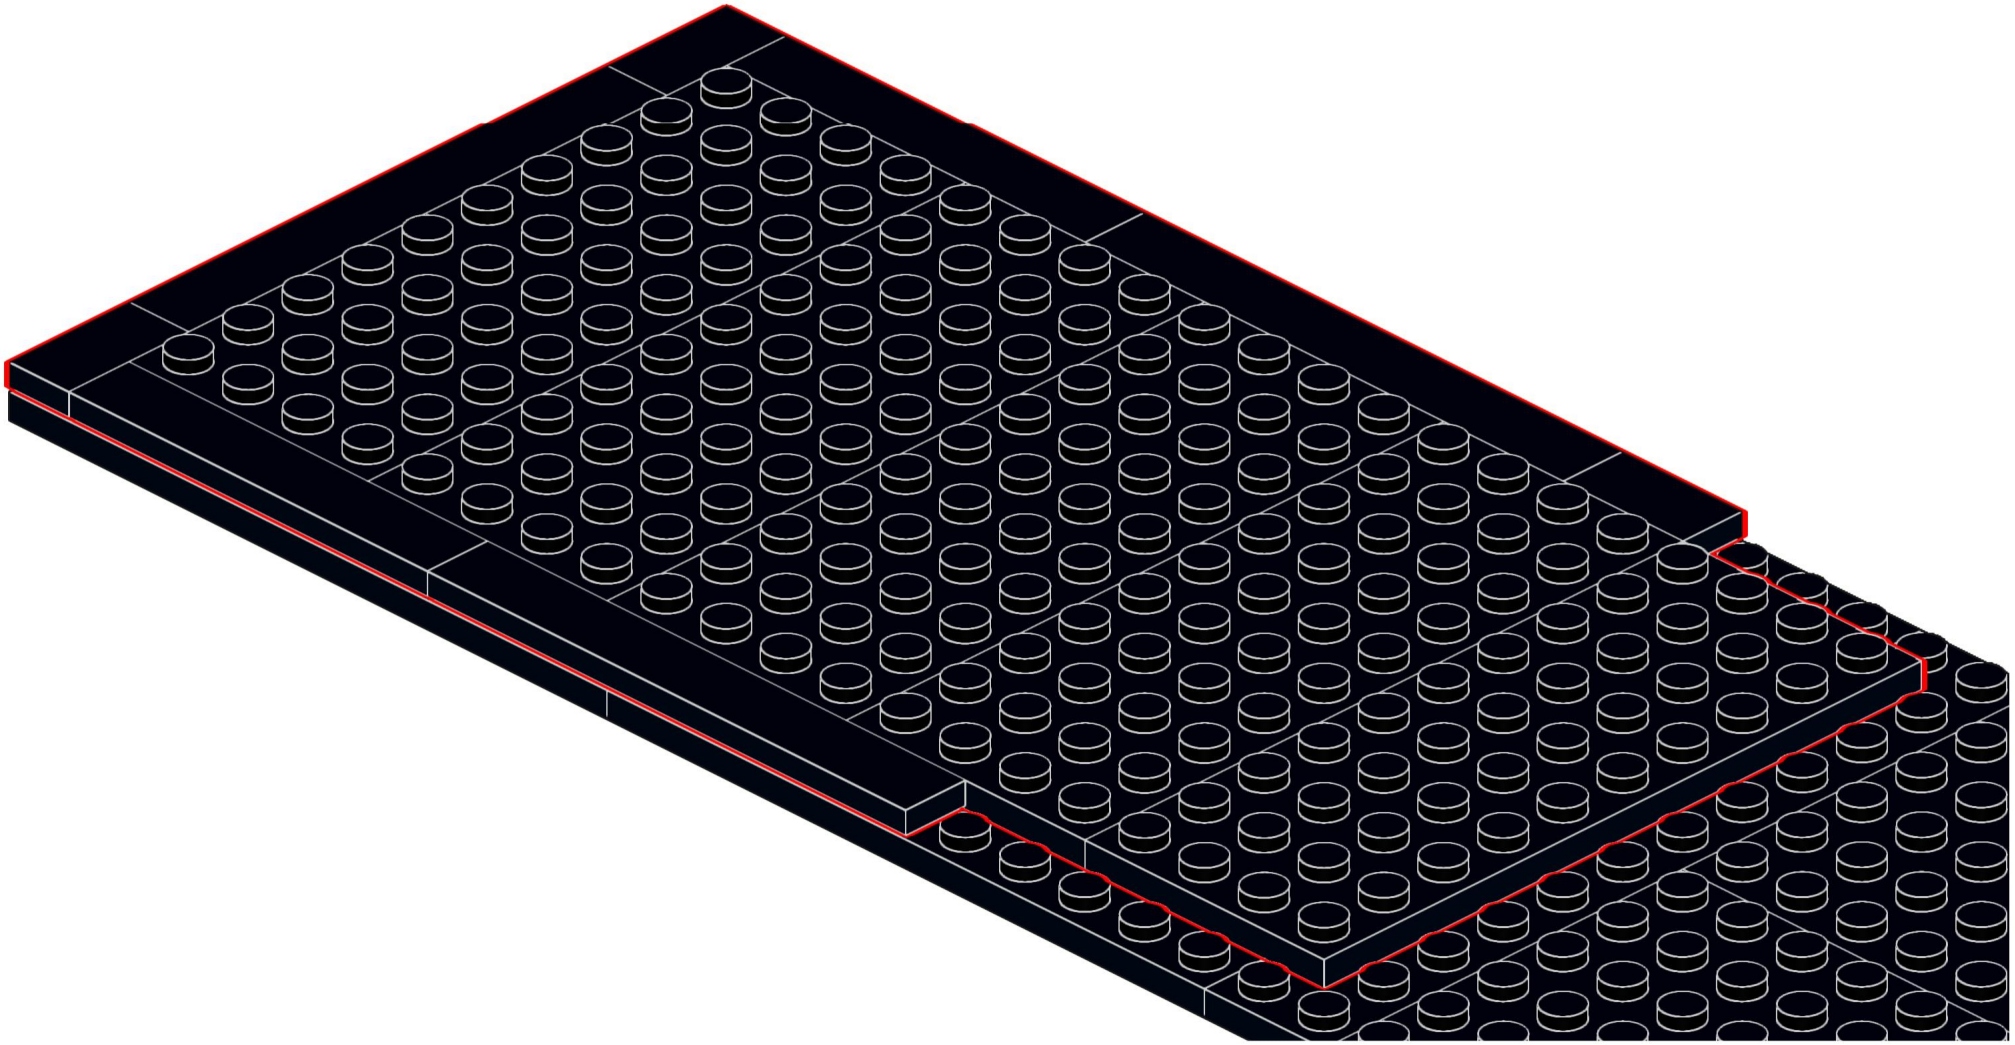

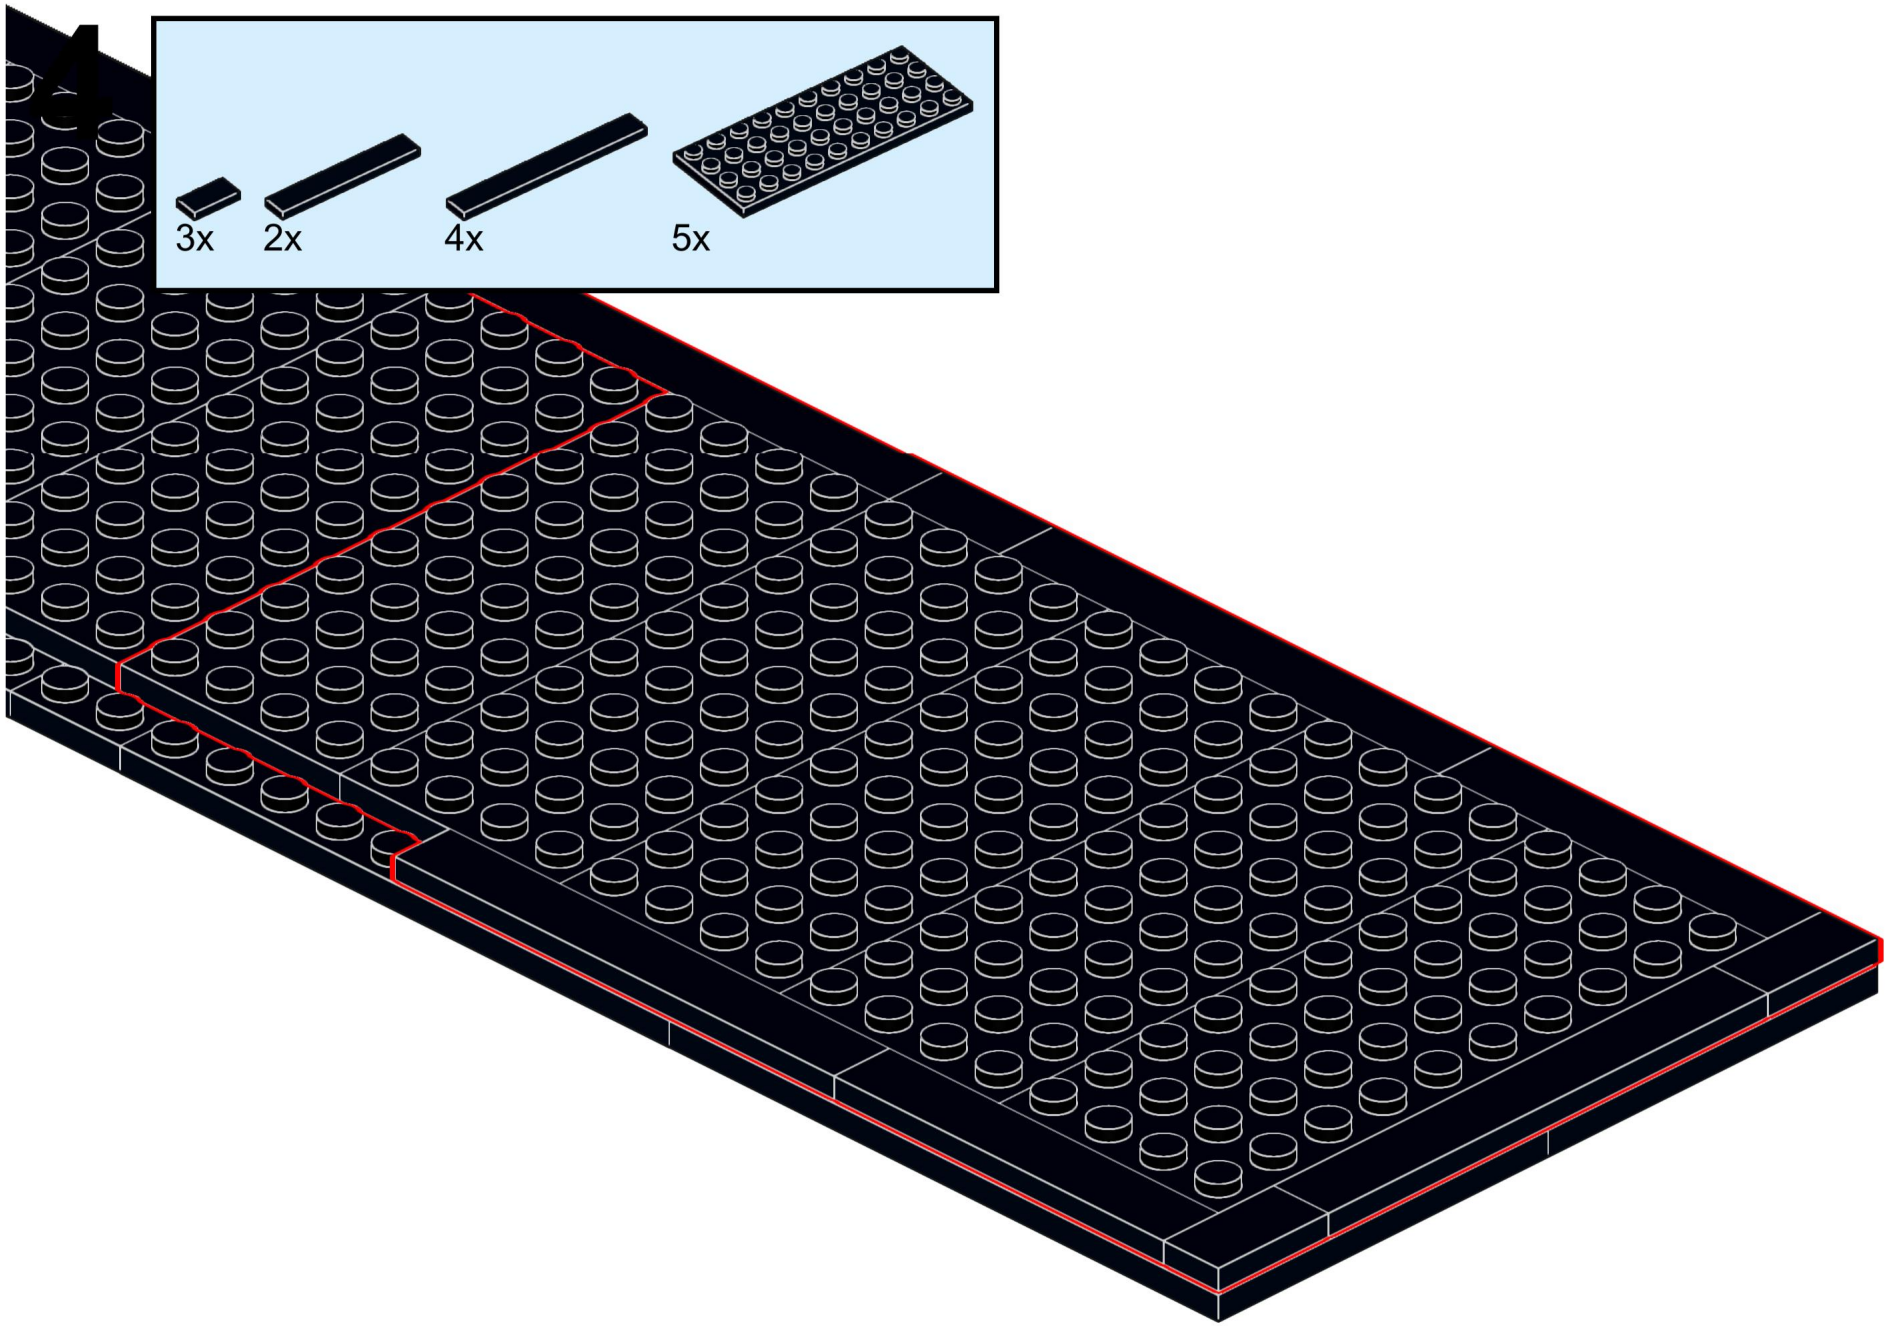

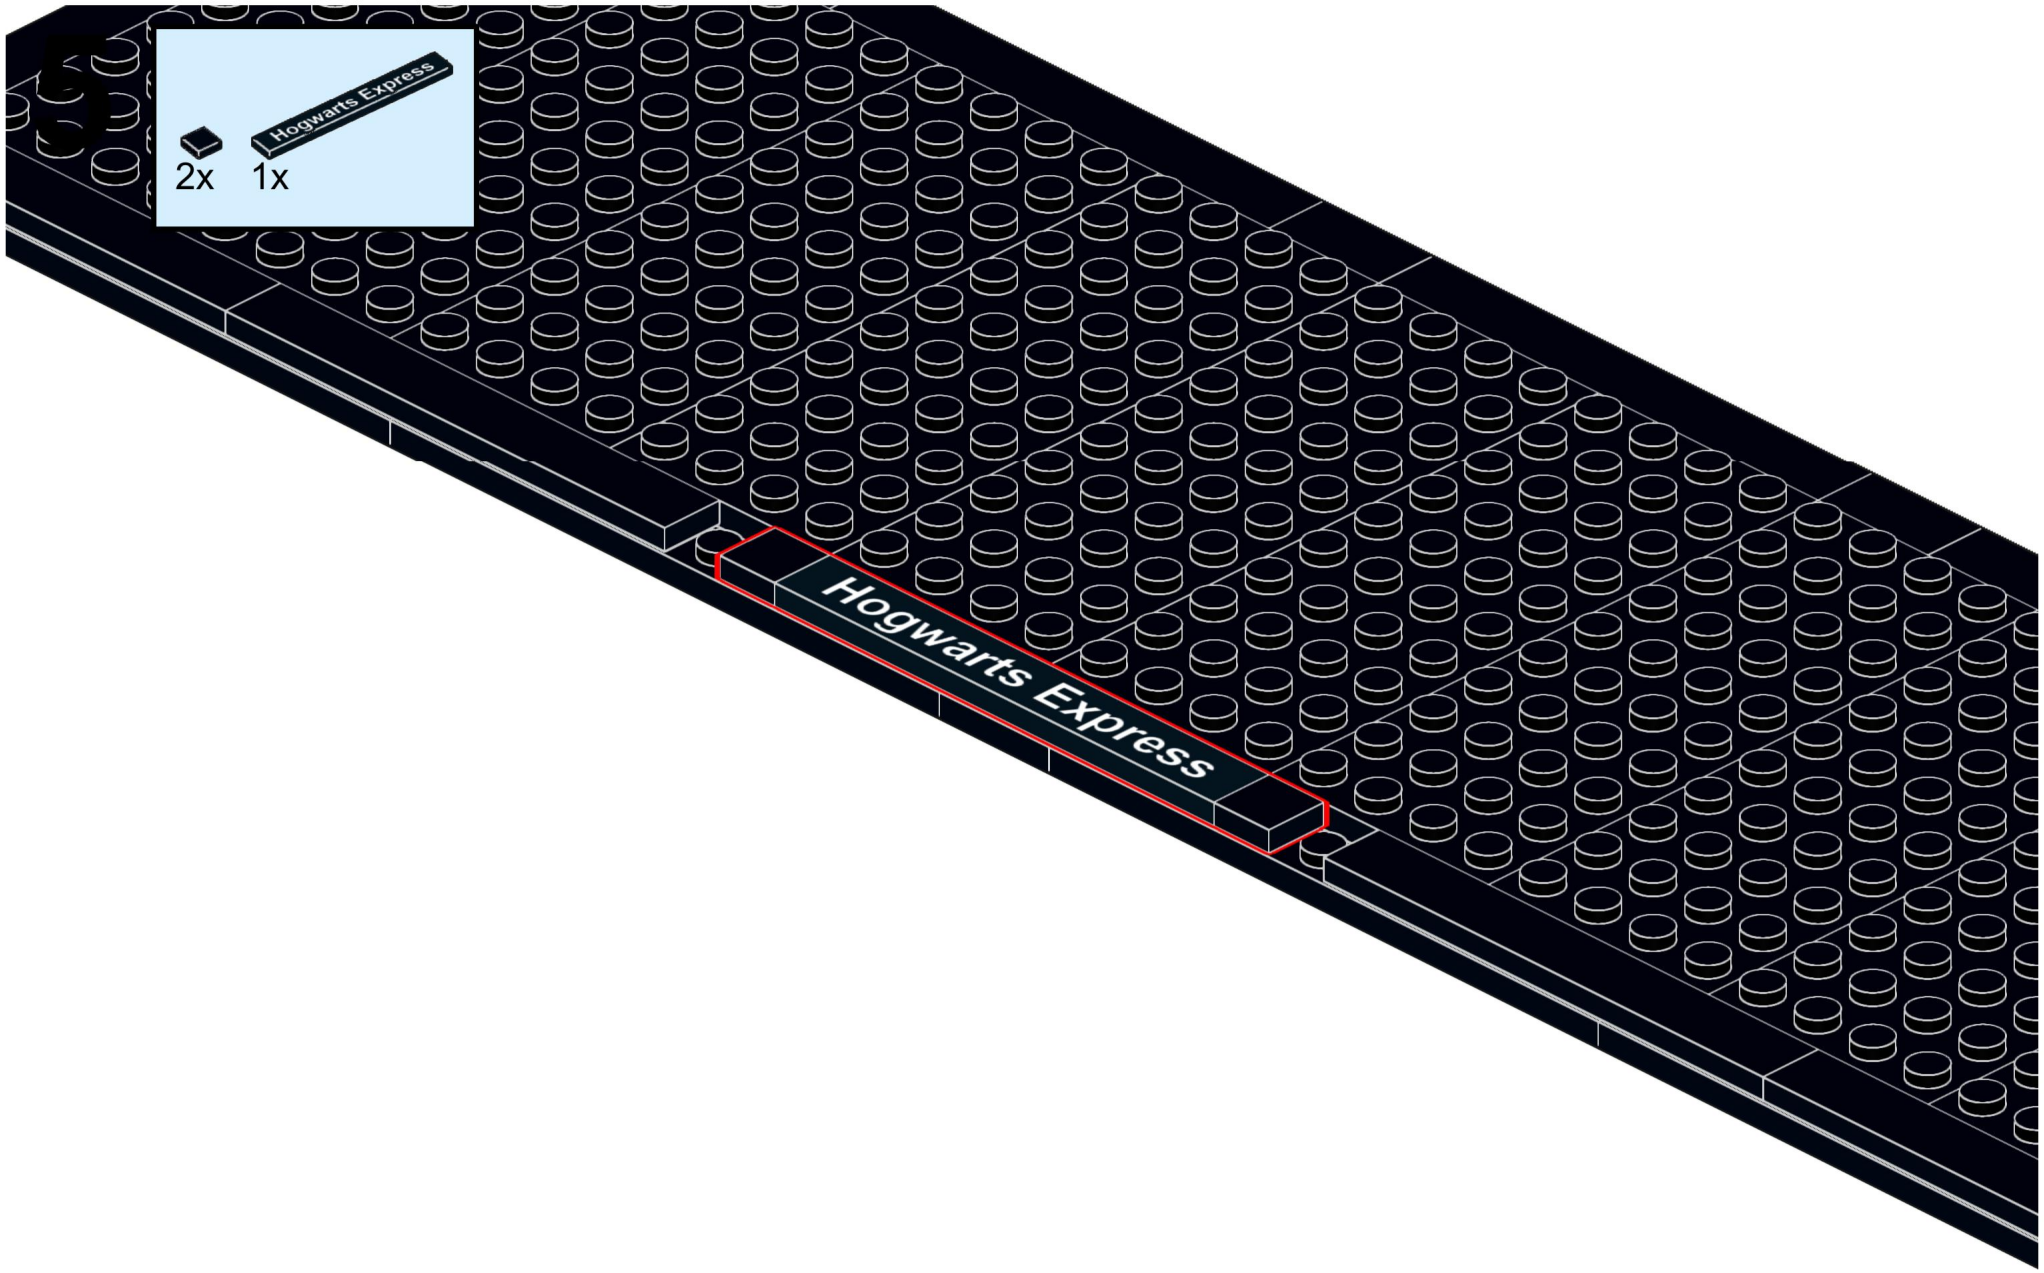

1x
4x

3

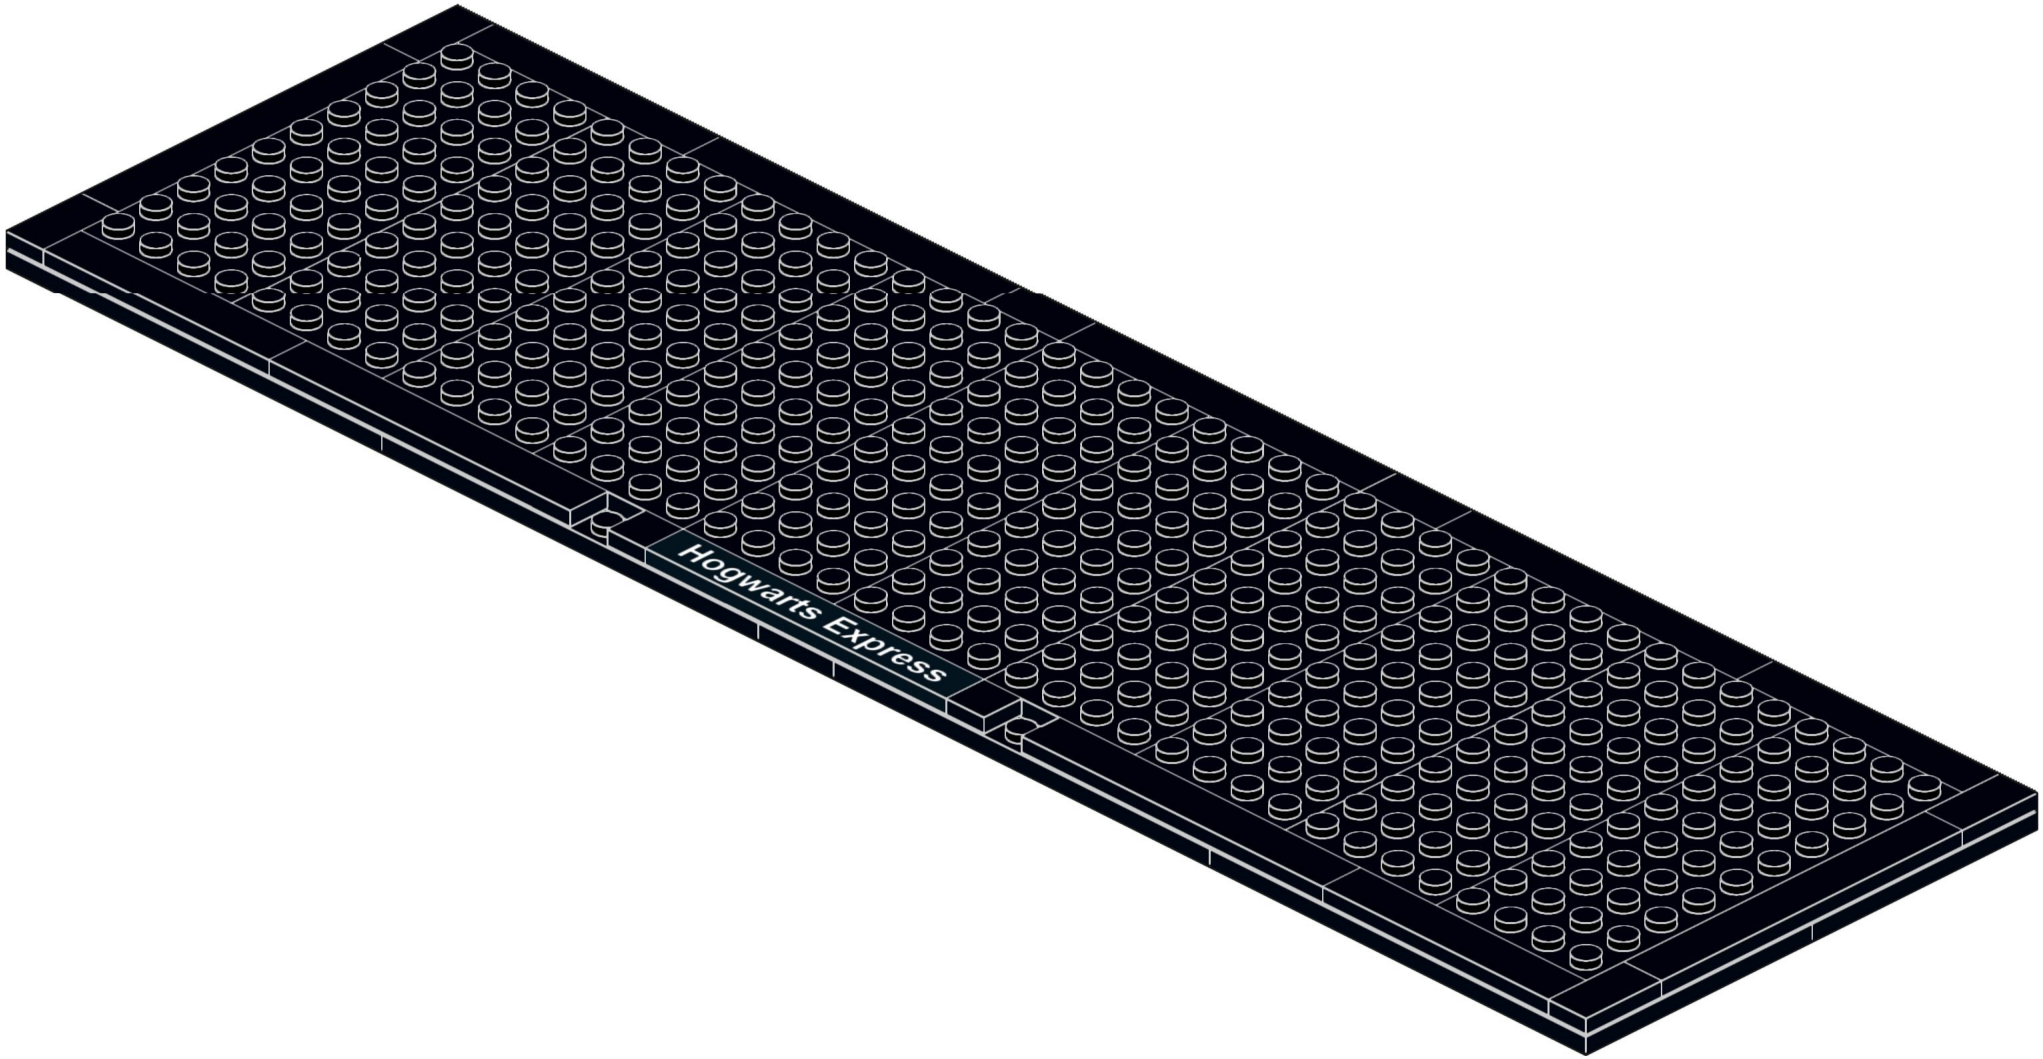

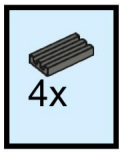

3x
2x
4x
5x

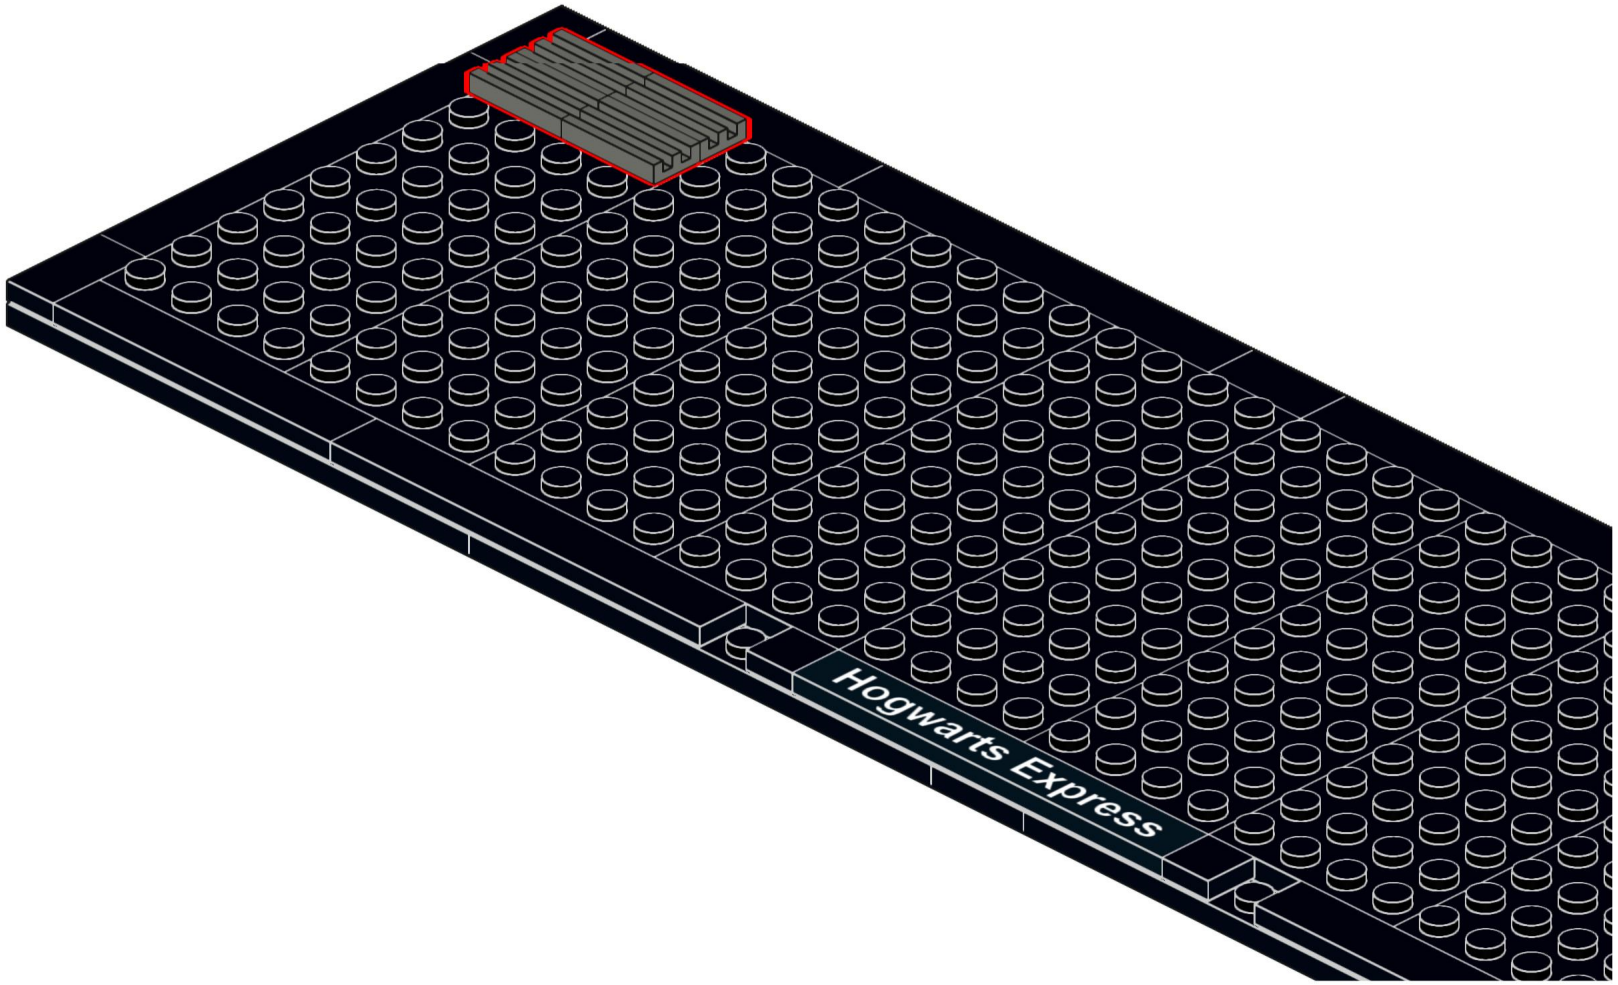

Hogwarts Express
2x
1x
Hogwarts Express

6

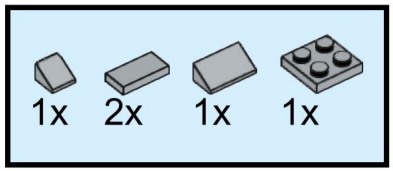

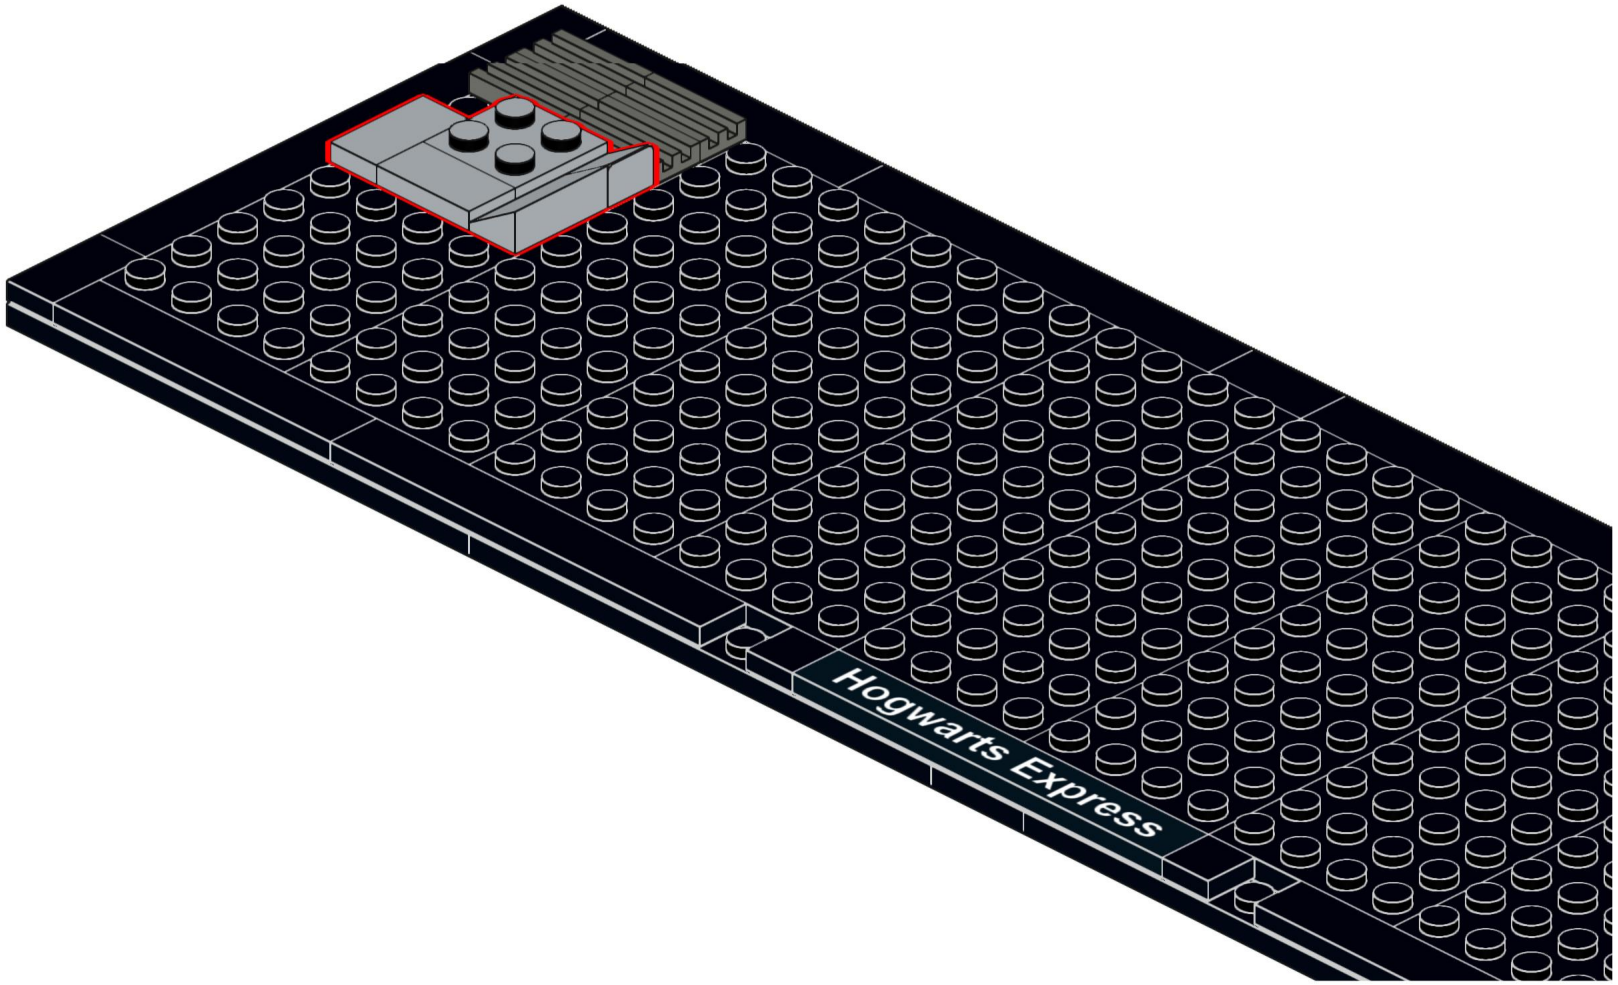

7

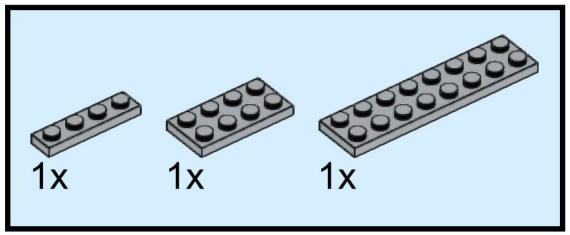

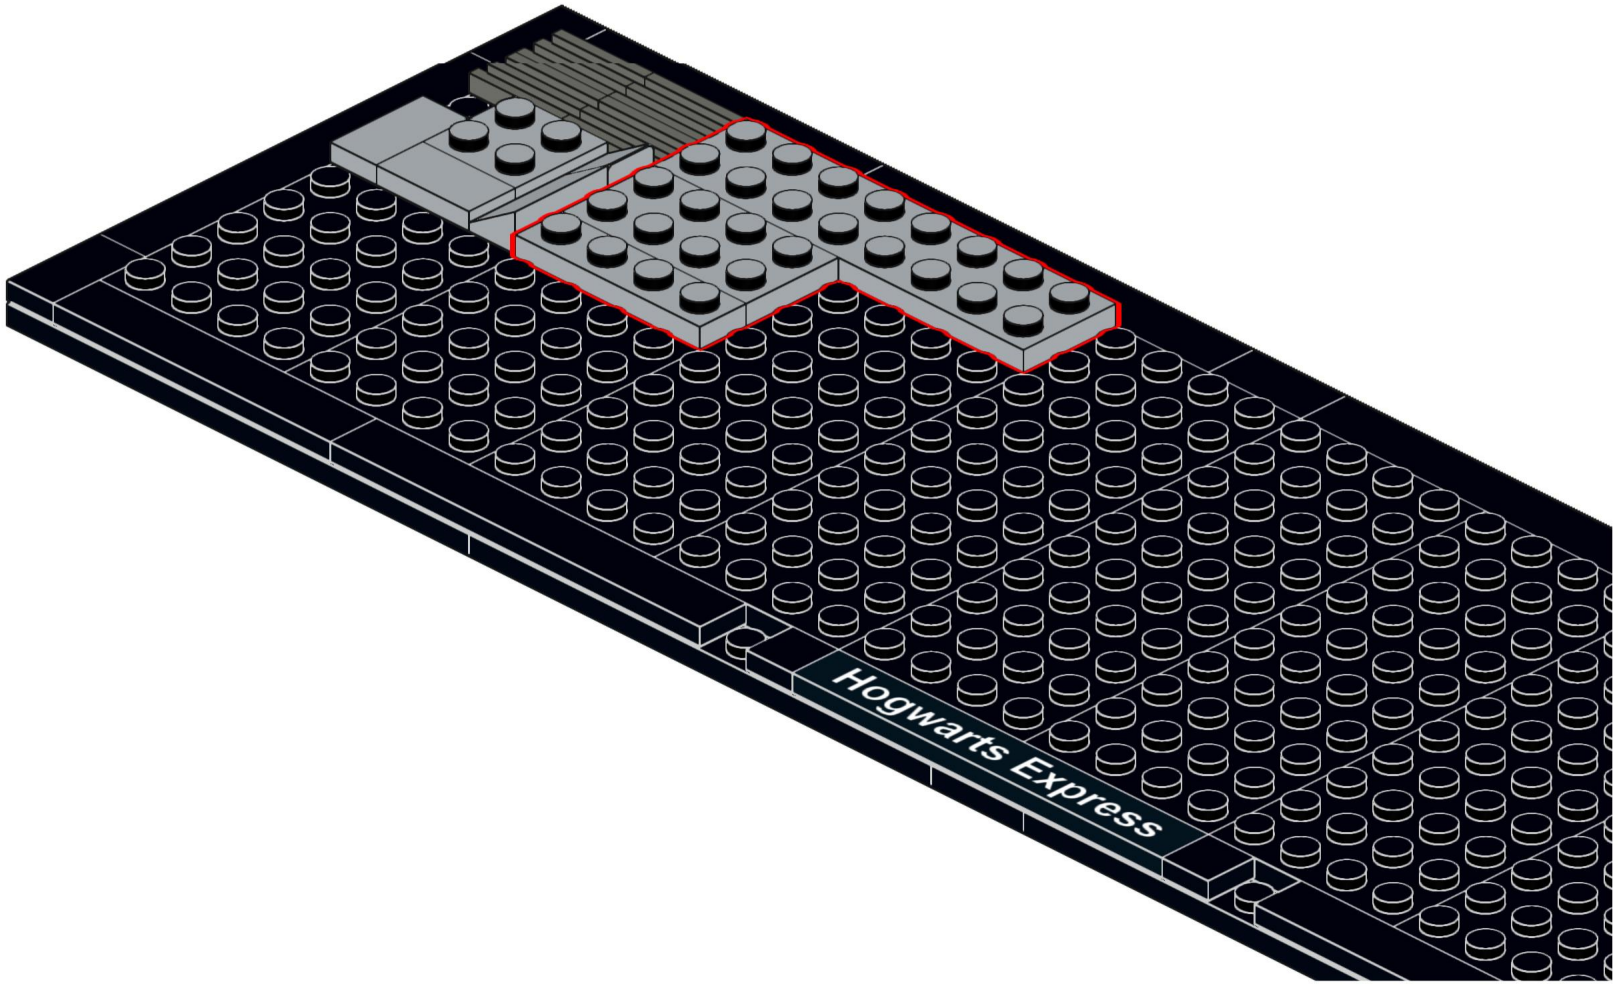

8

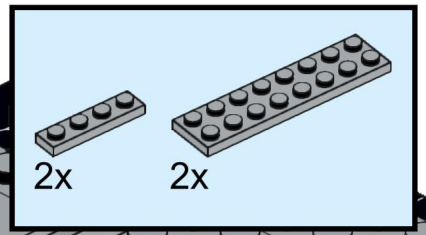

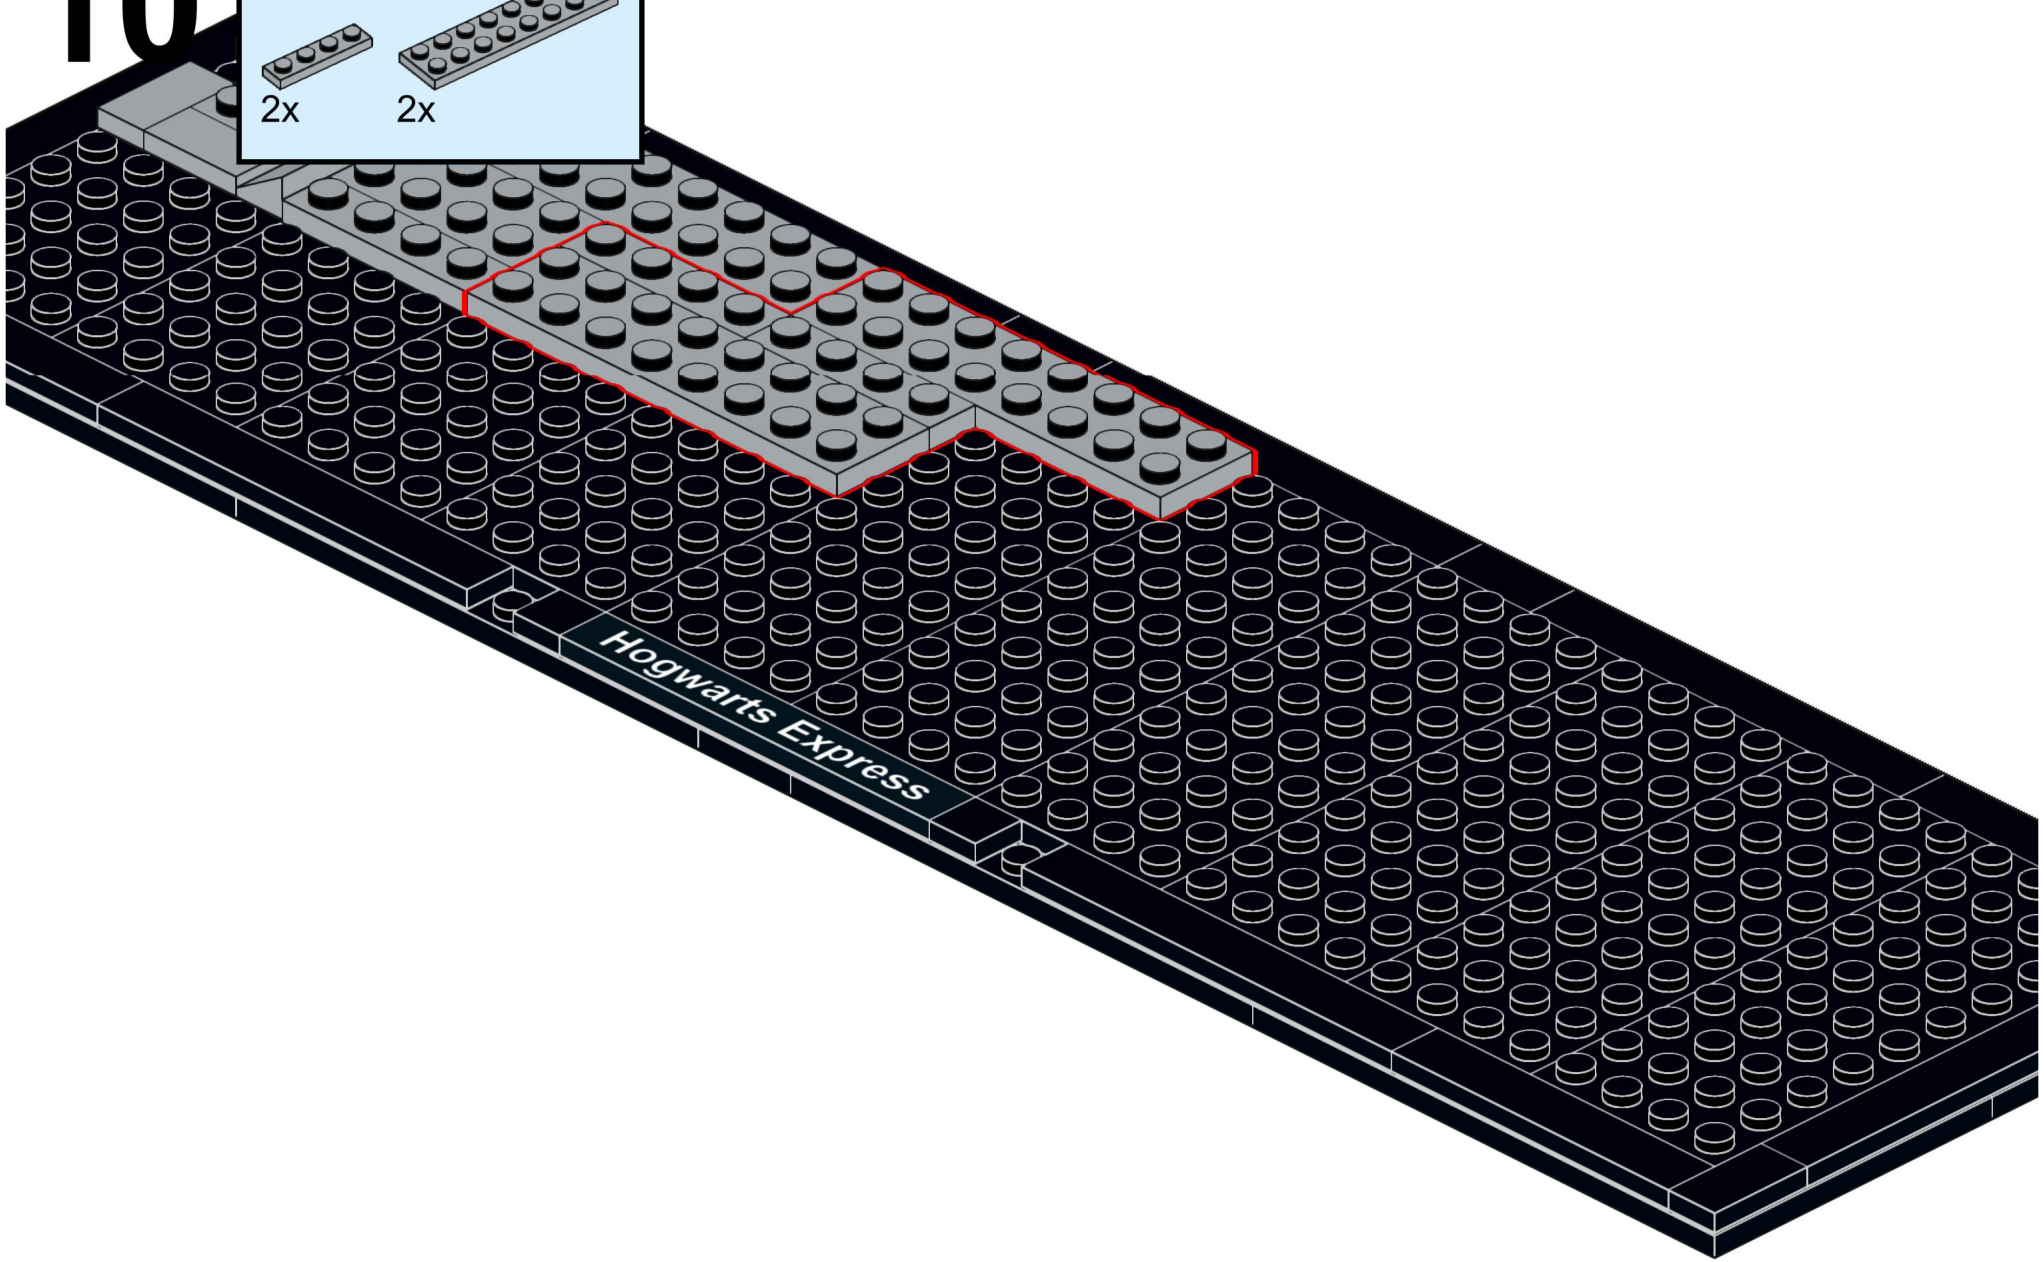

9

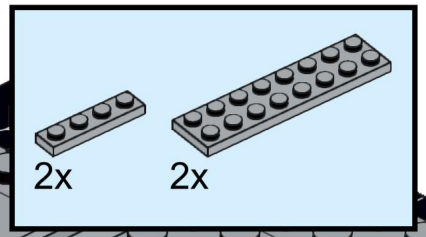

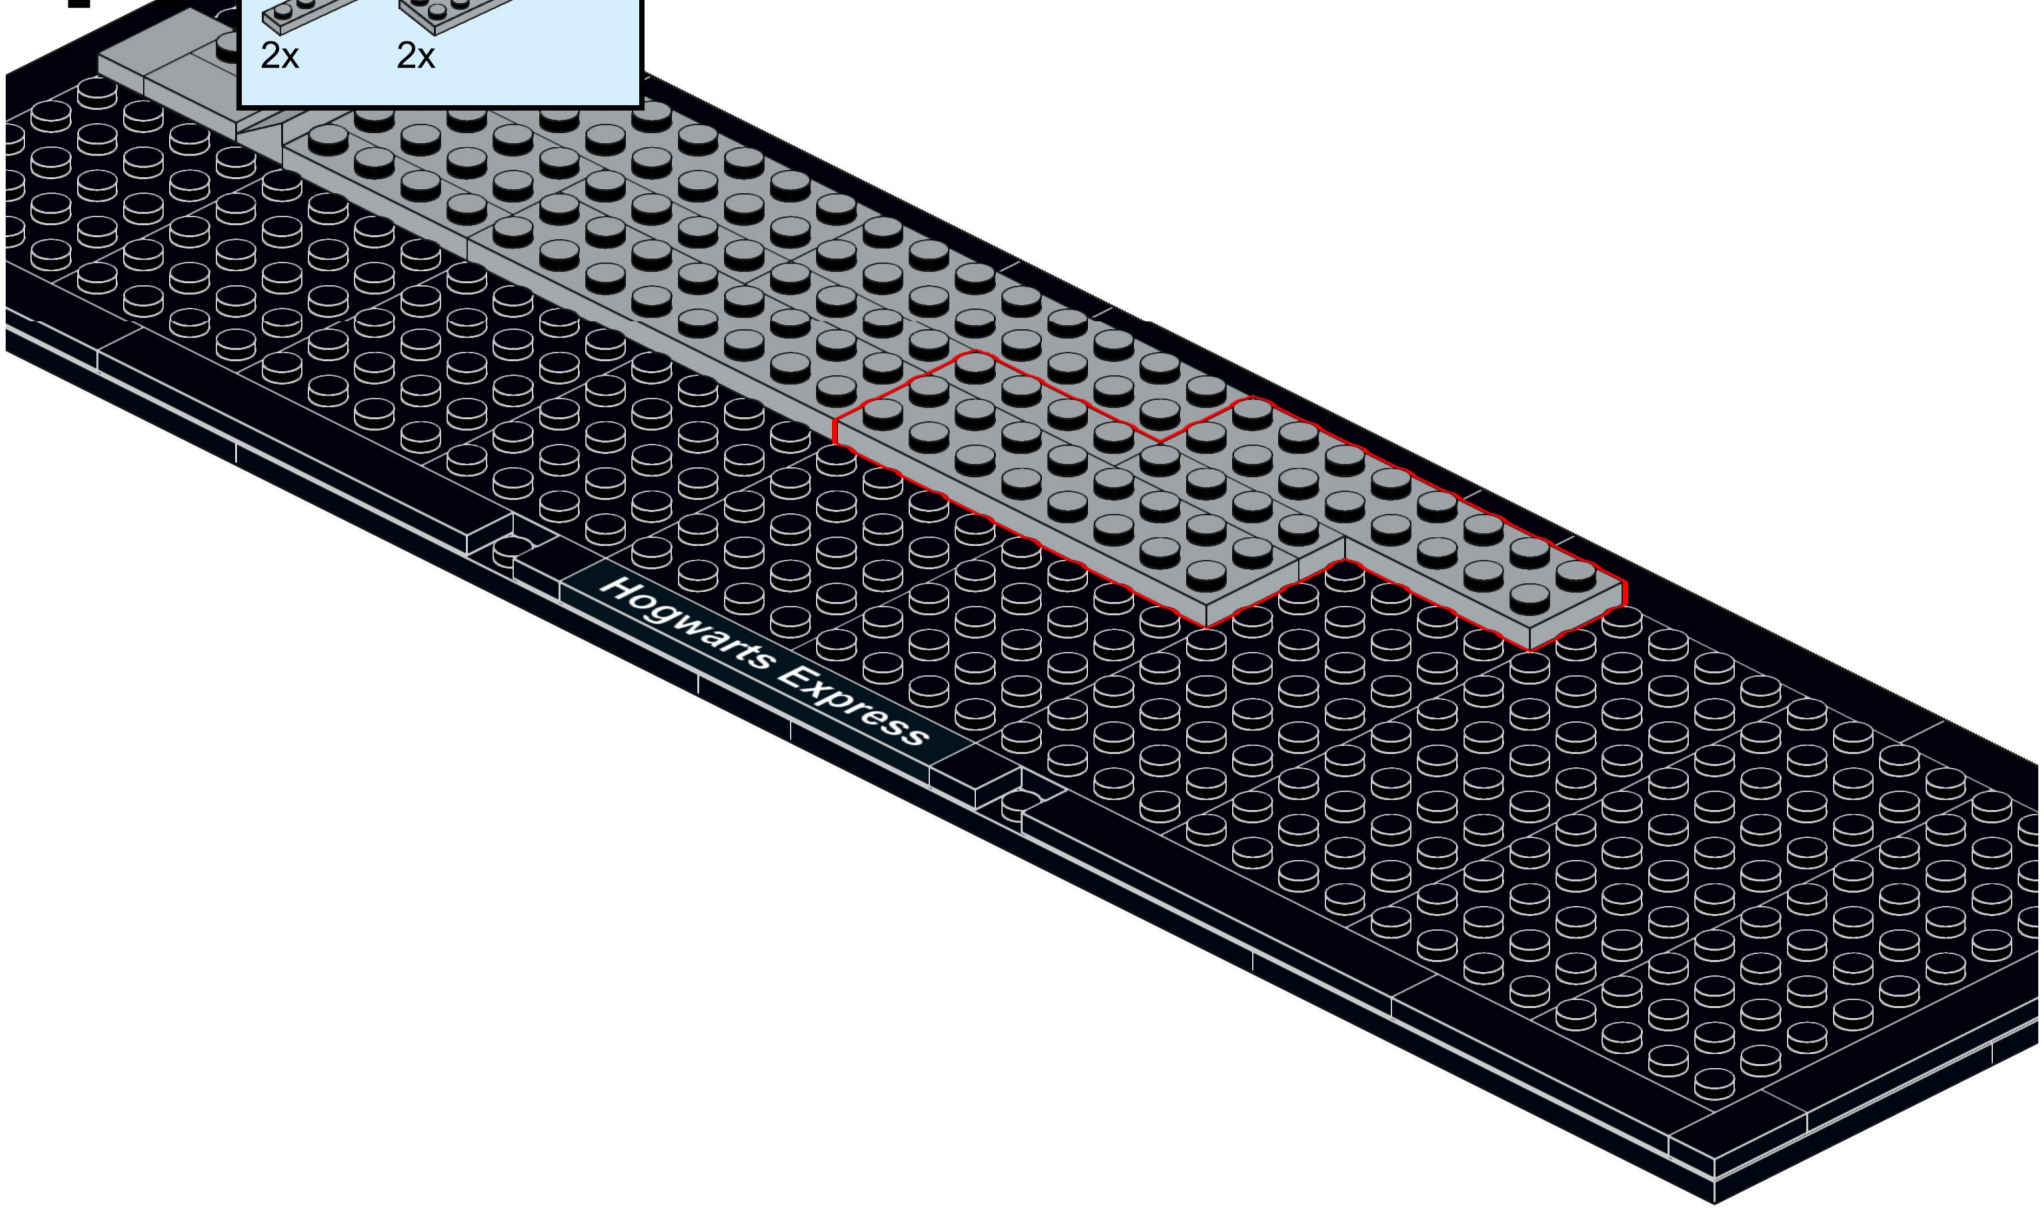

10

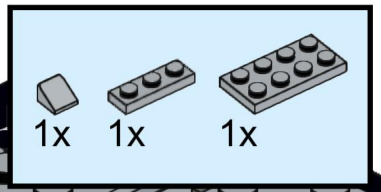

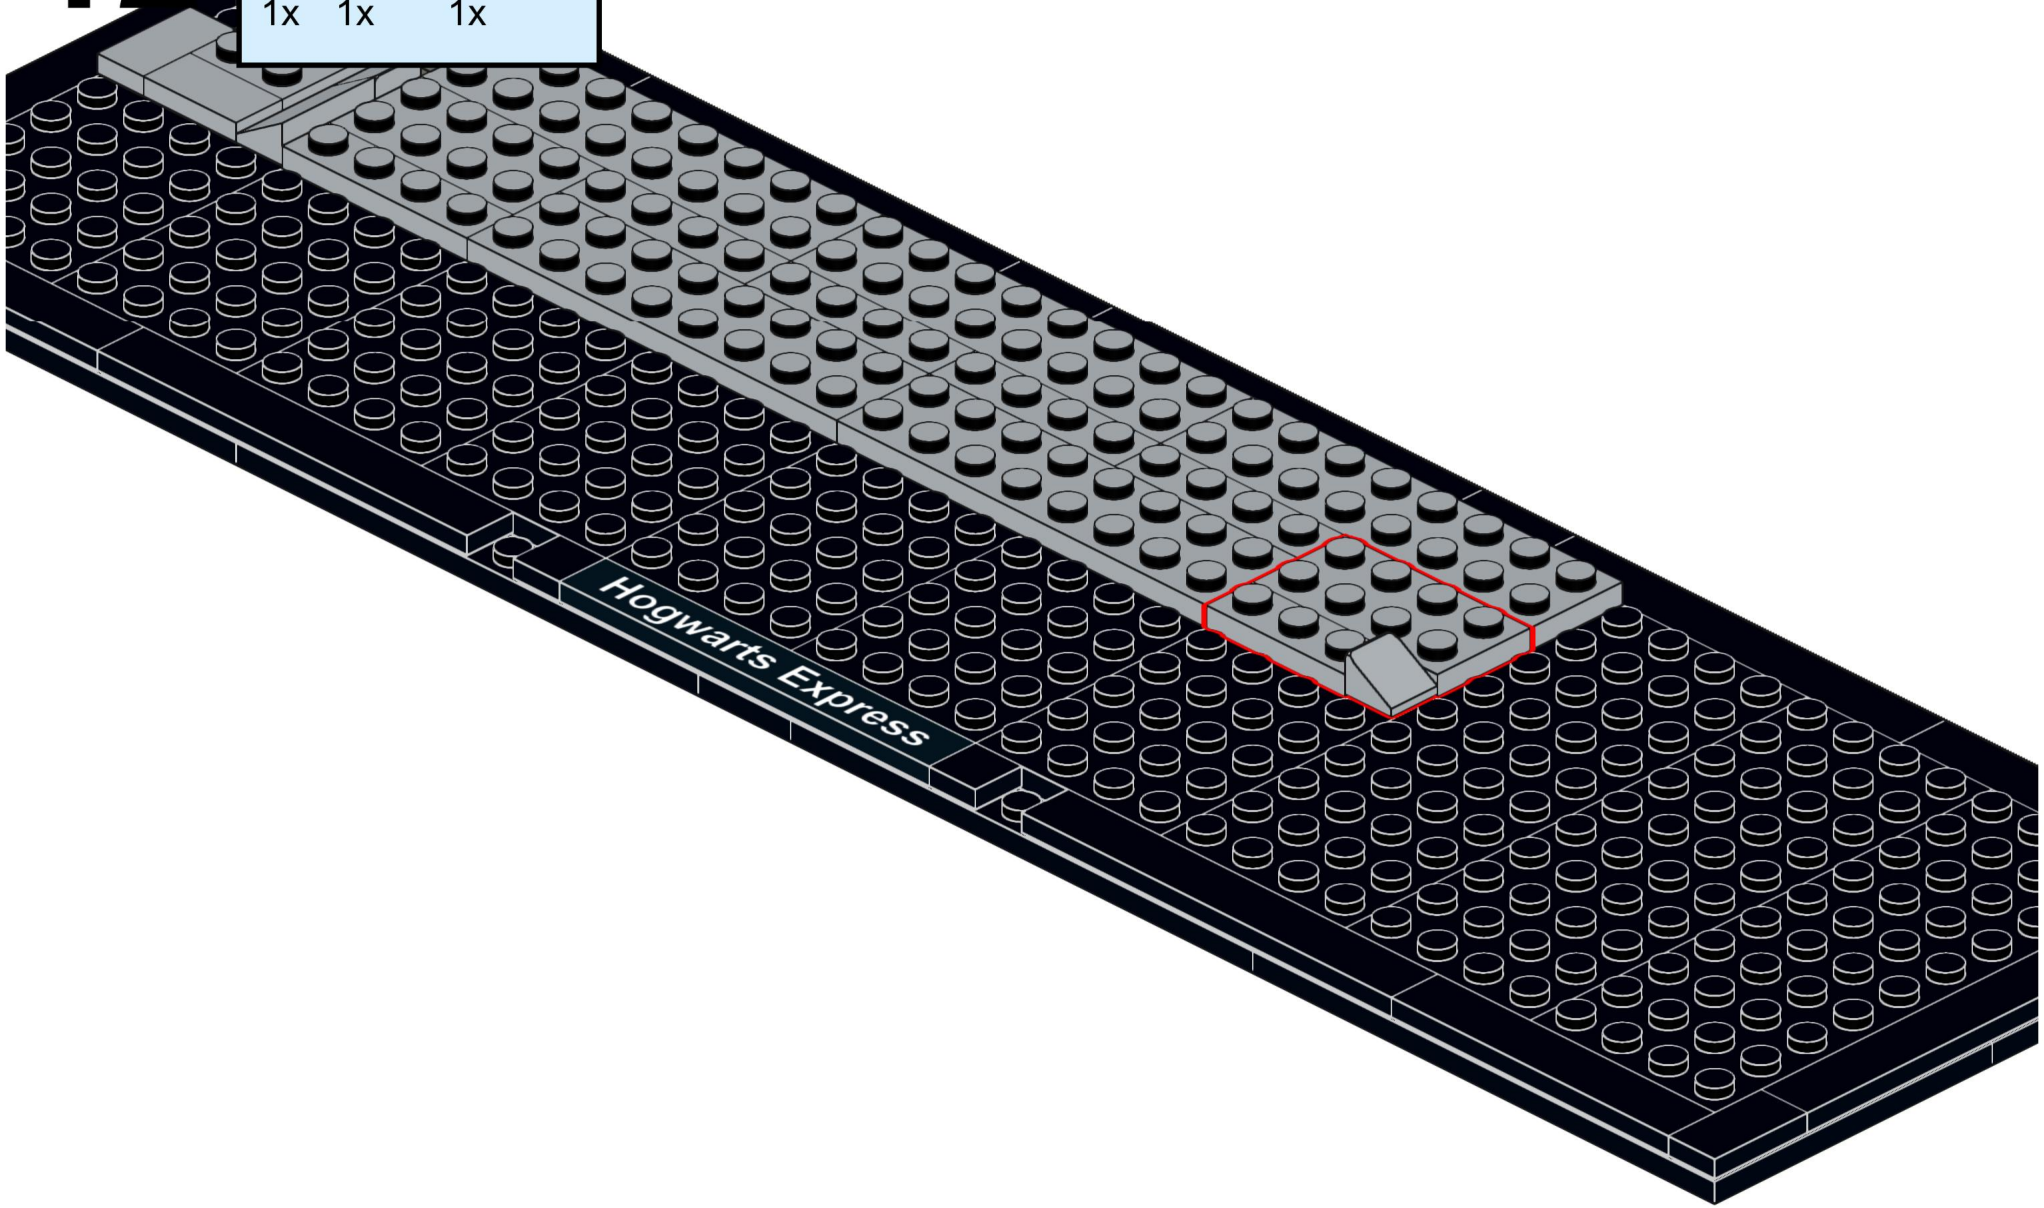

11

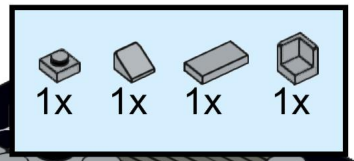

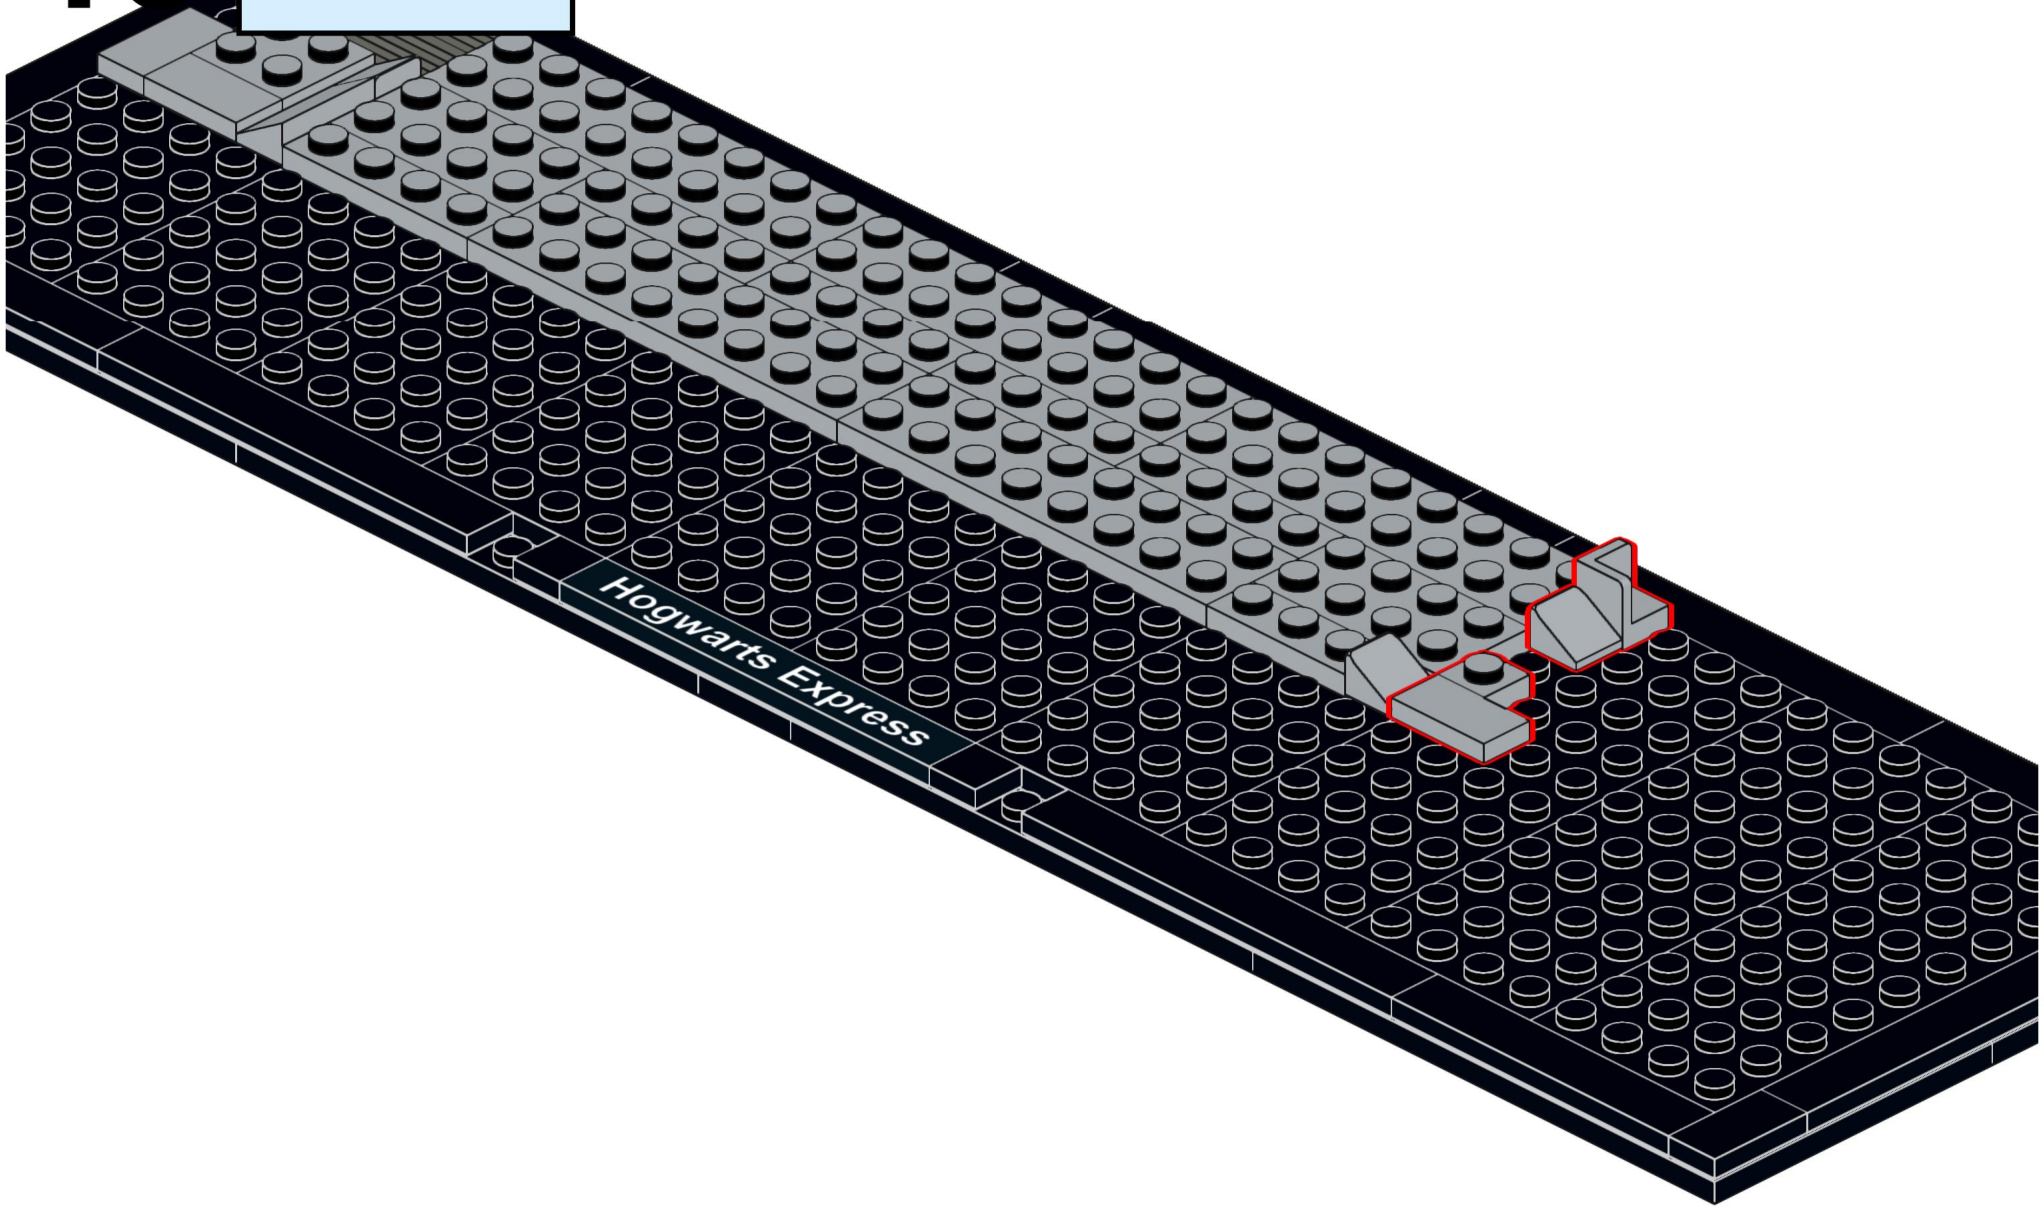

12

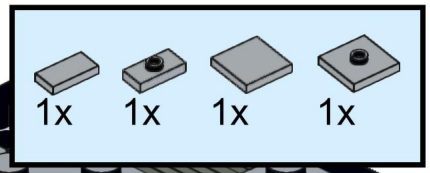

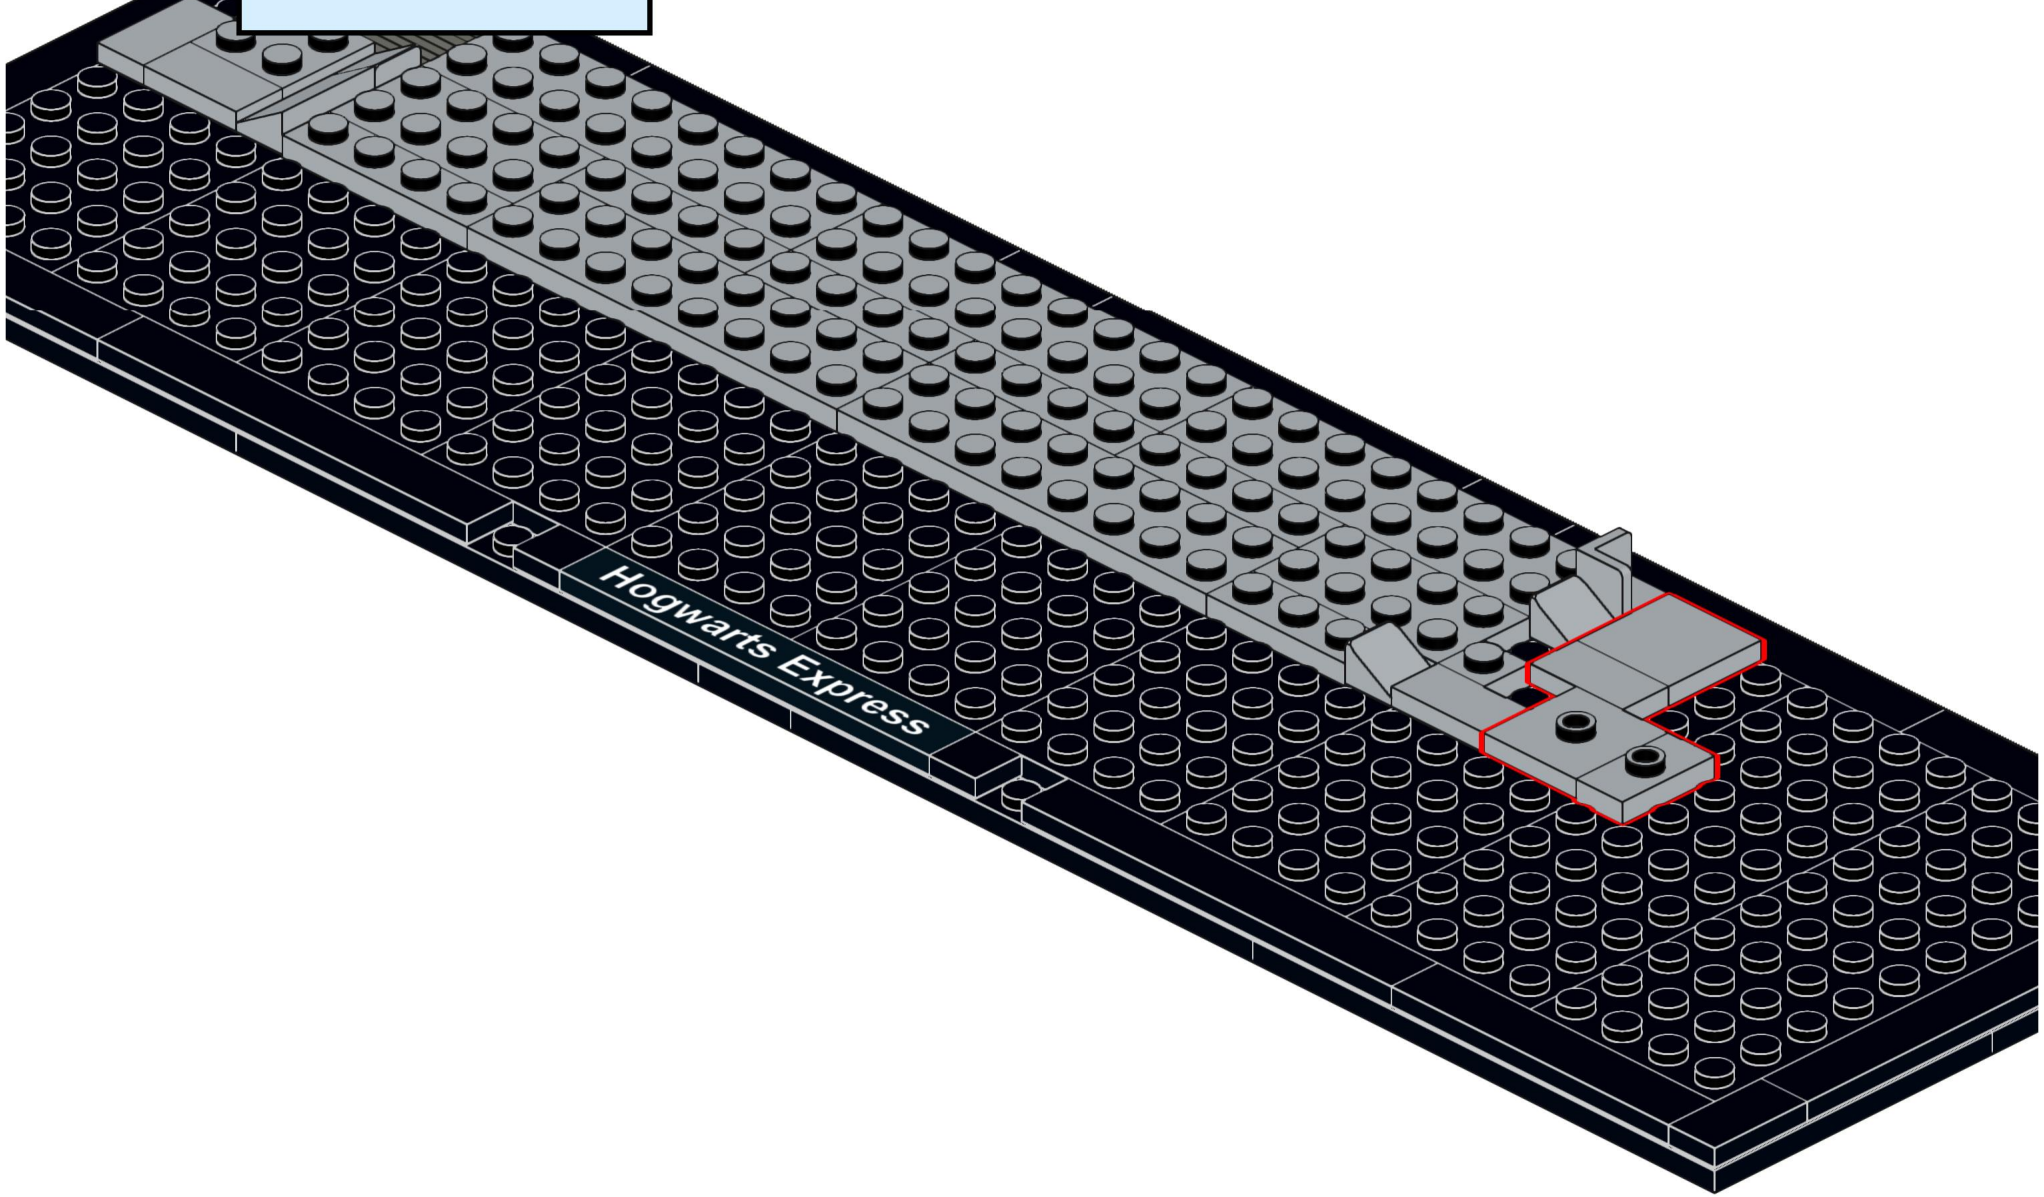

13

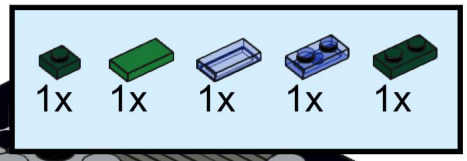

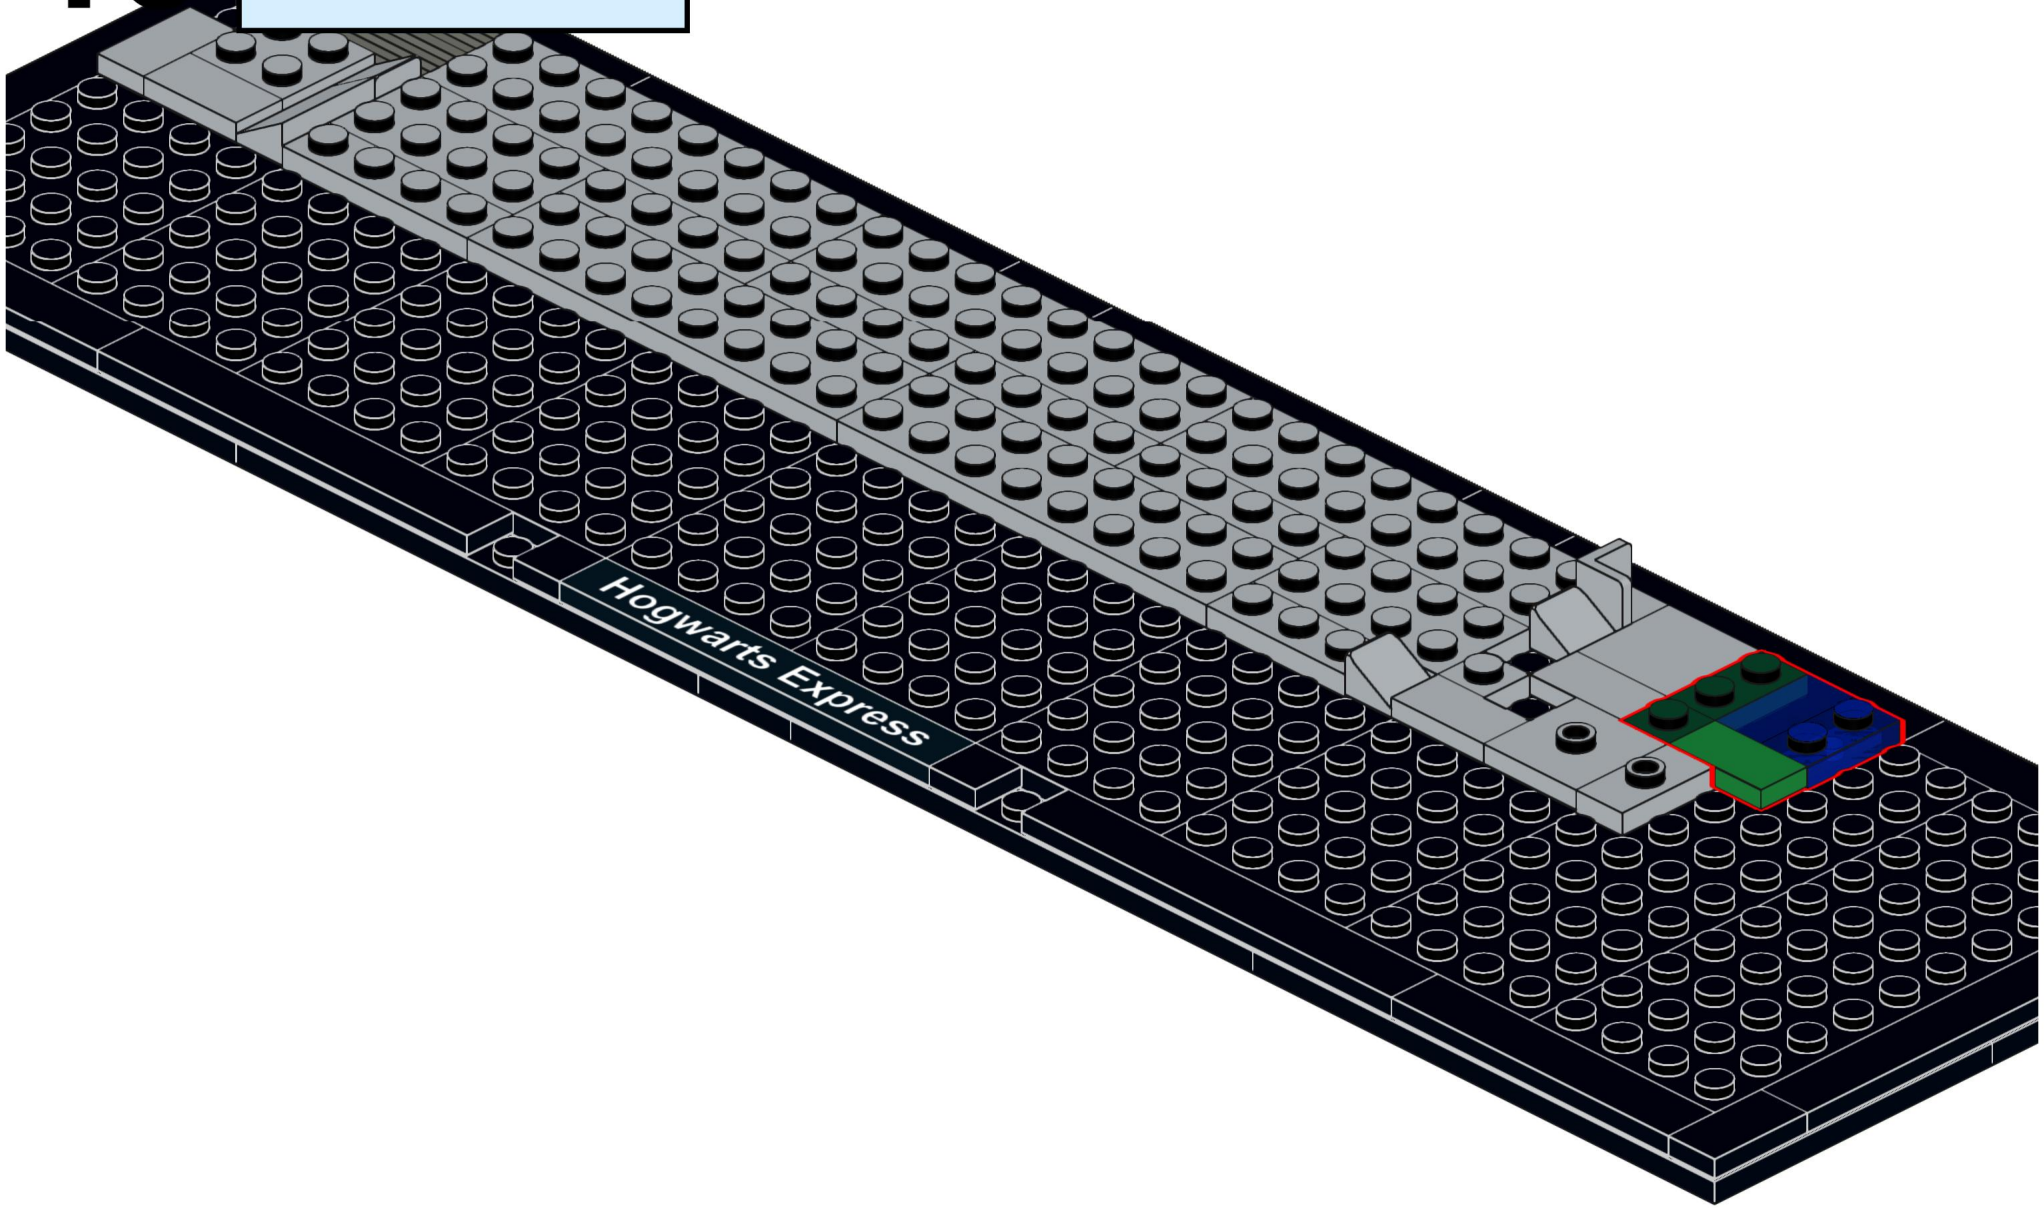

14

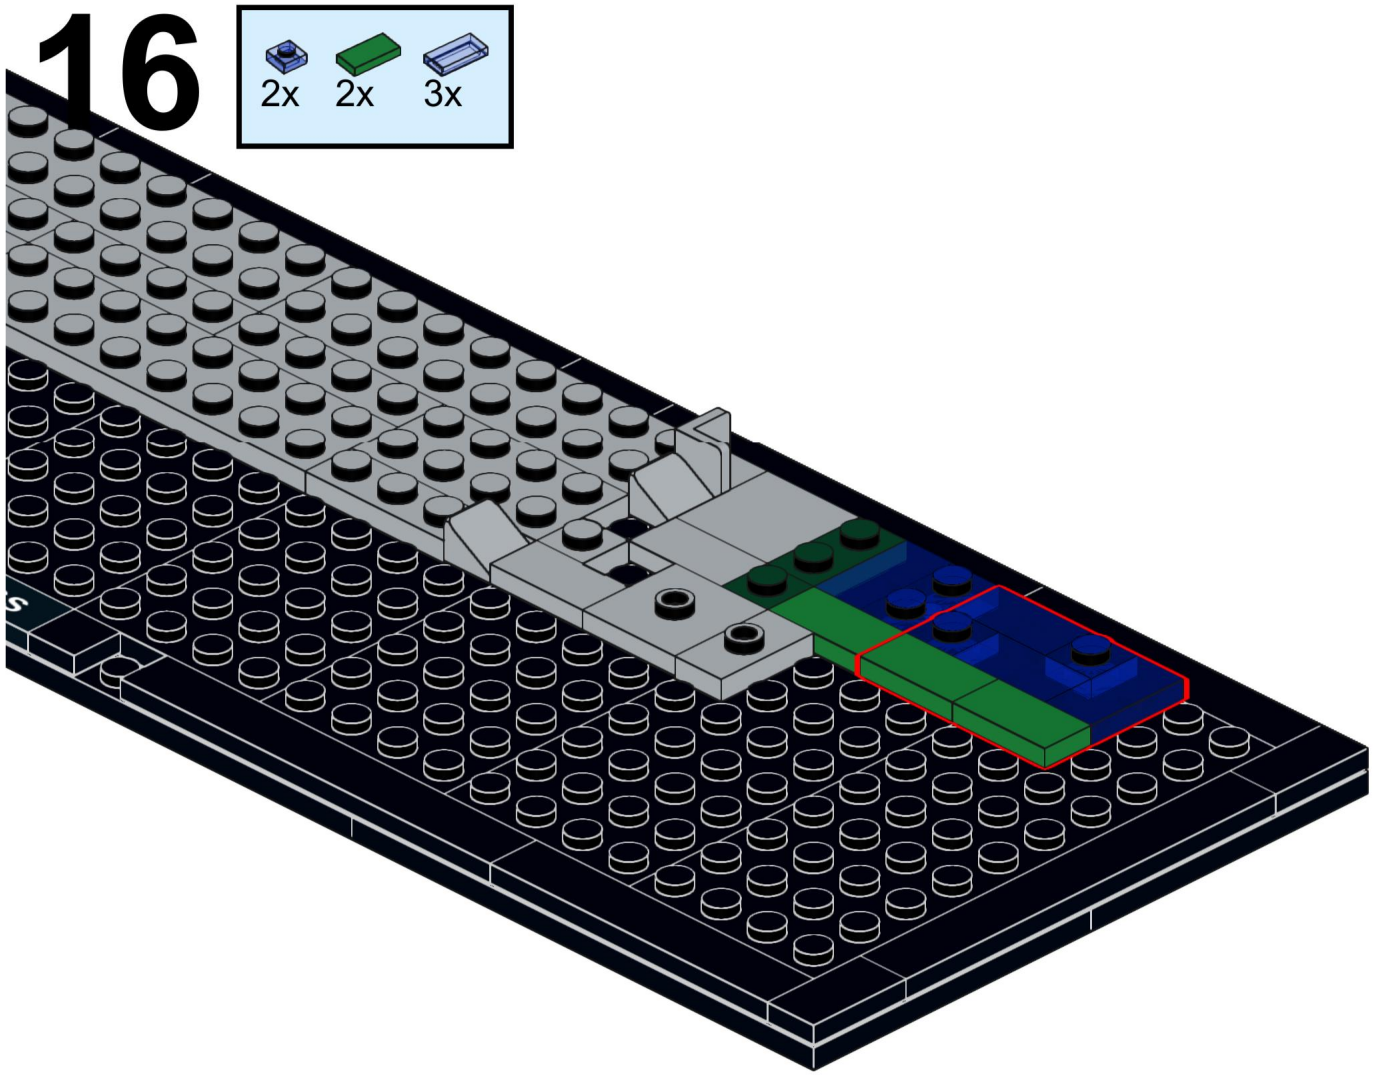

15

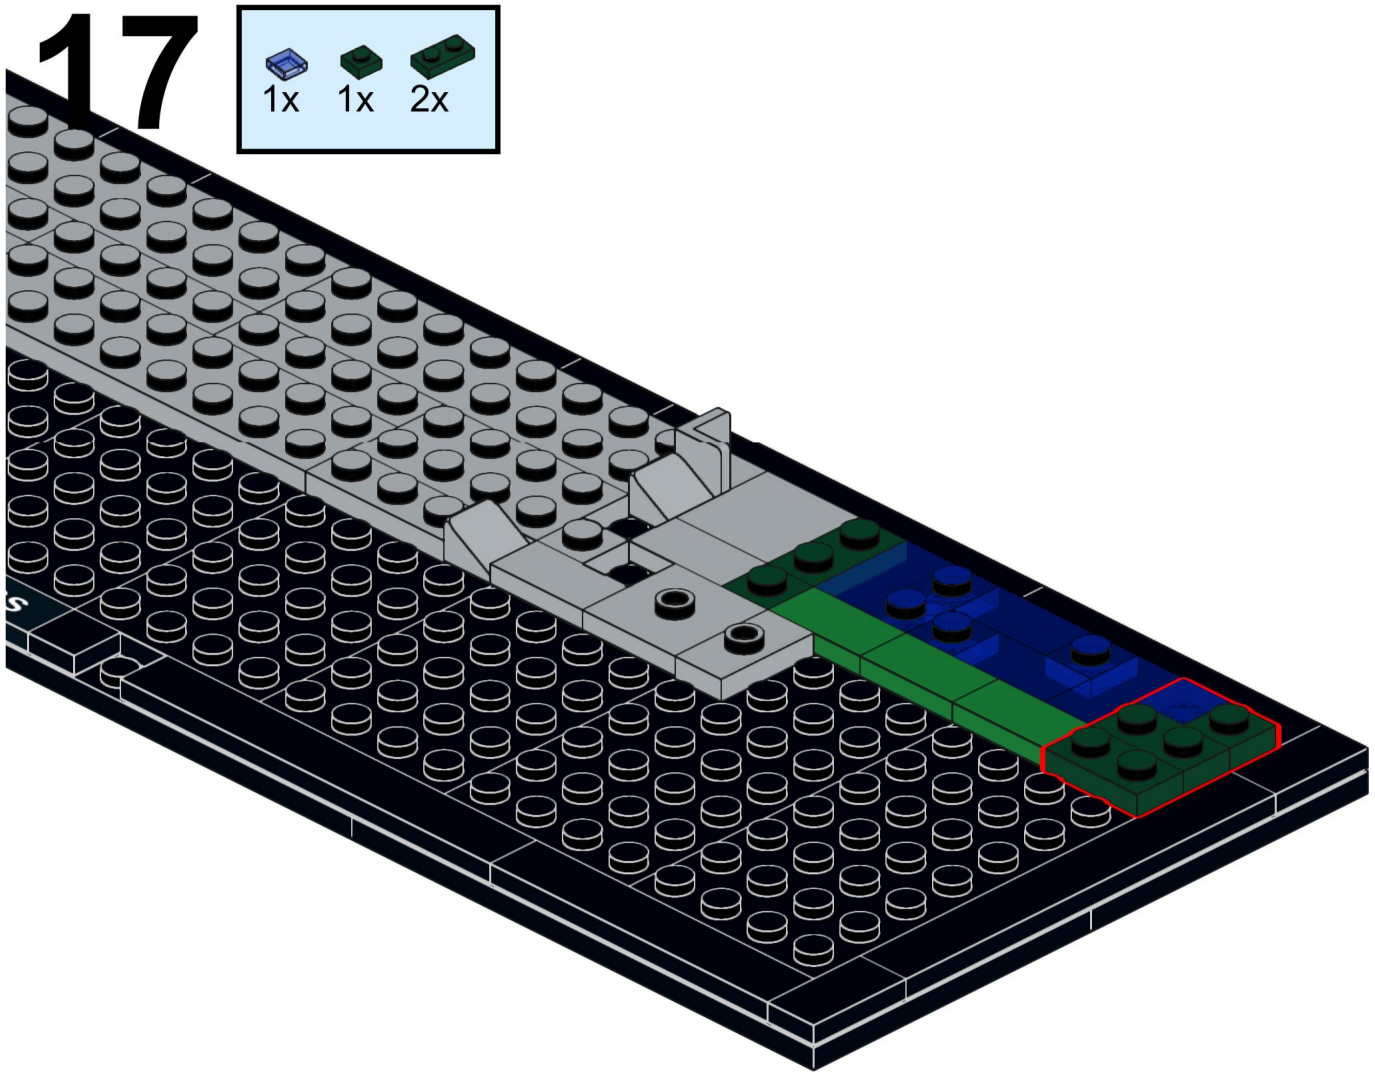

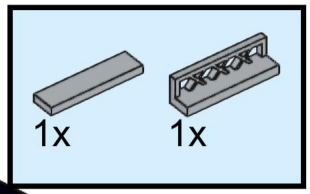

16

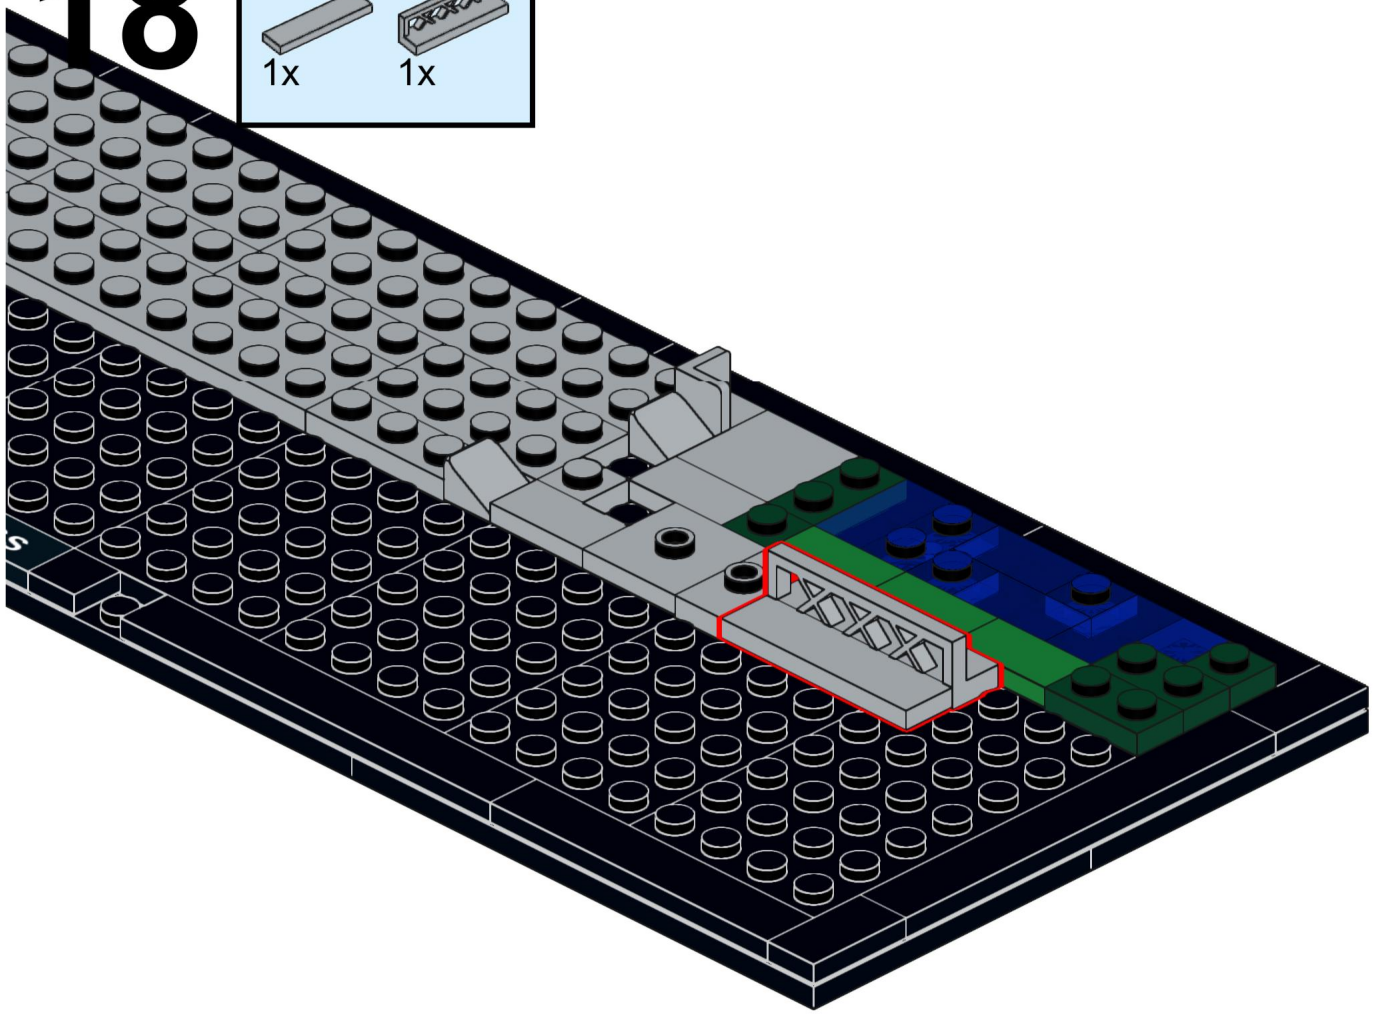

17

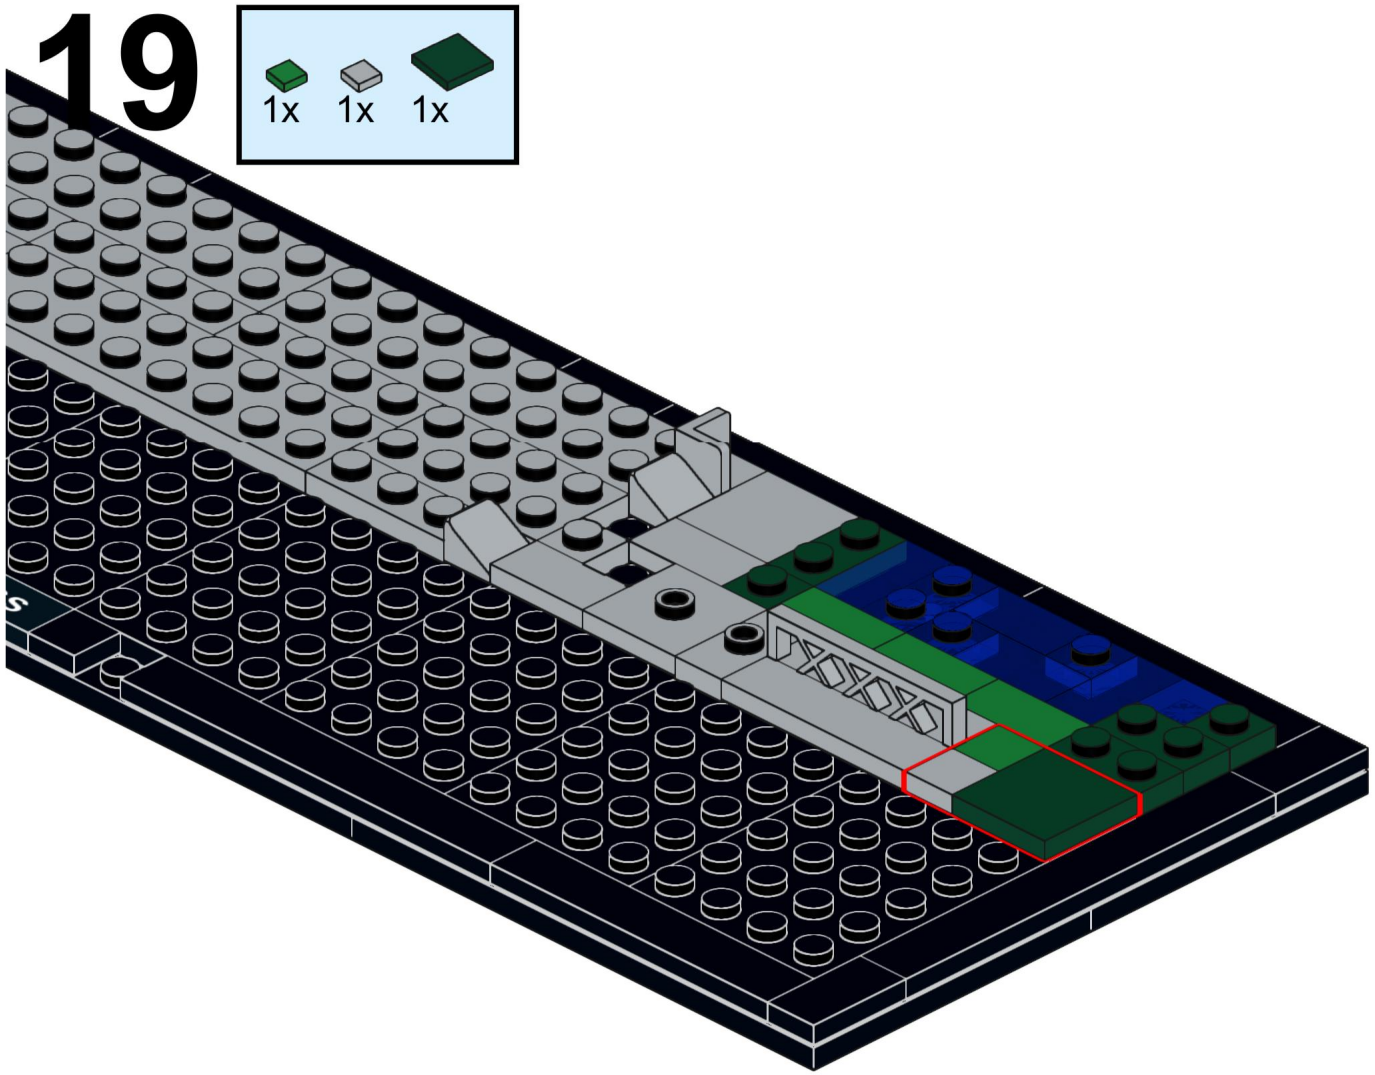

18

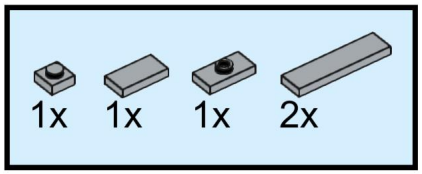

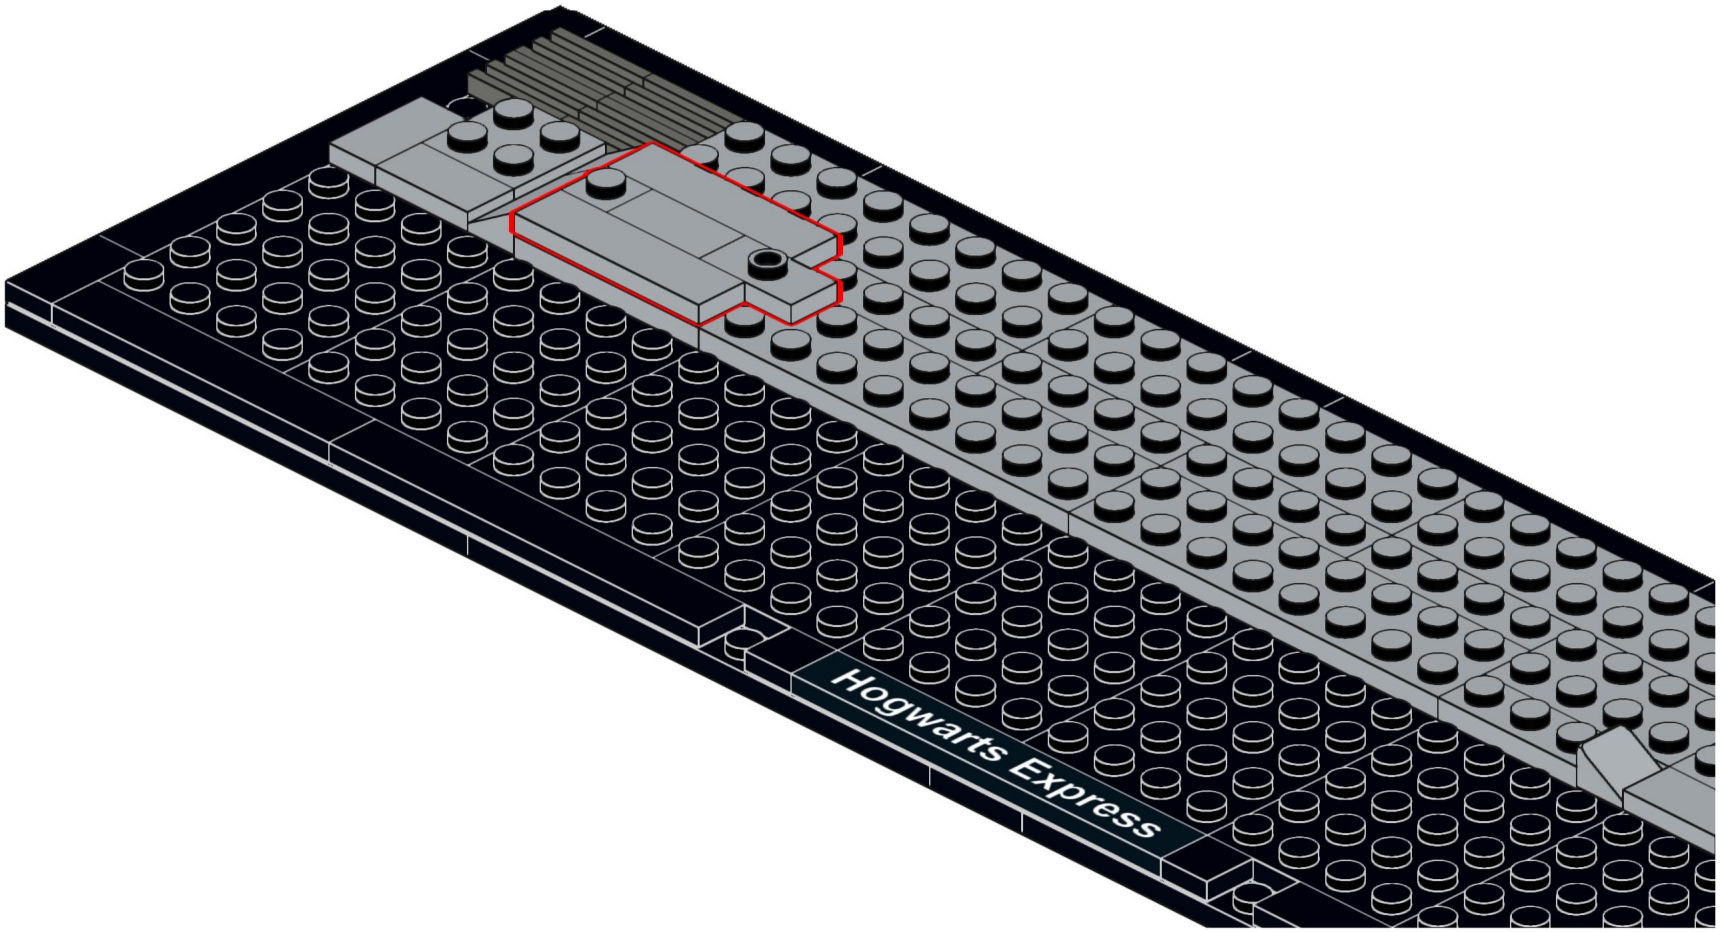

19

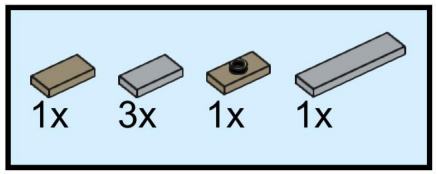

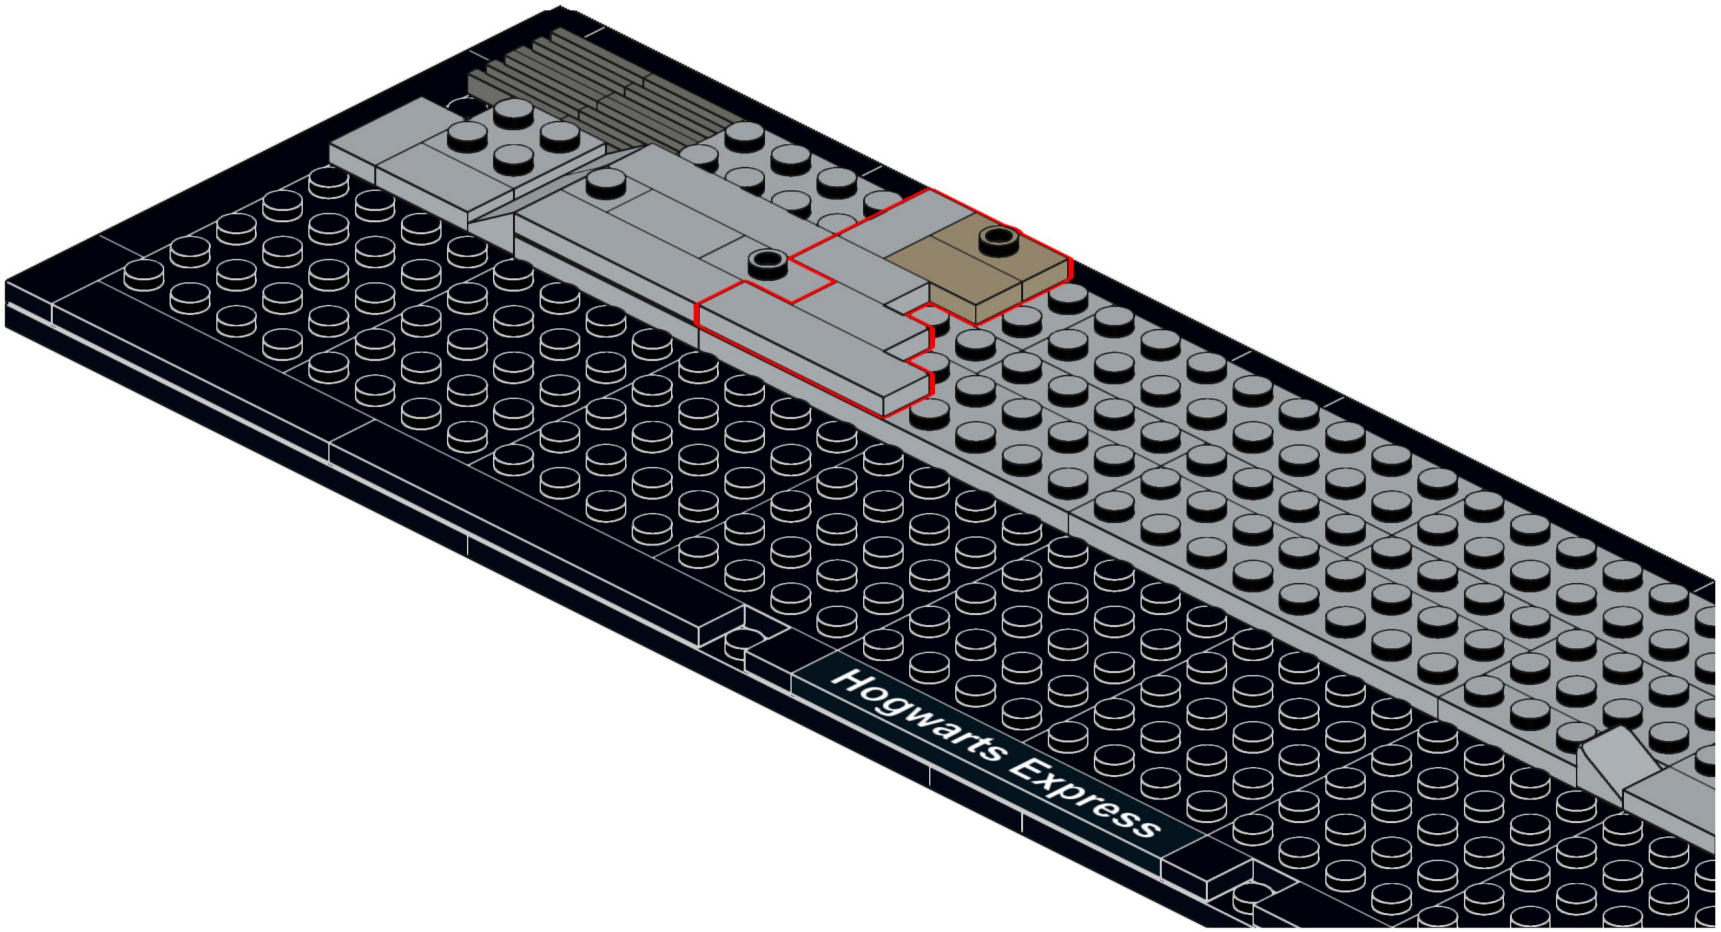

20

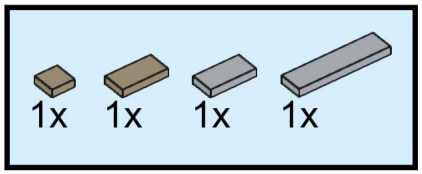

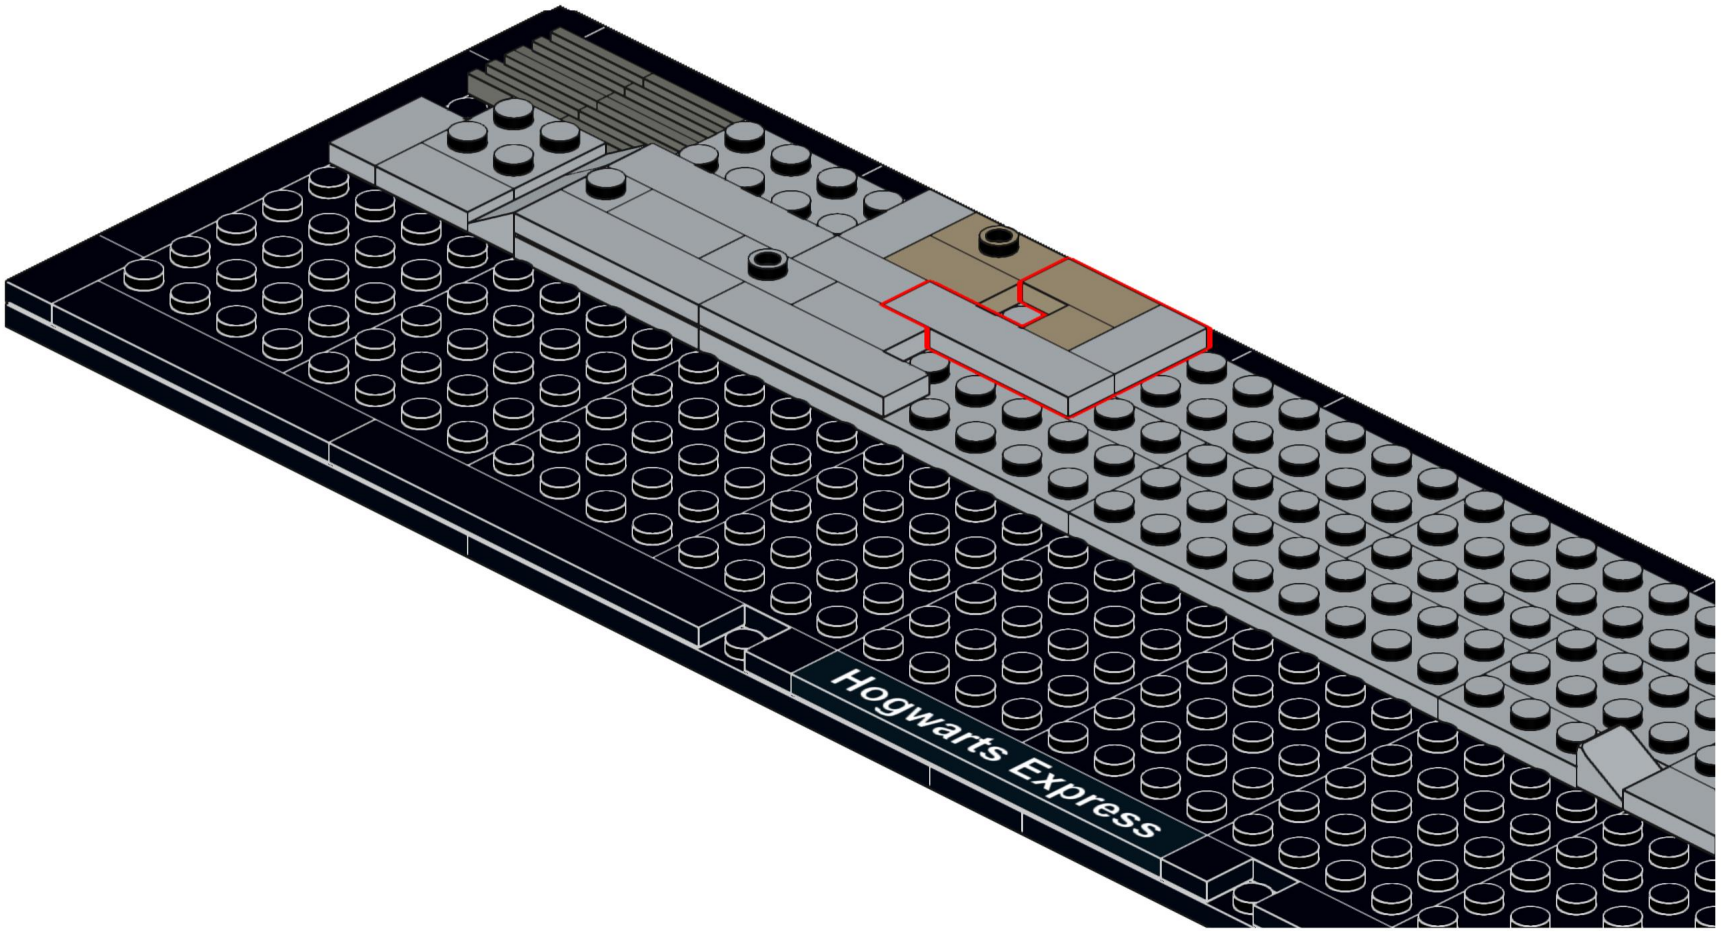

21

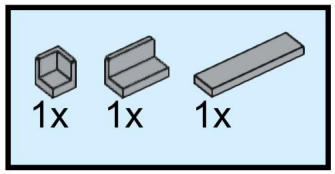

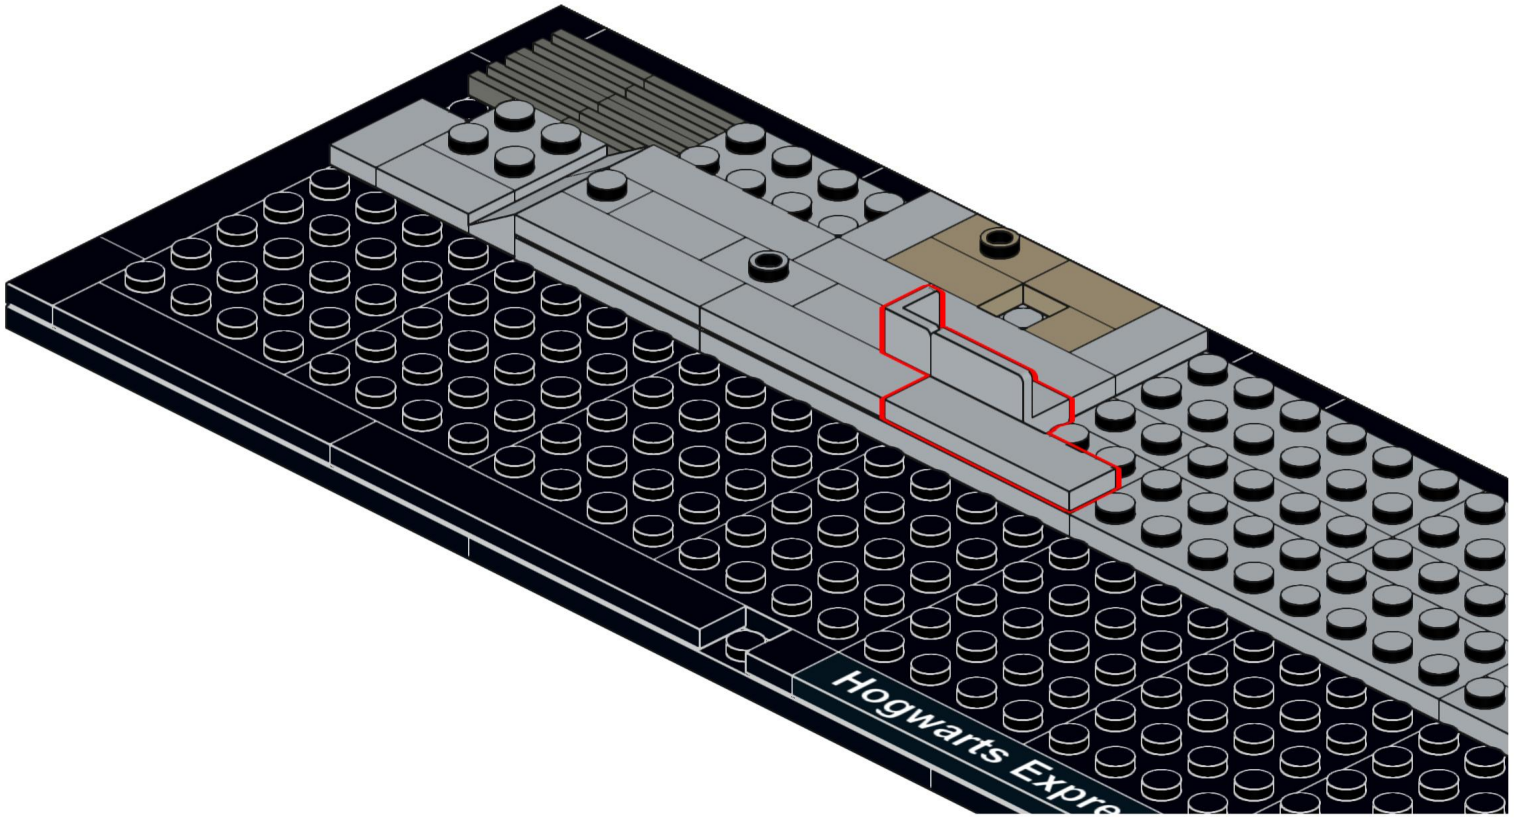

22

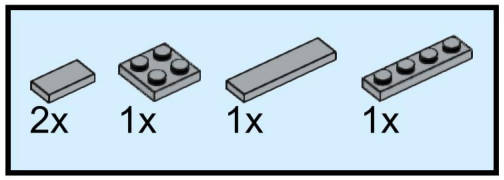

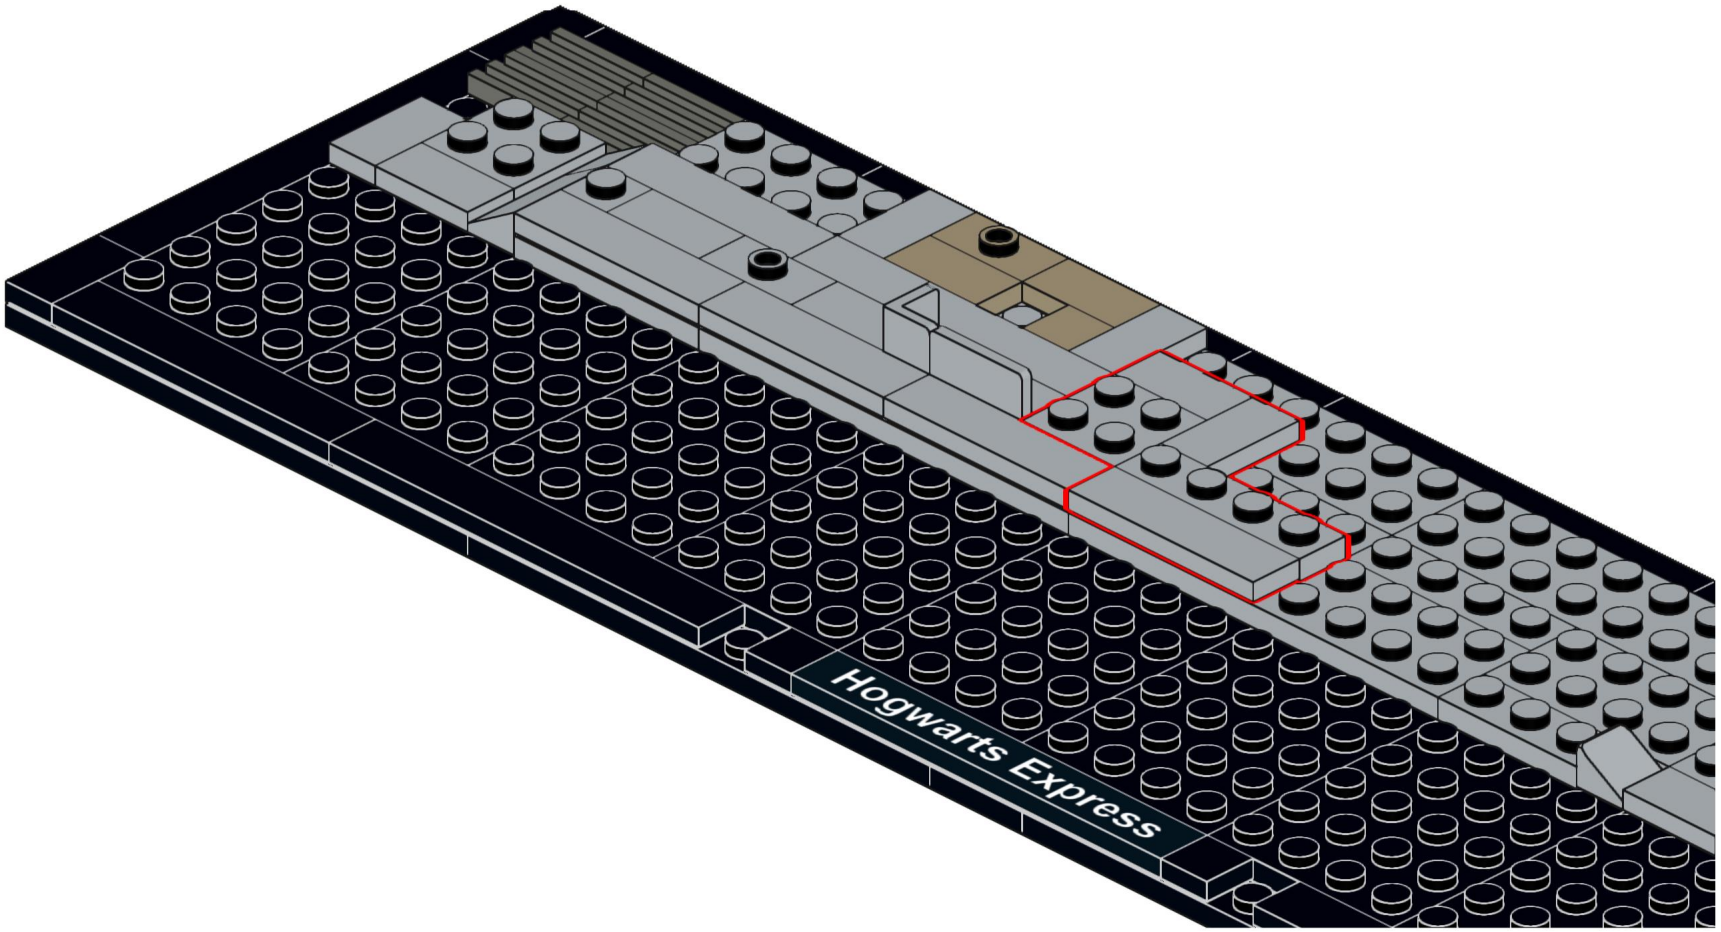

23

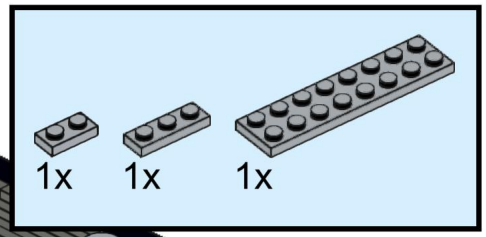

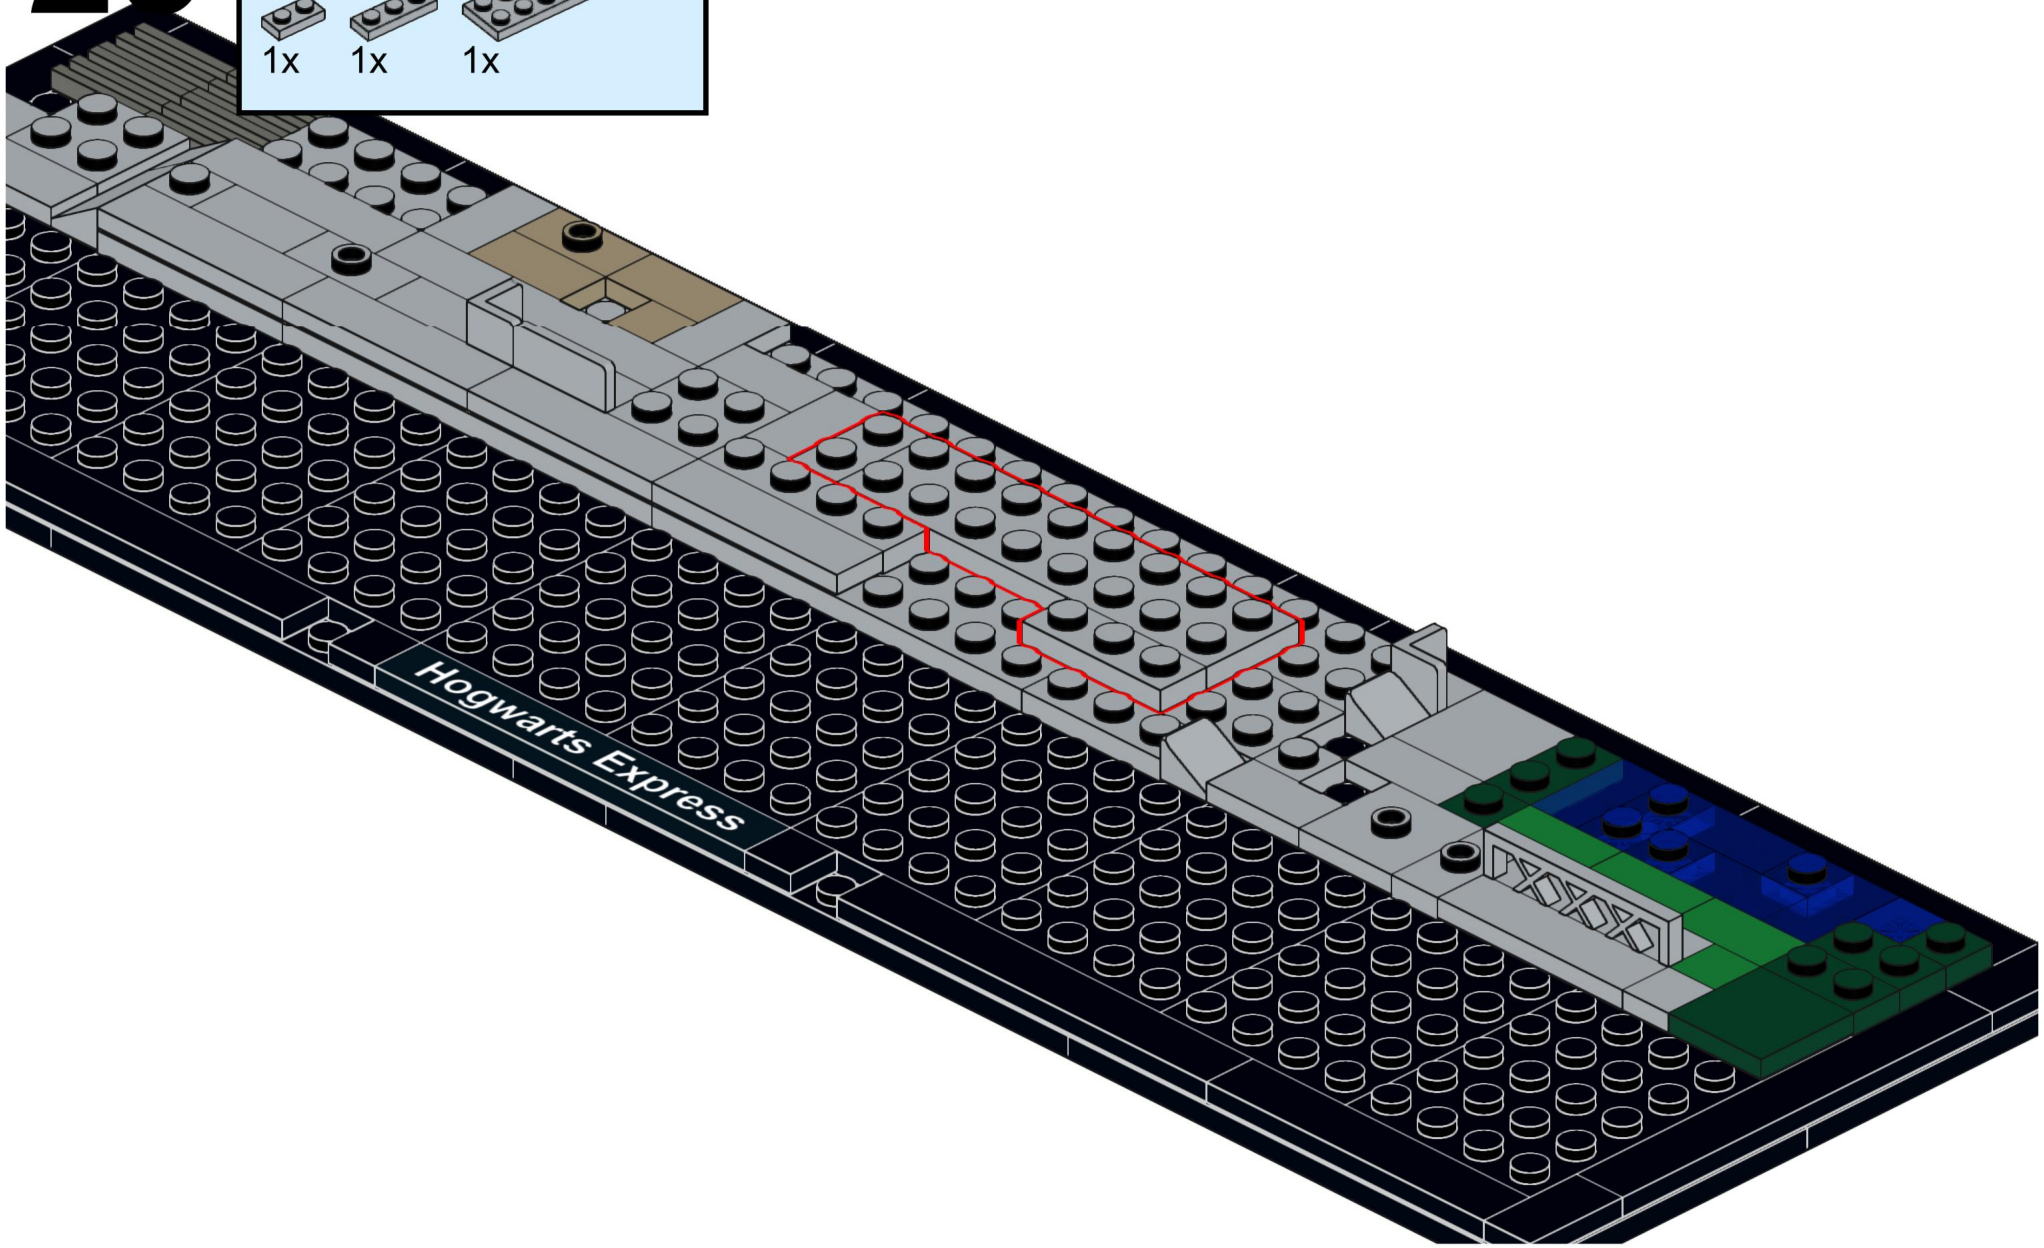

24

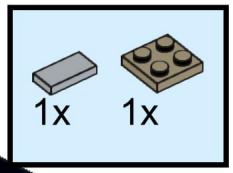

25

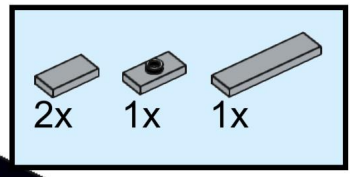

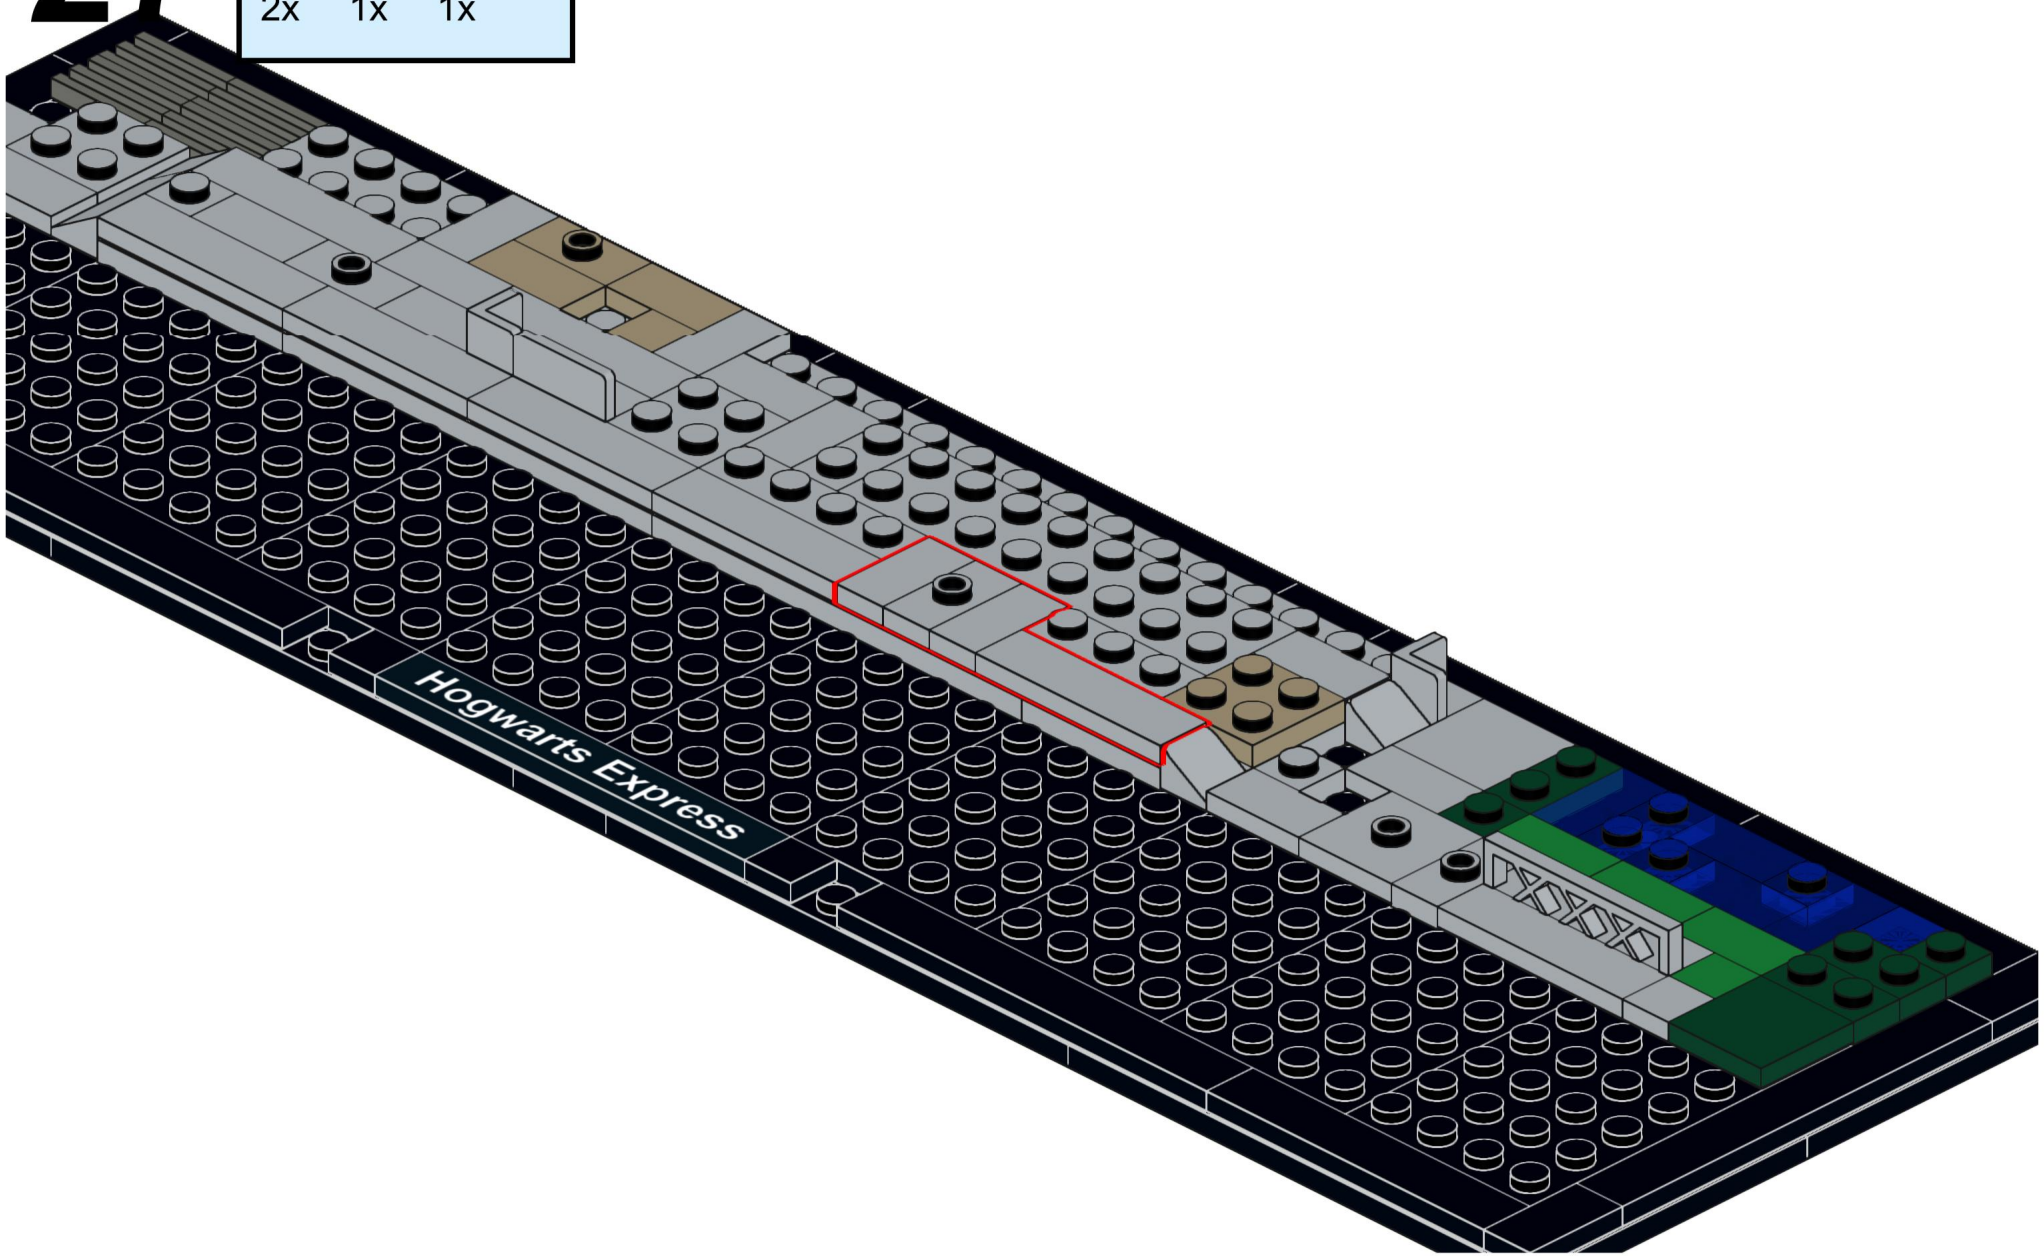

26

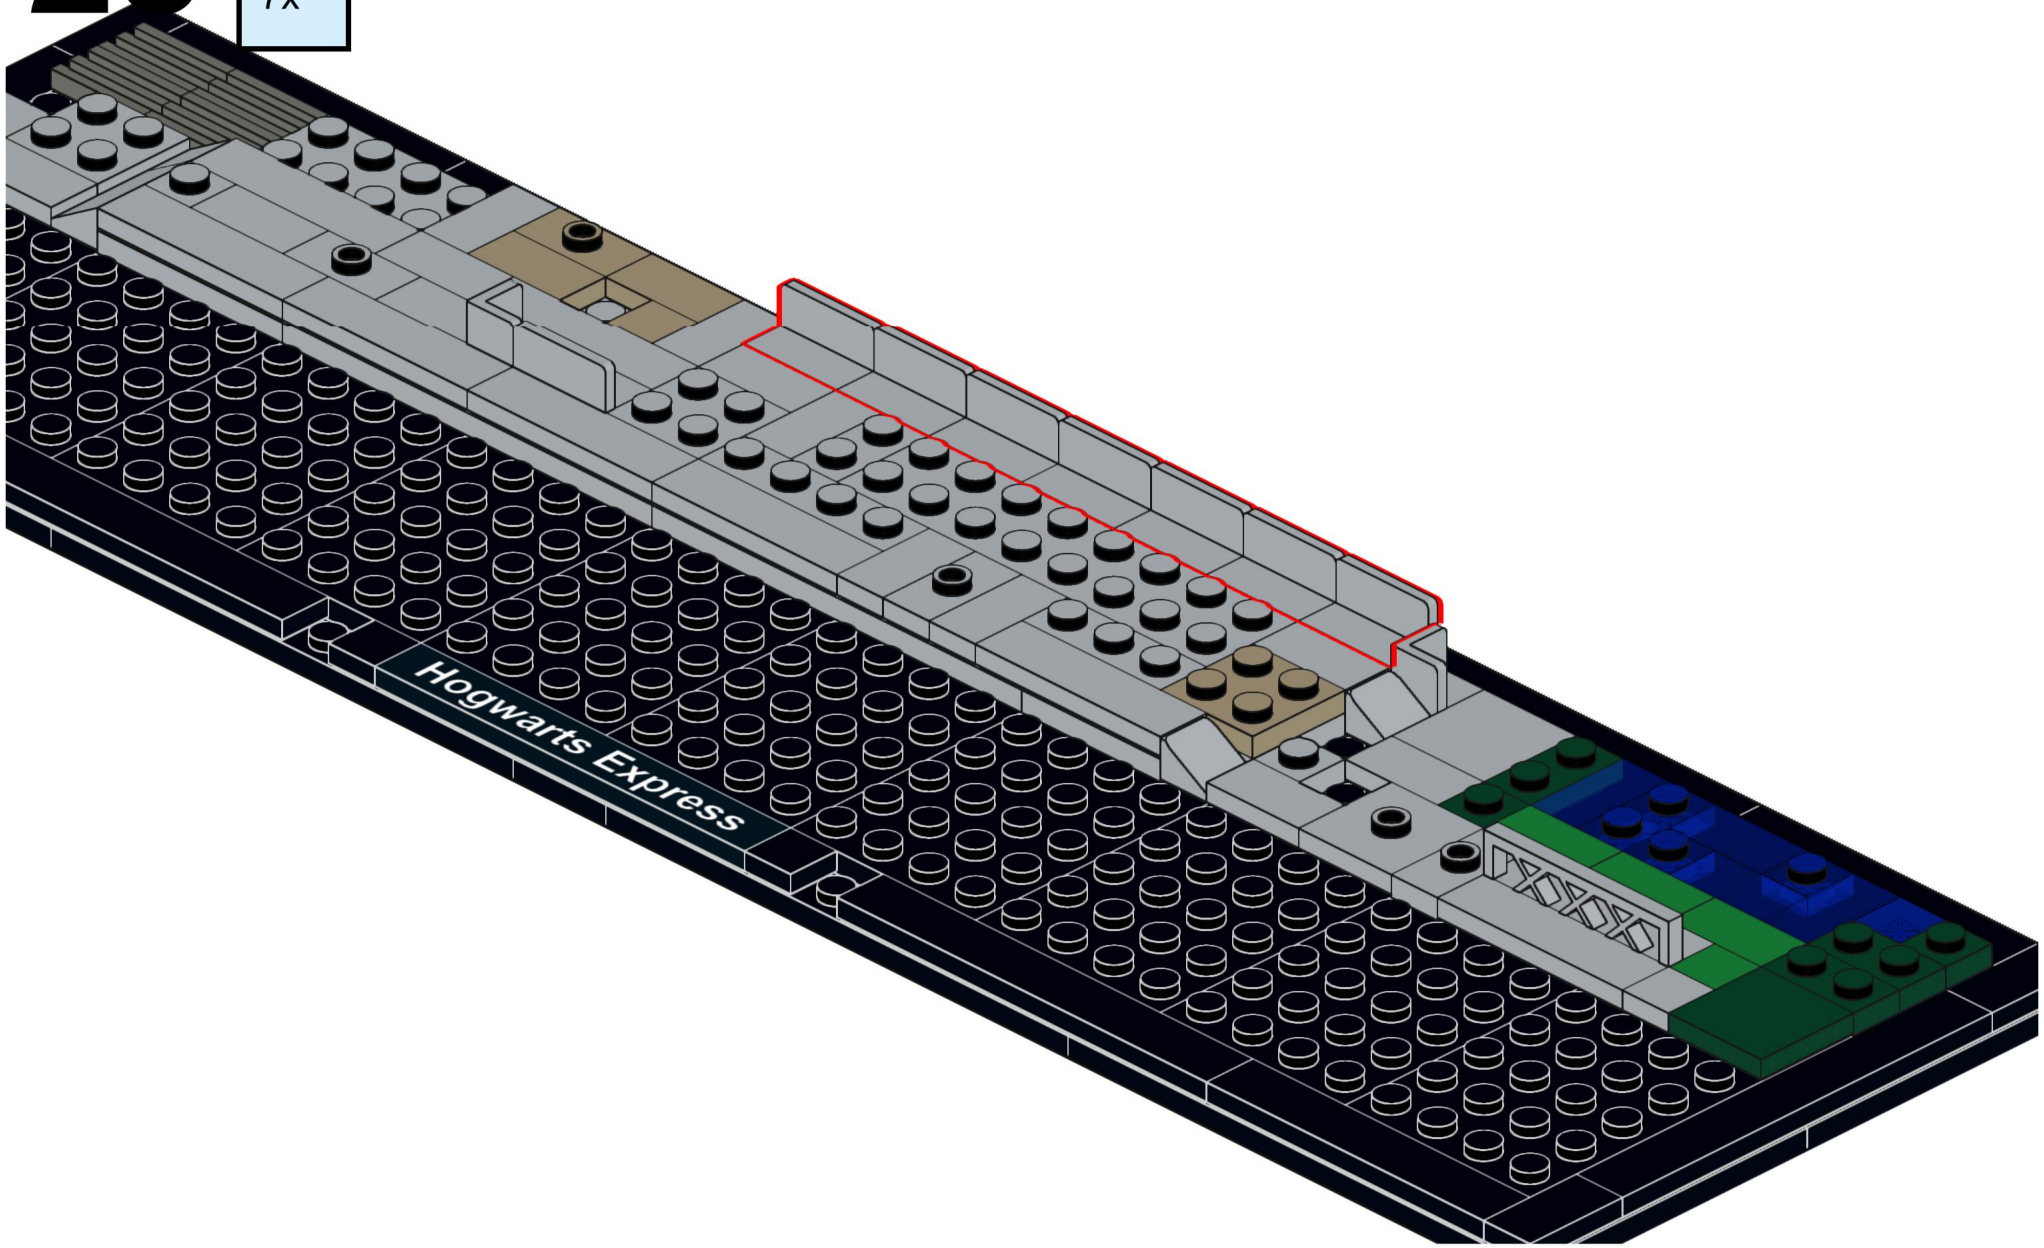

27

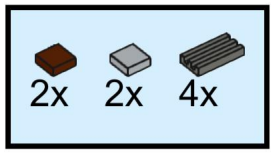

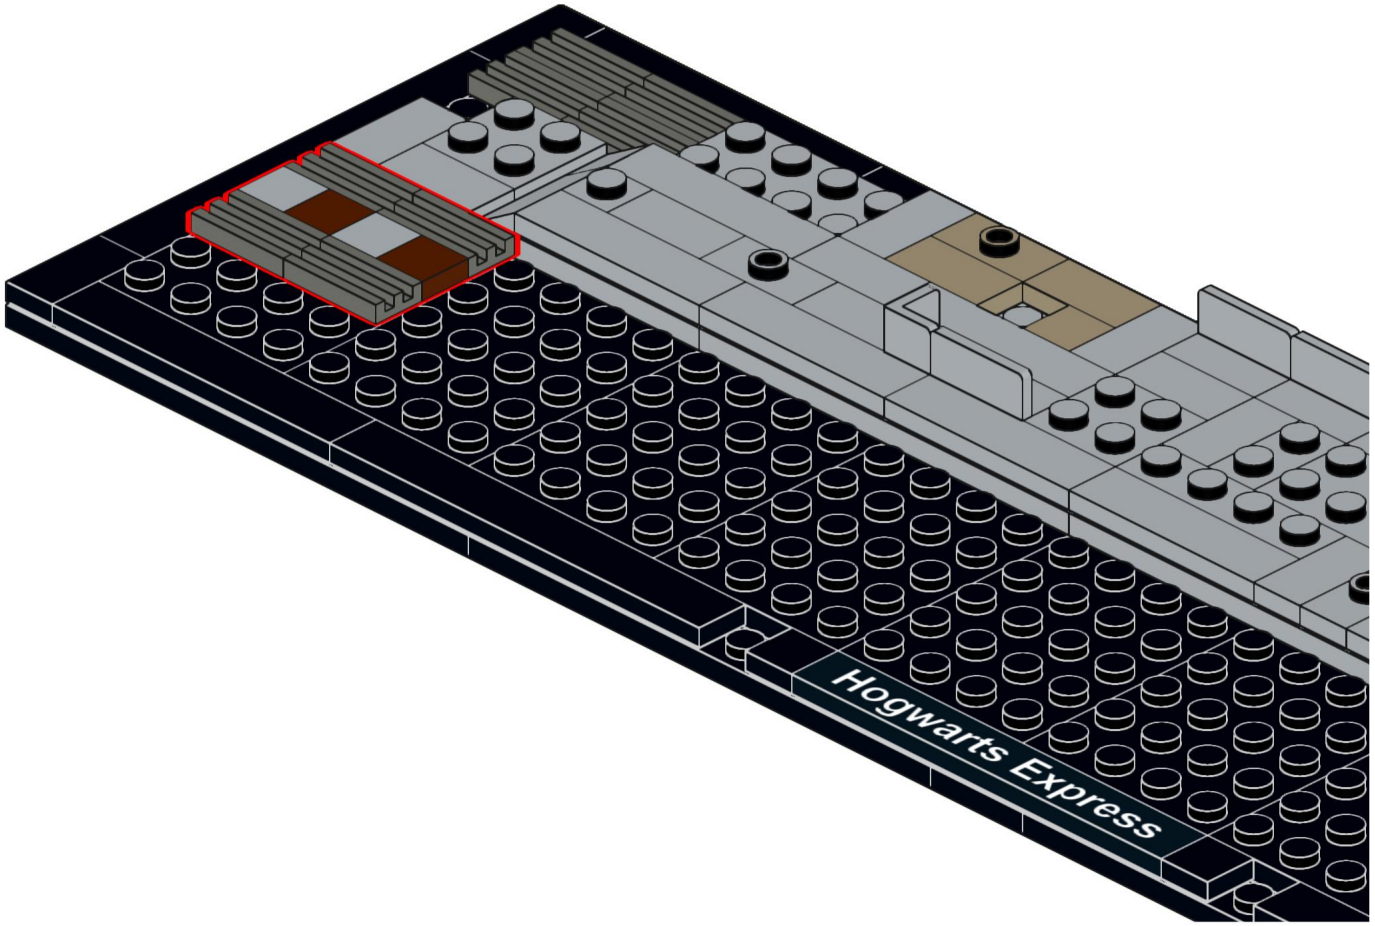

28

7x

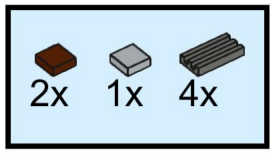

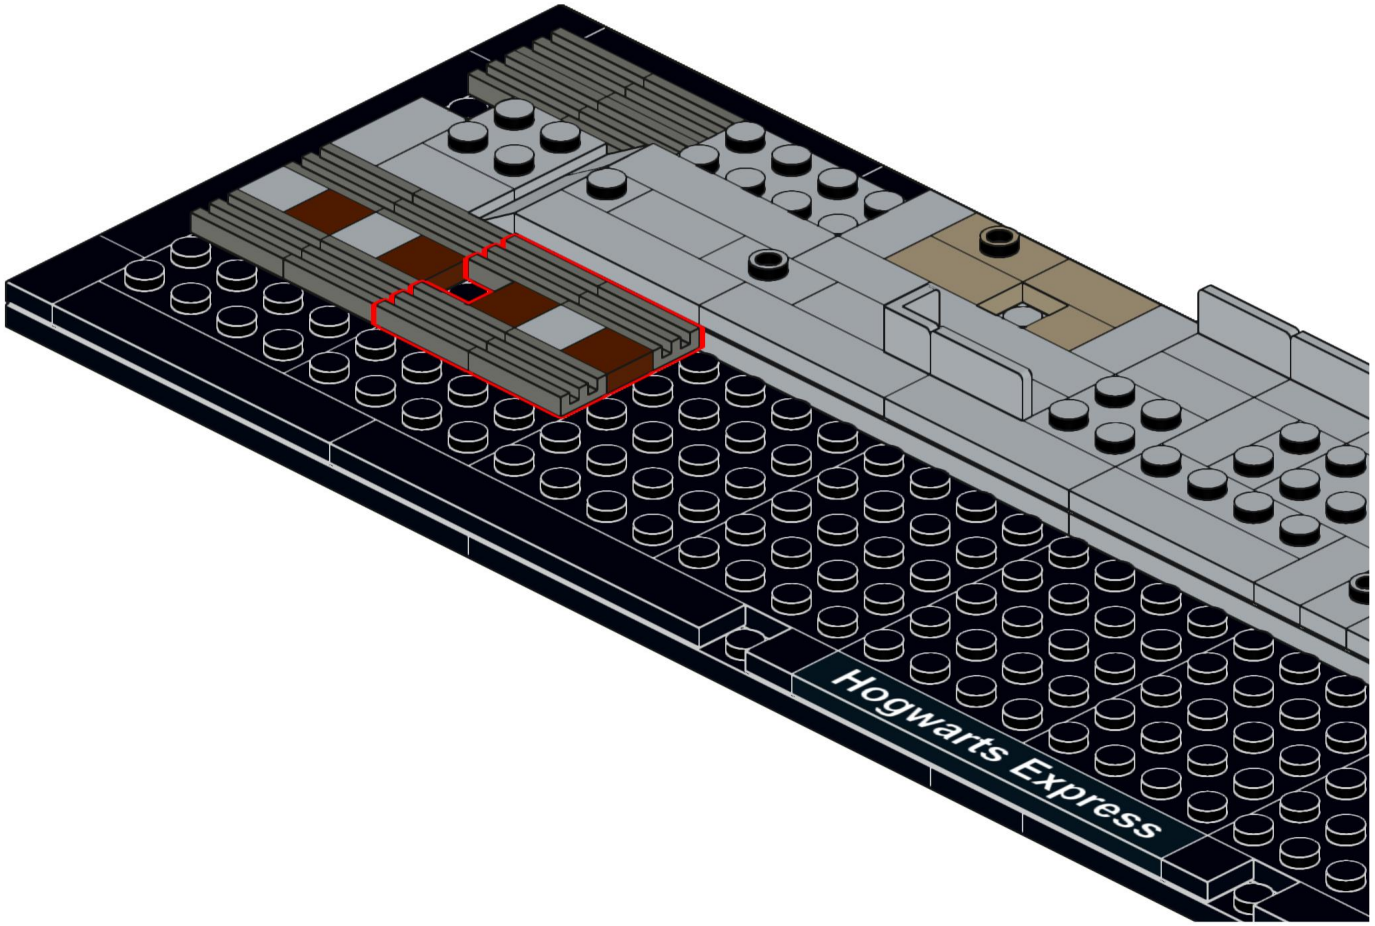

29

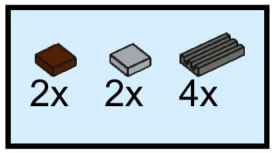

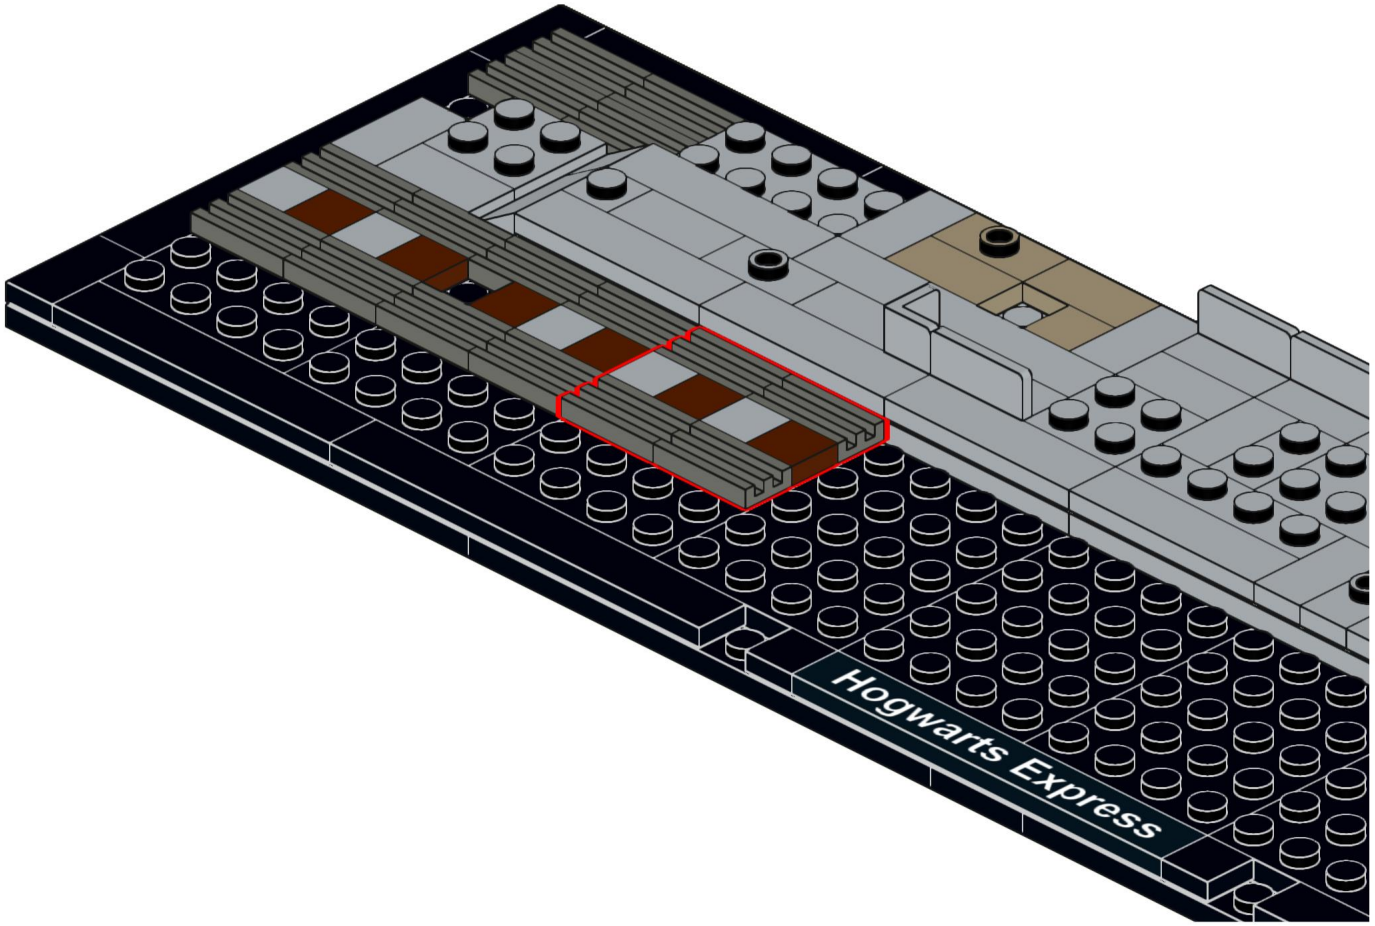

30

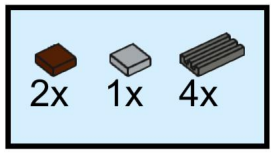

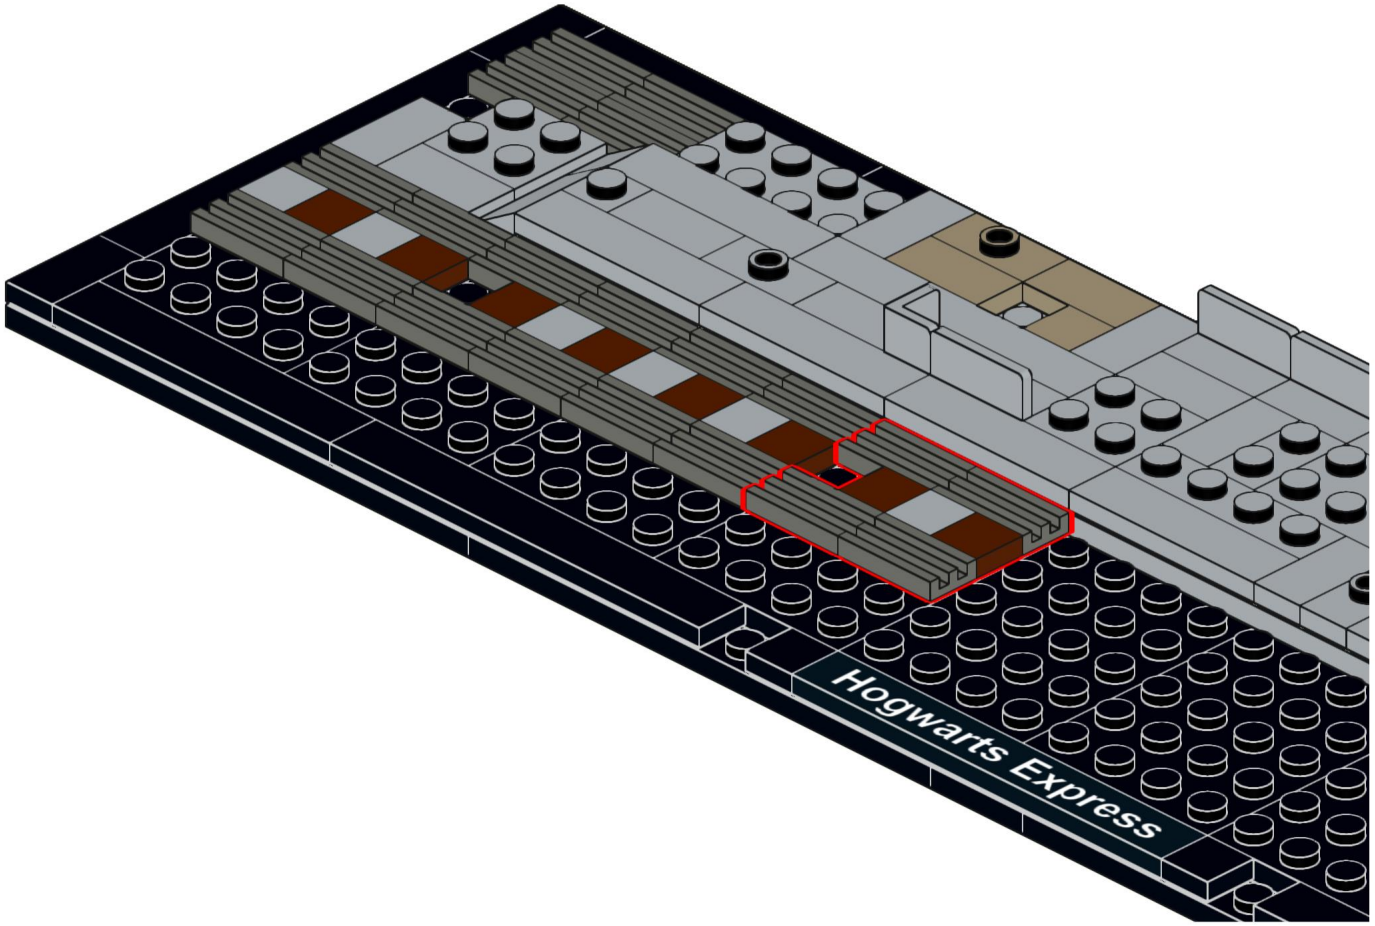

31

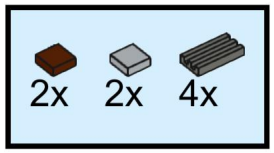

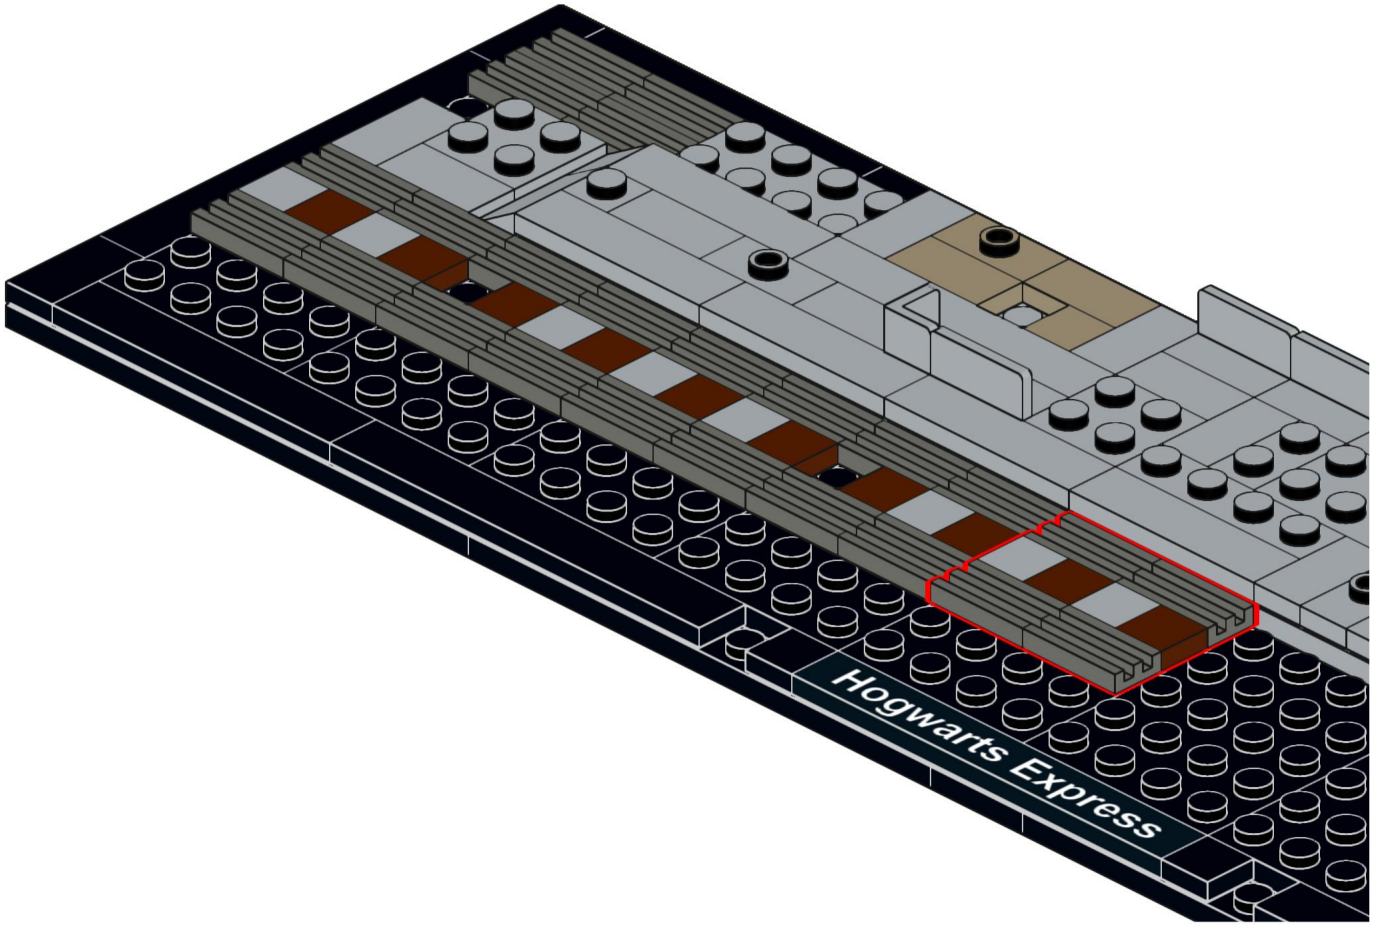

32

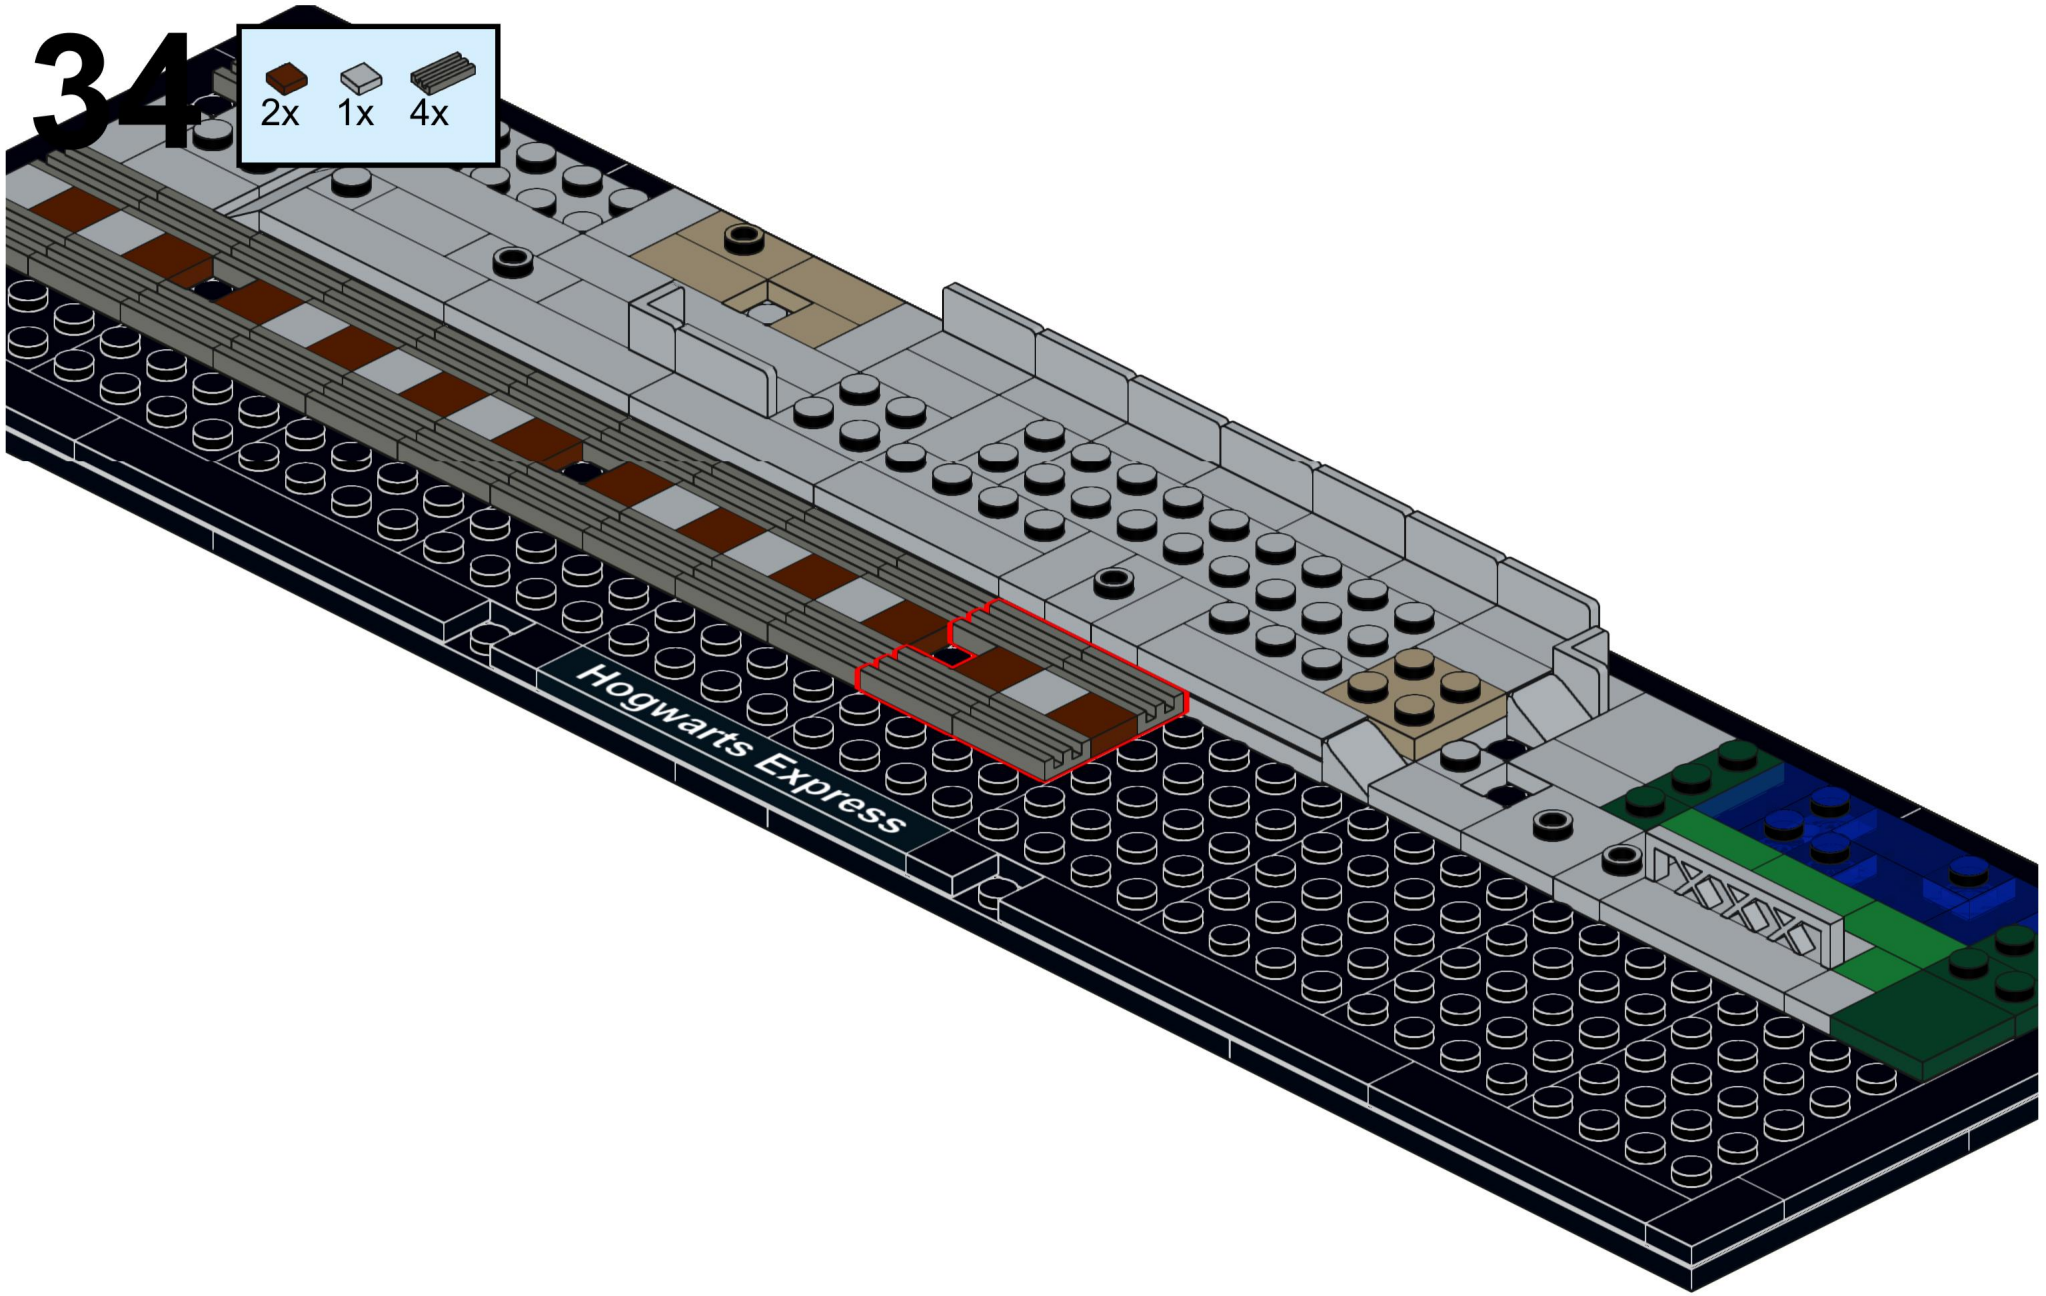

33

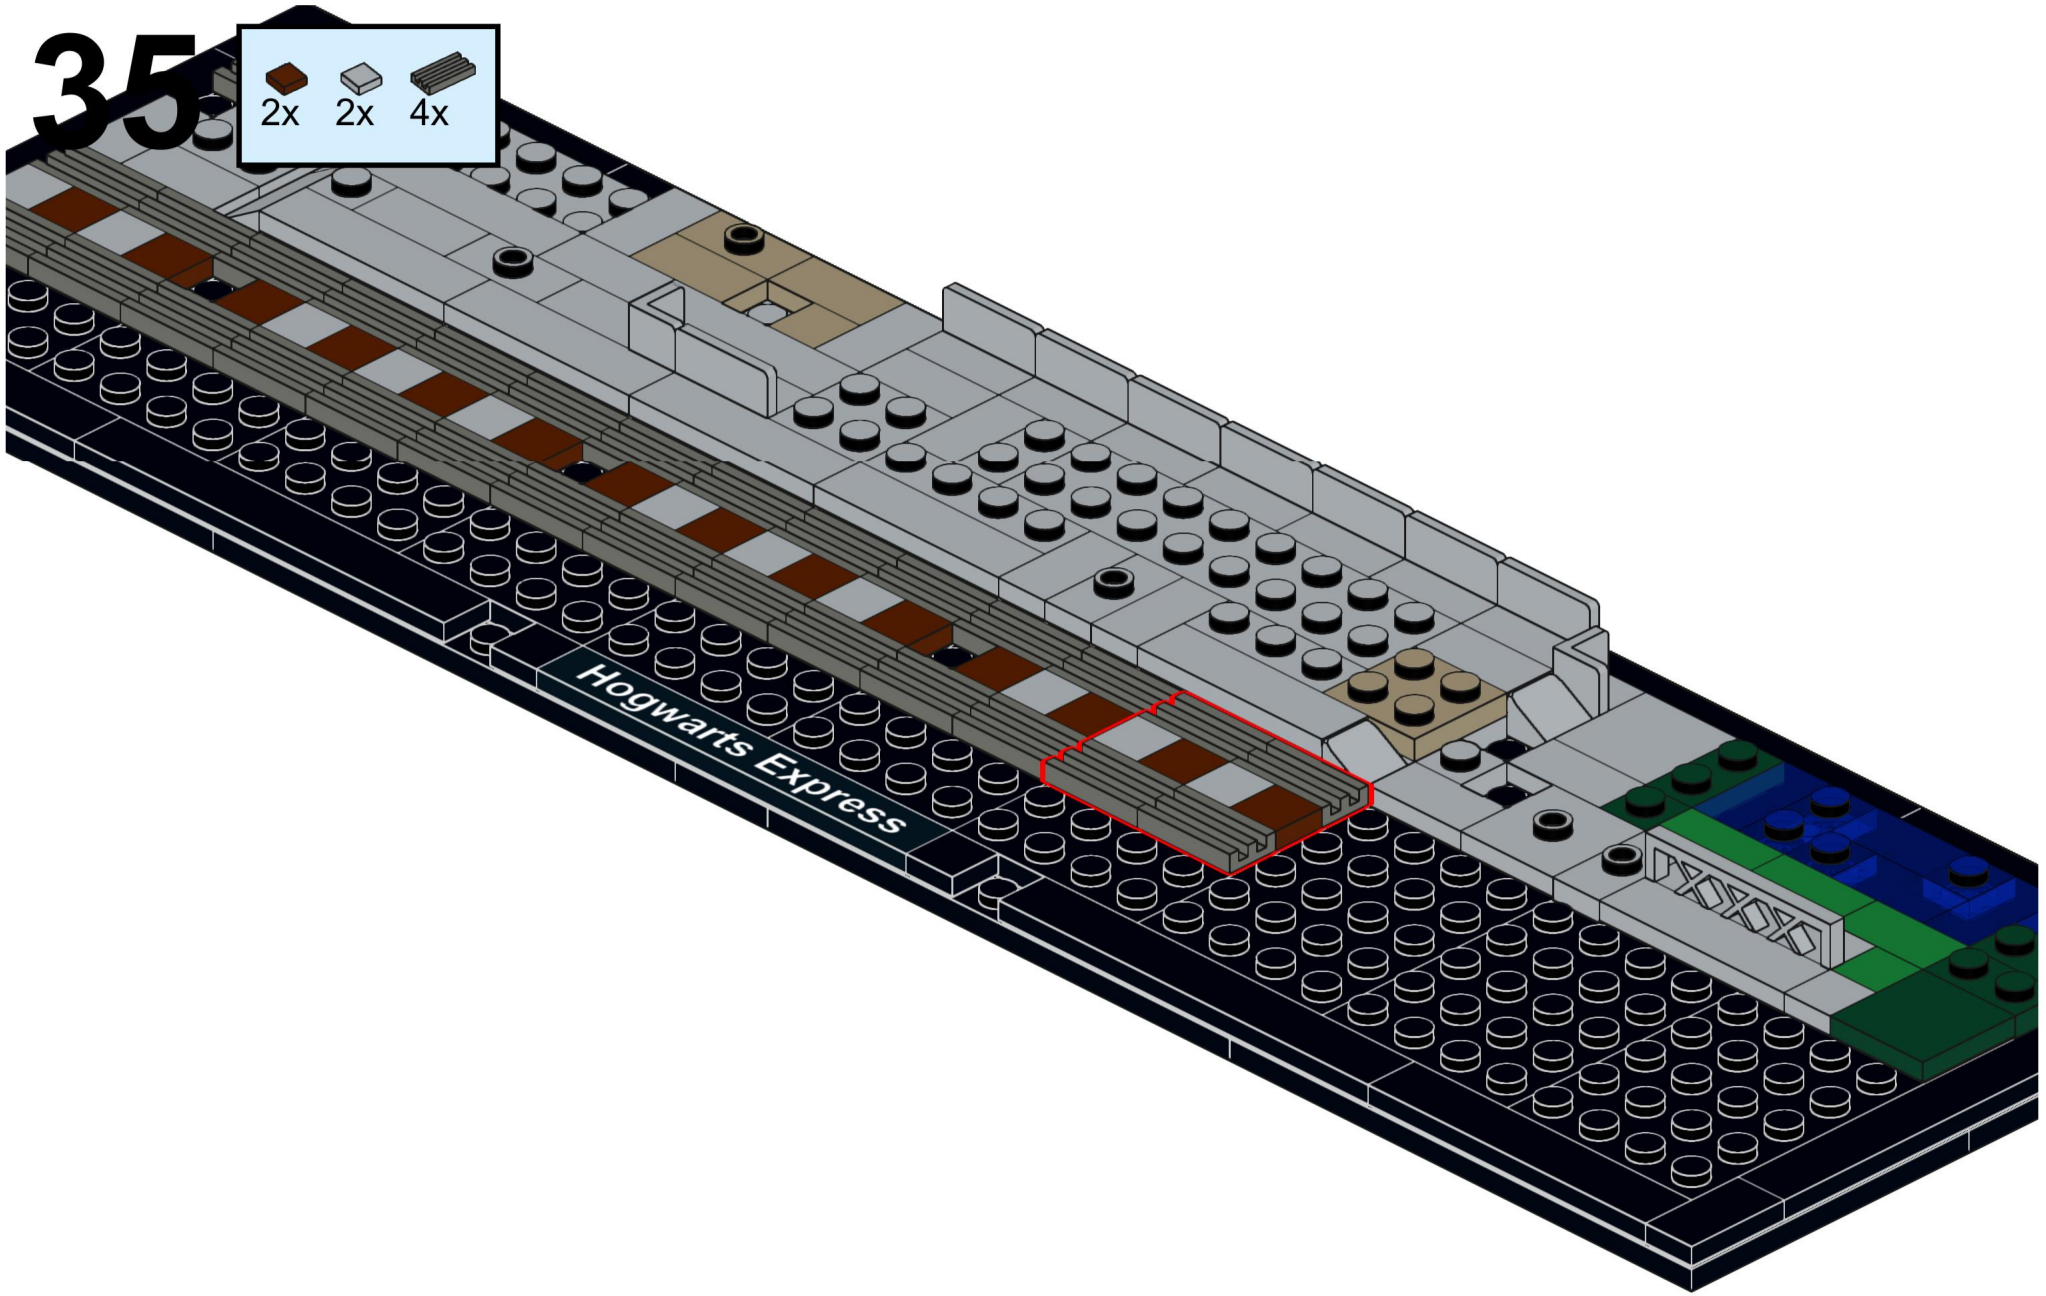

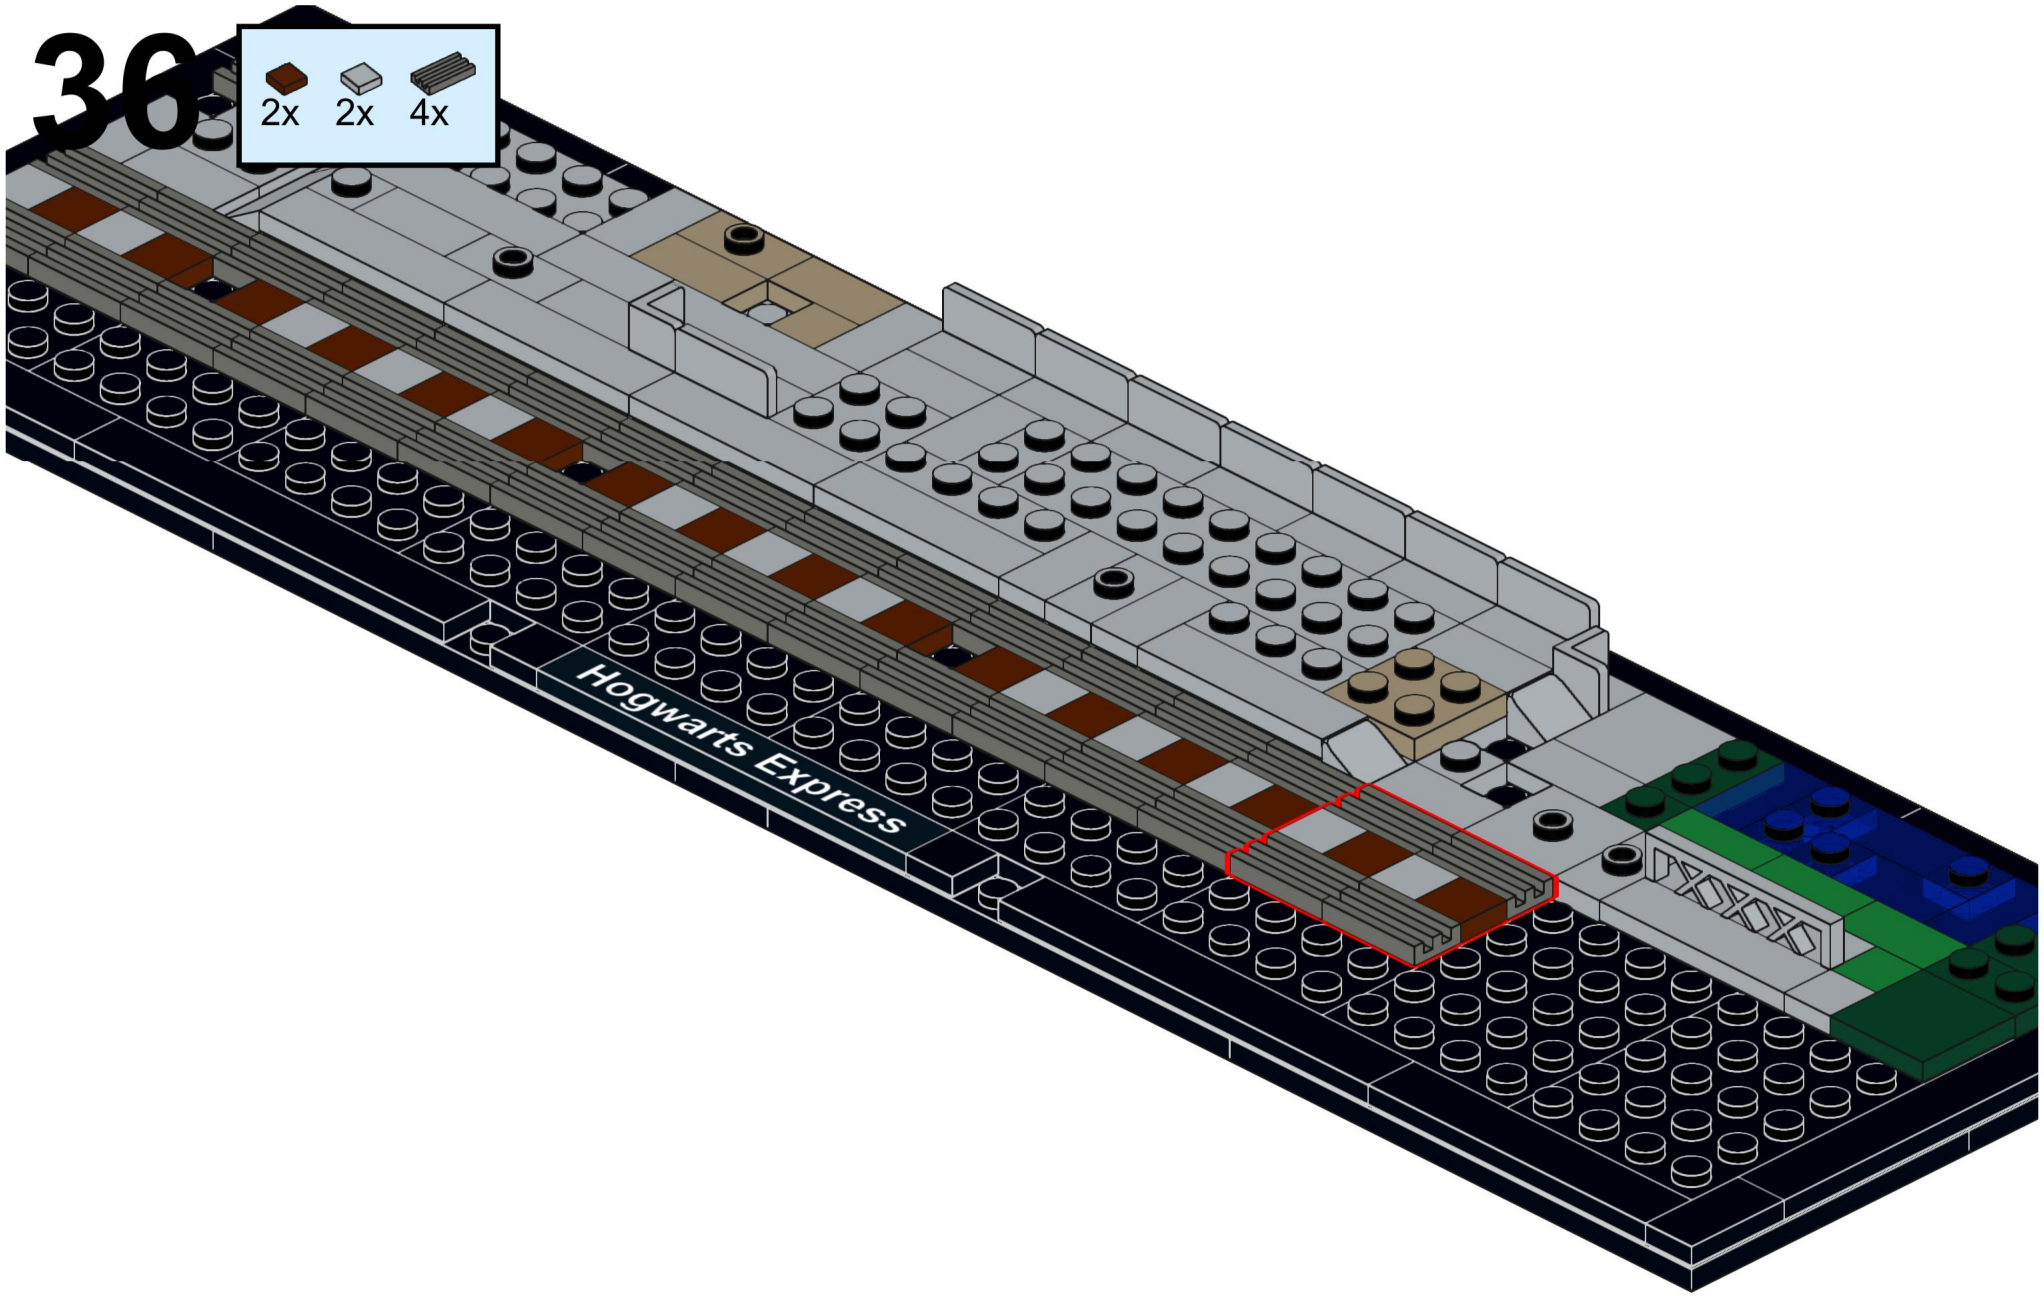

34

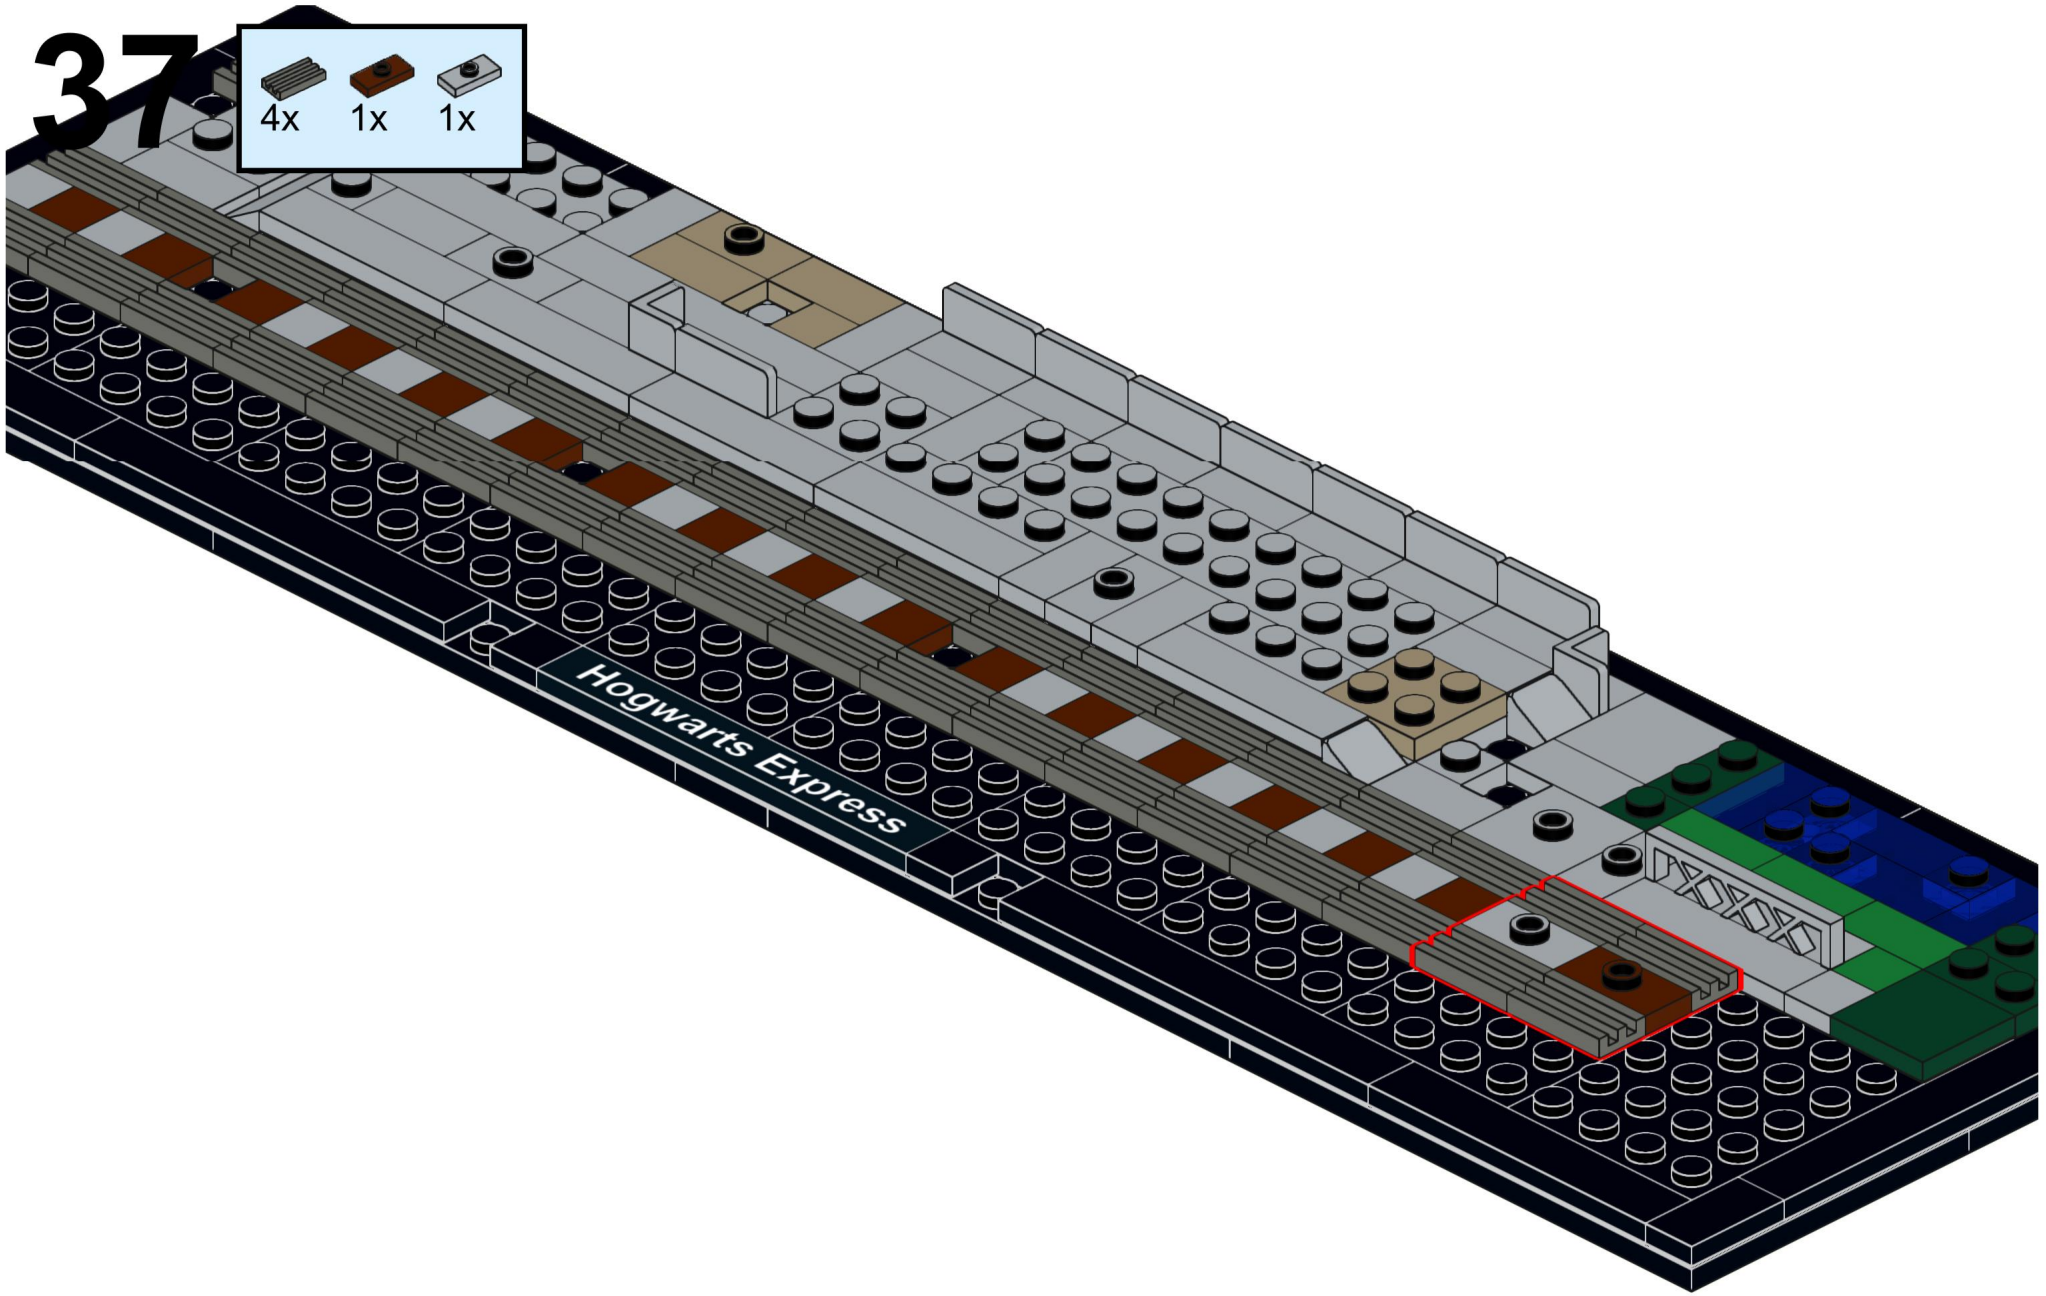

35

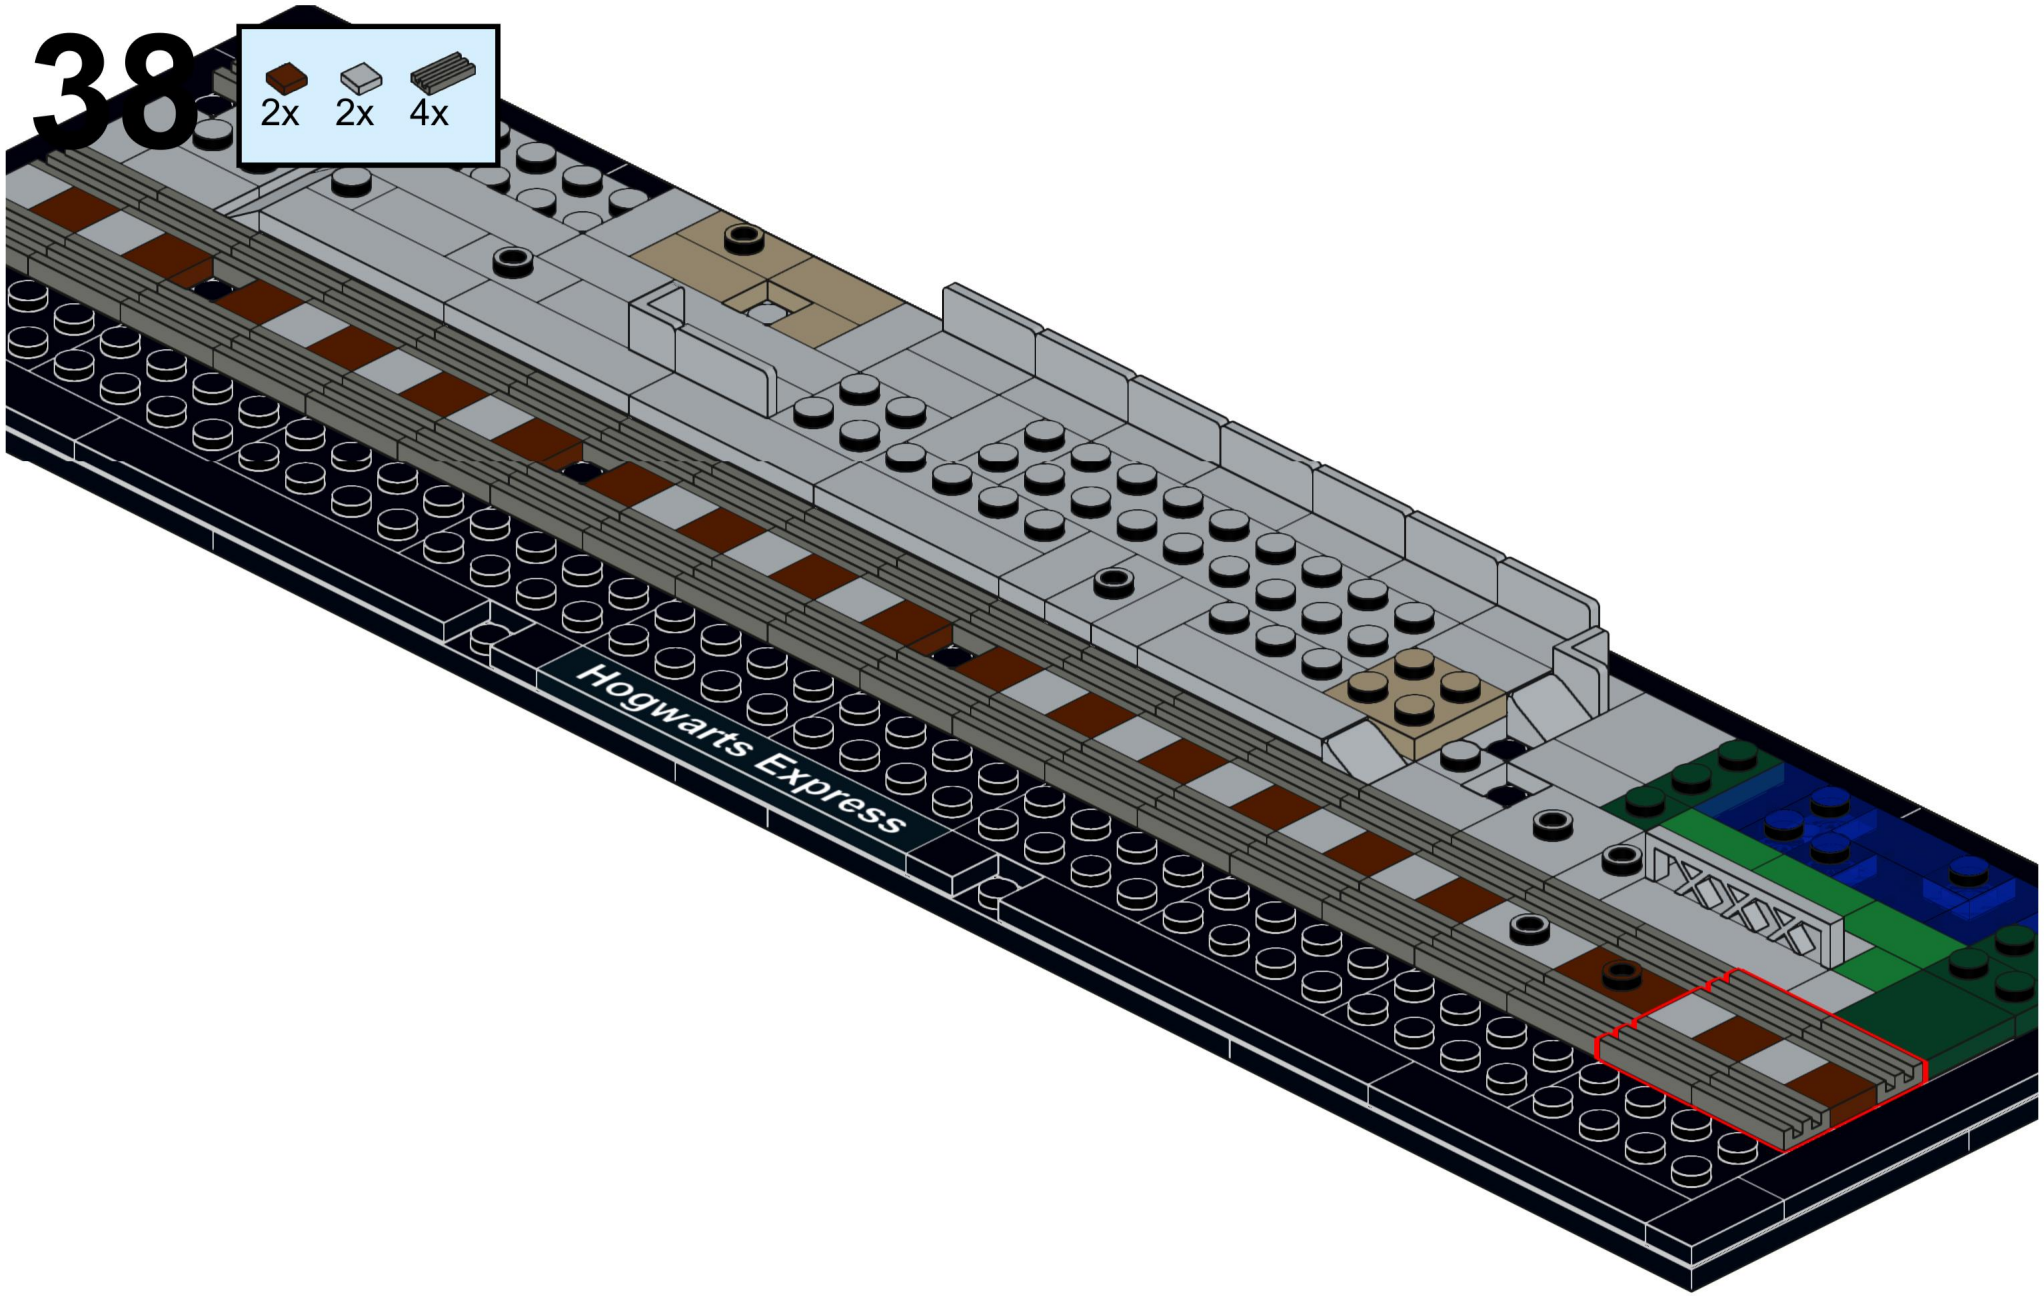

30
2x
2x
4x
Hogwarts Express

37

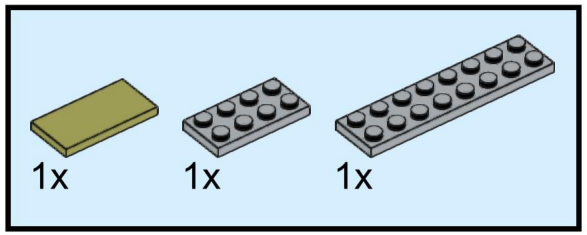

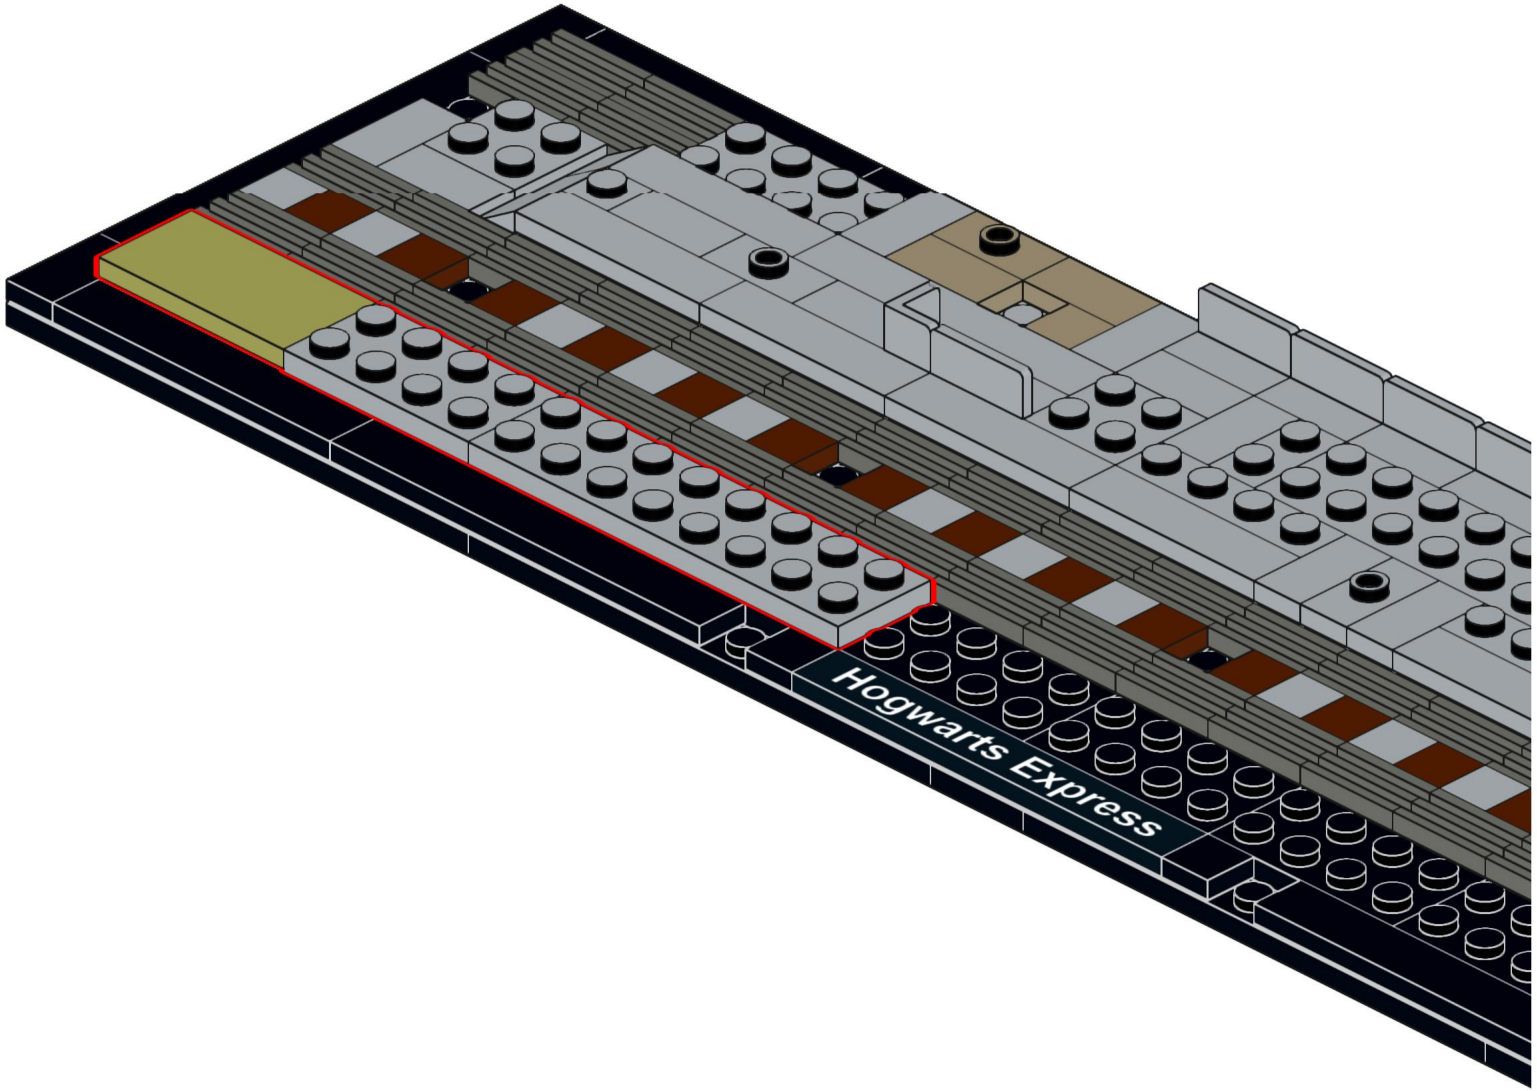

38

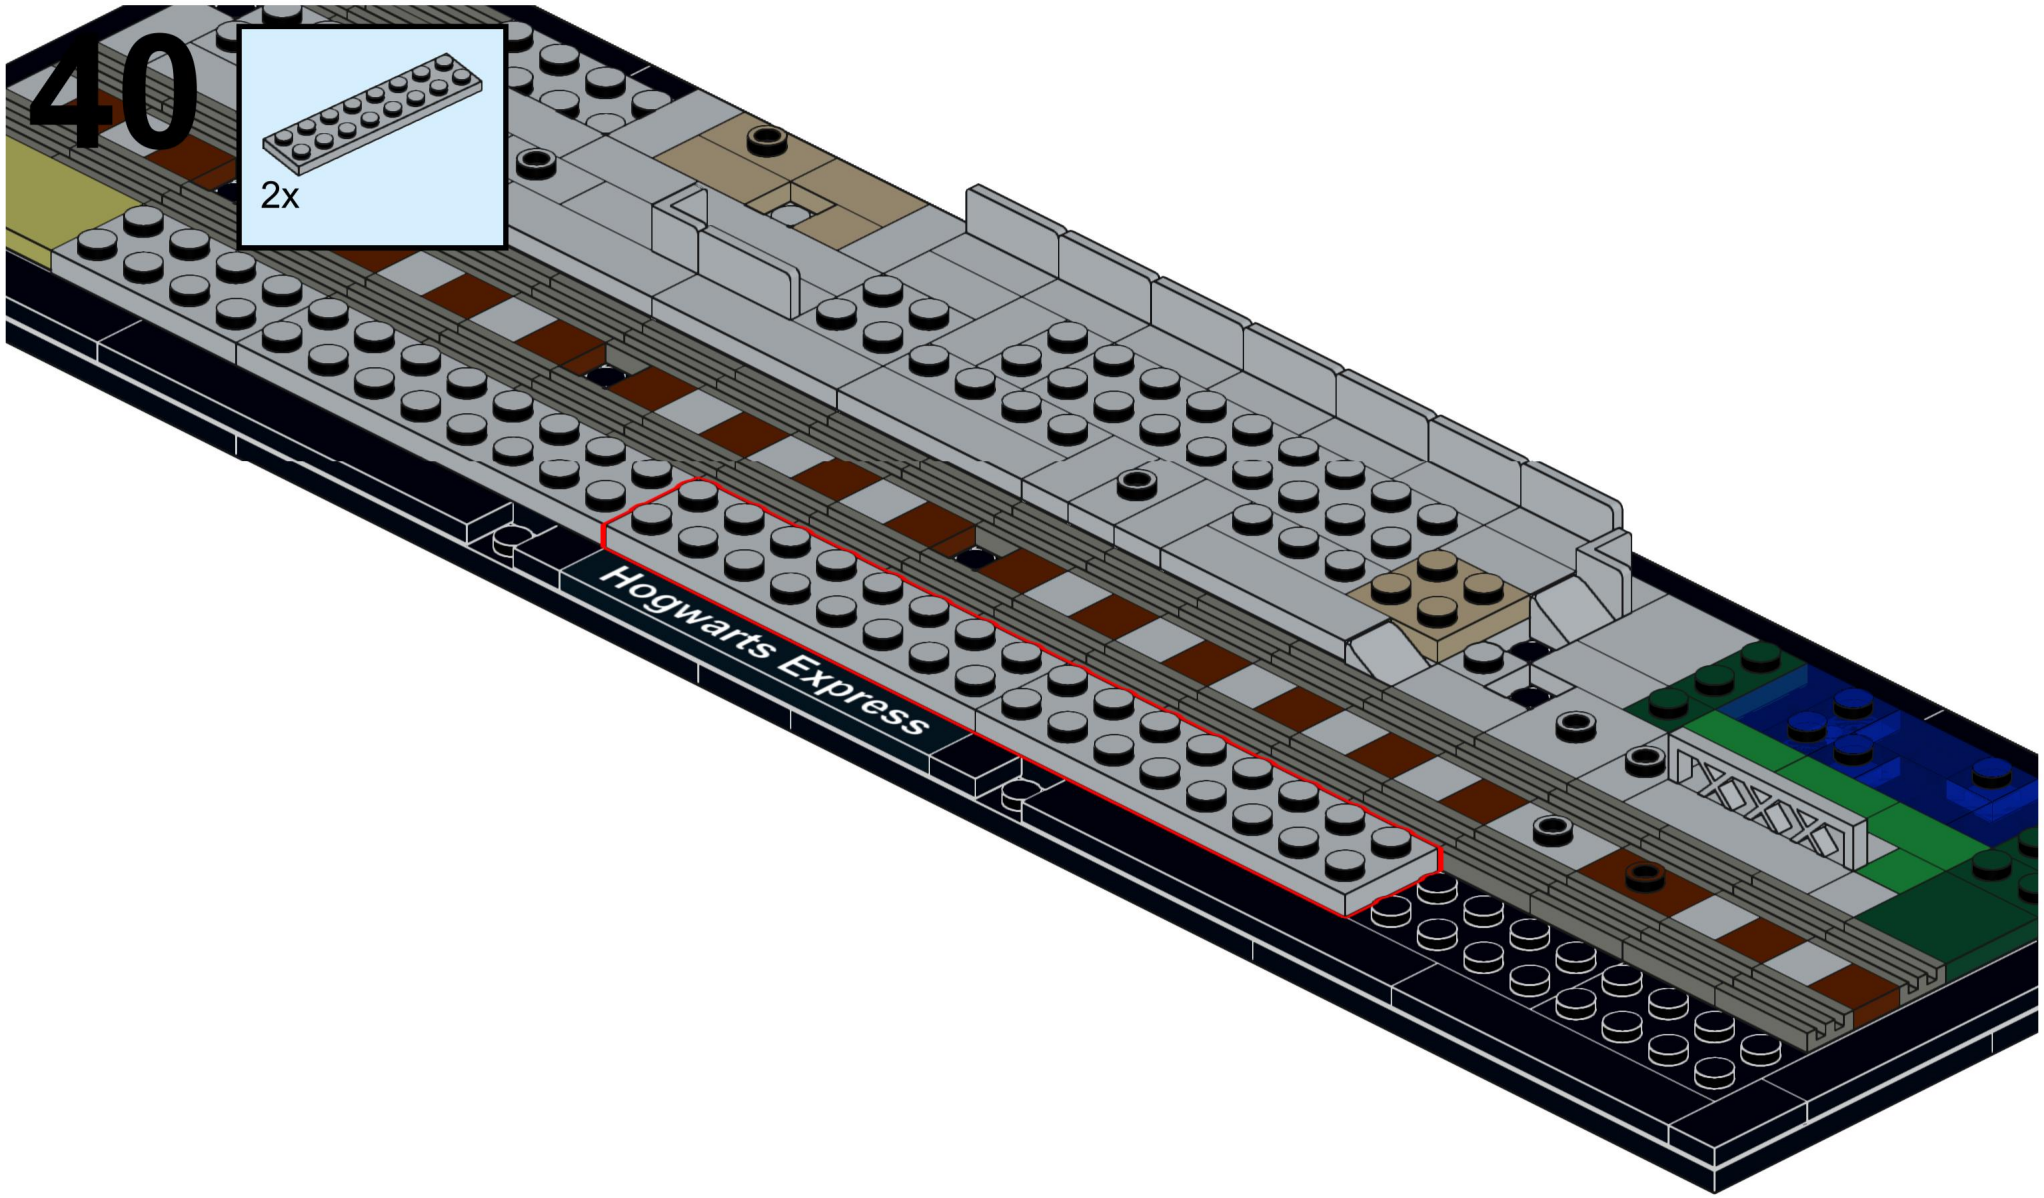

2x 2x 4x

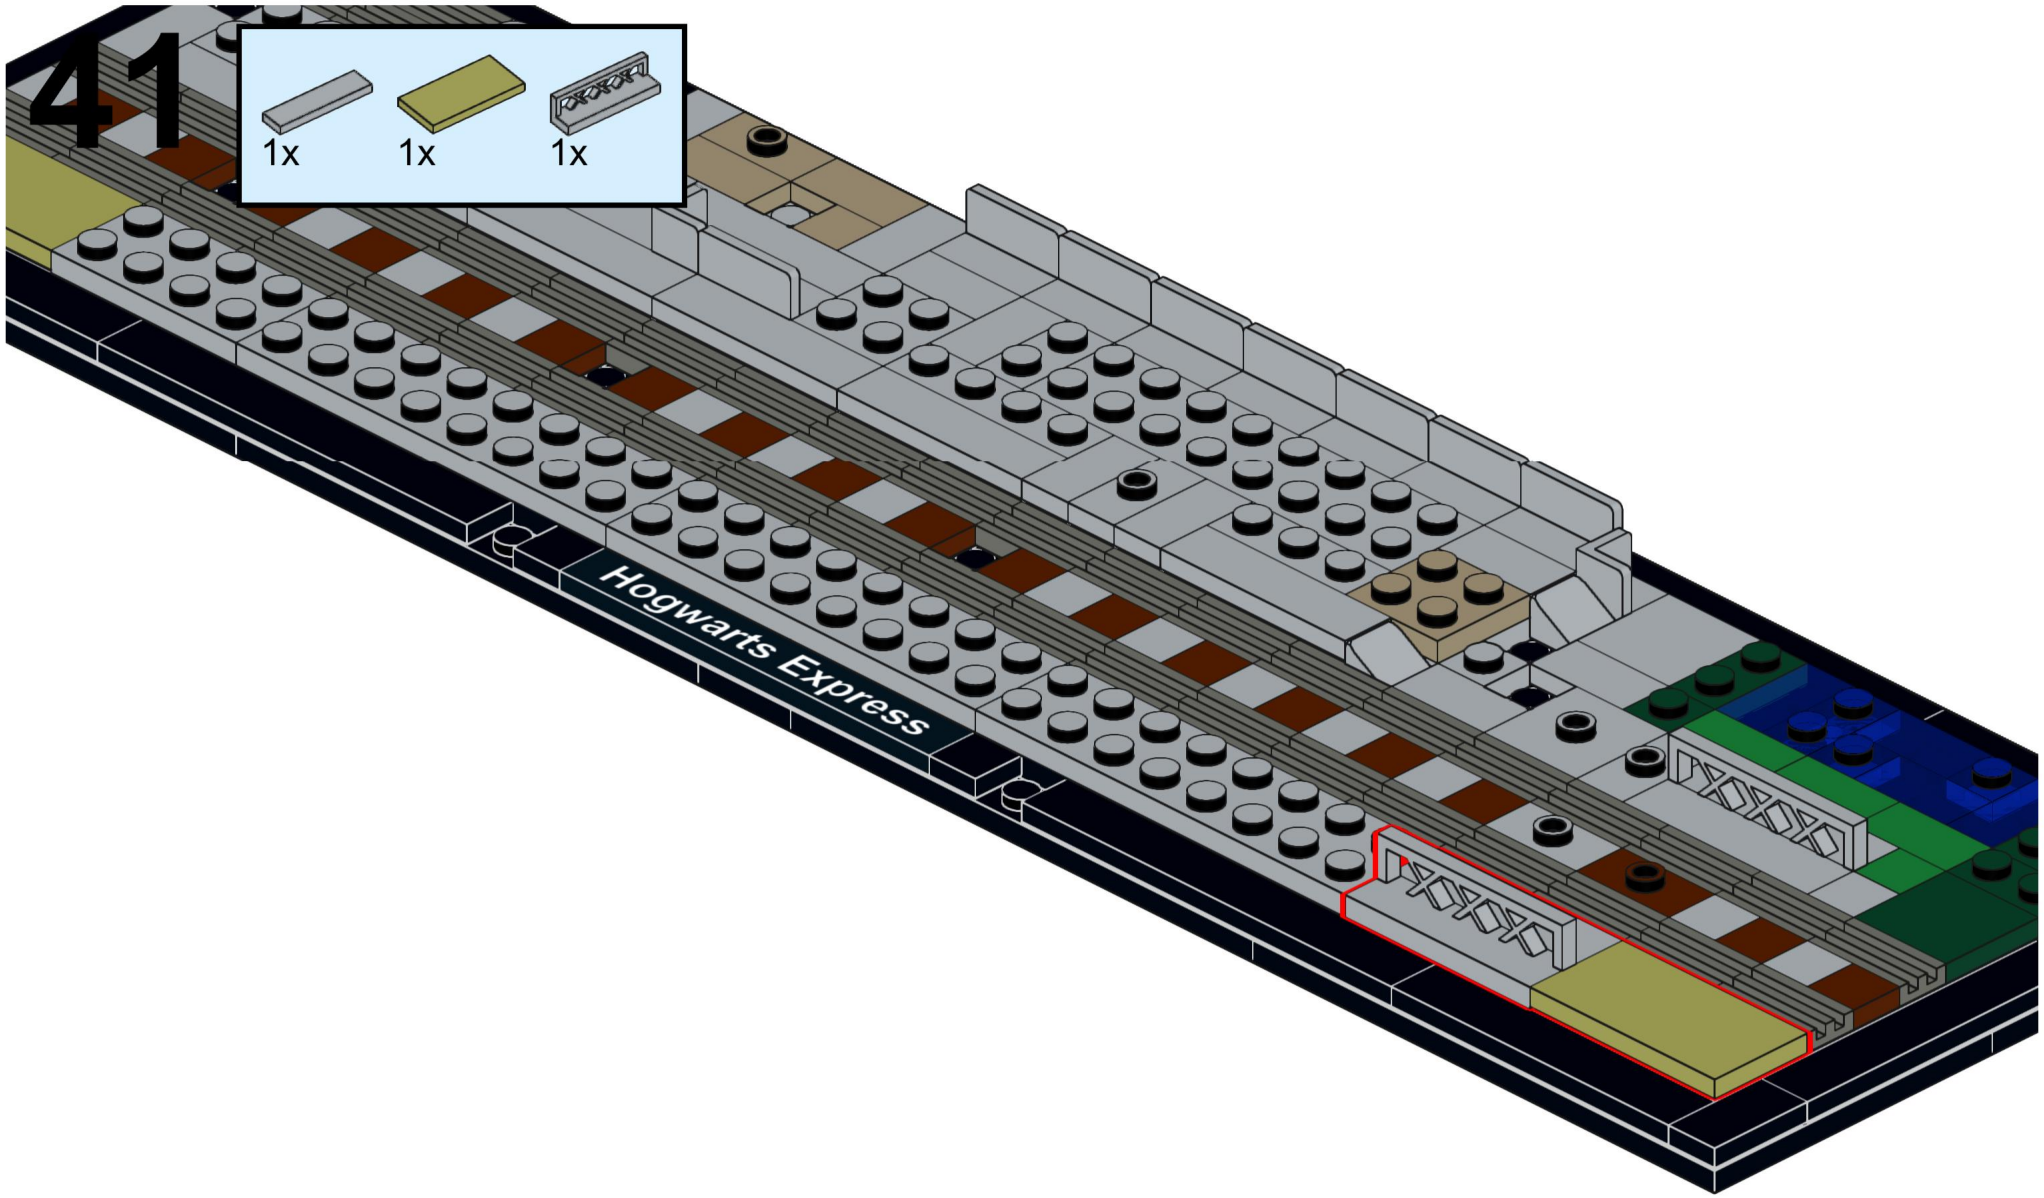

39

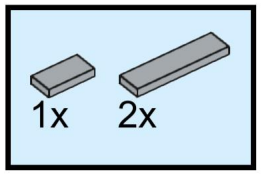

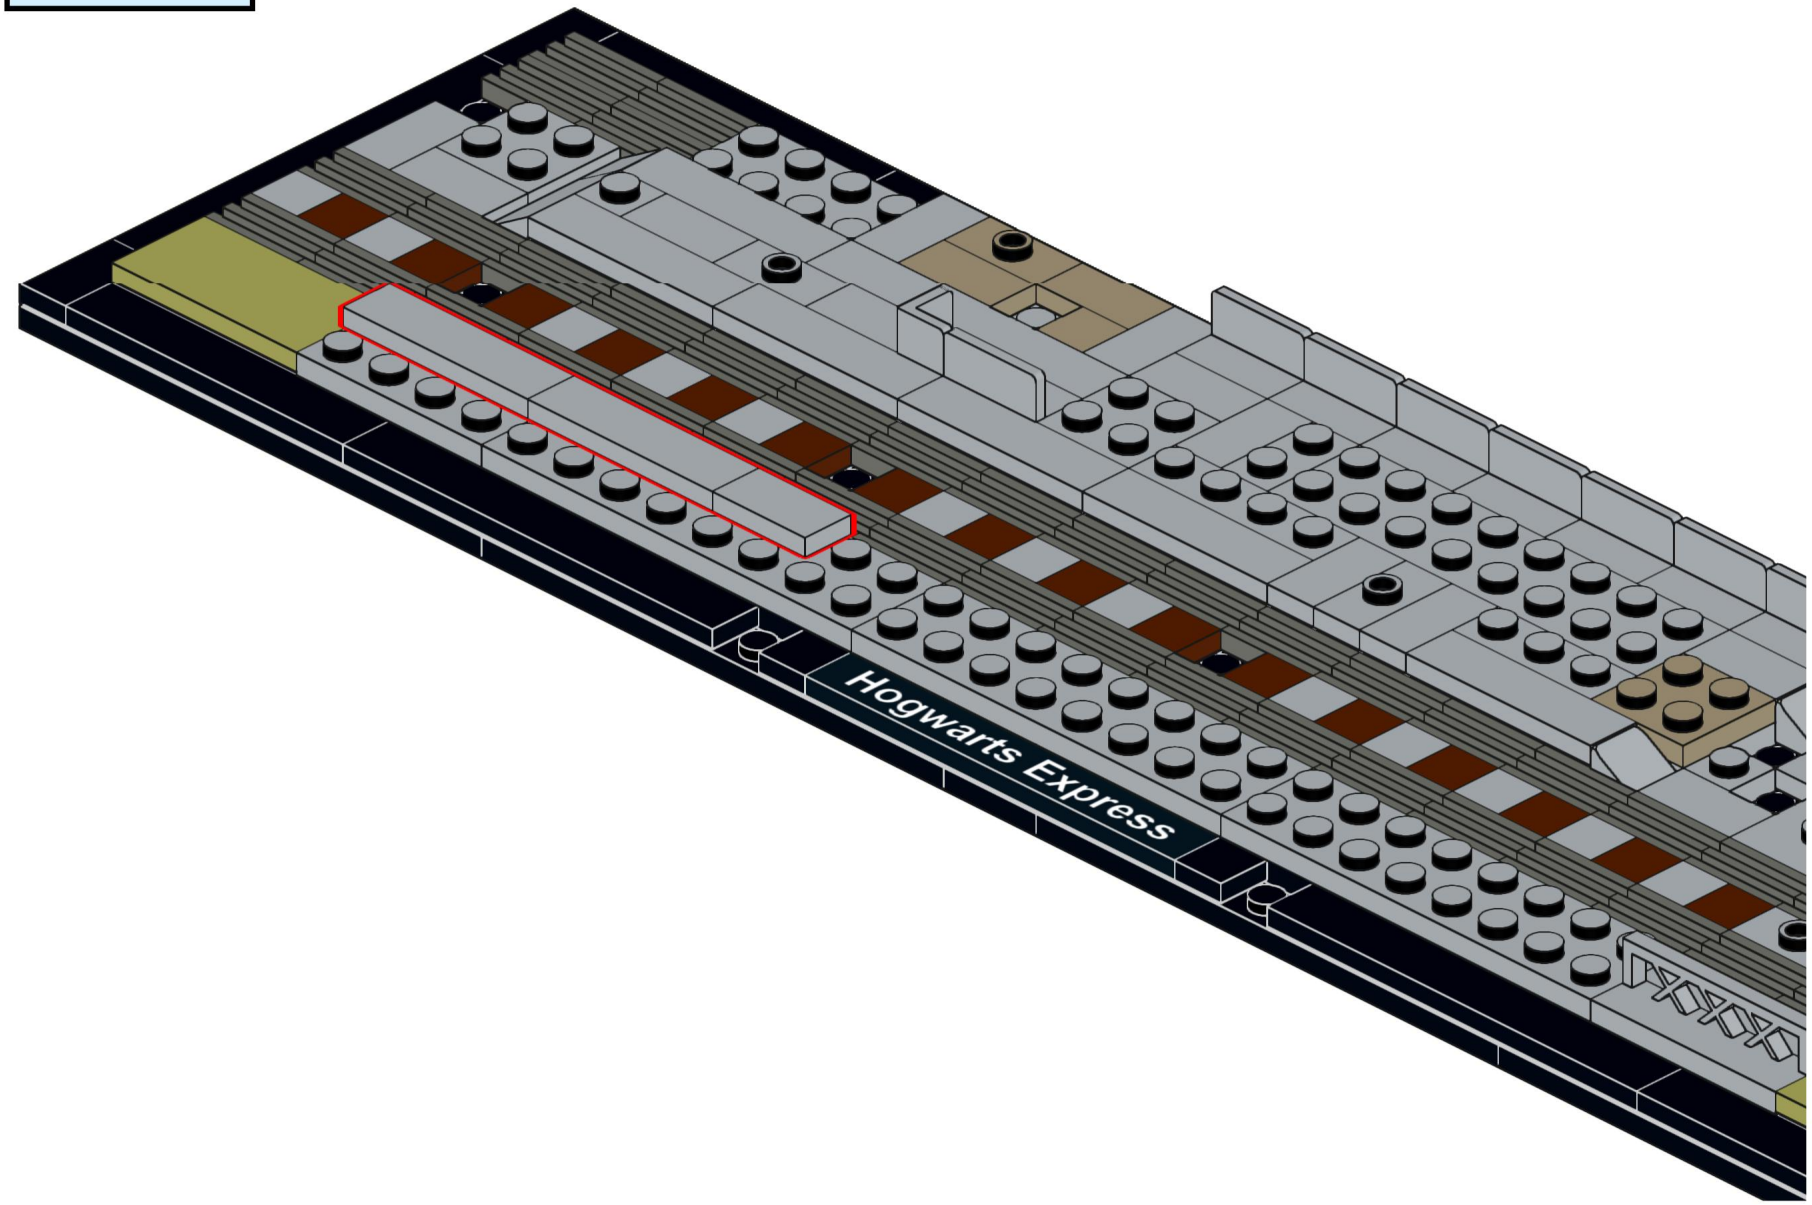

40
2x
Hogwarts Express

41

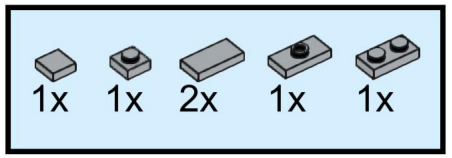

42

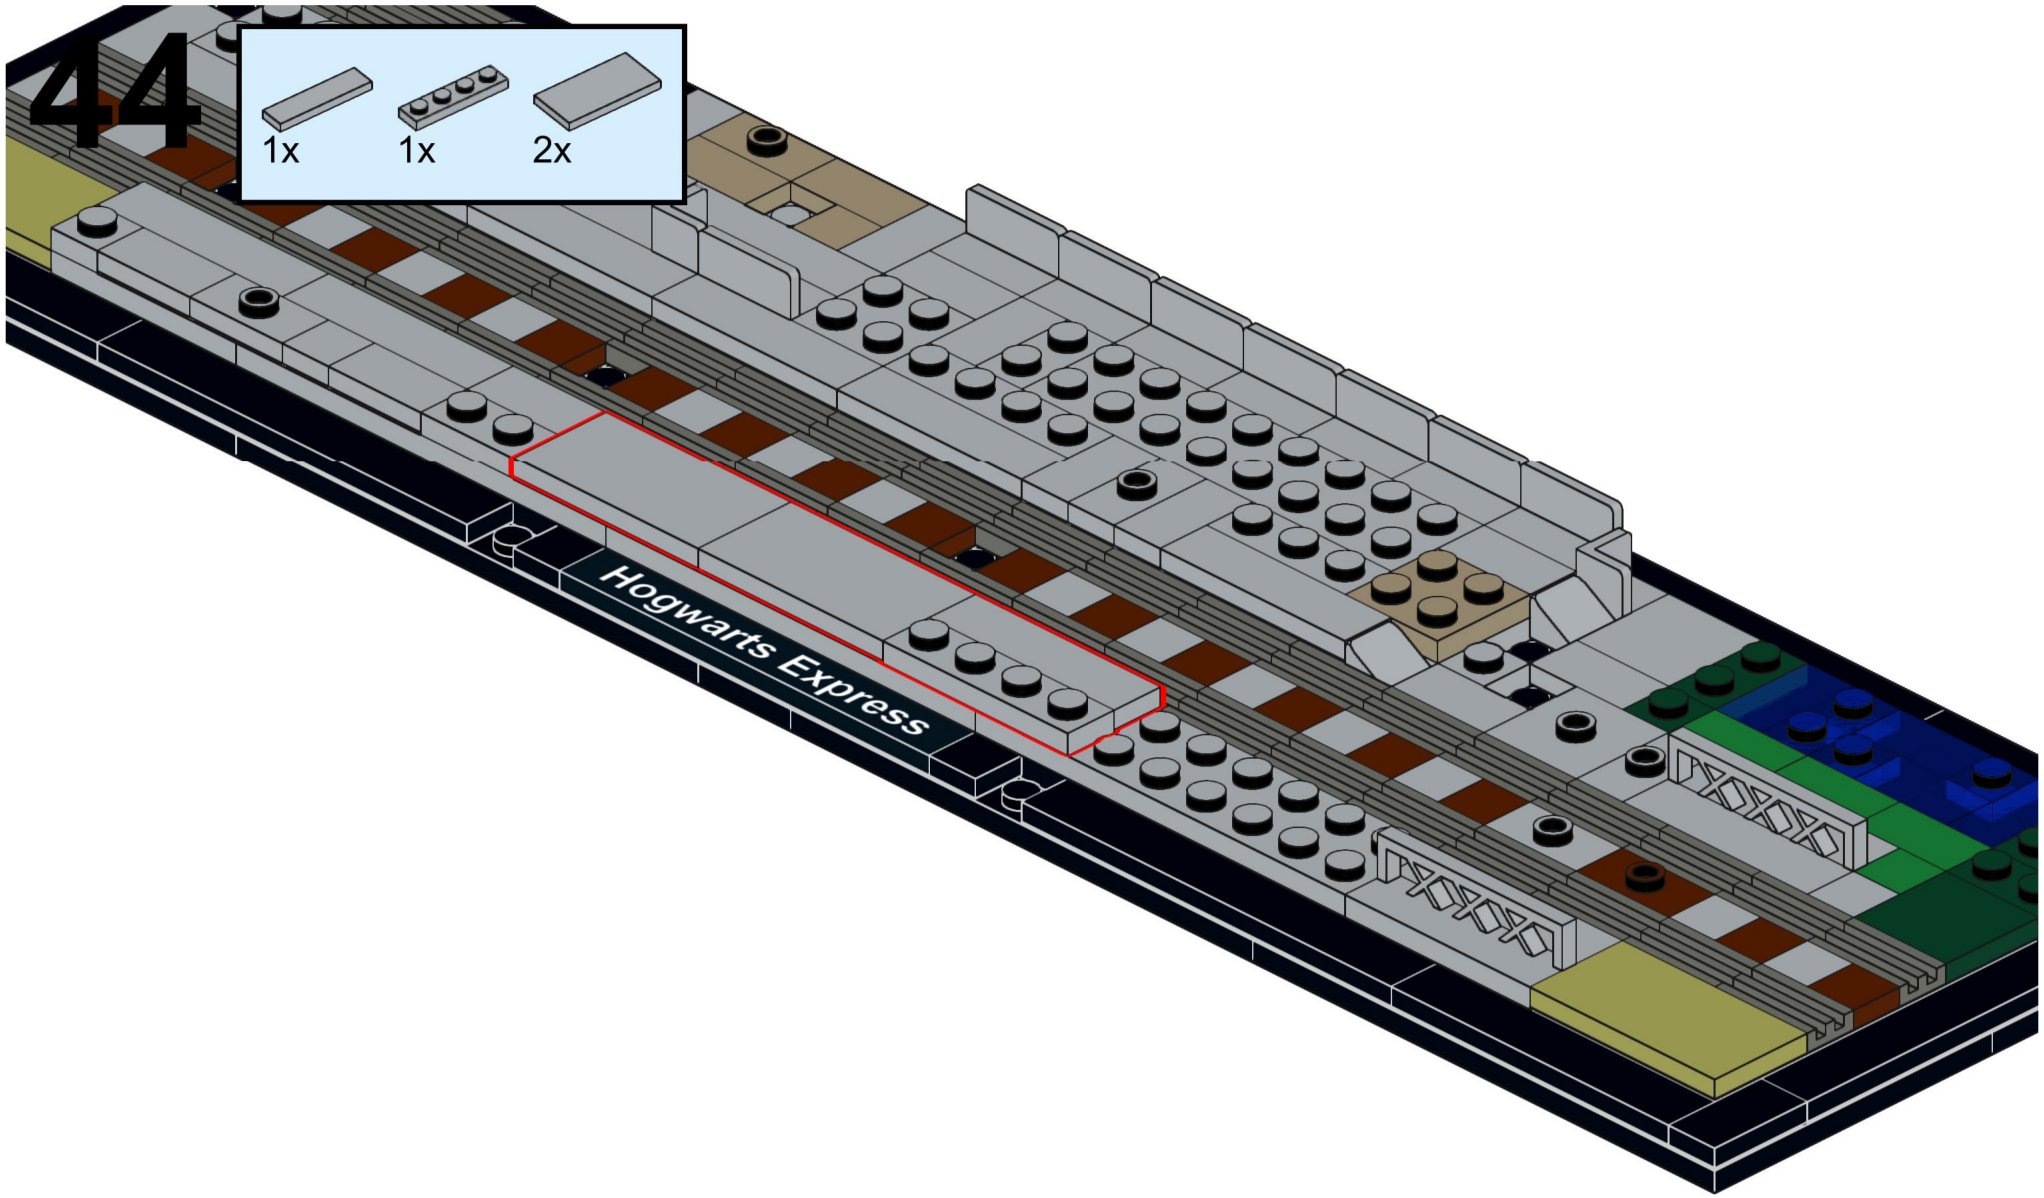

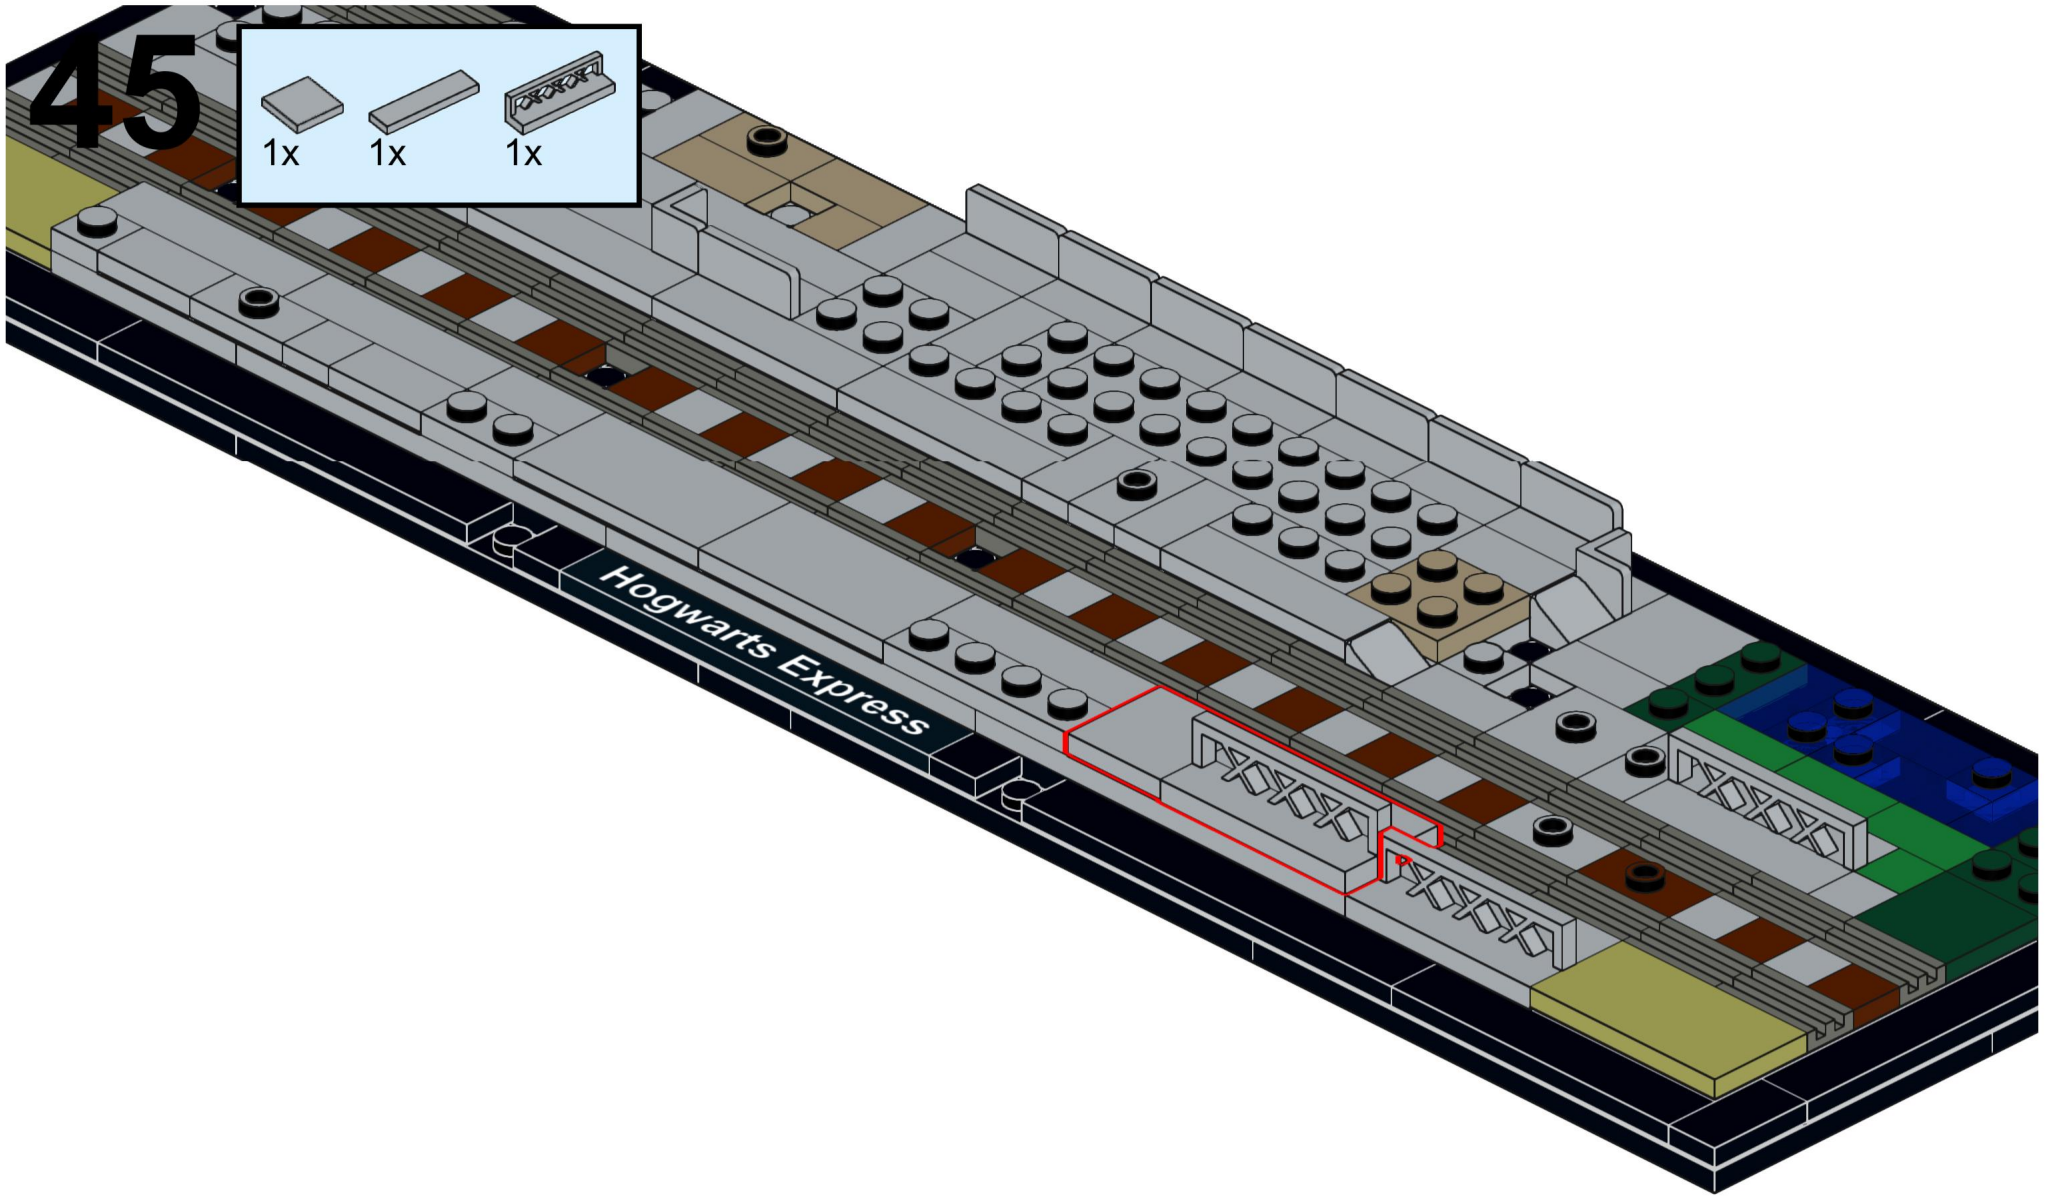

43

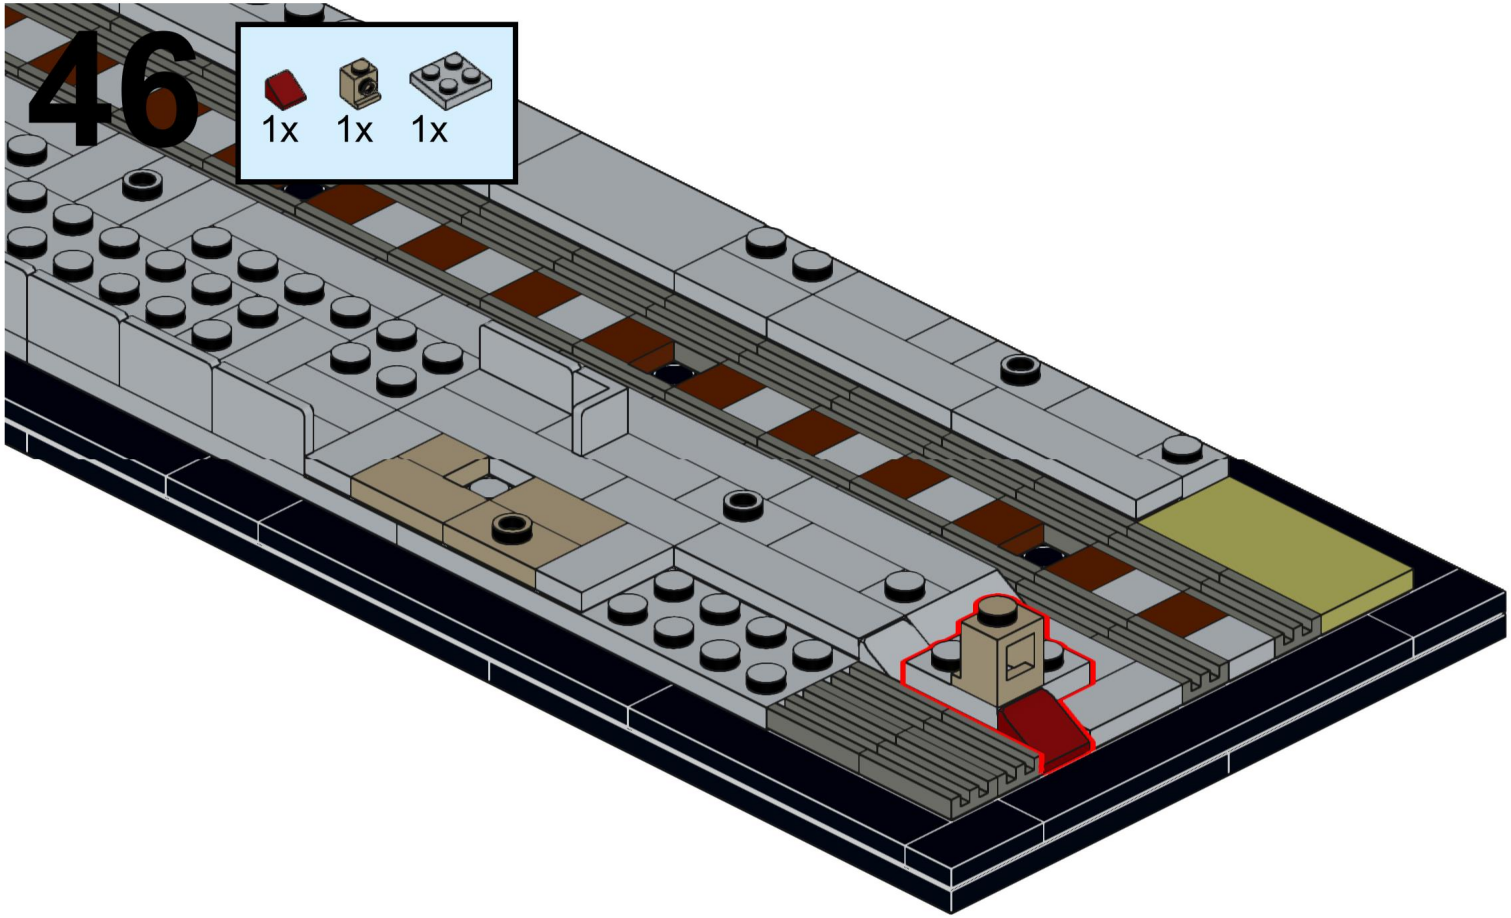

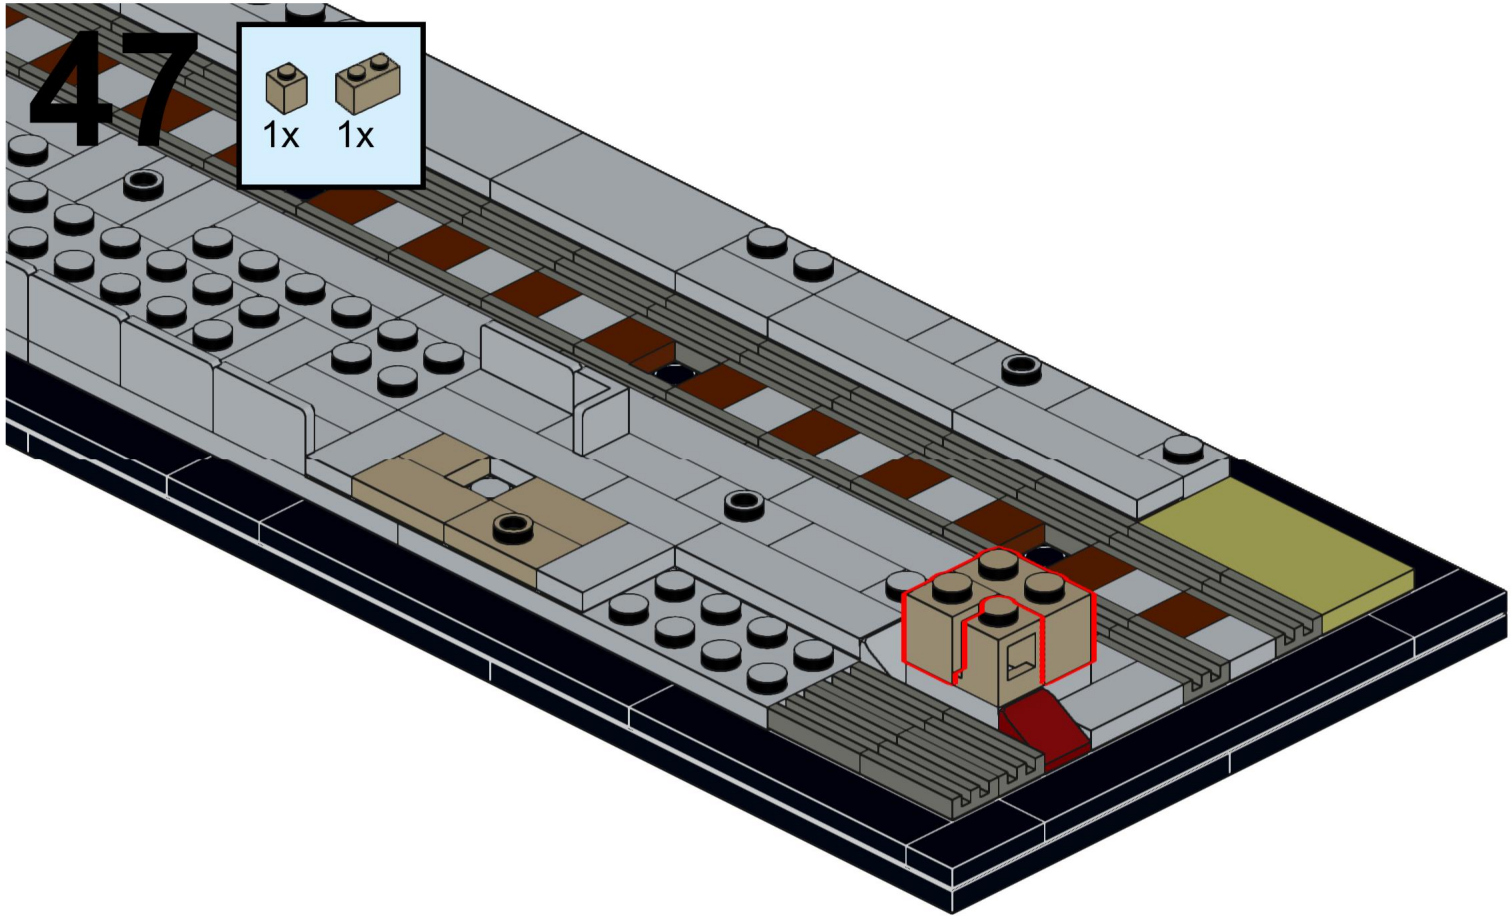

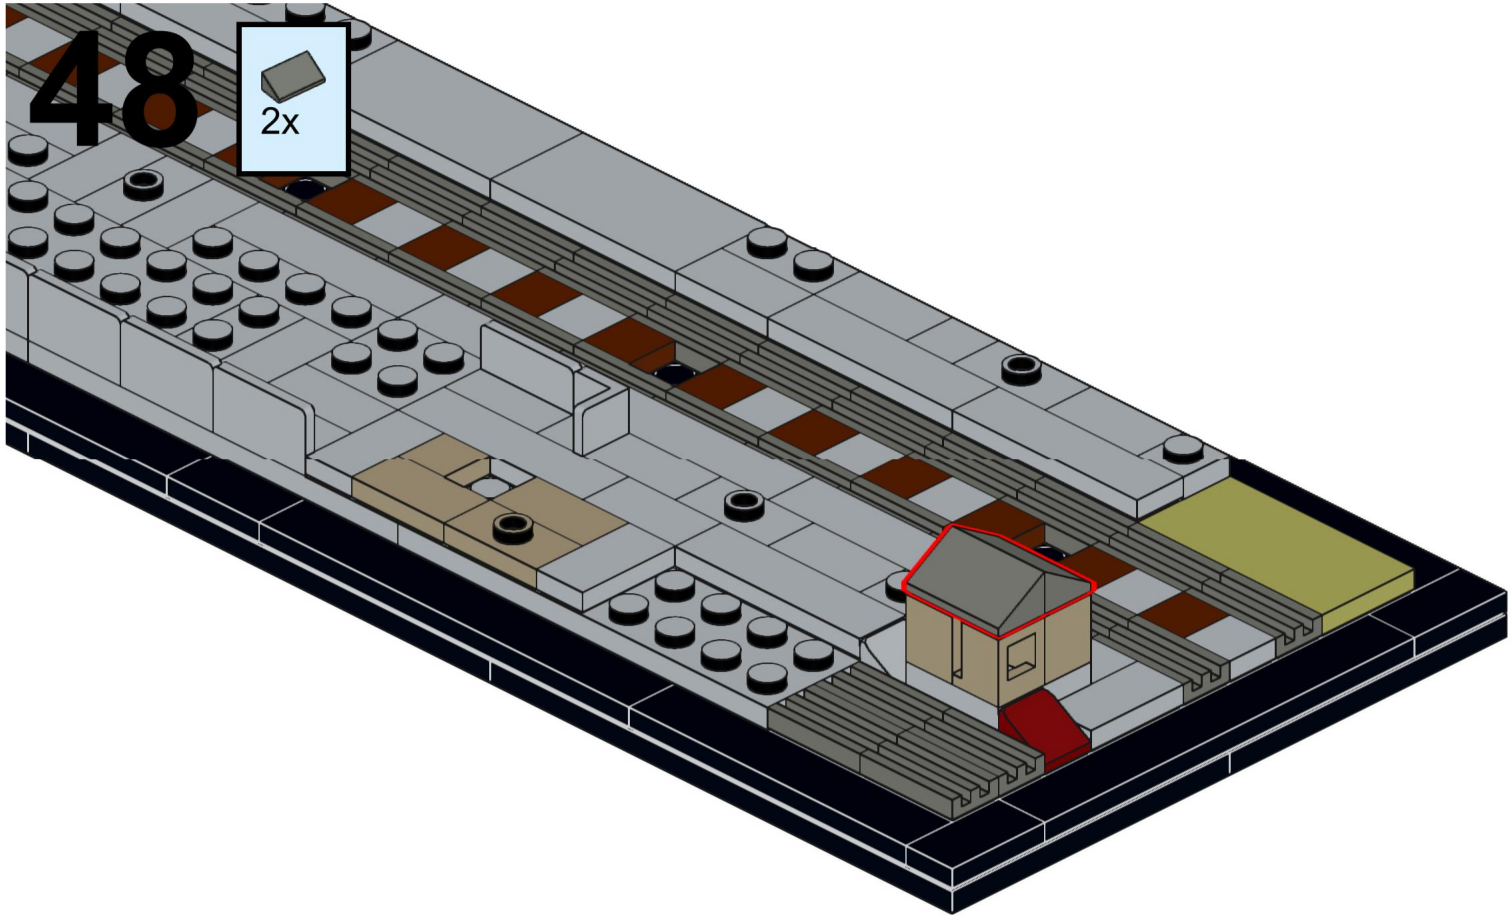

44
1x
1x
2x
Hogwarts Express

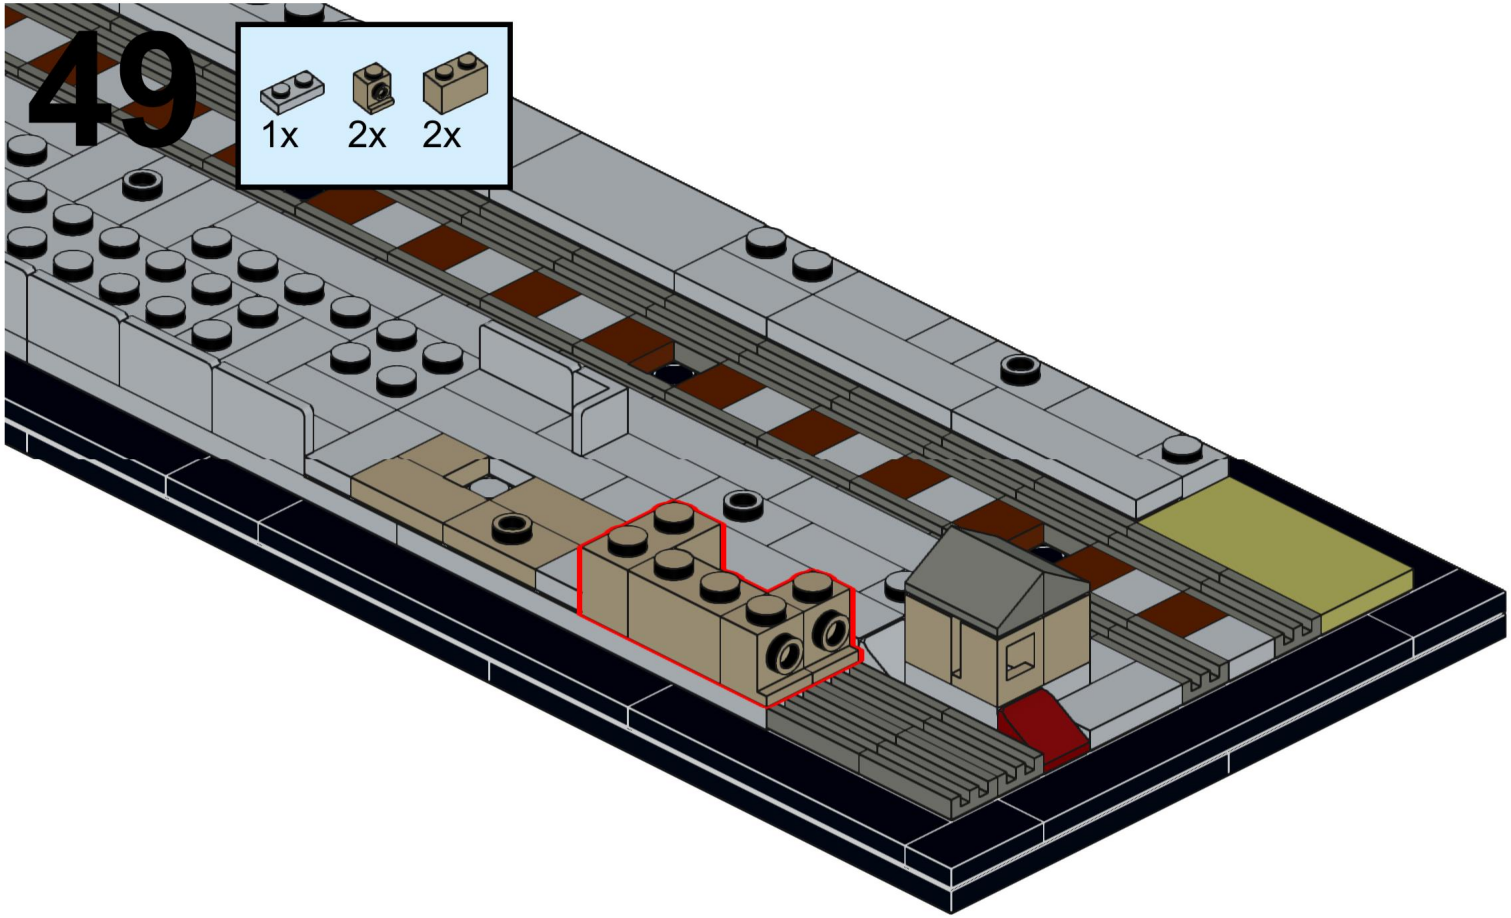

45

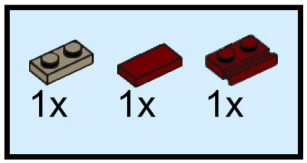

46
1x
1x
1x

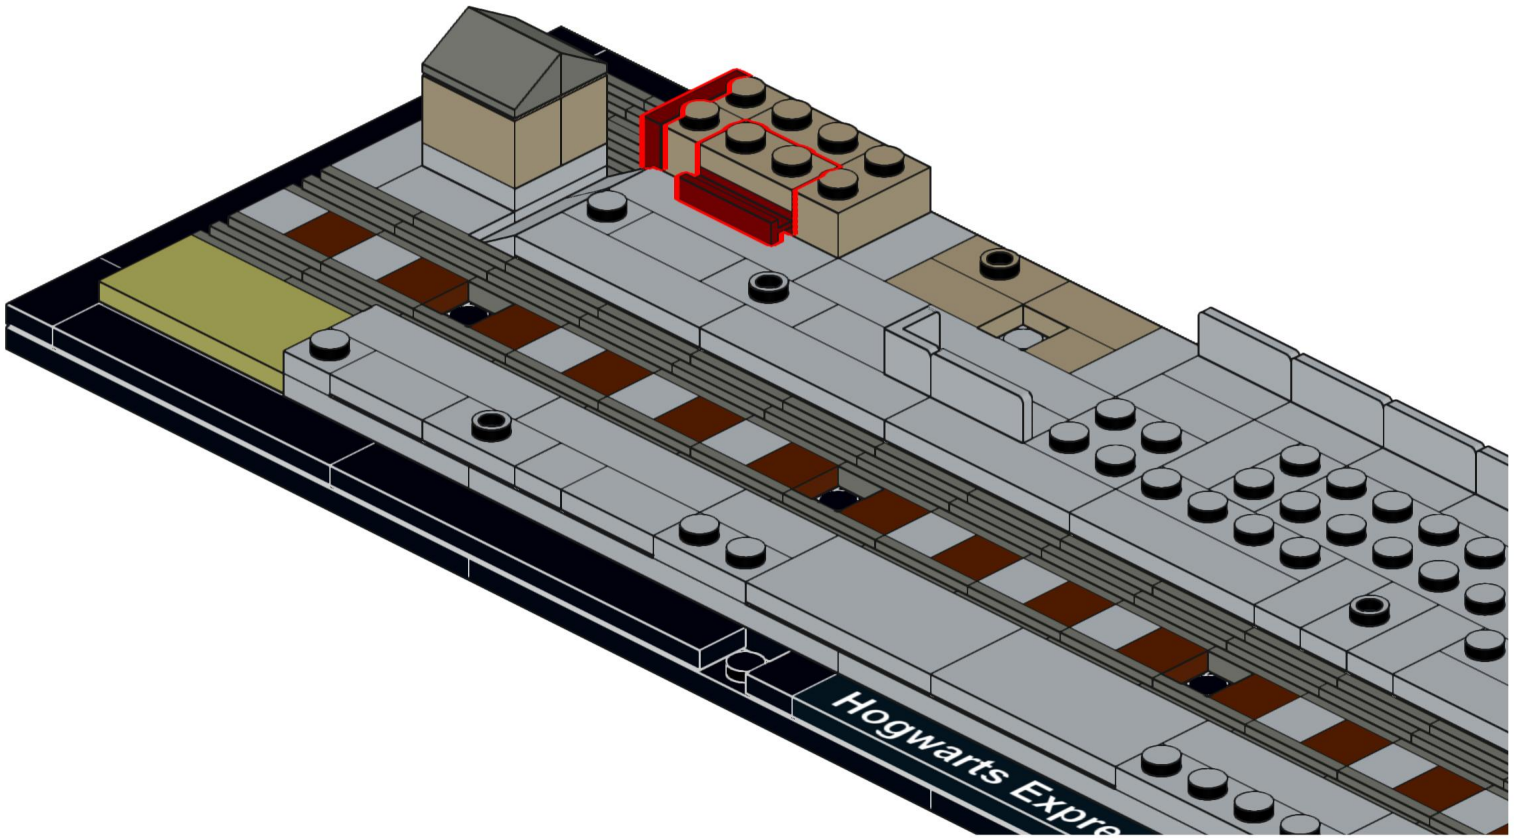

47
1x
1x

48
2x

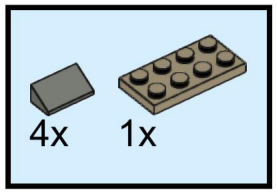

49
1x
2x
2x

50

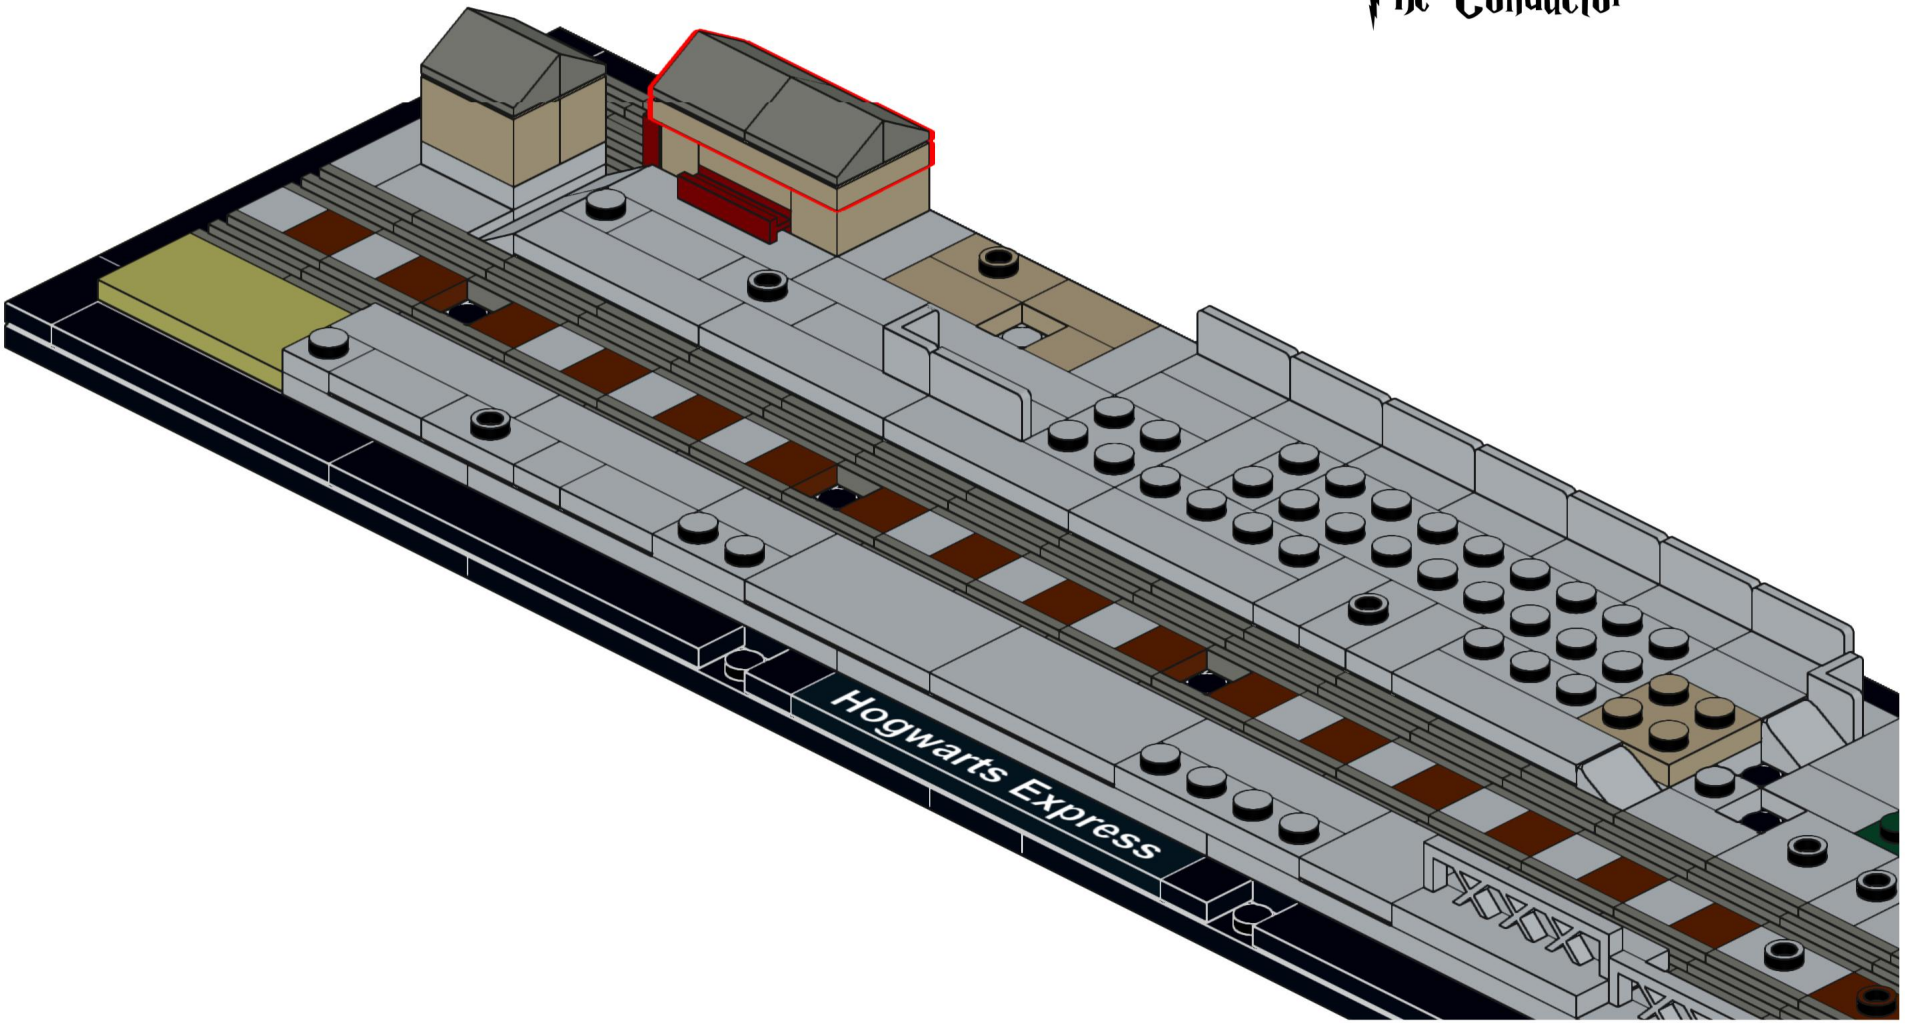

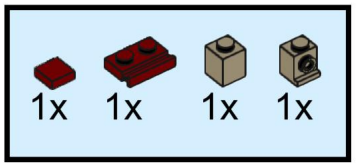

51

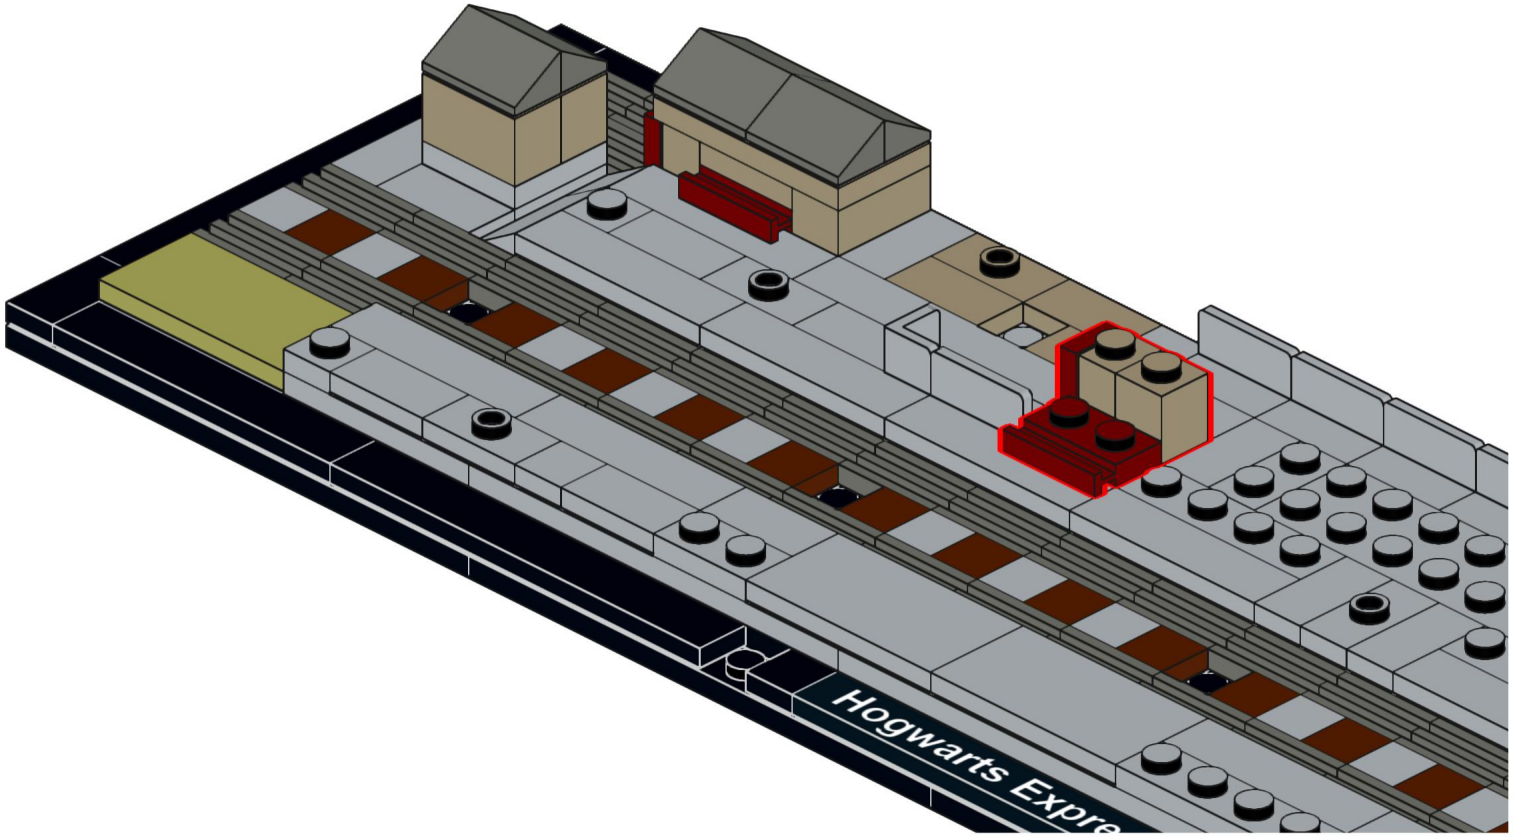

"Hogsmeade, next stop!"
The Conductor

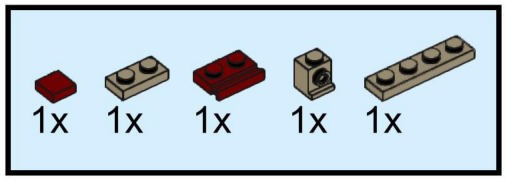

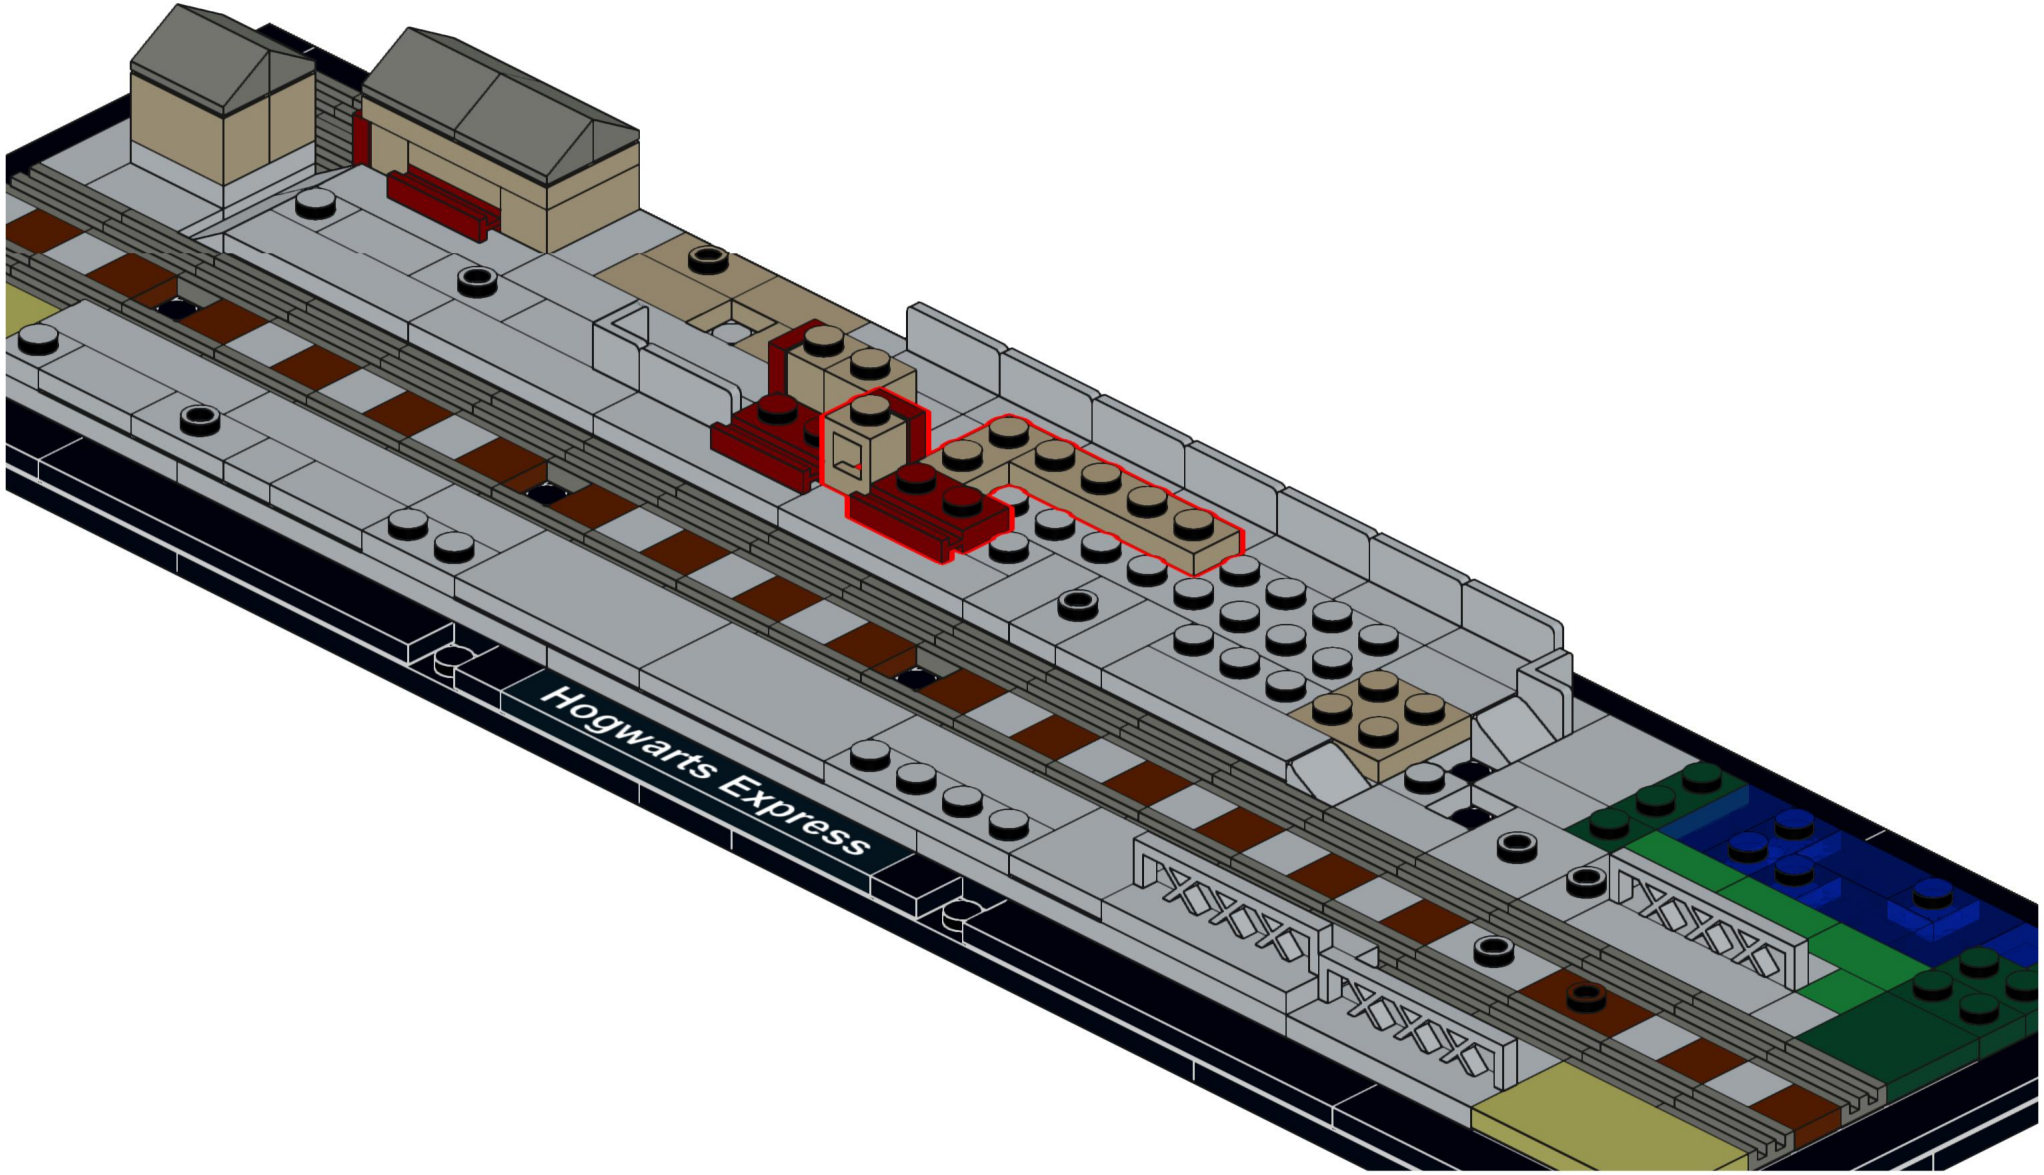

52

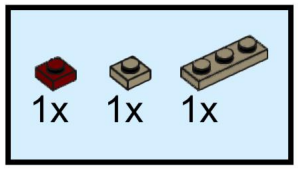

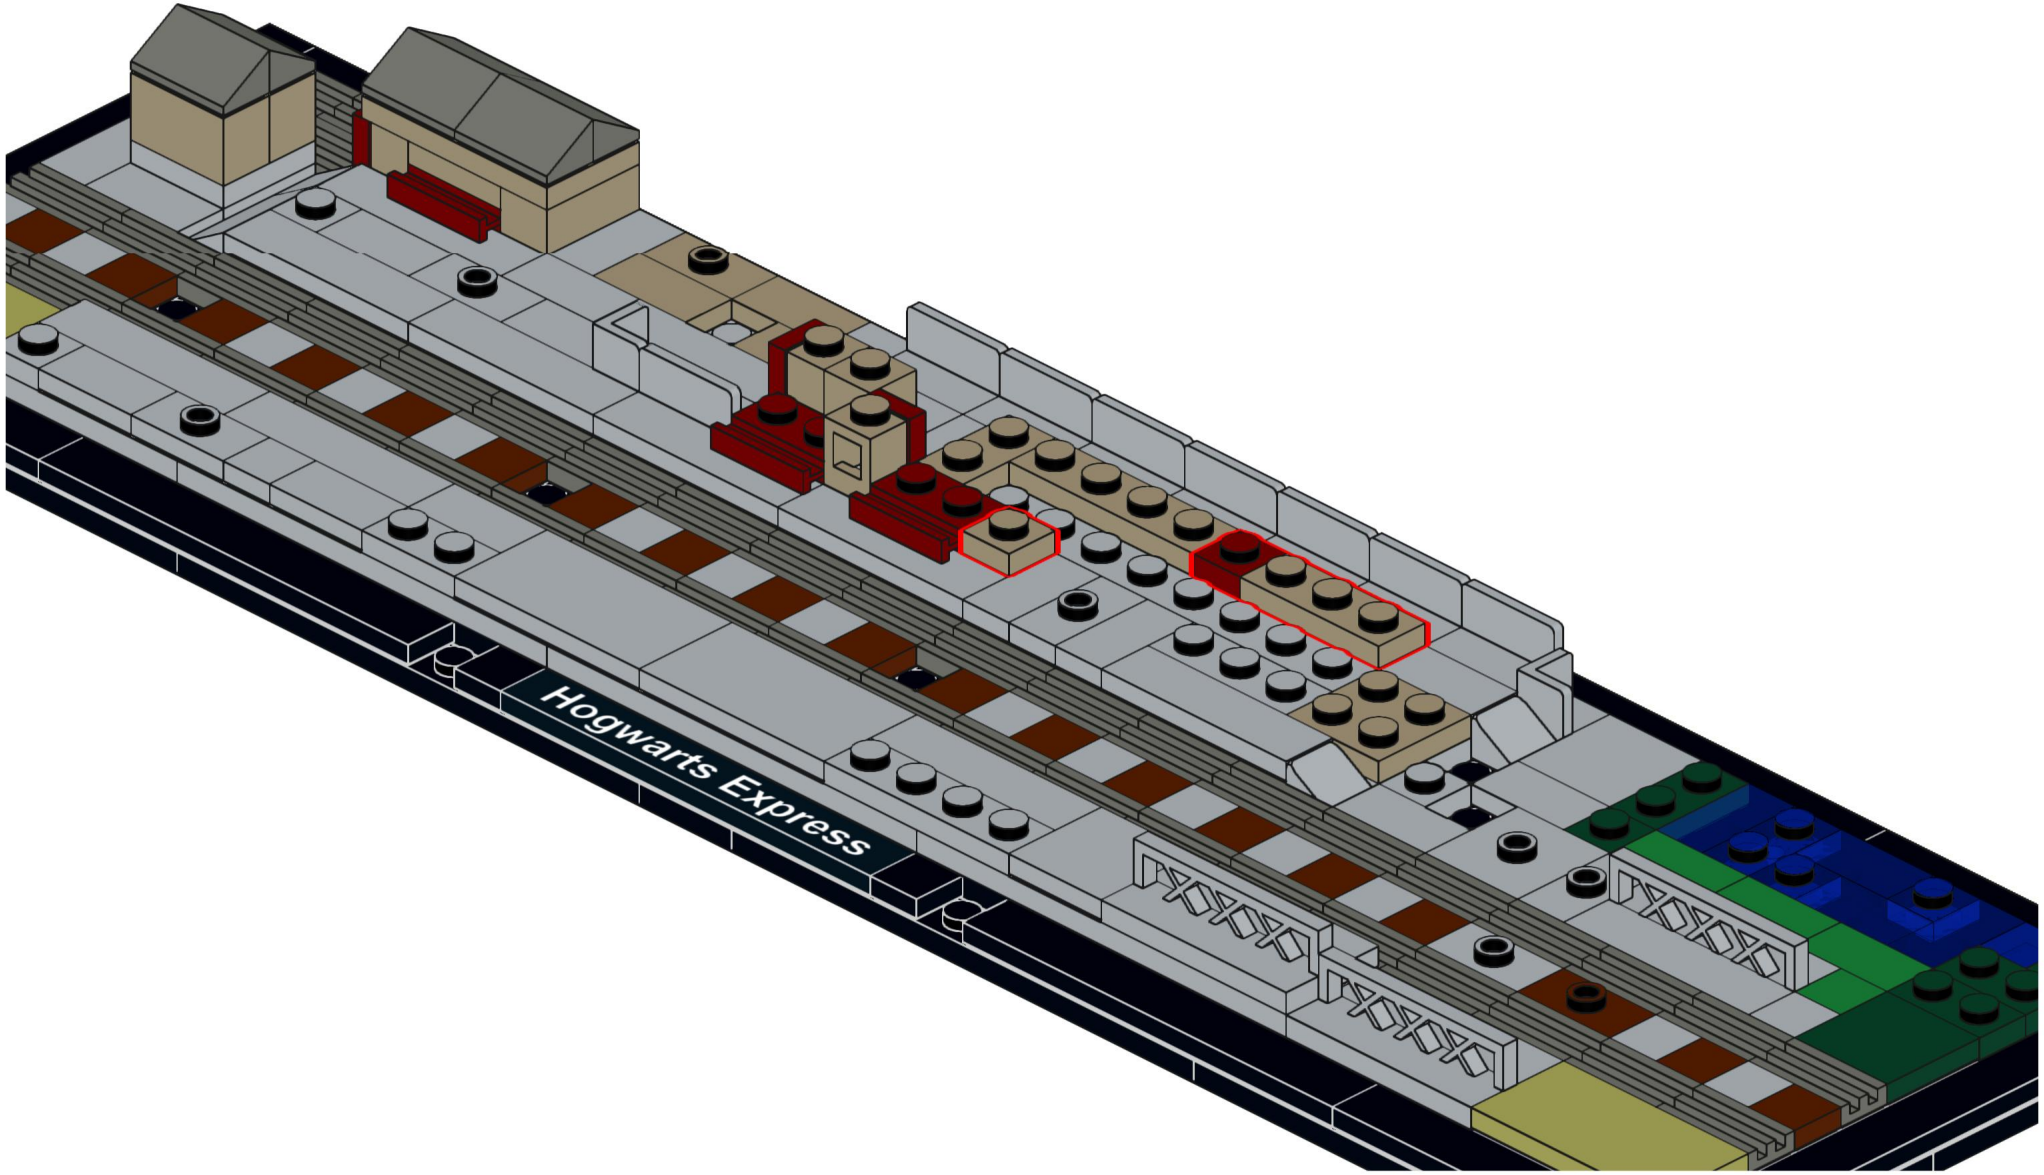

53

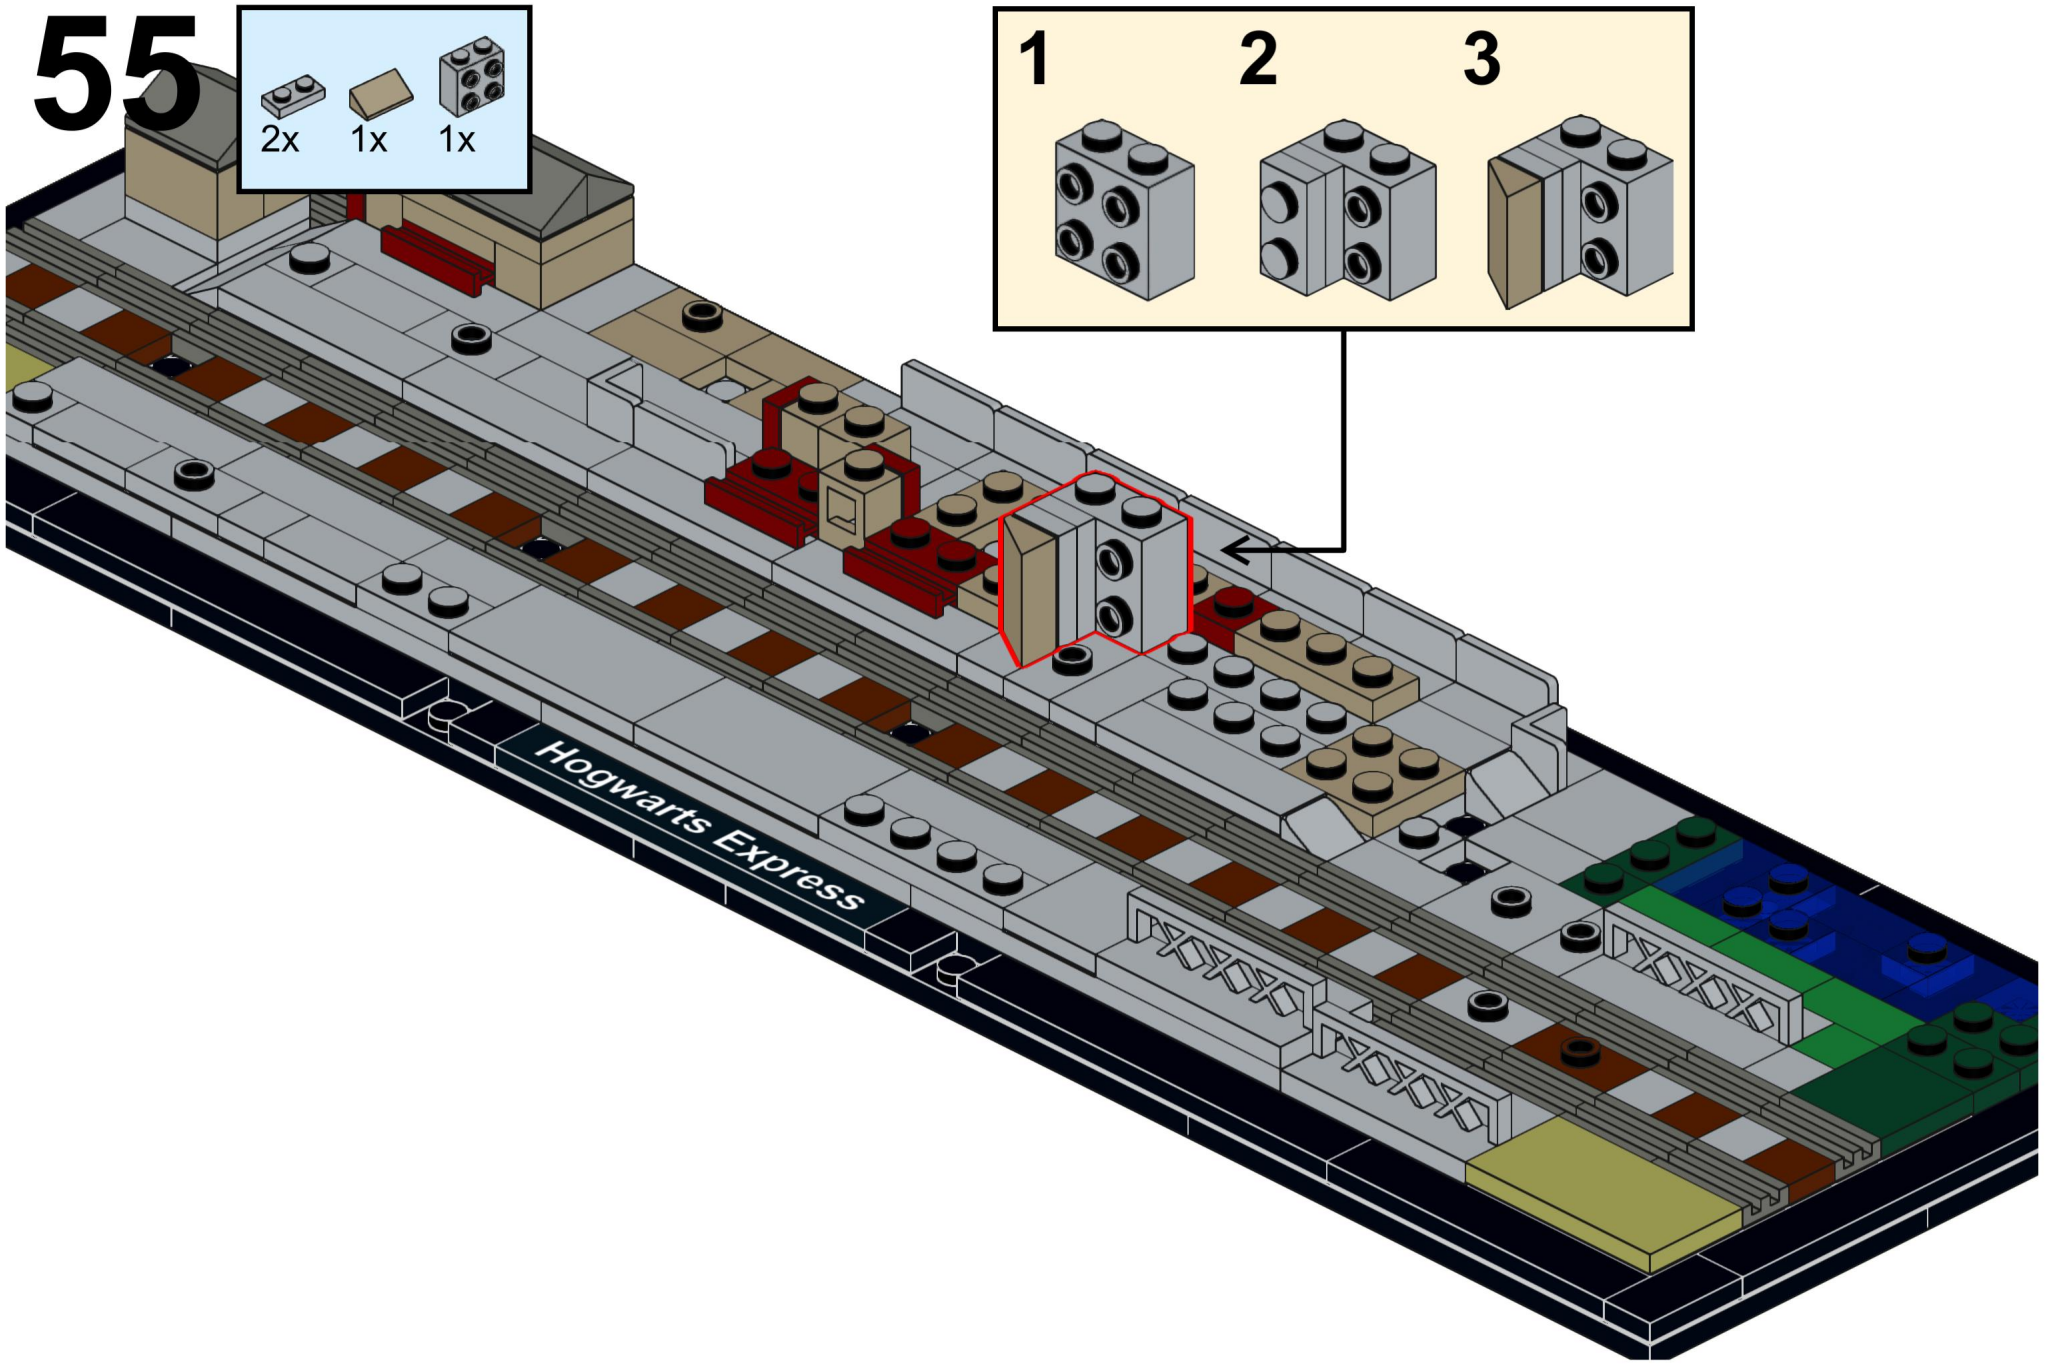

54

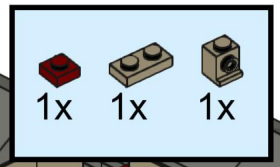

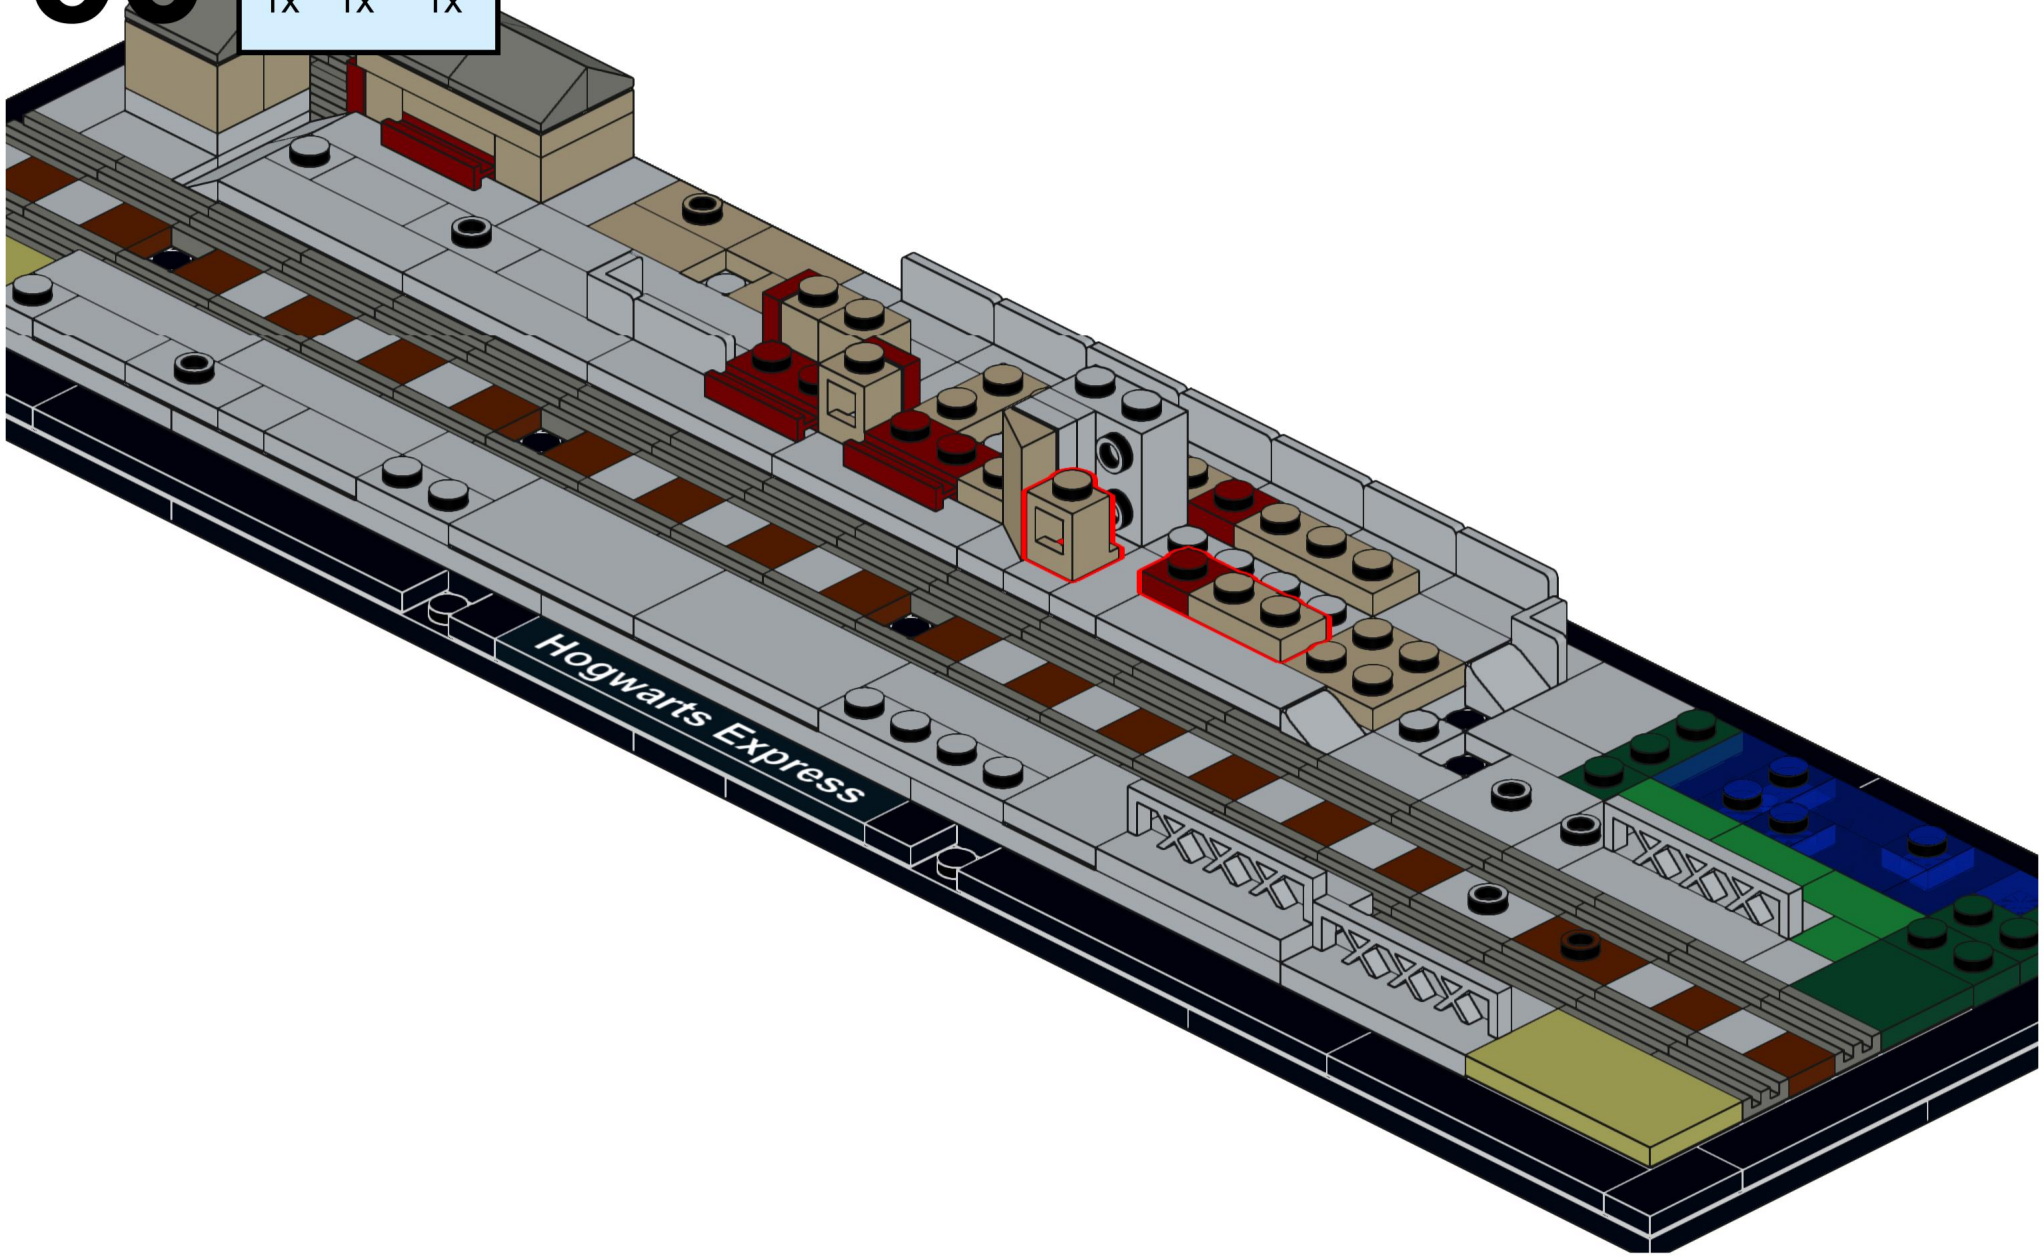

55

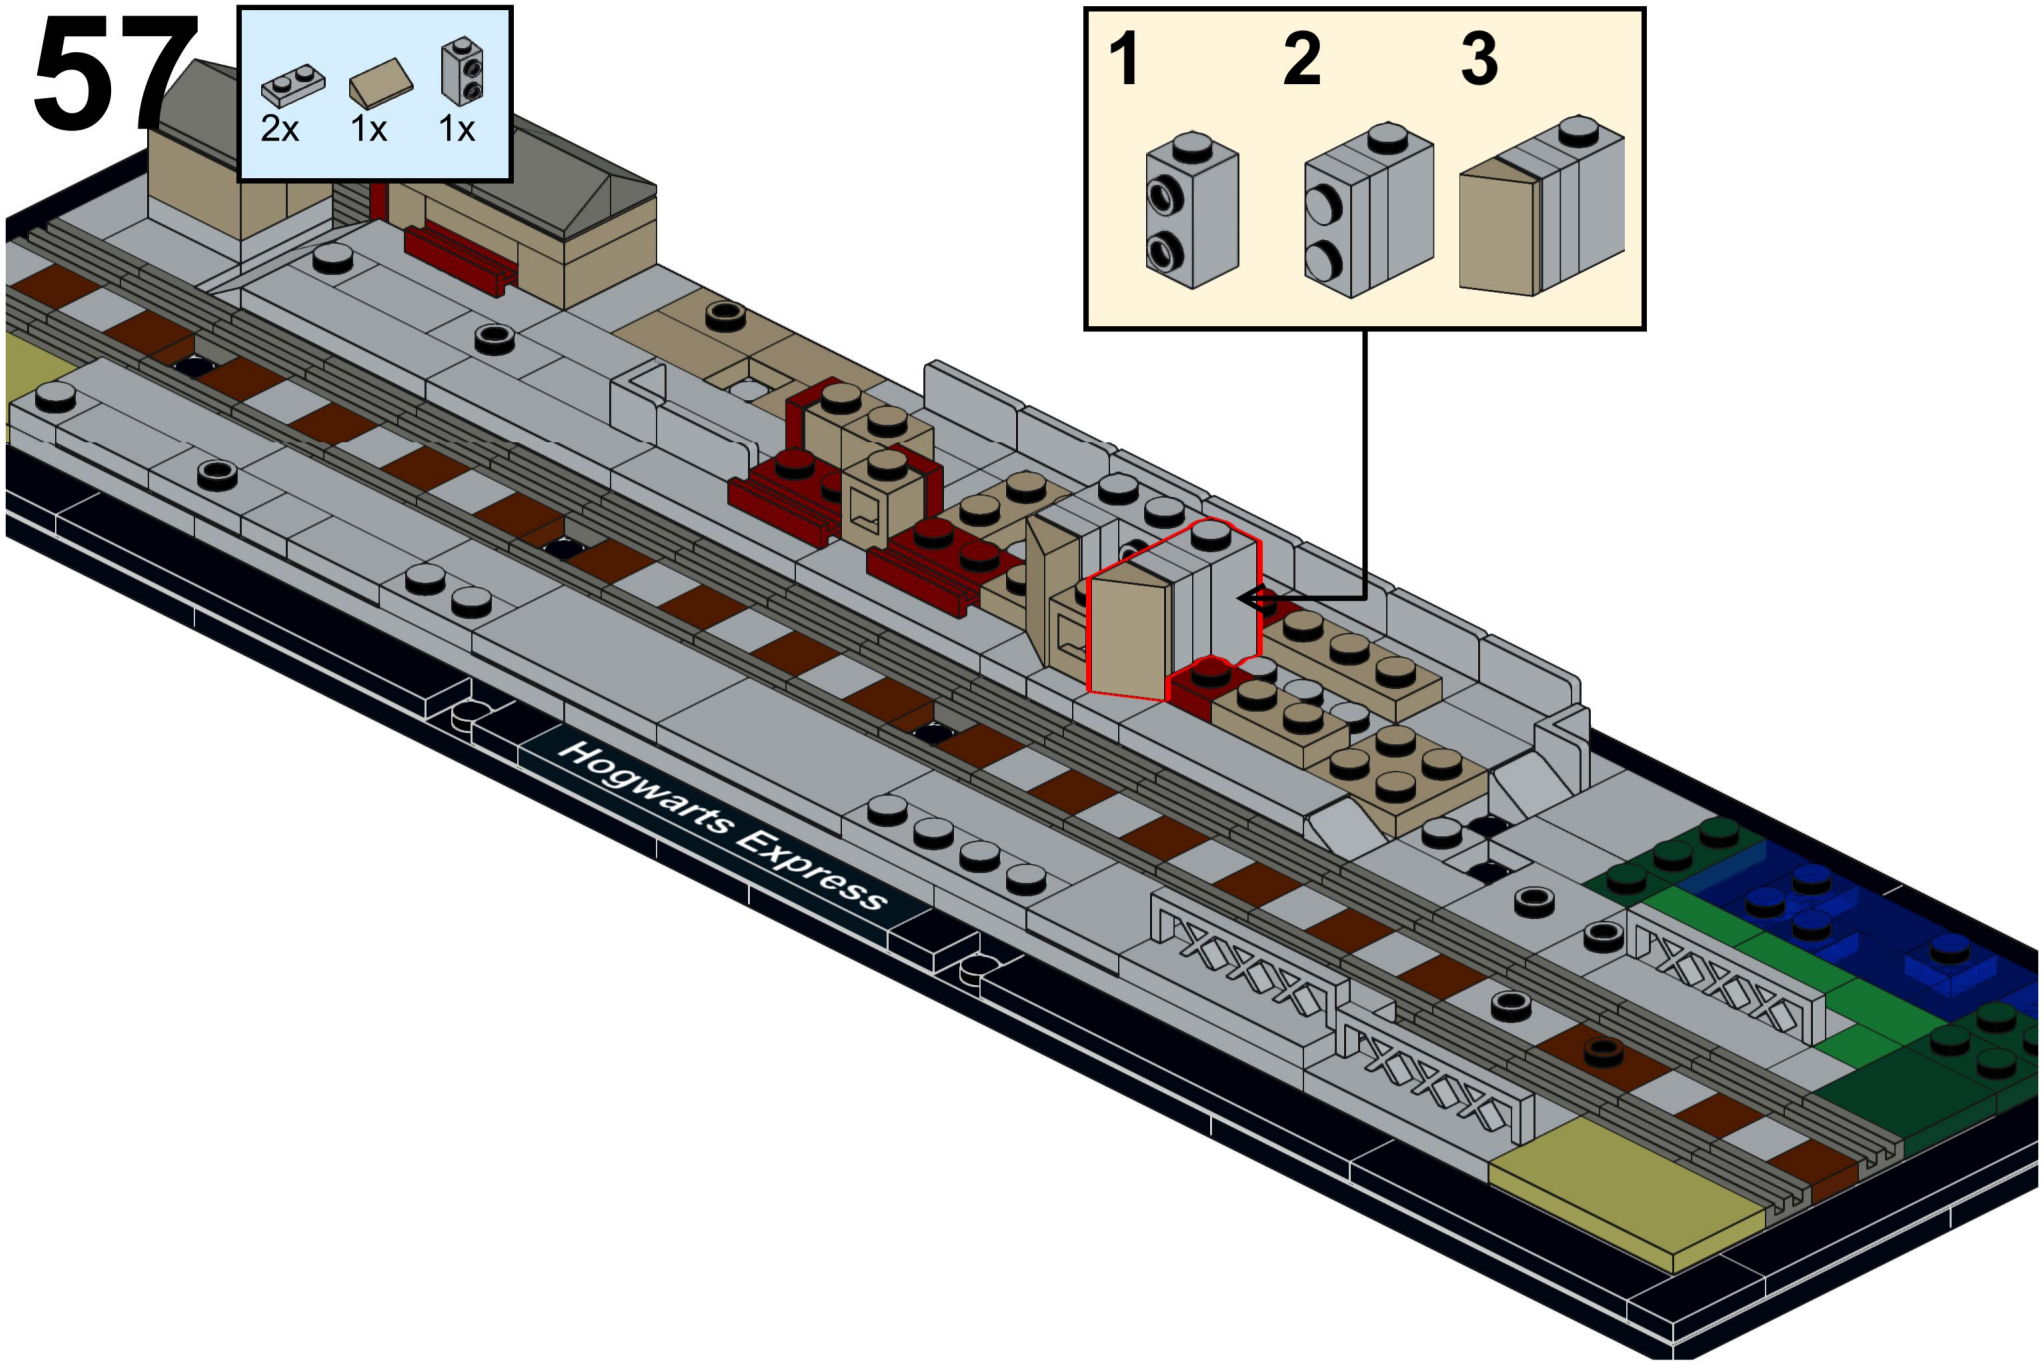

56

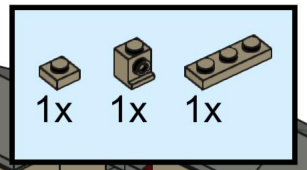

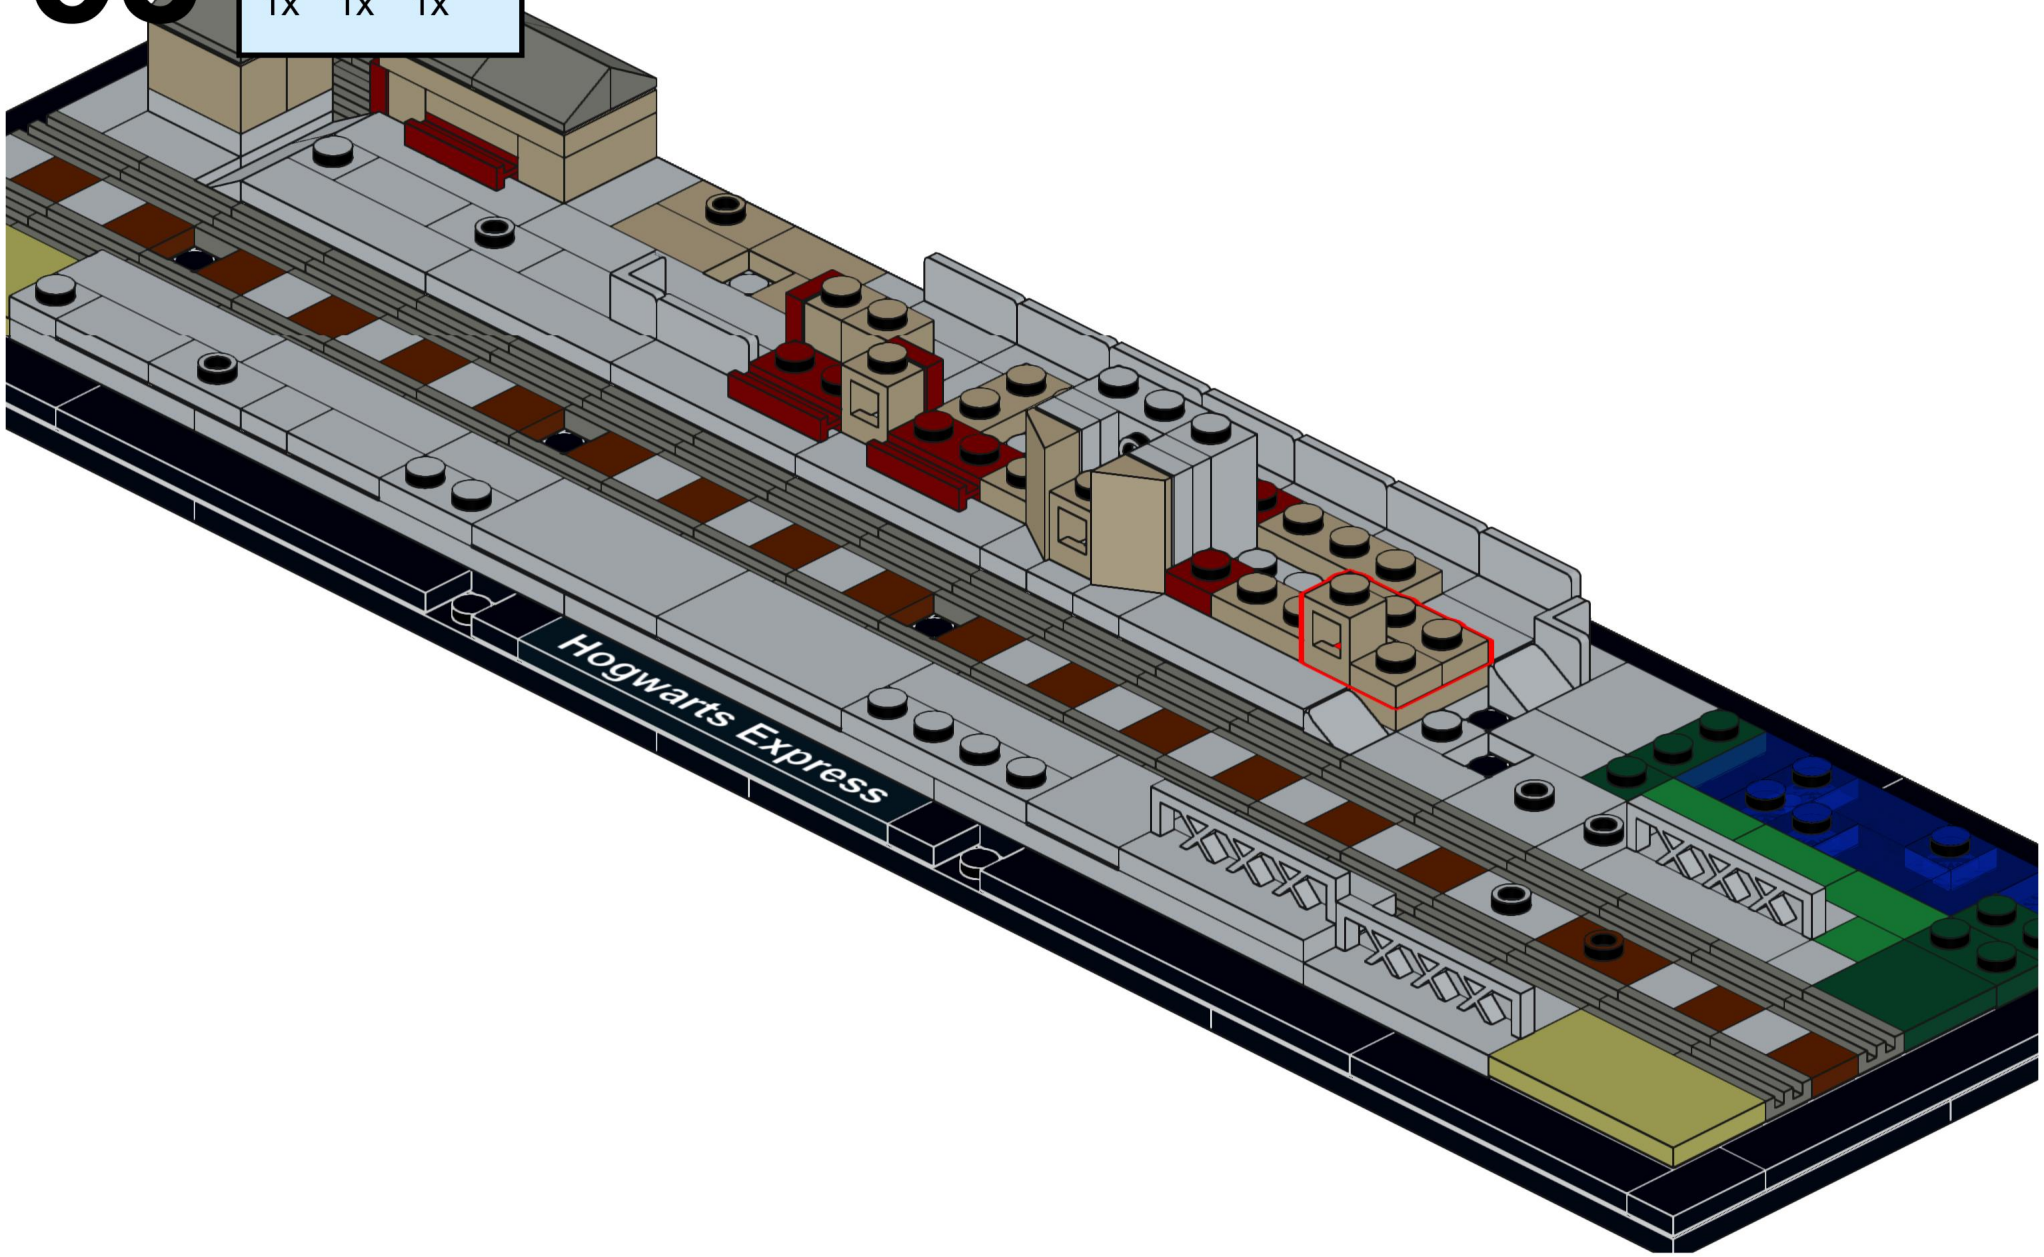

57

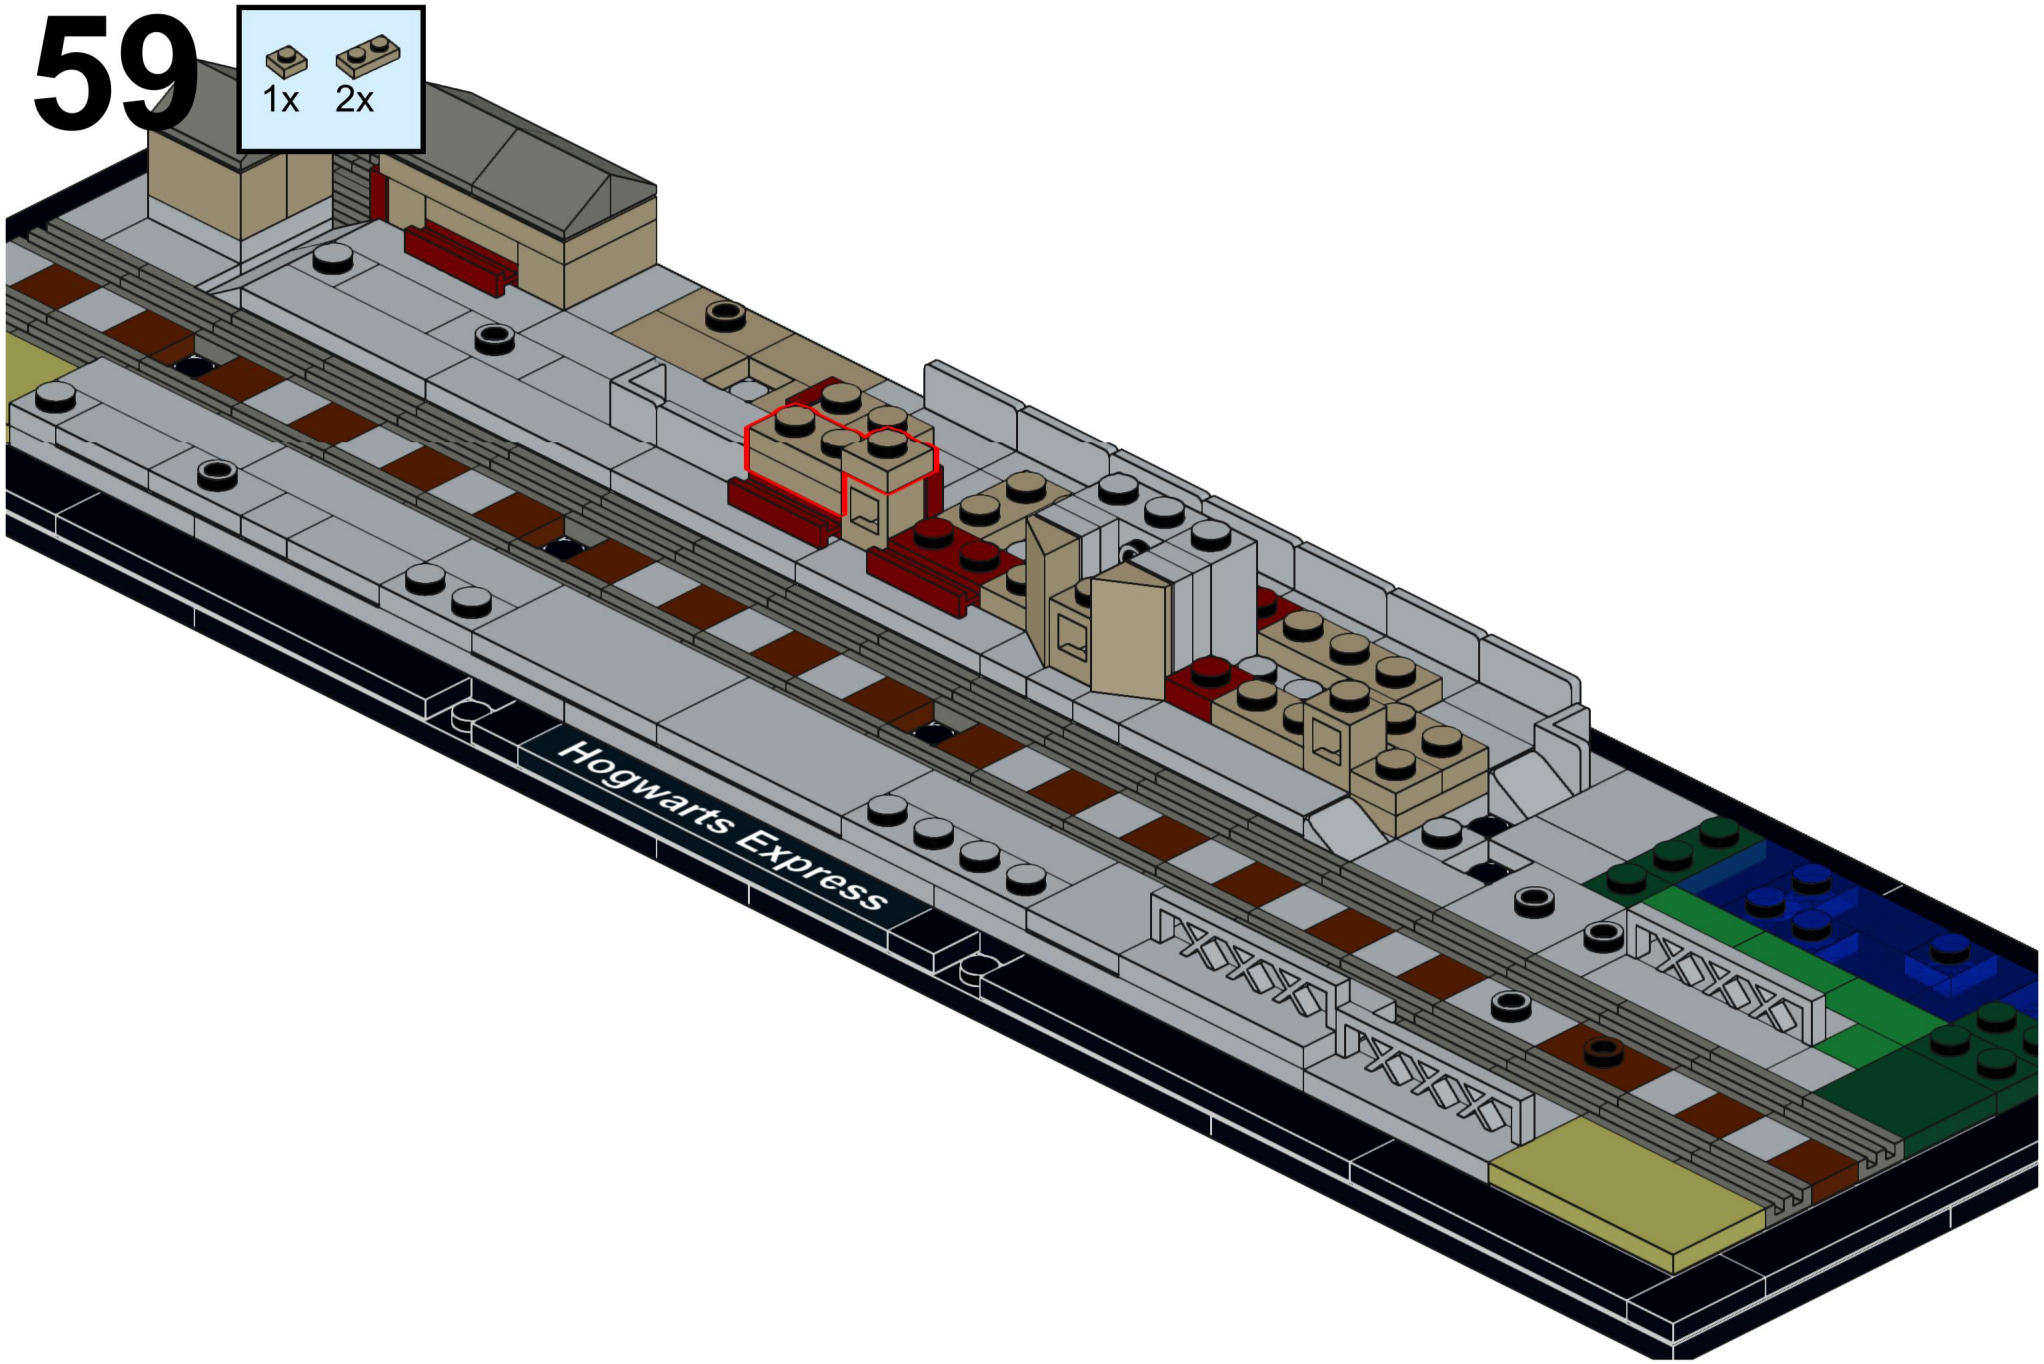

58

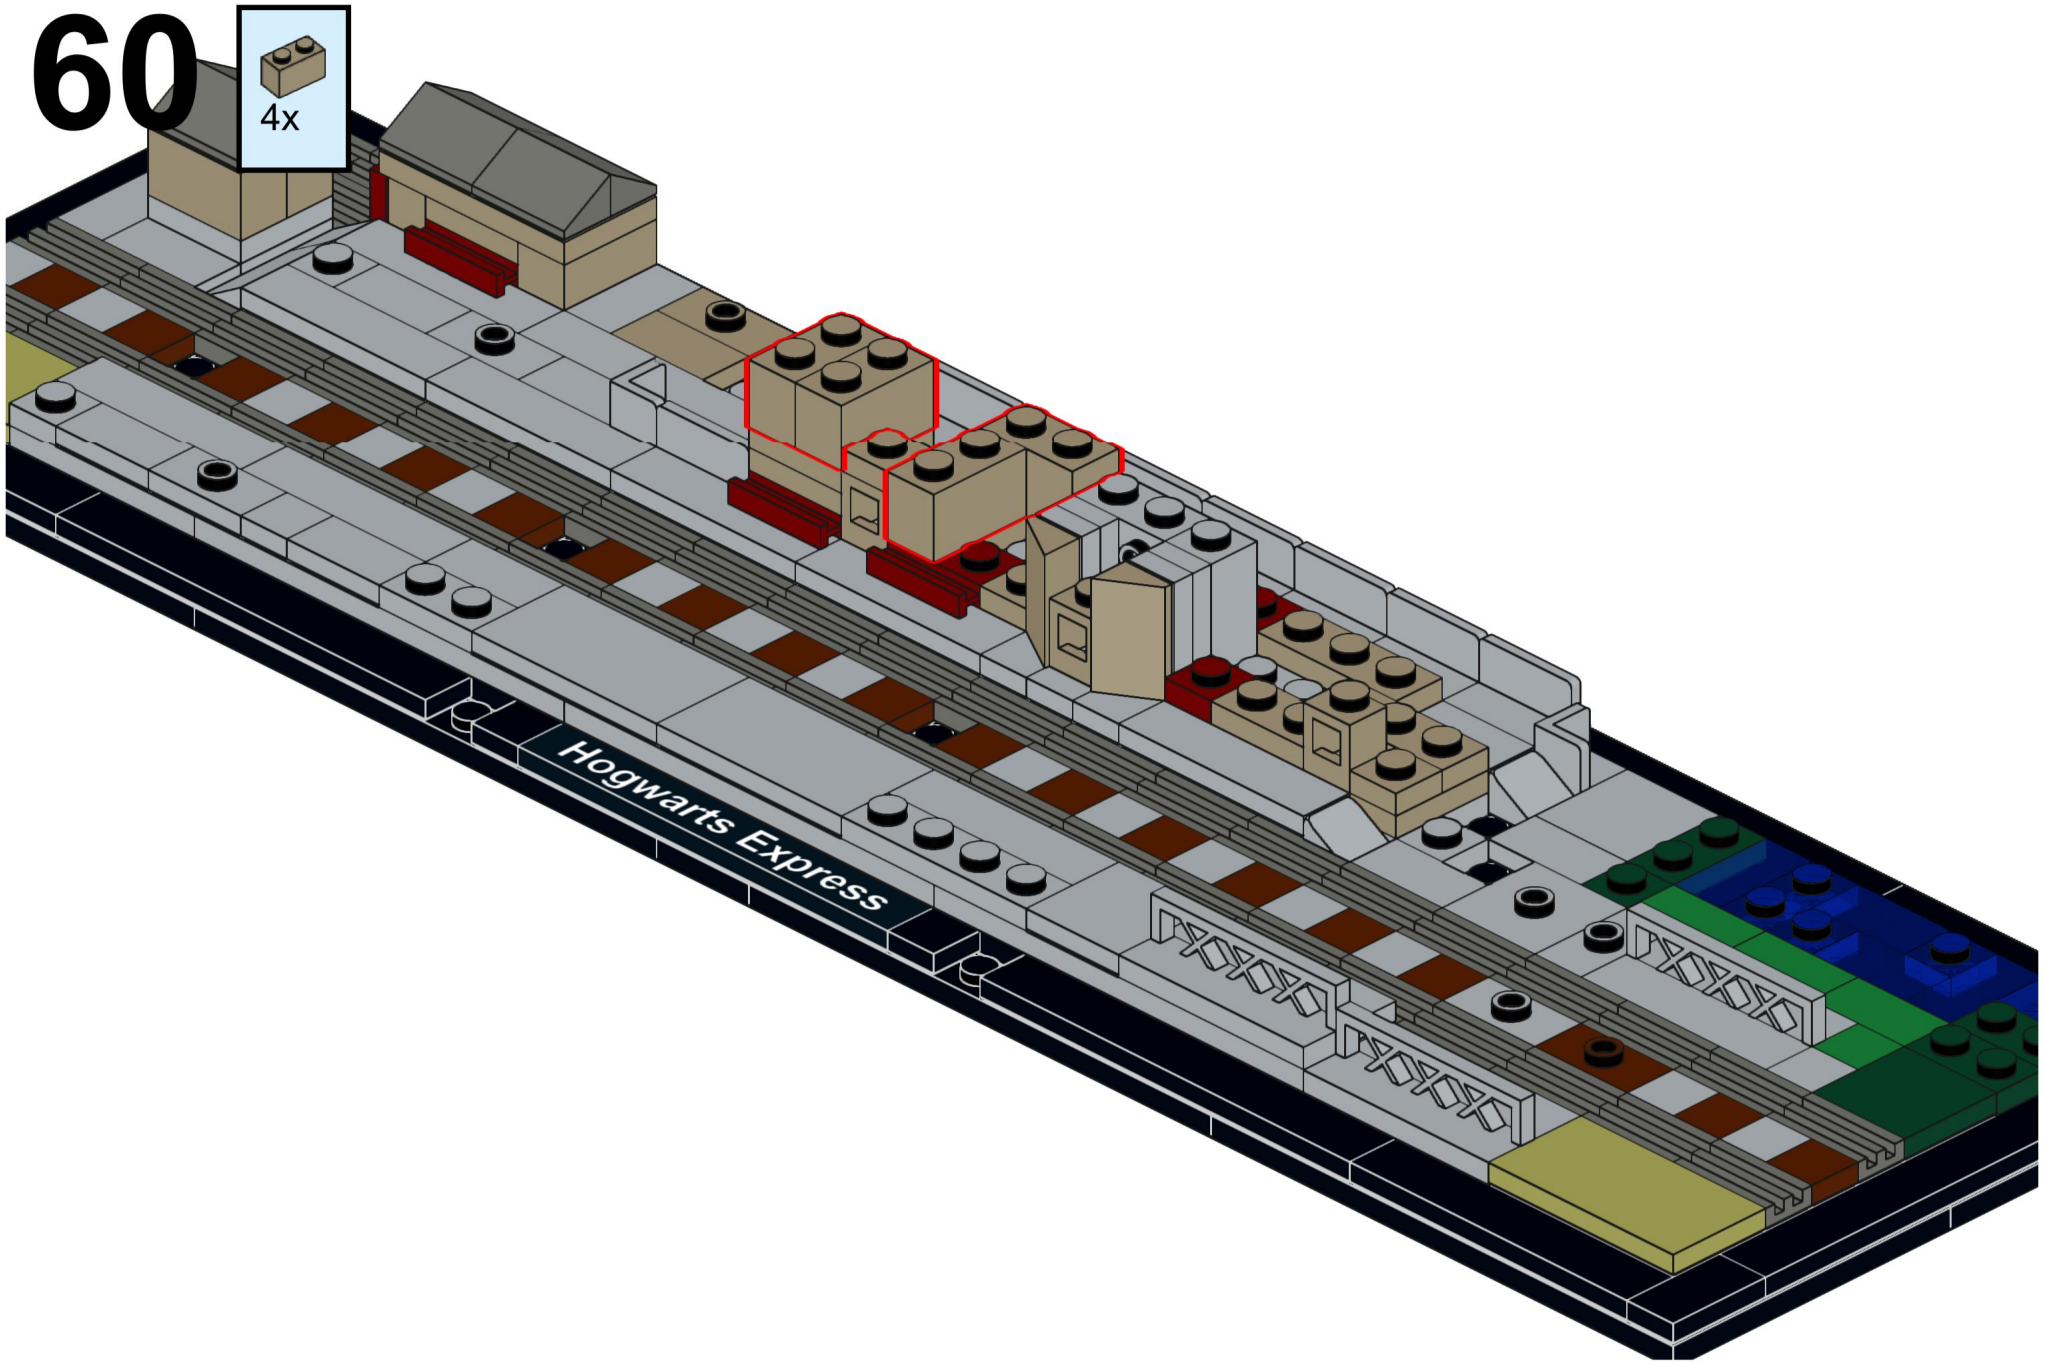

59

1x 2x

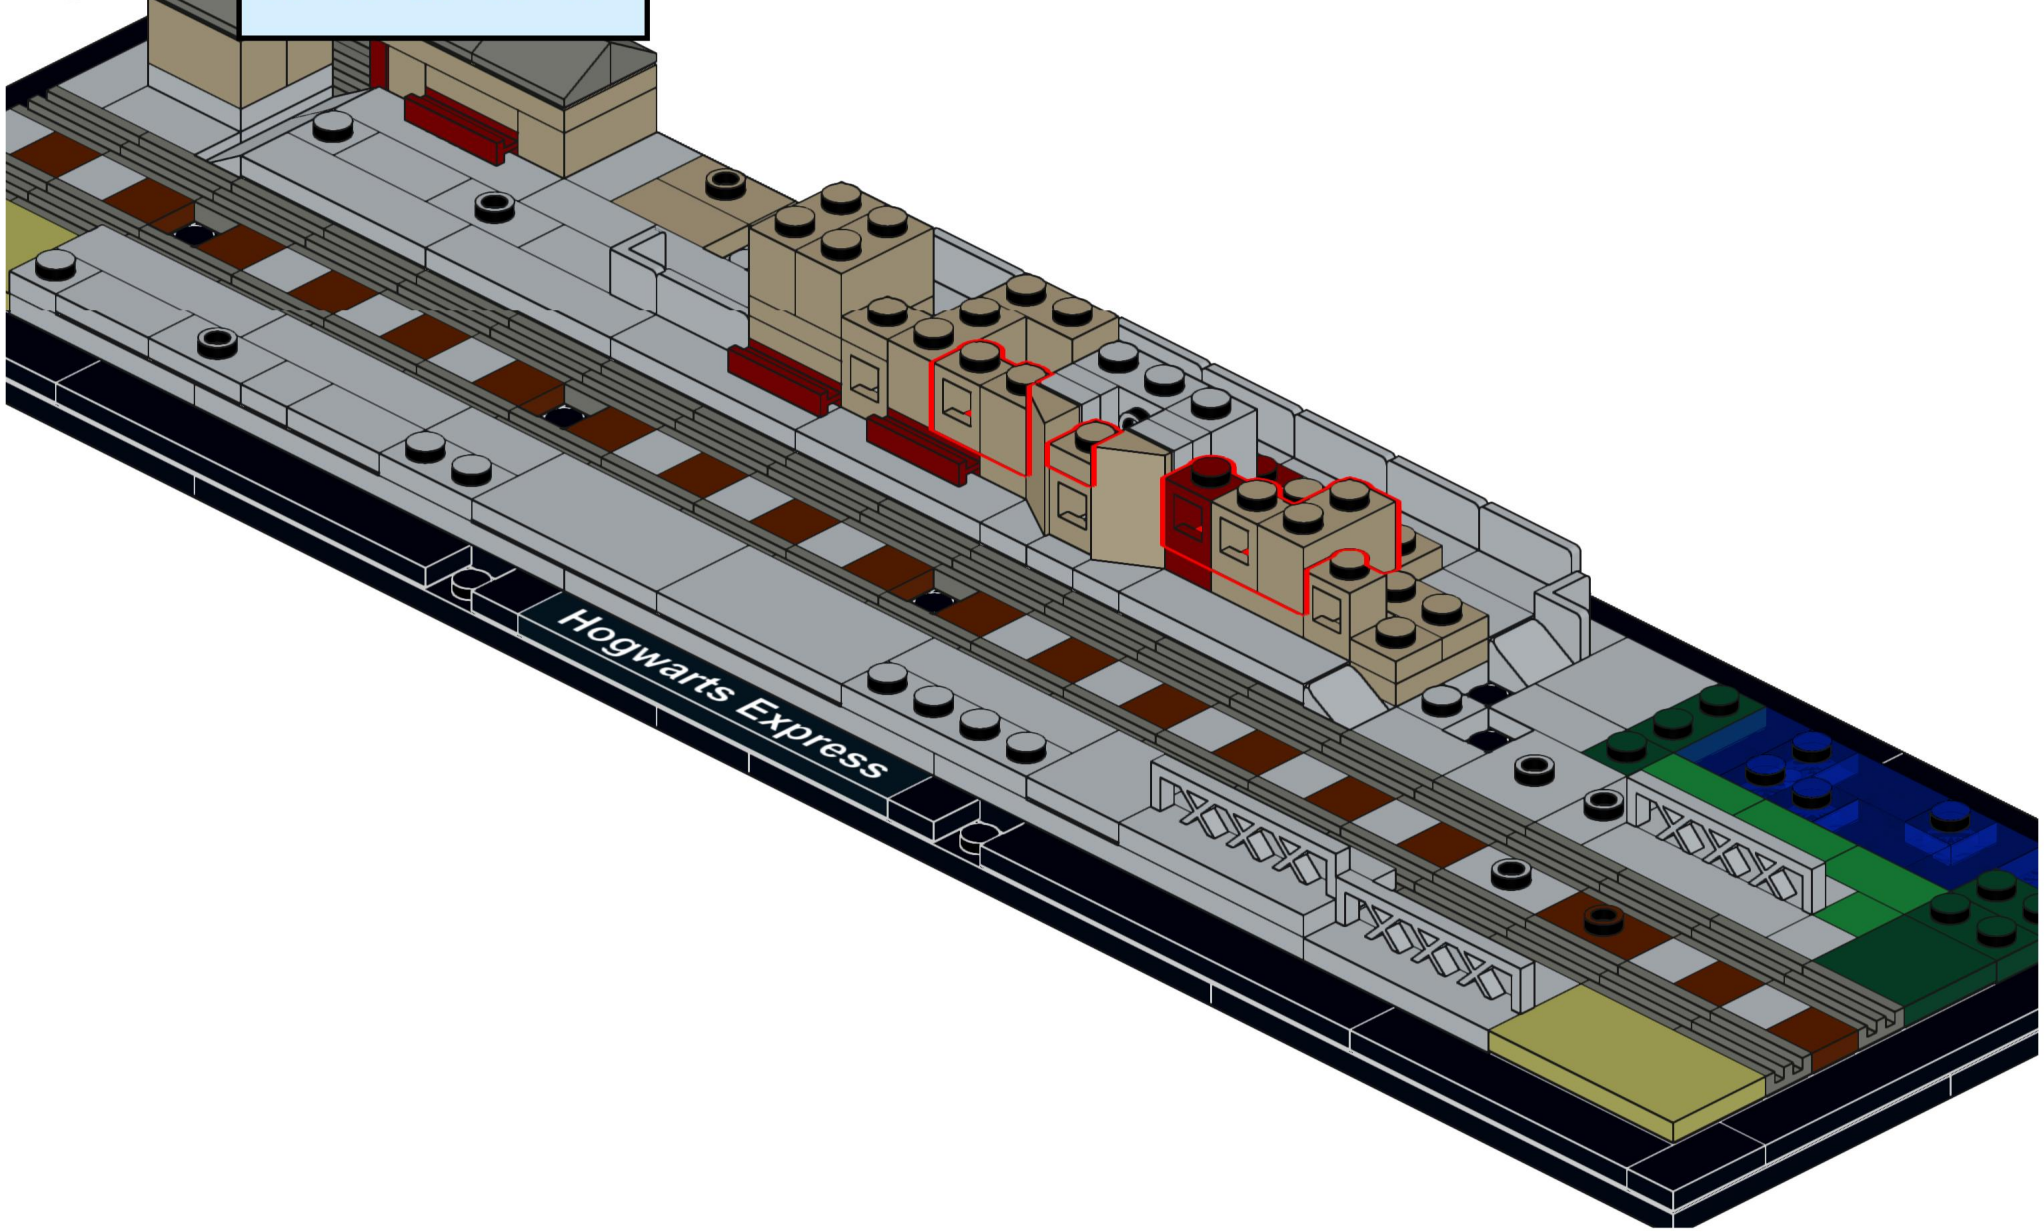

60

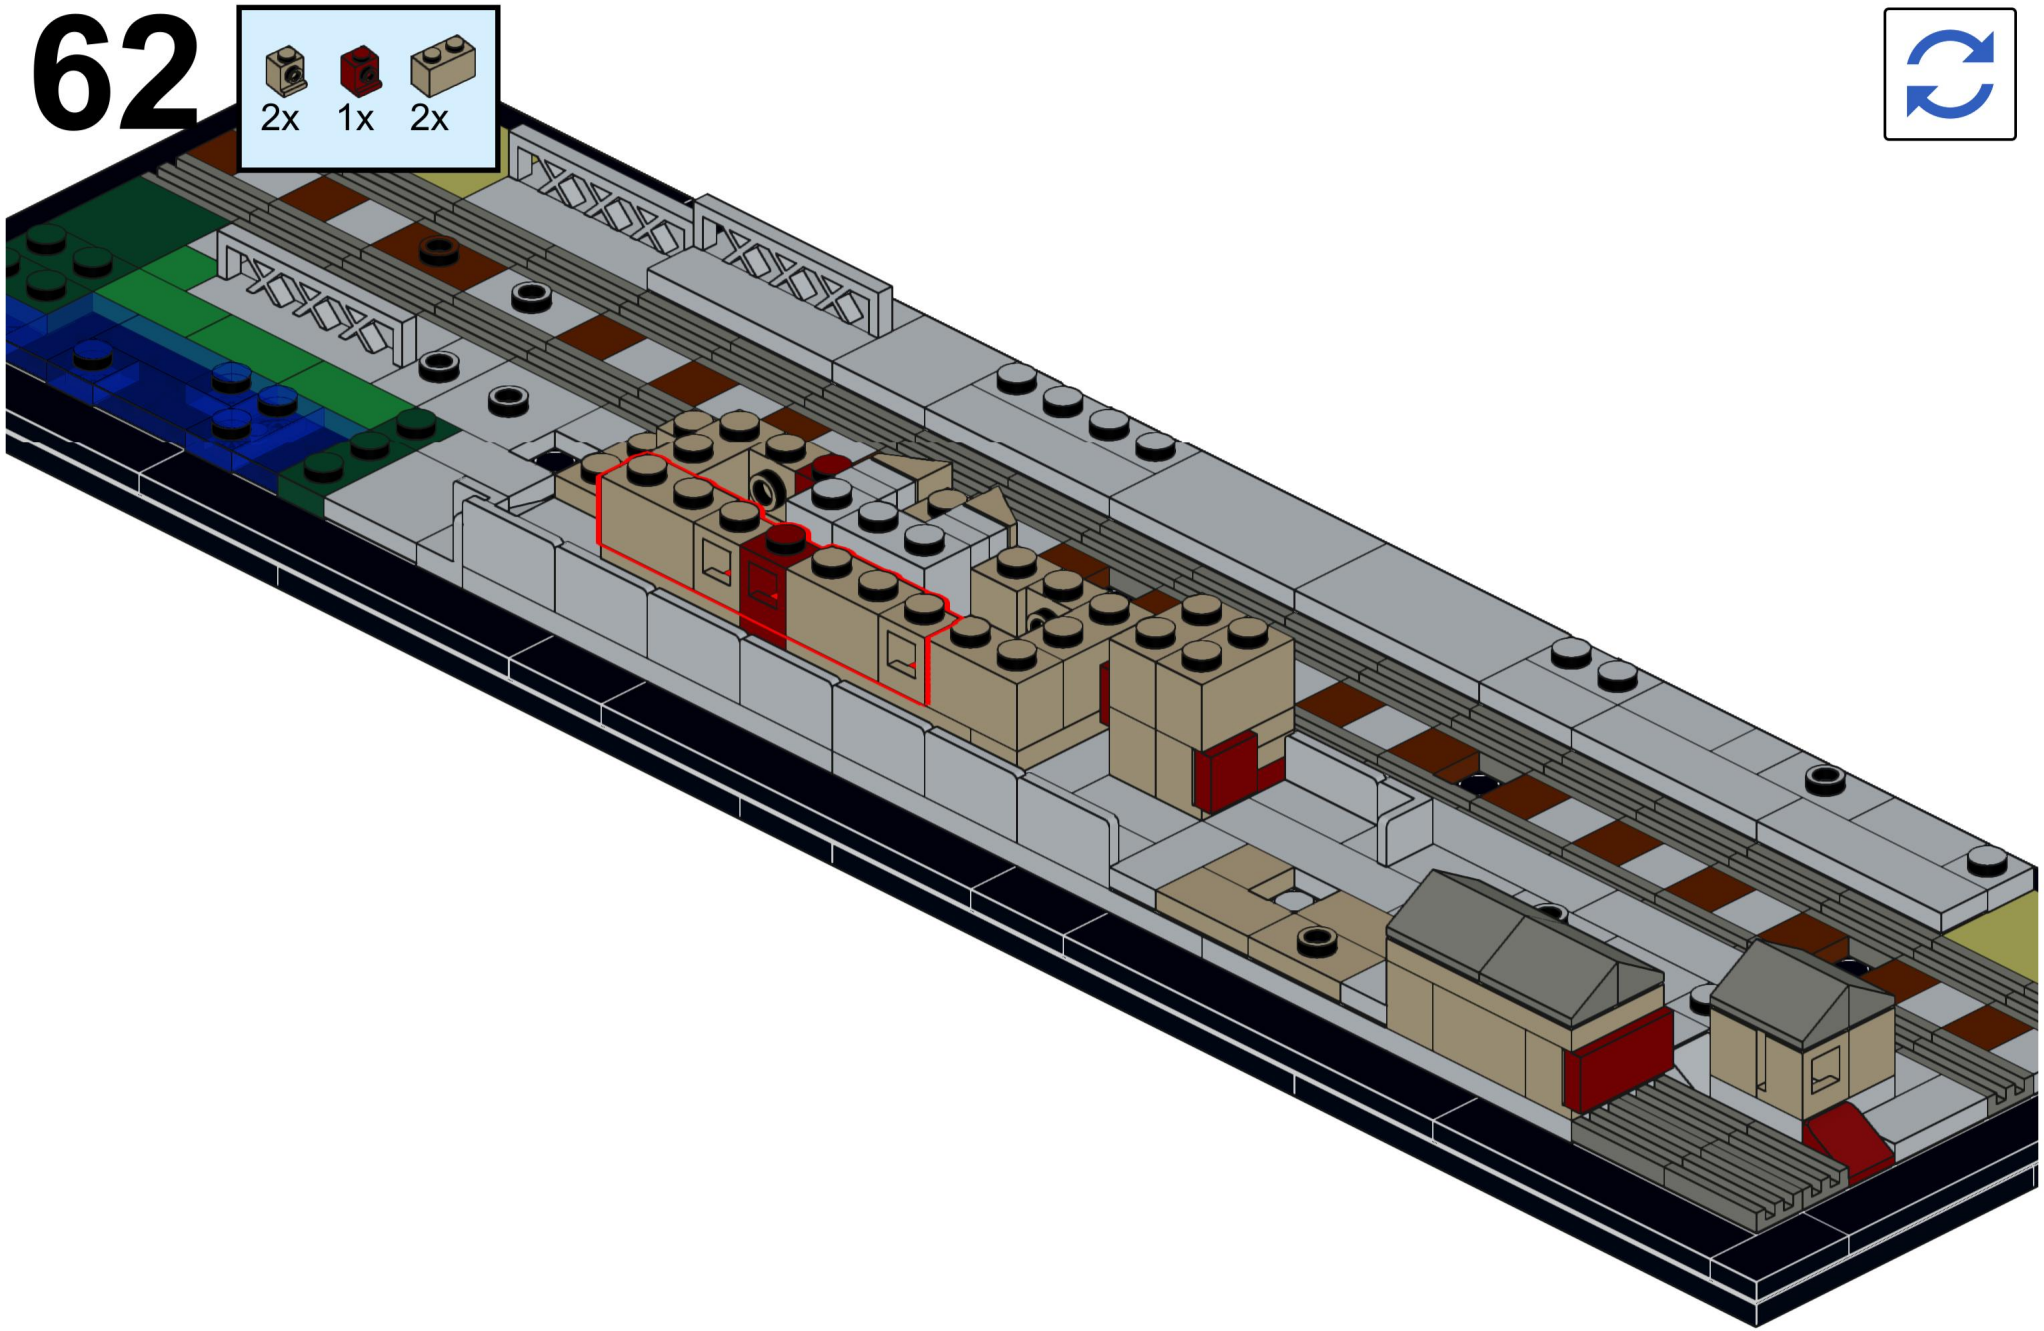

61

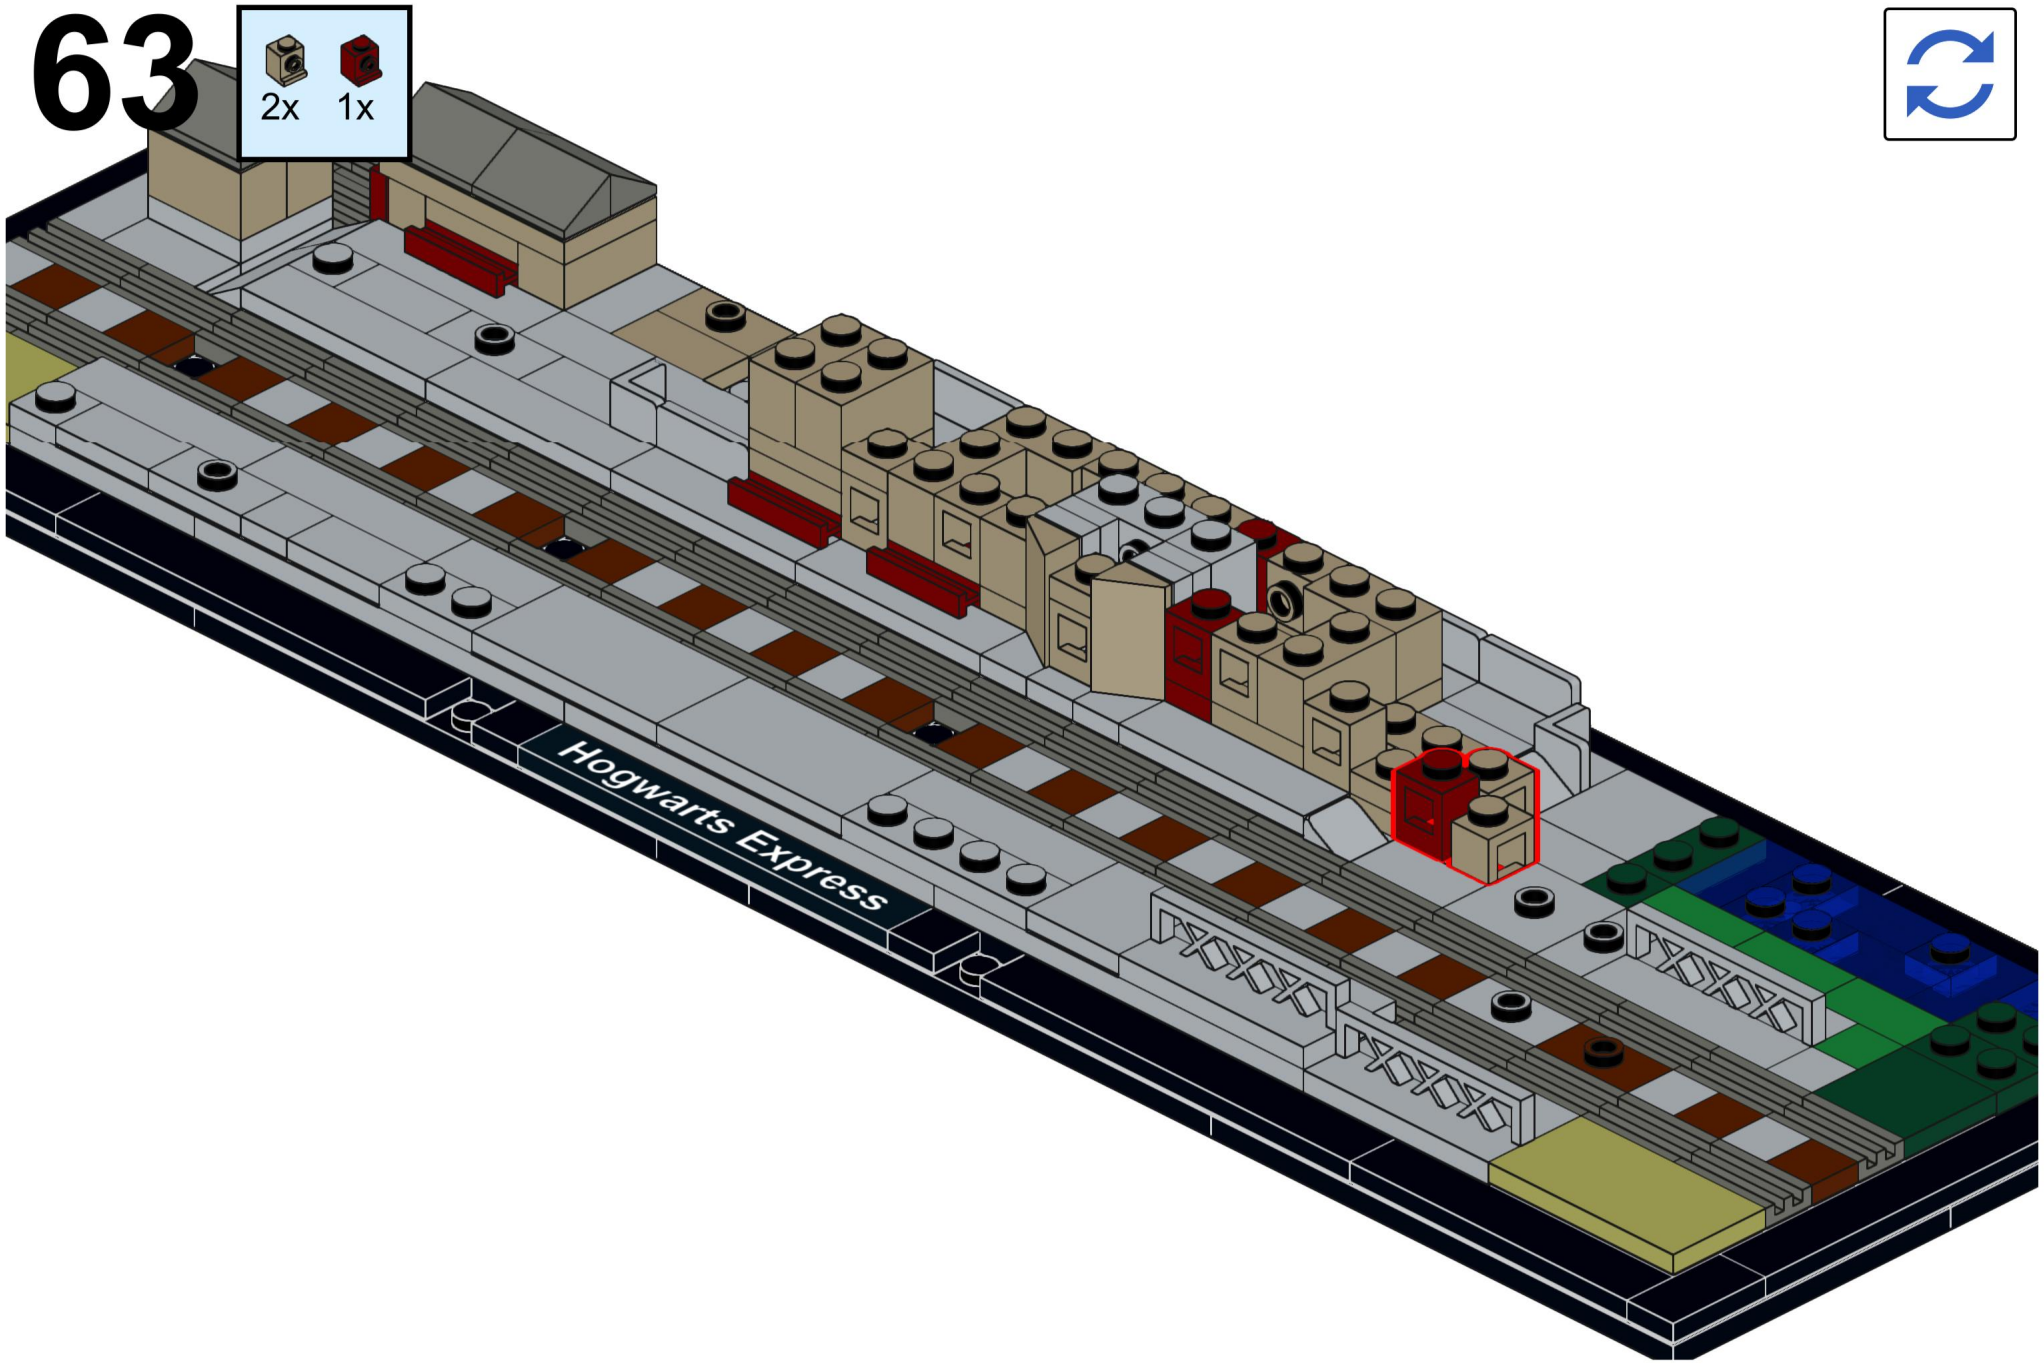

62

2x 1x 2x

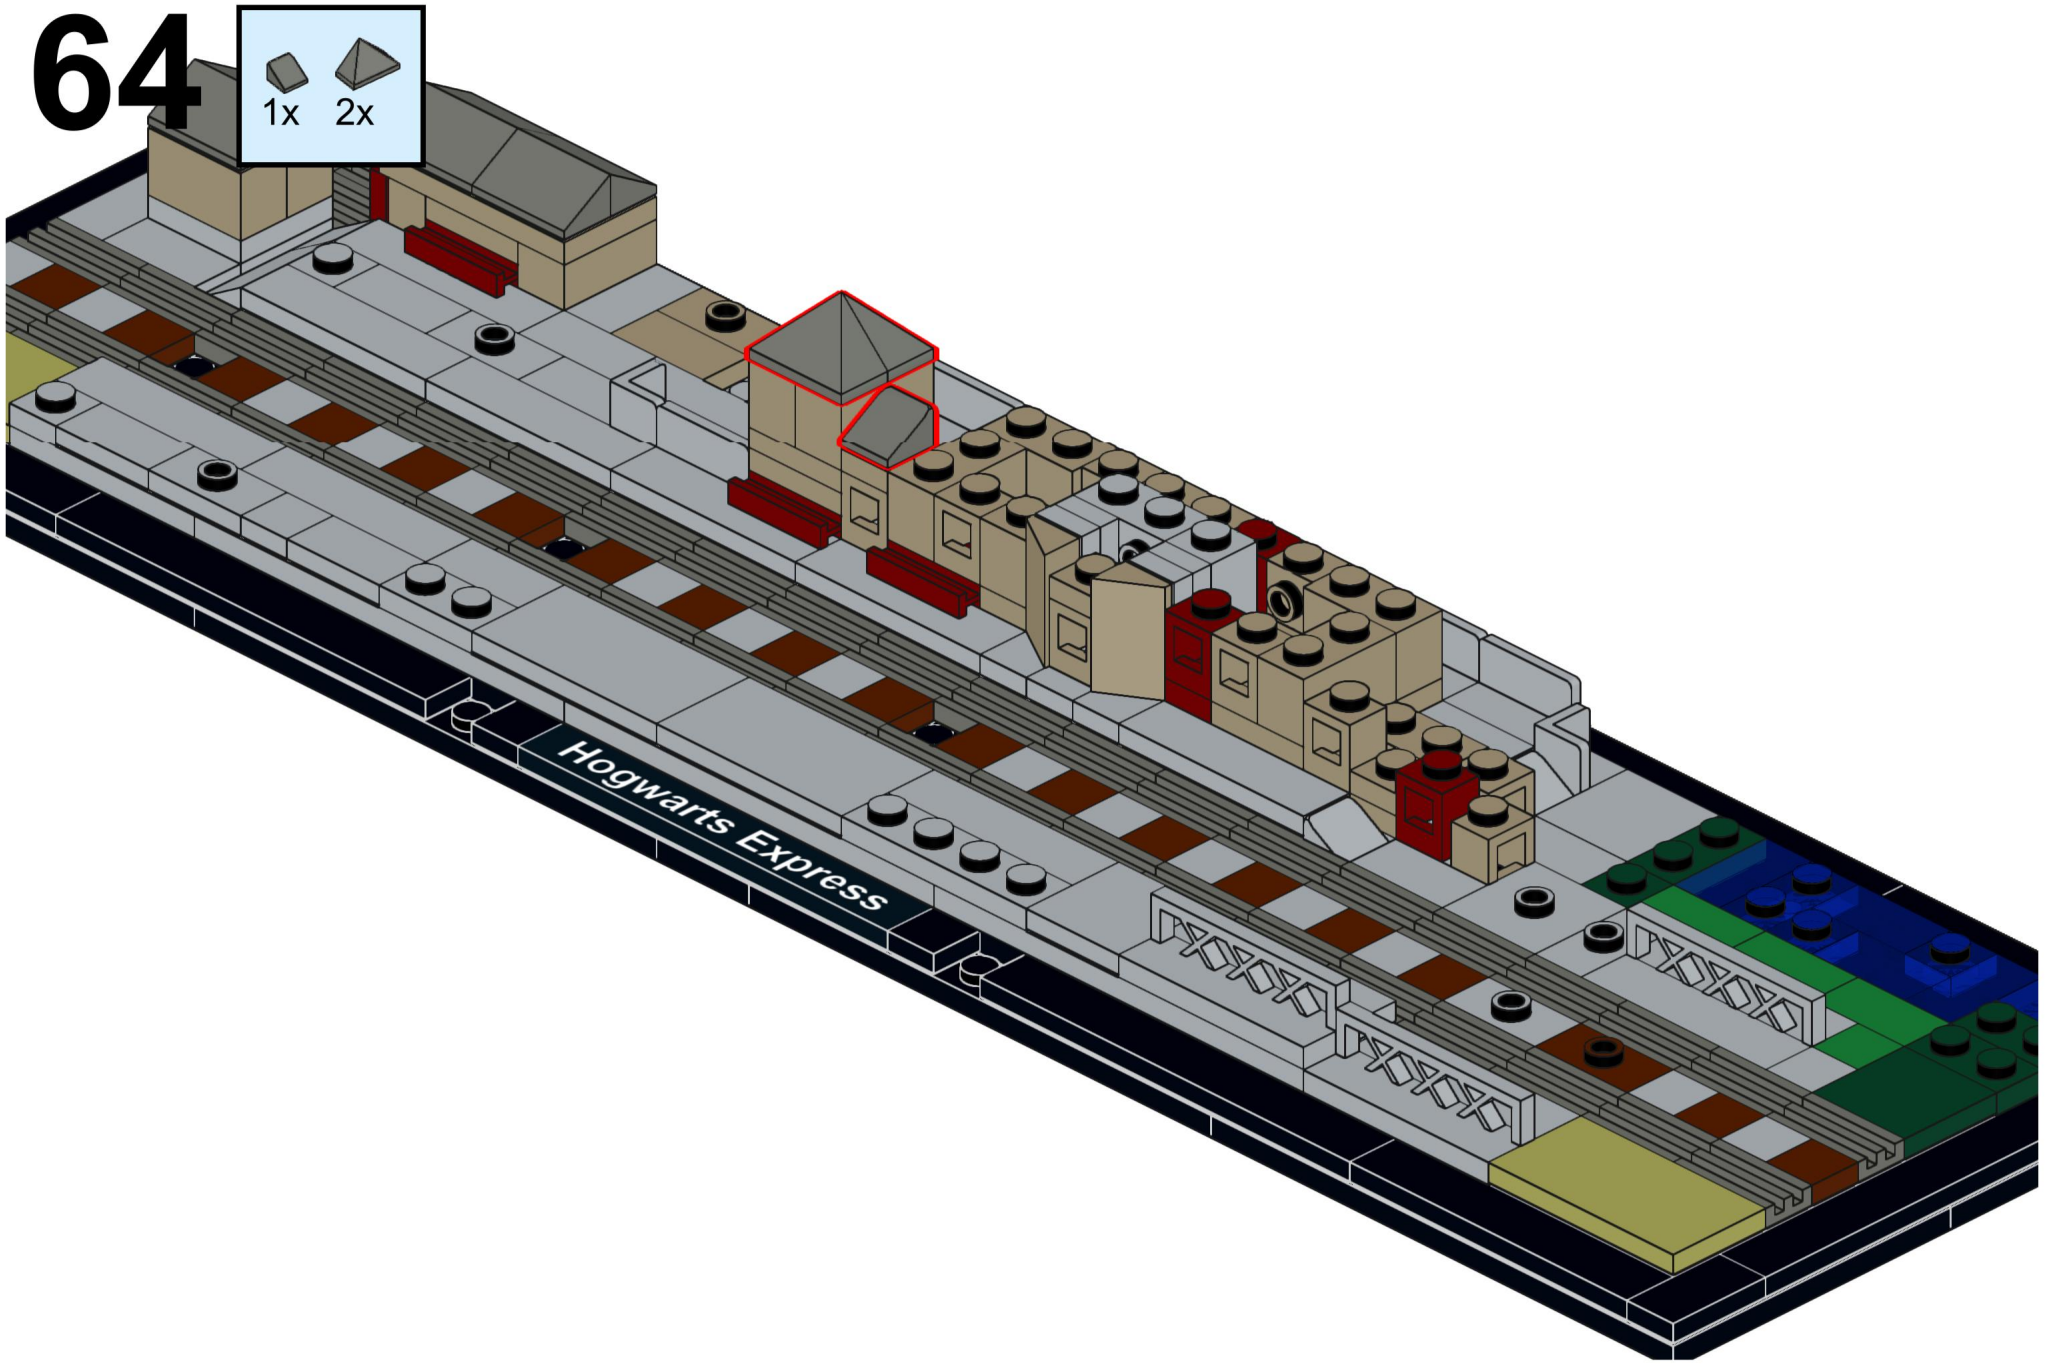

63

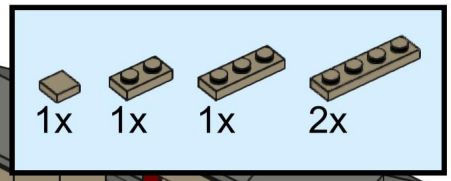

2x 1x

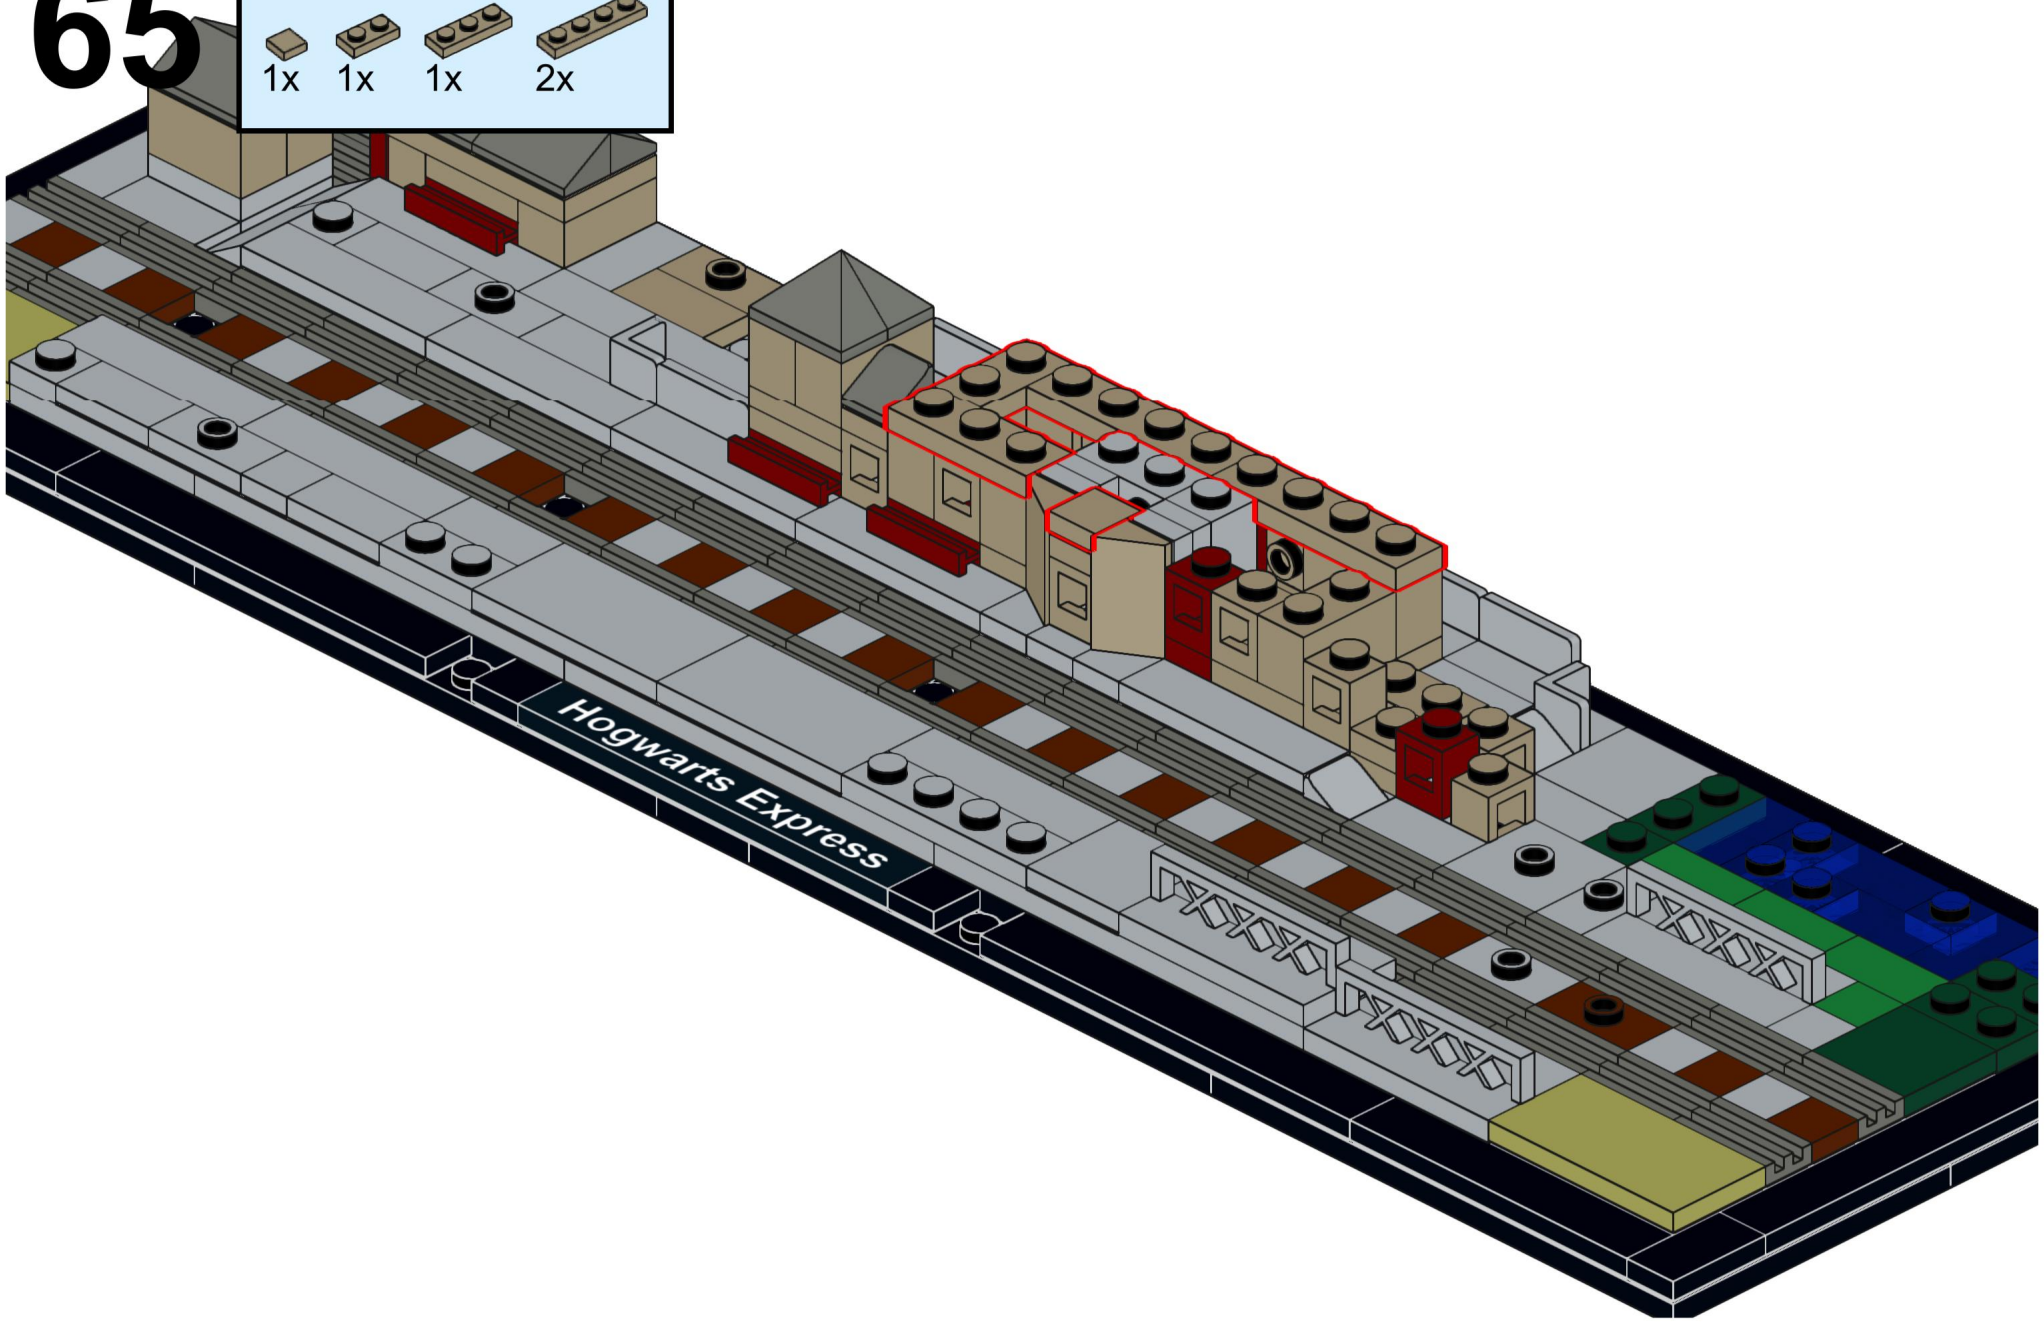

64

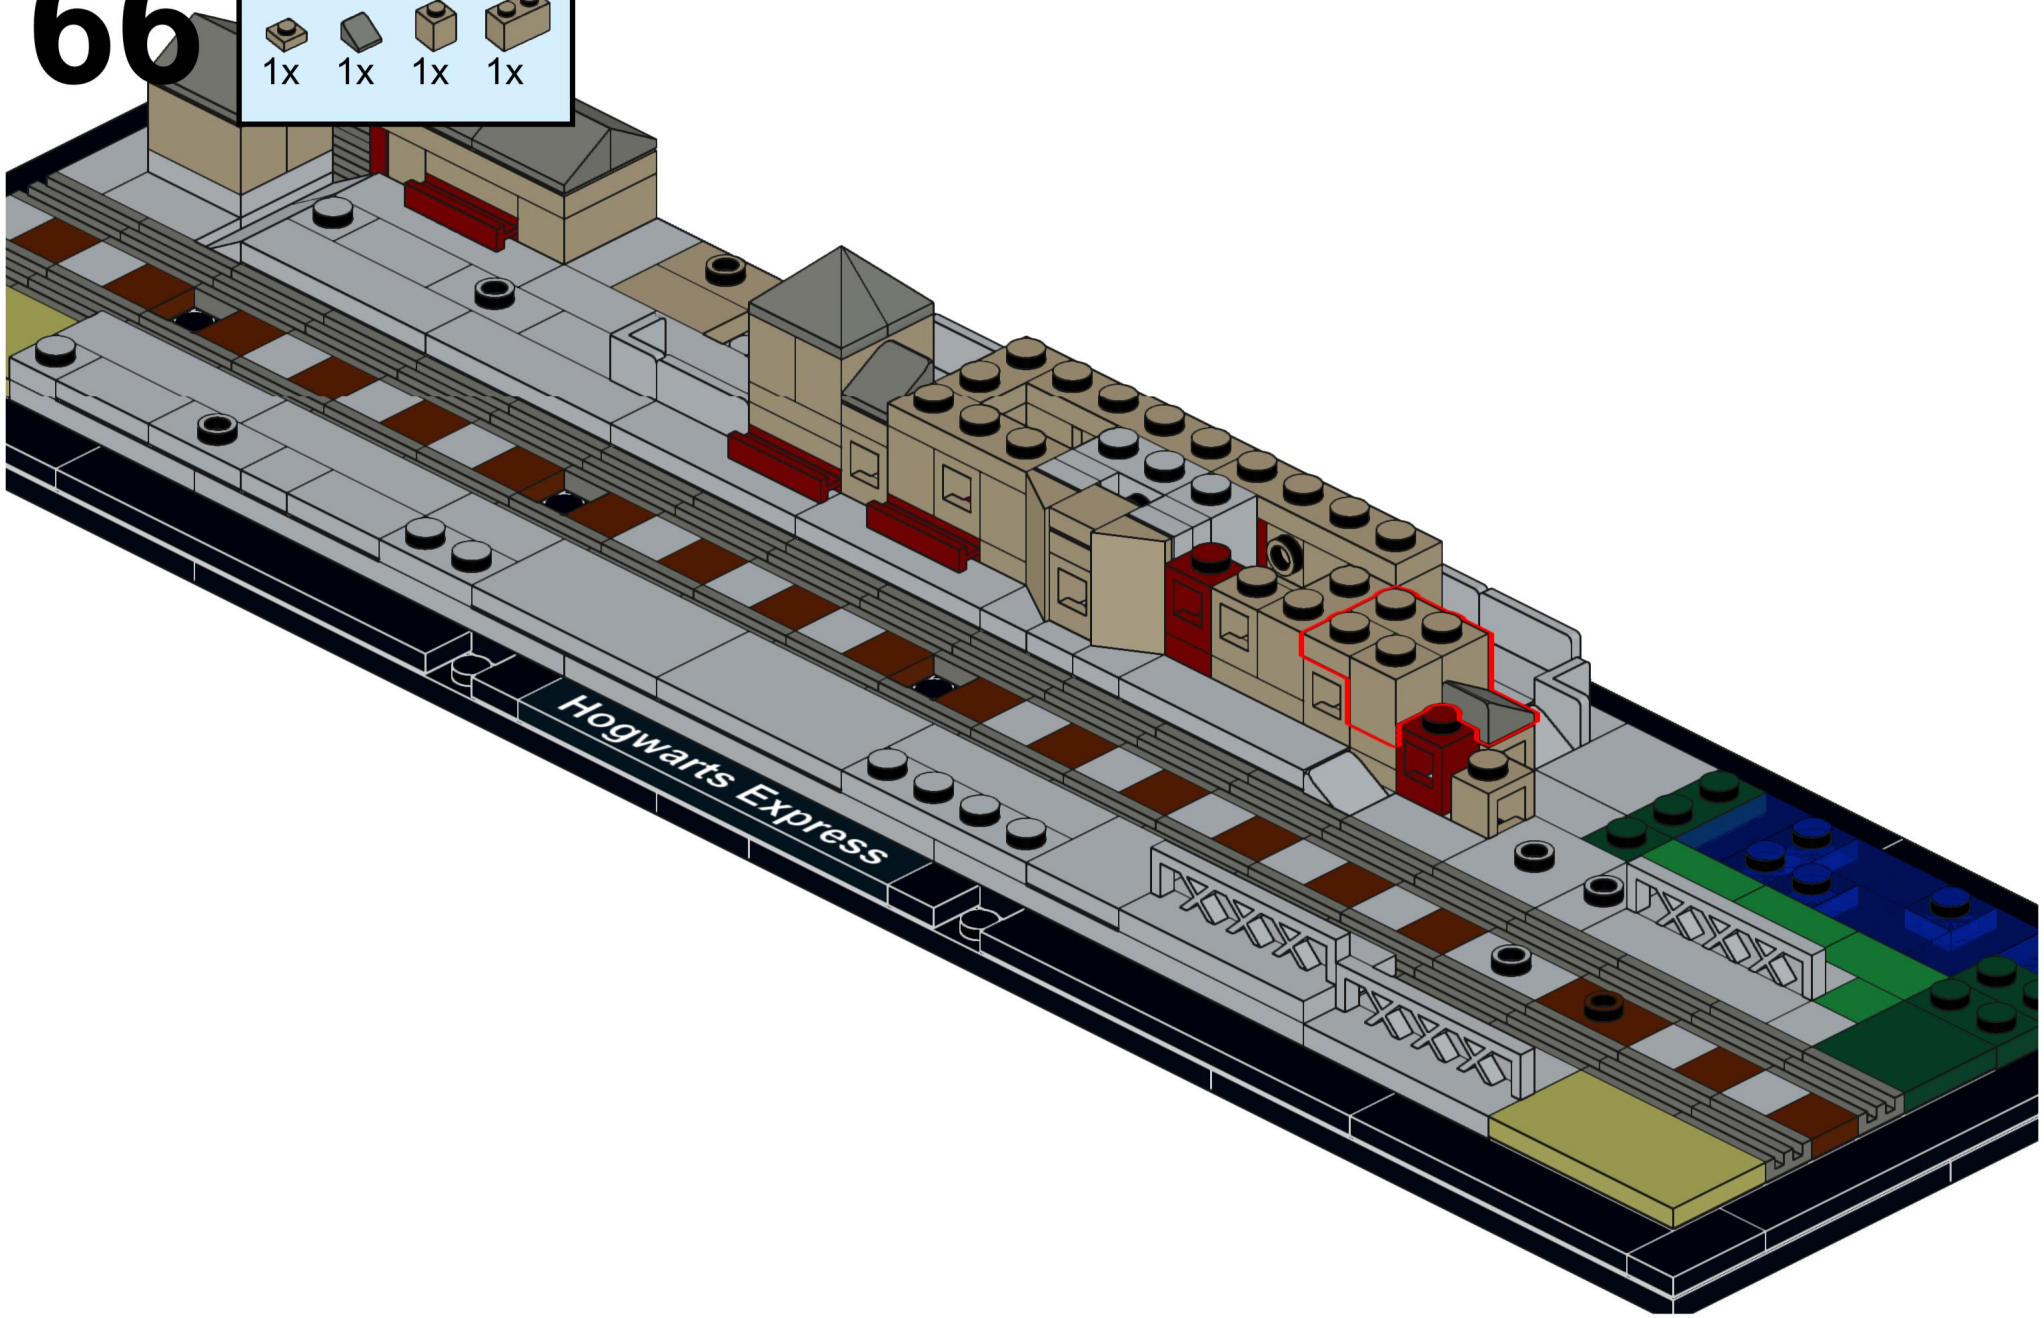

65

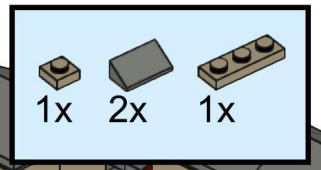

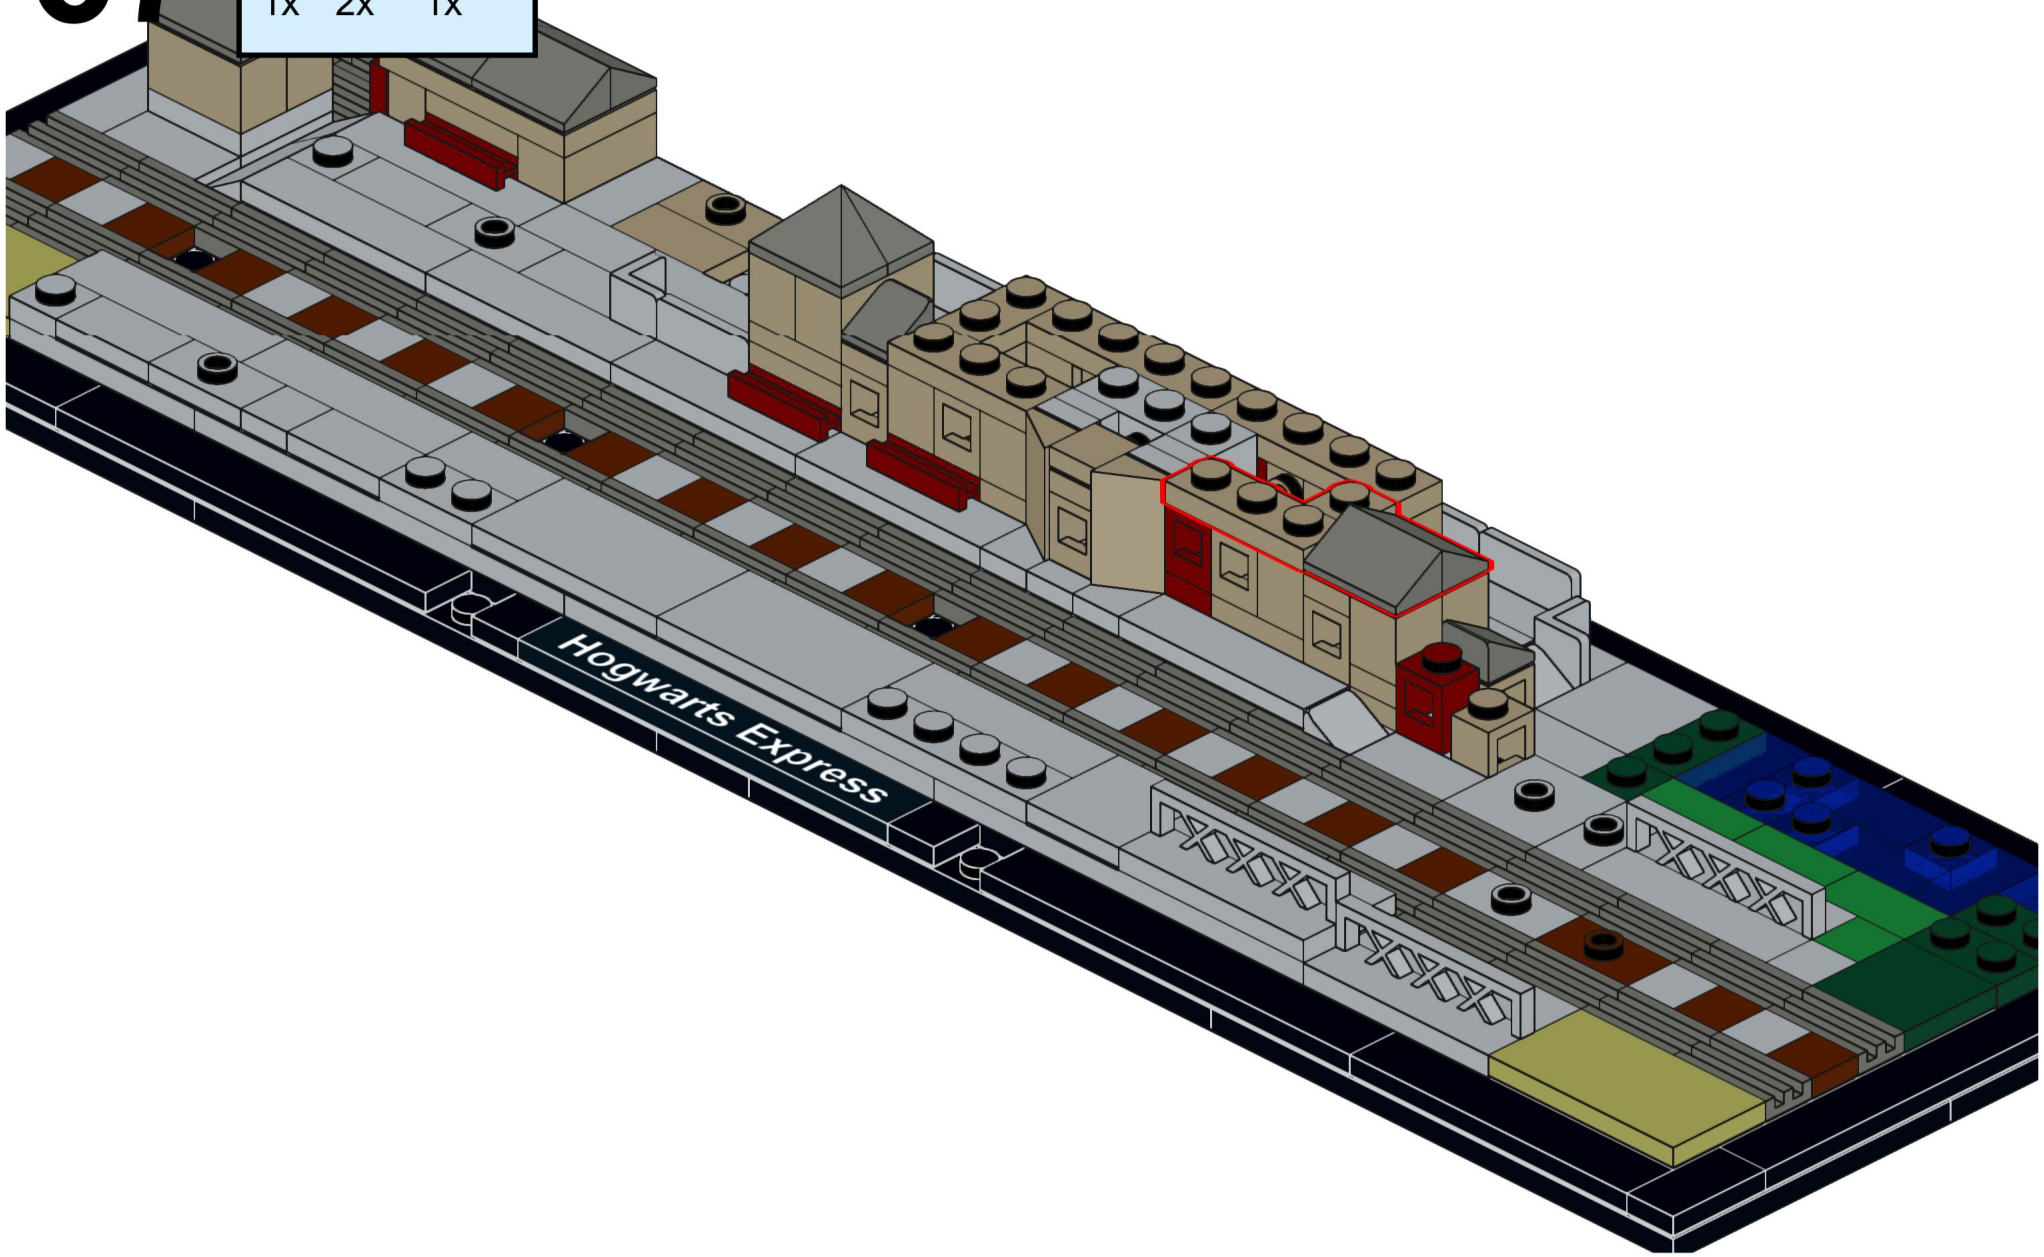

66

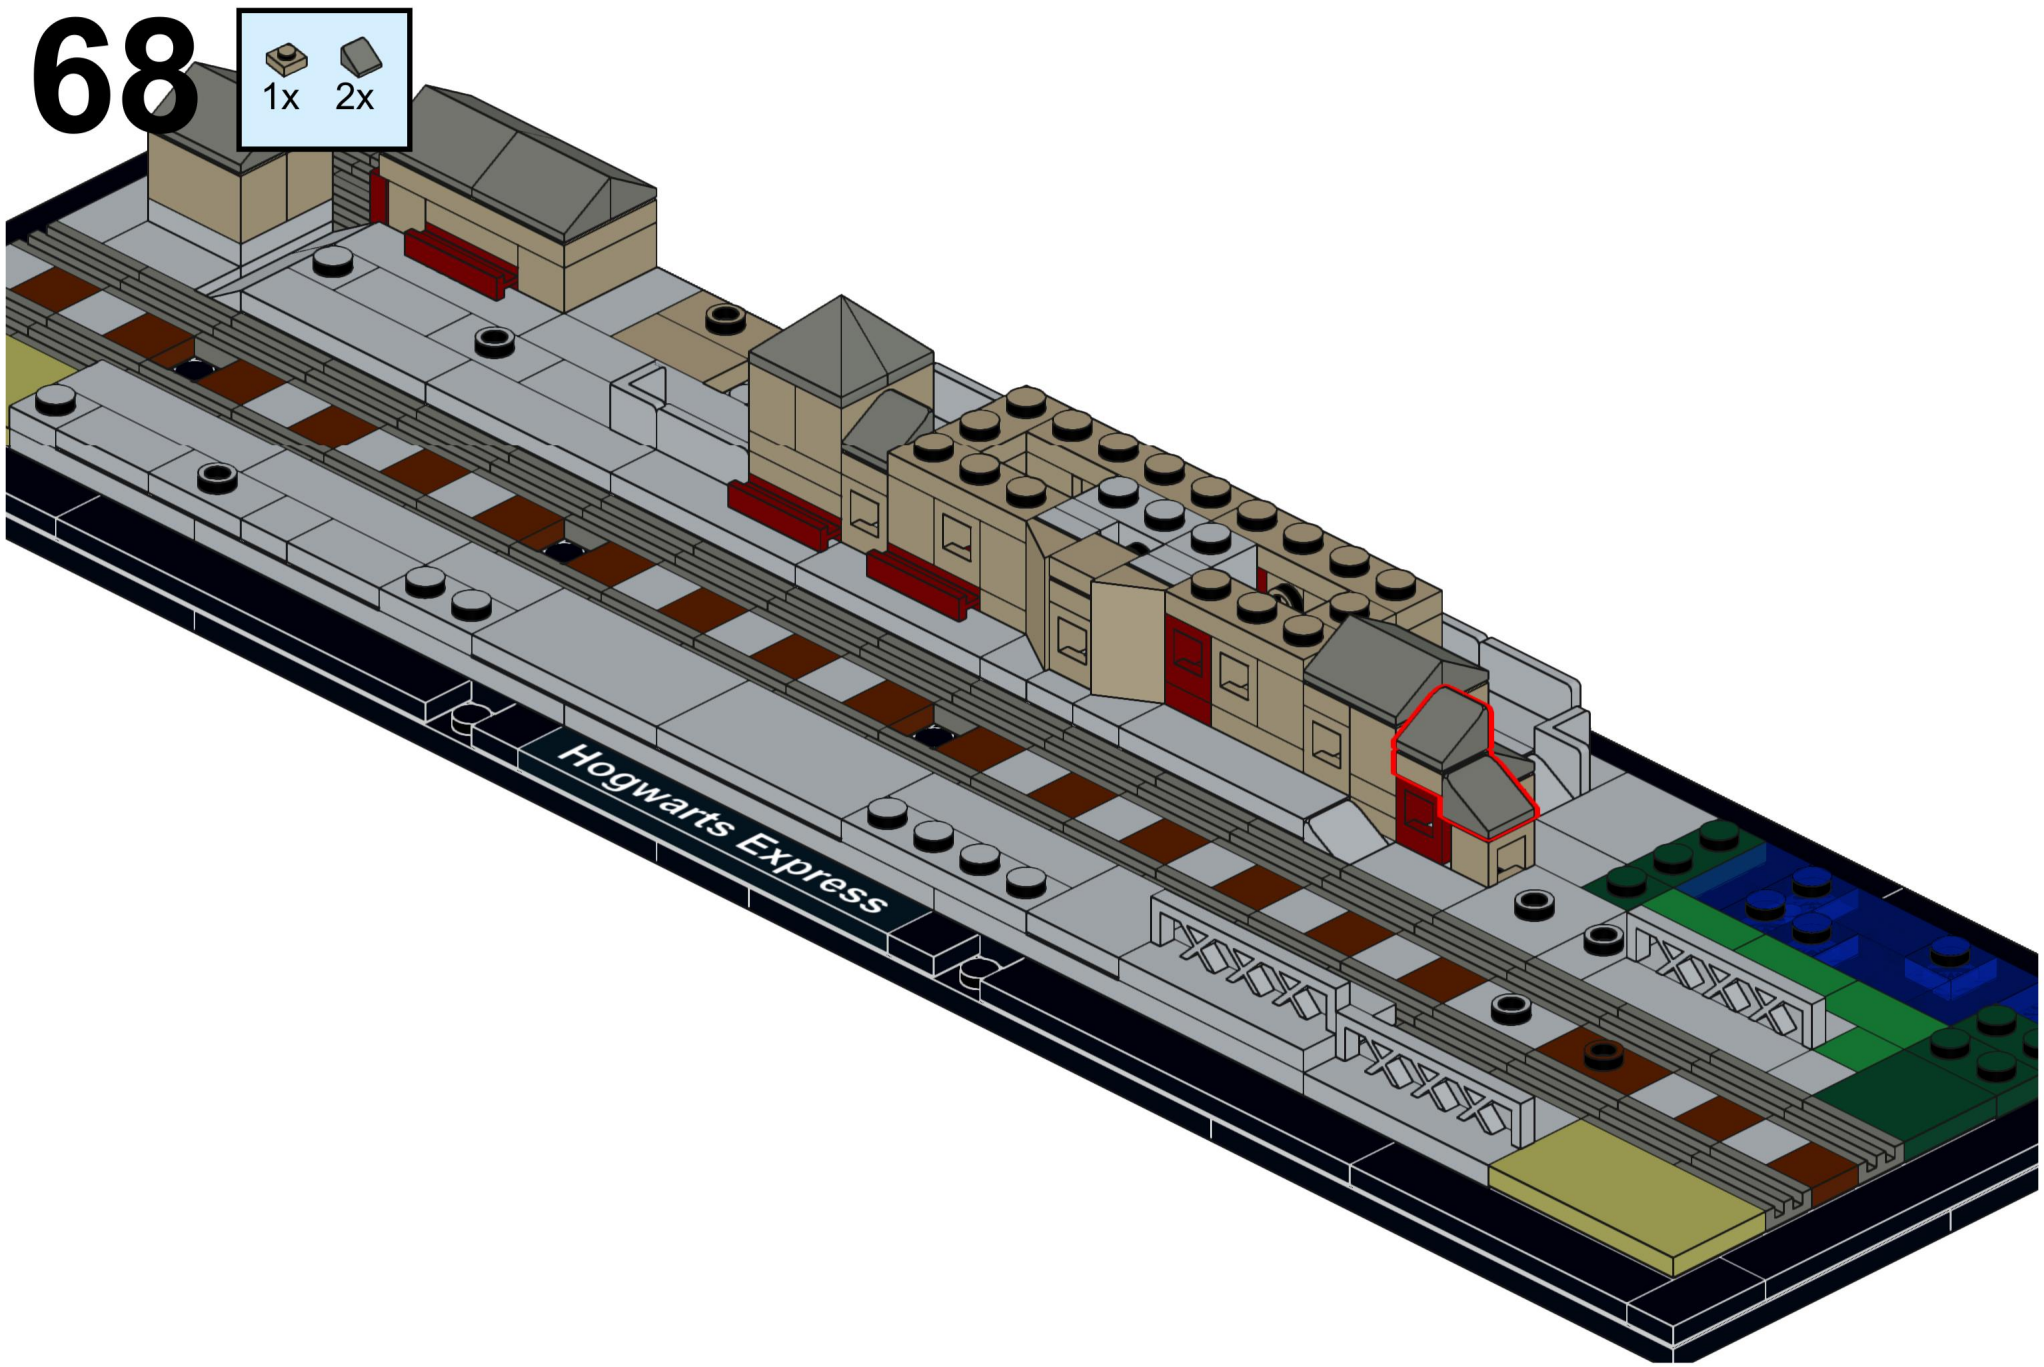

67

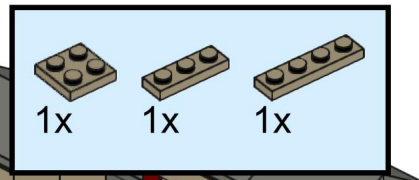

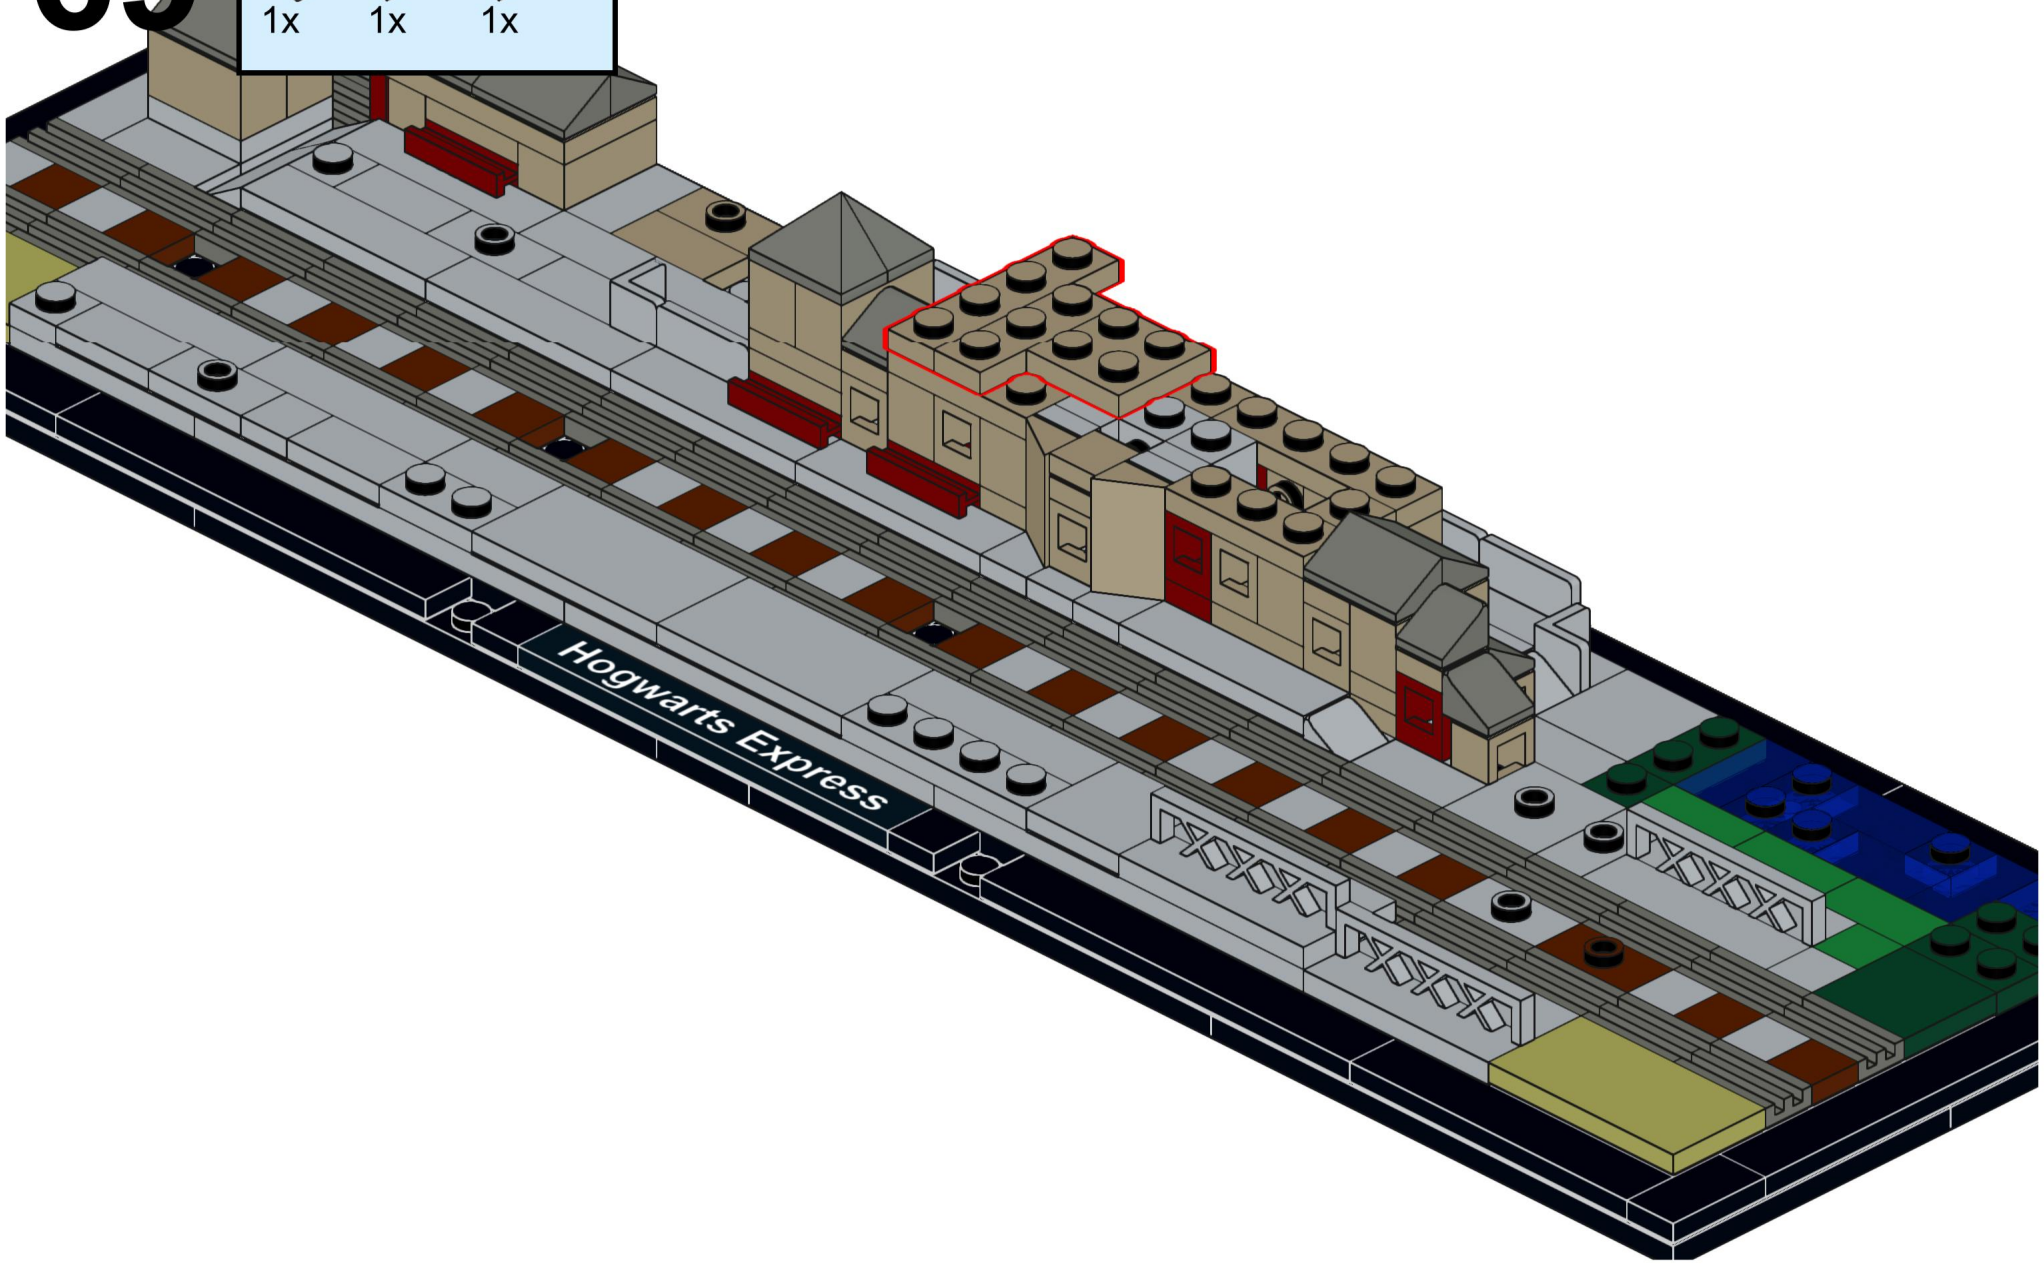

68

1x 2x

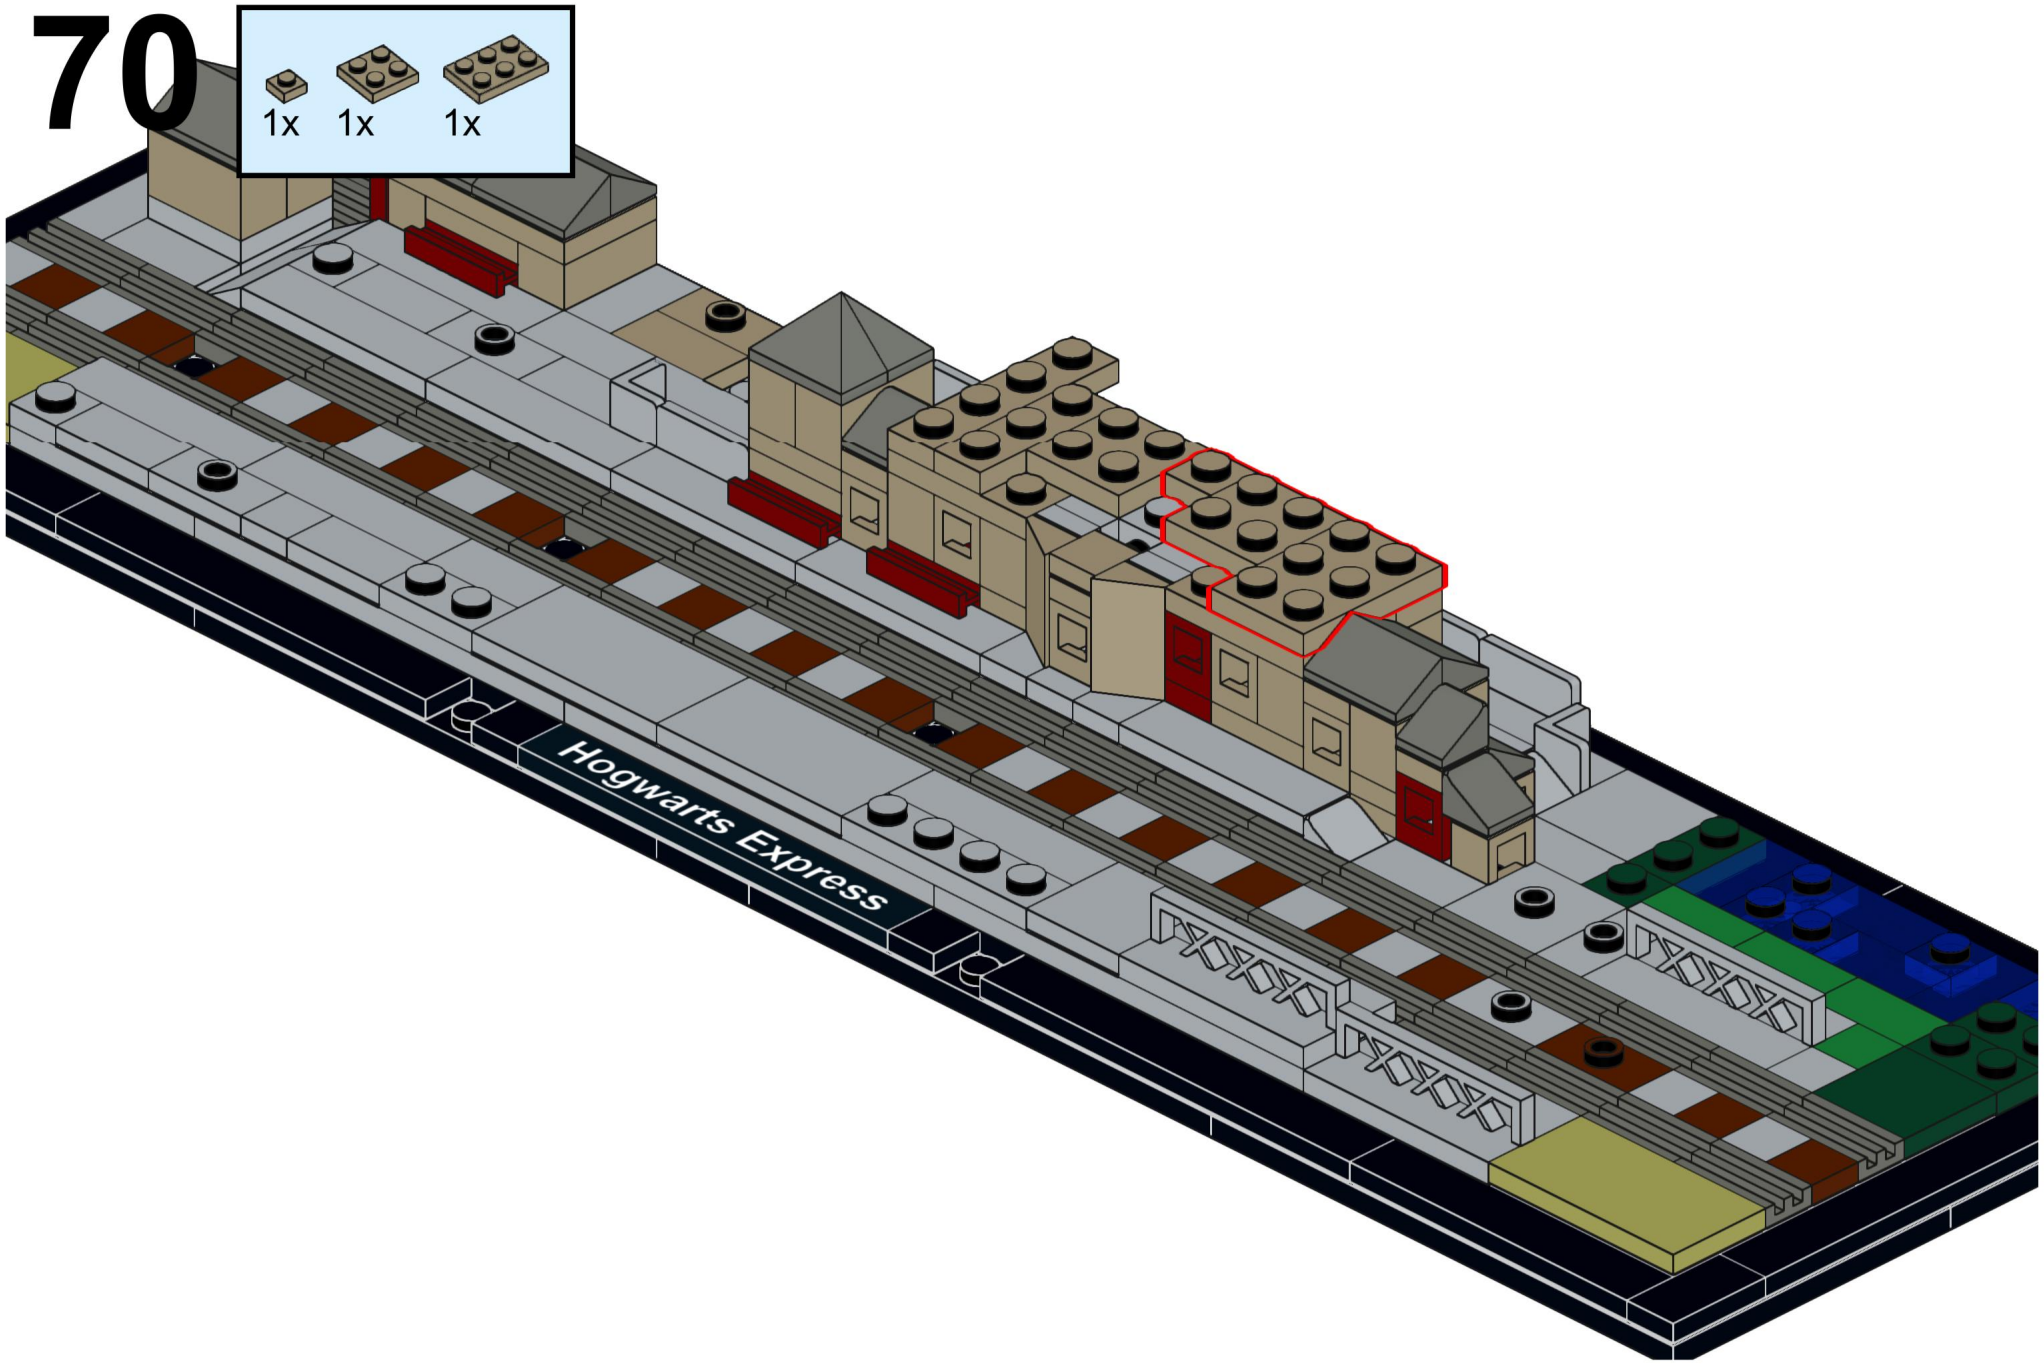

69

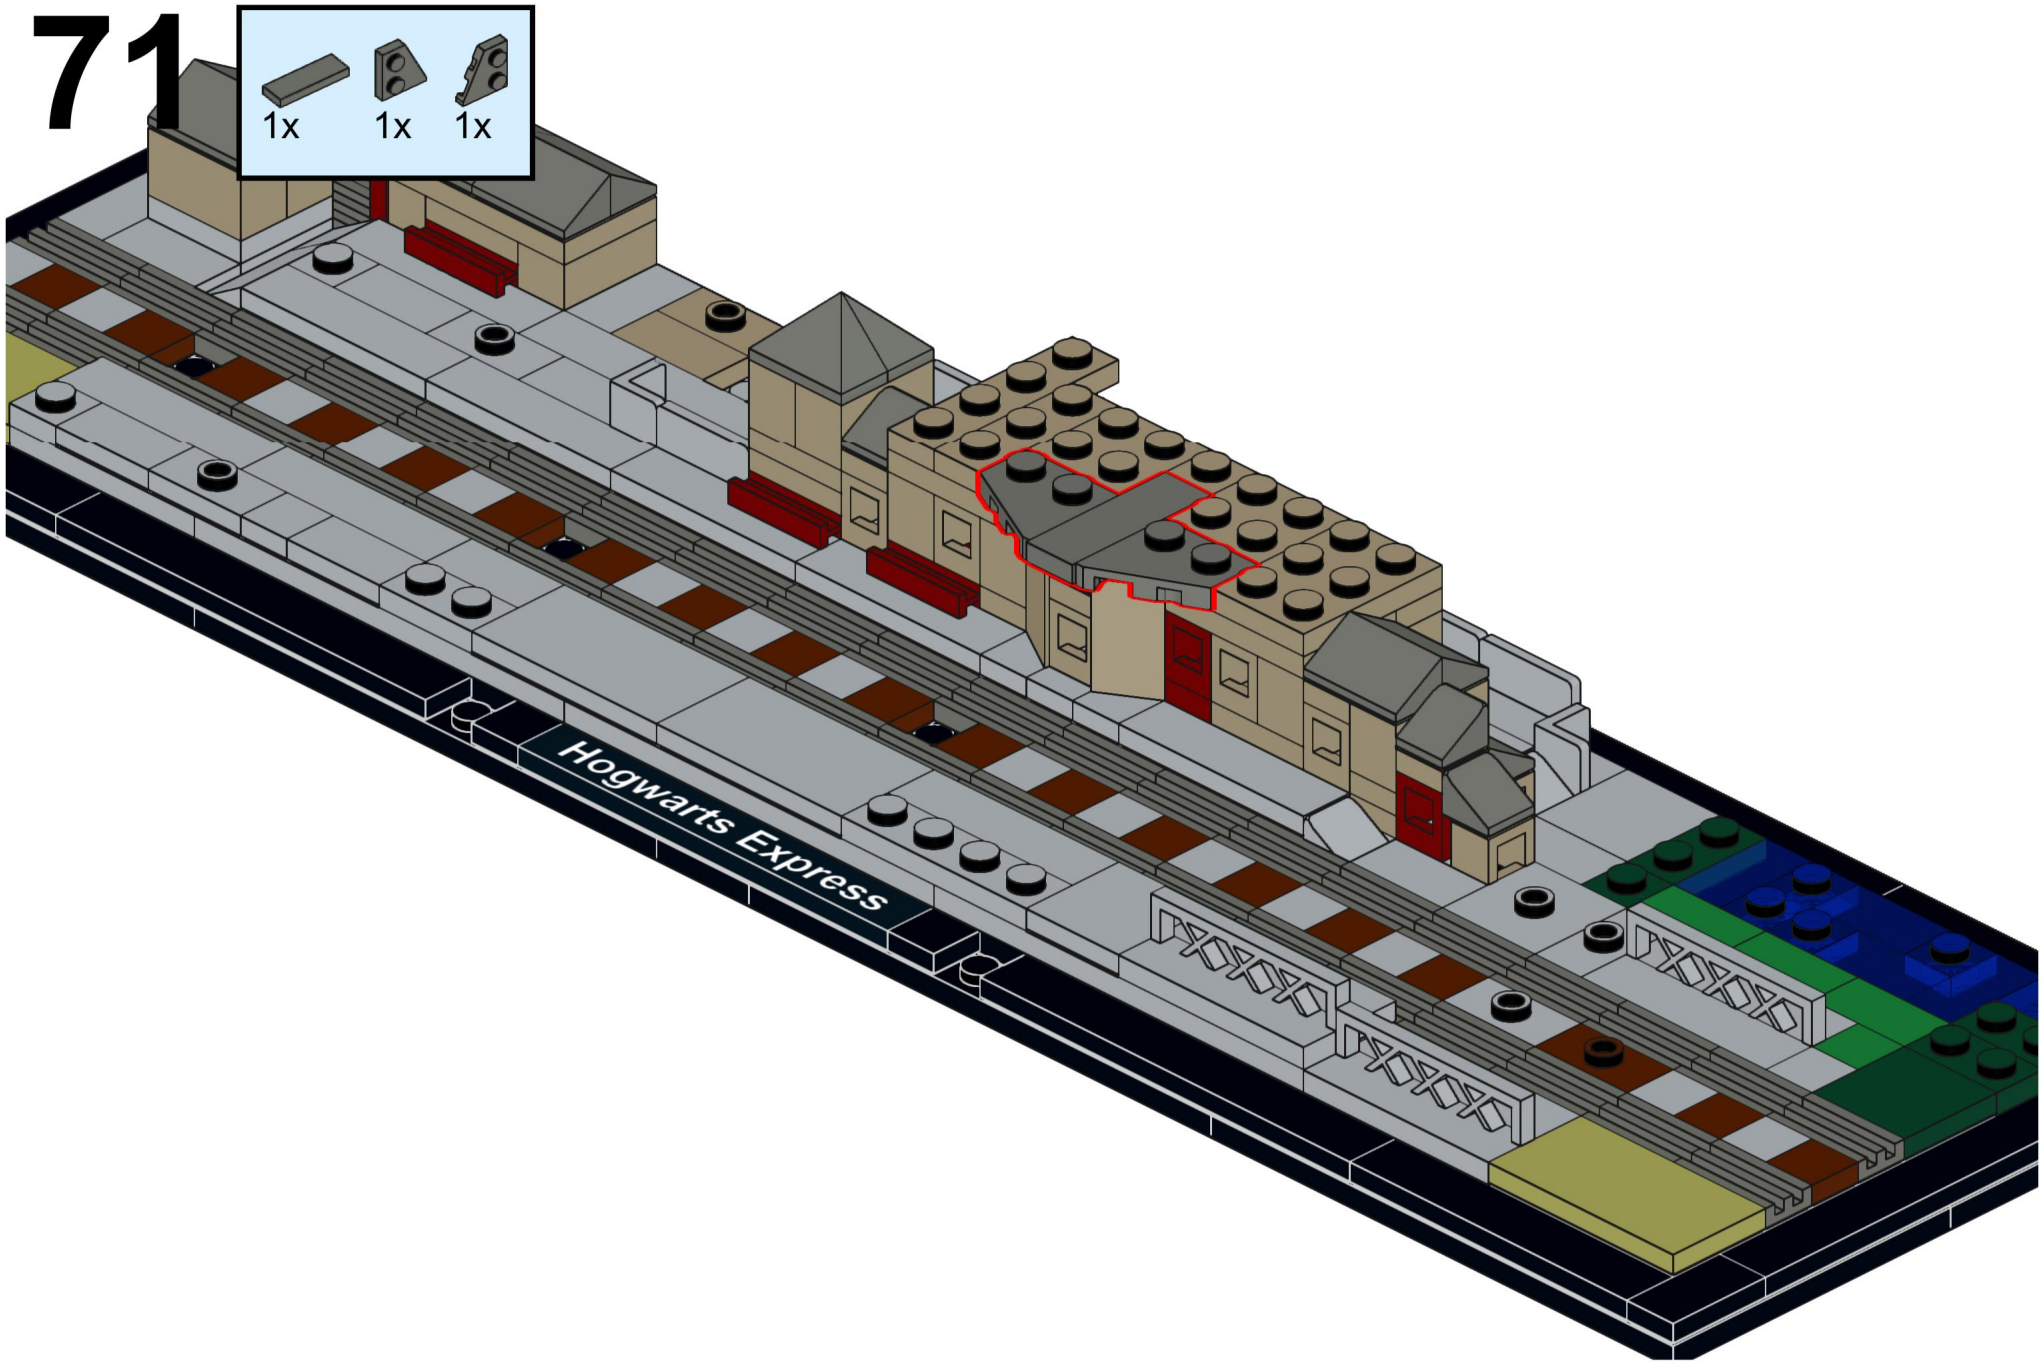

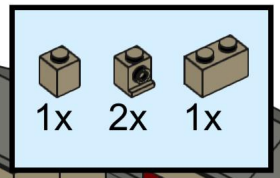

70

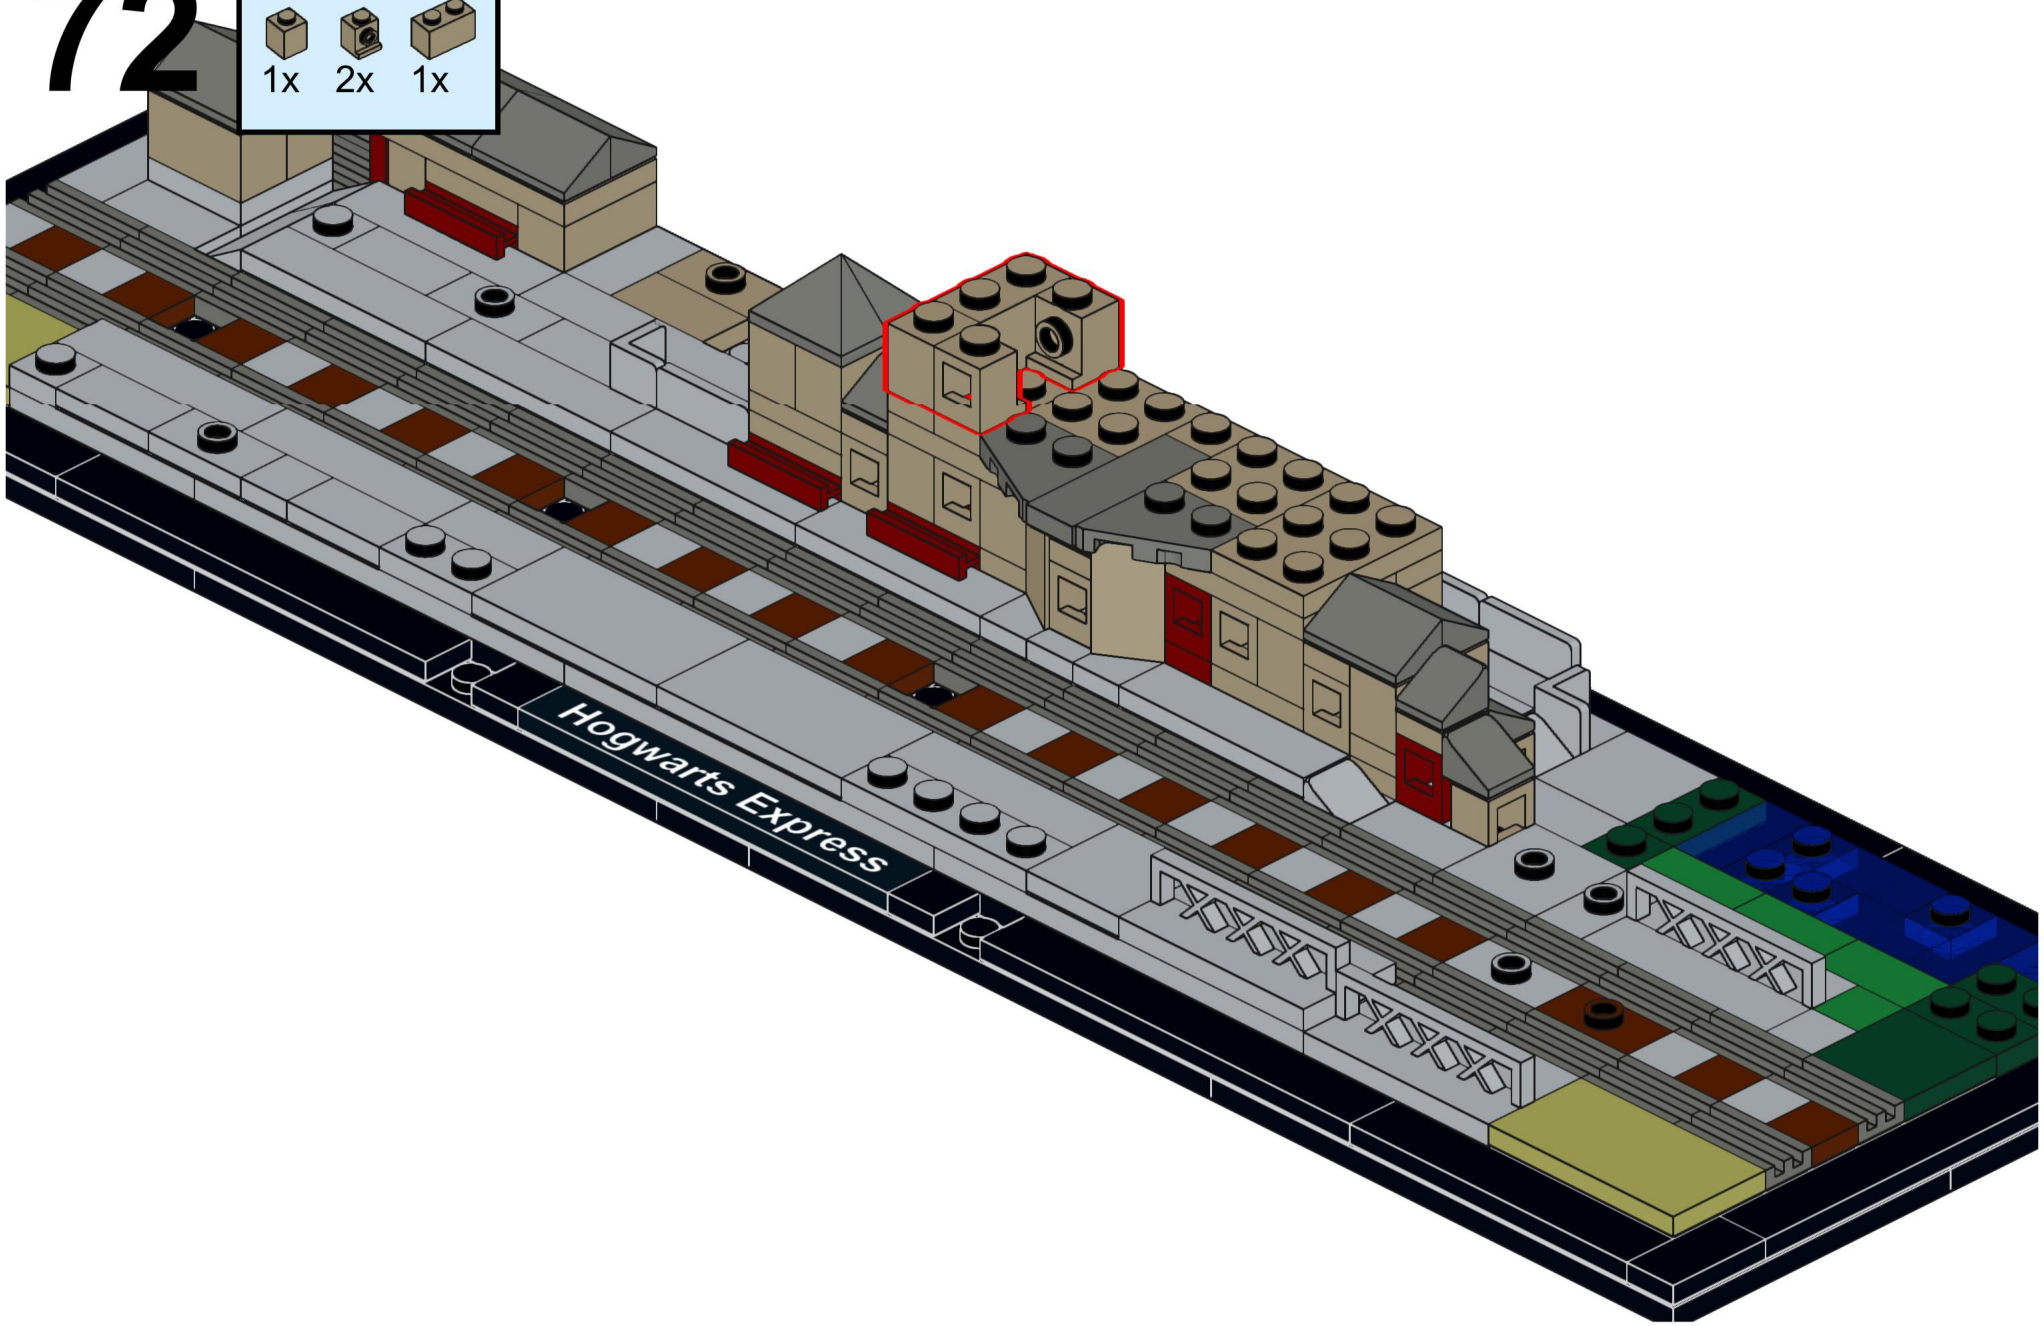

71

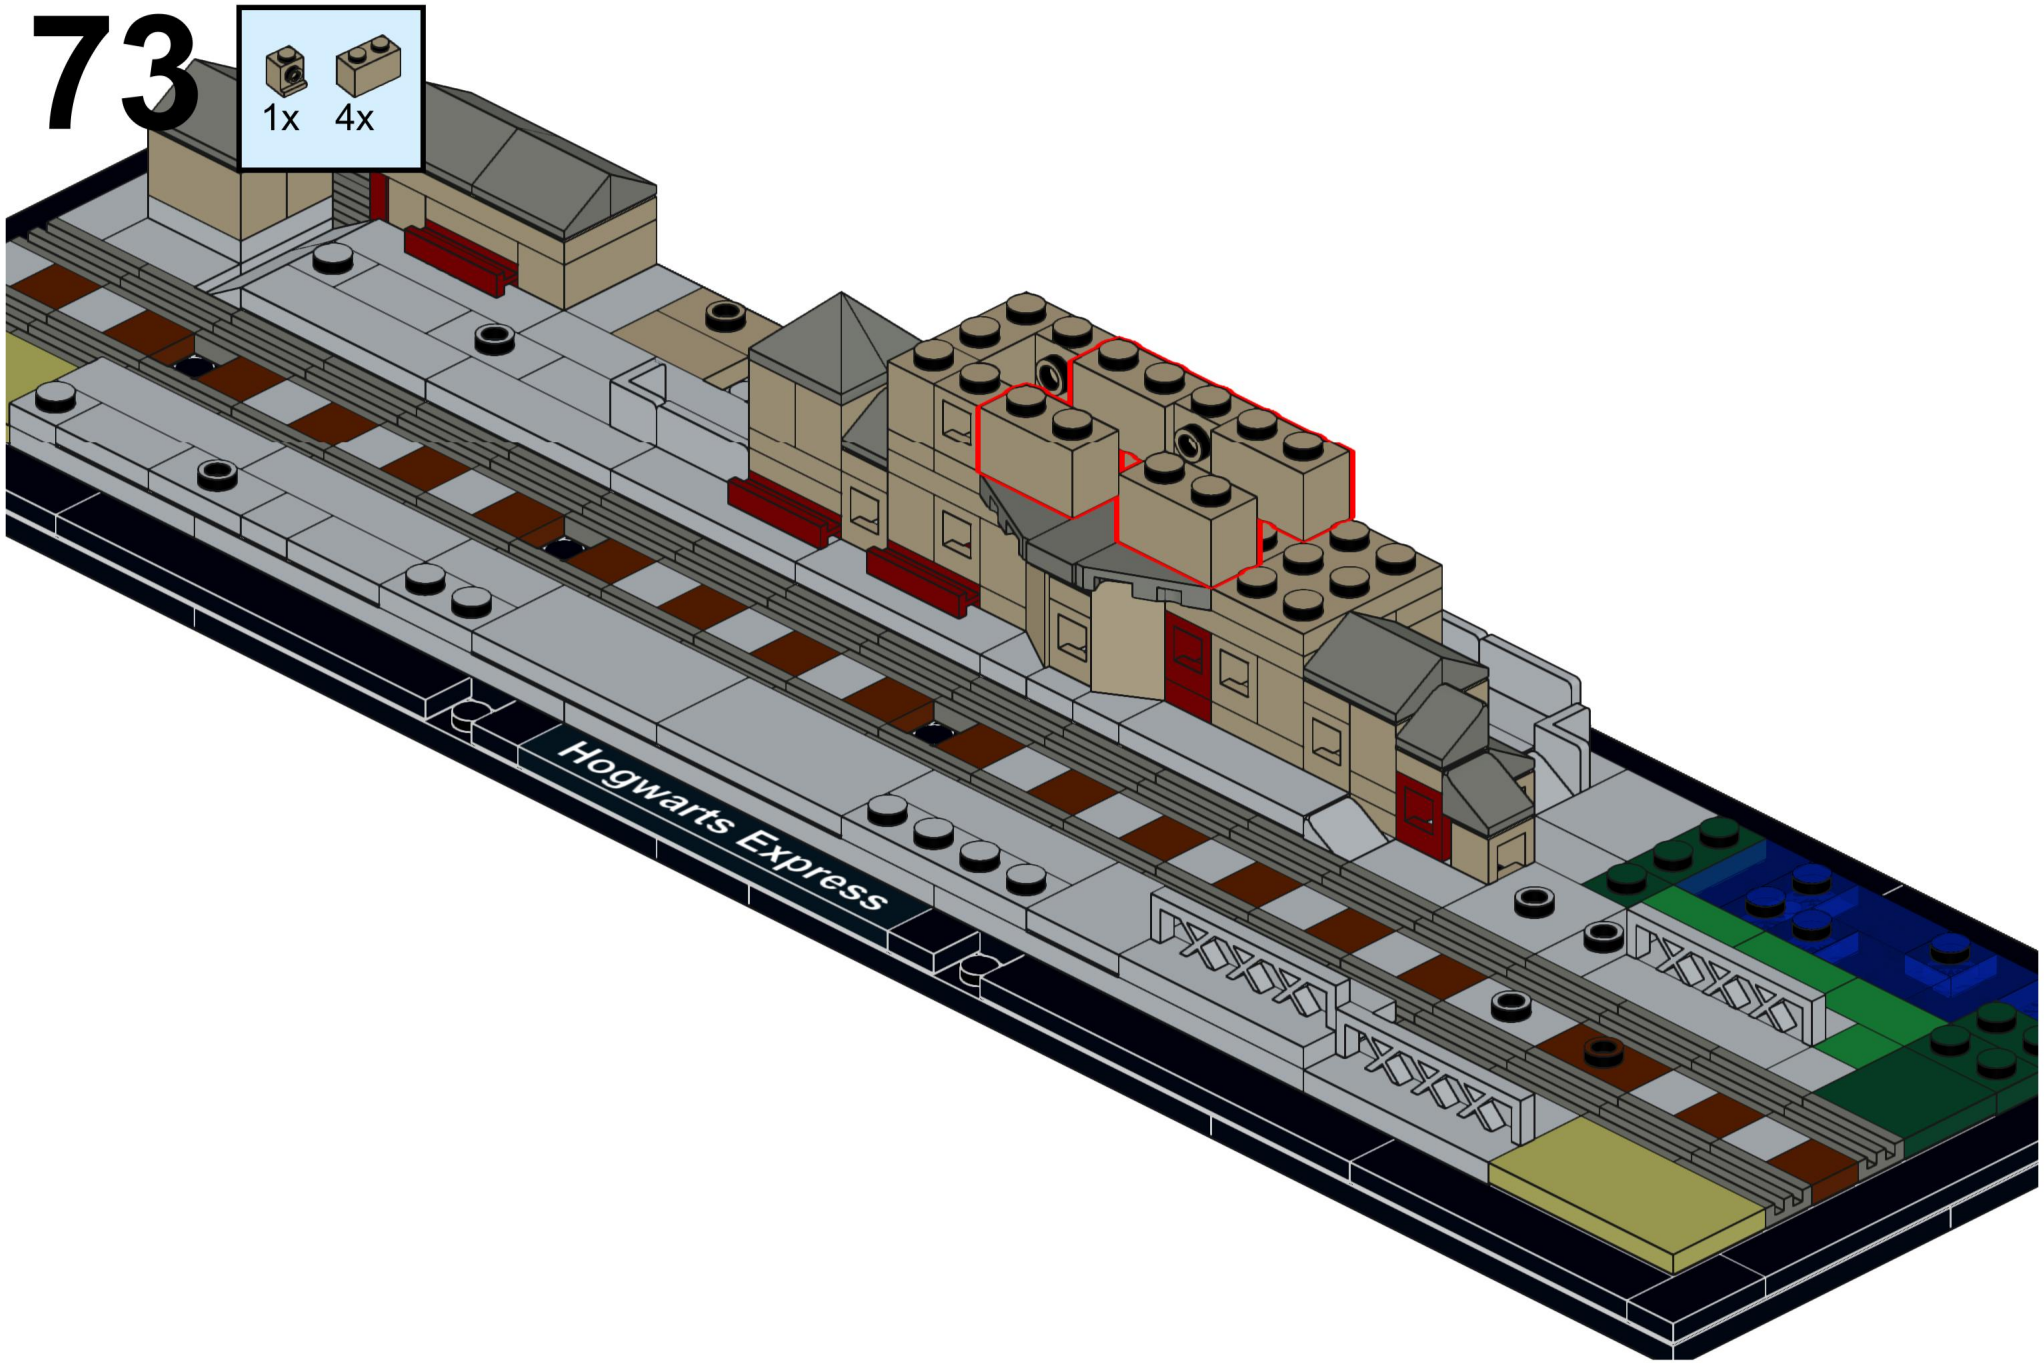

72

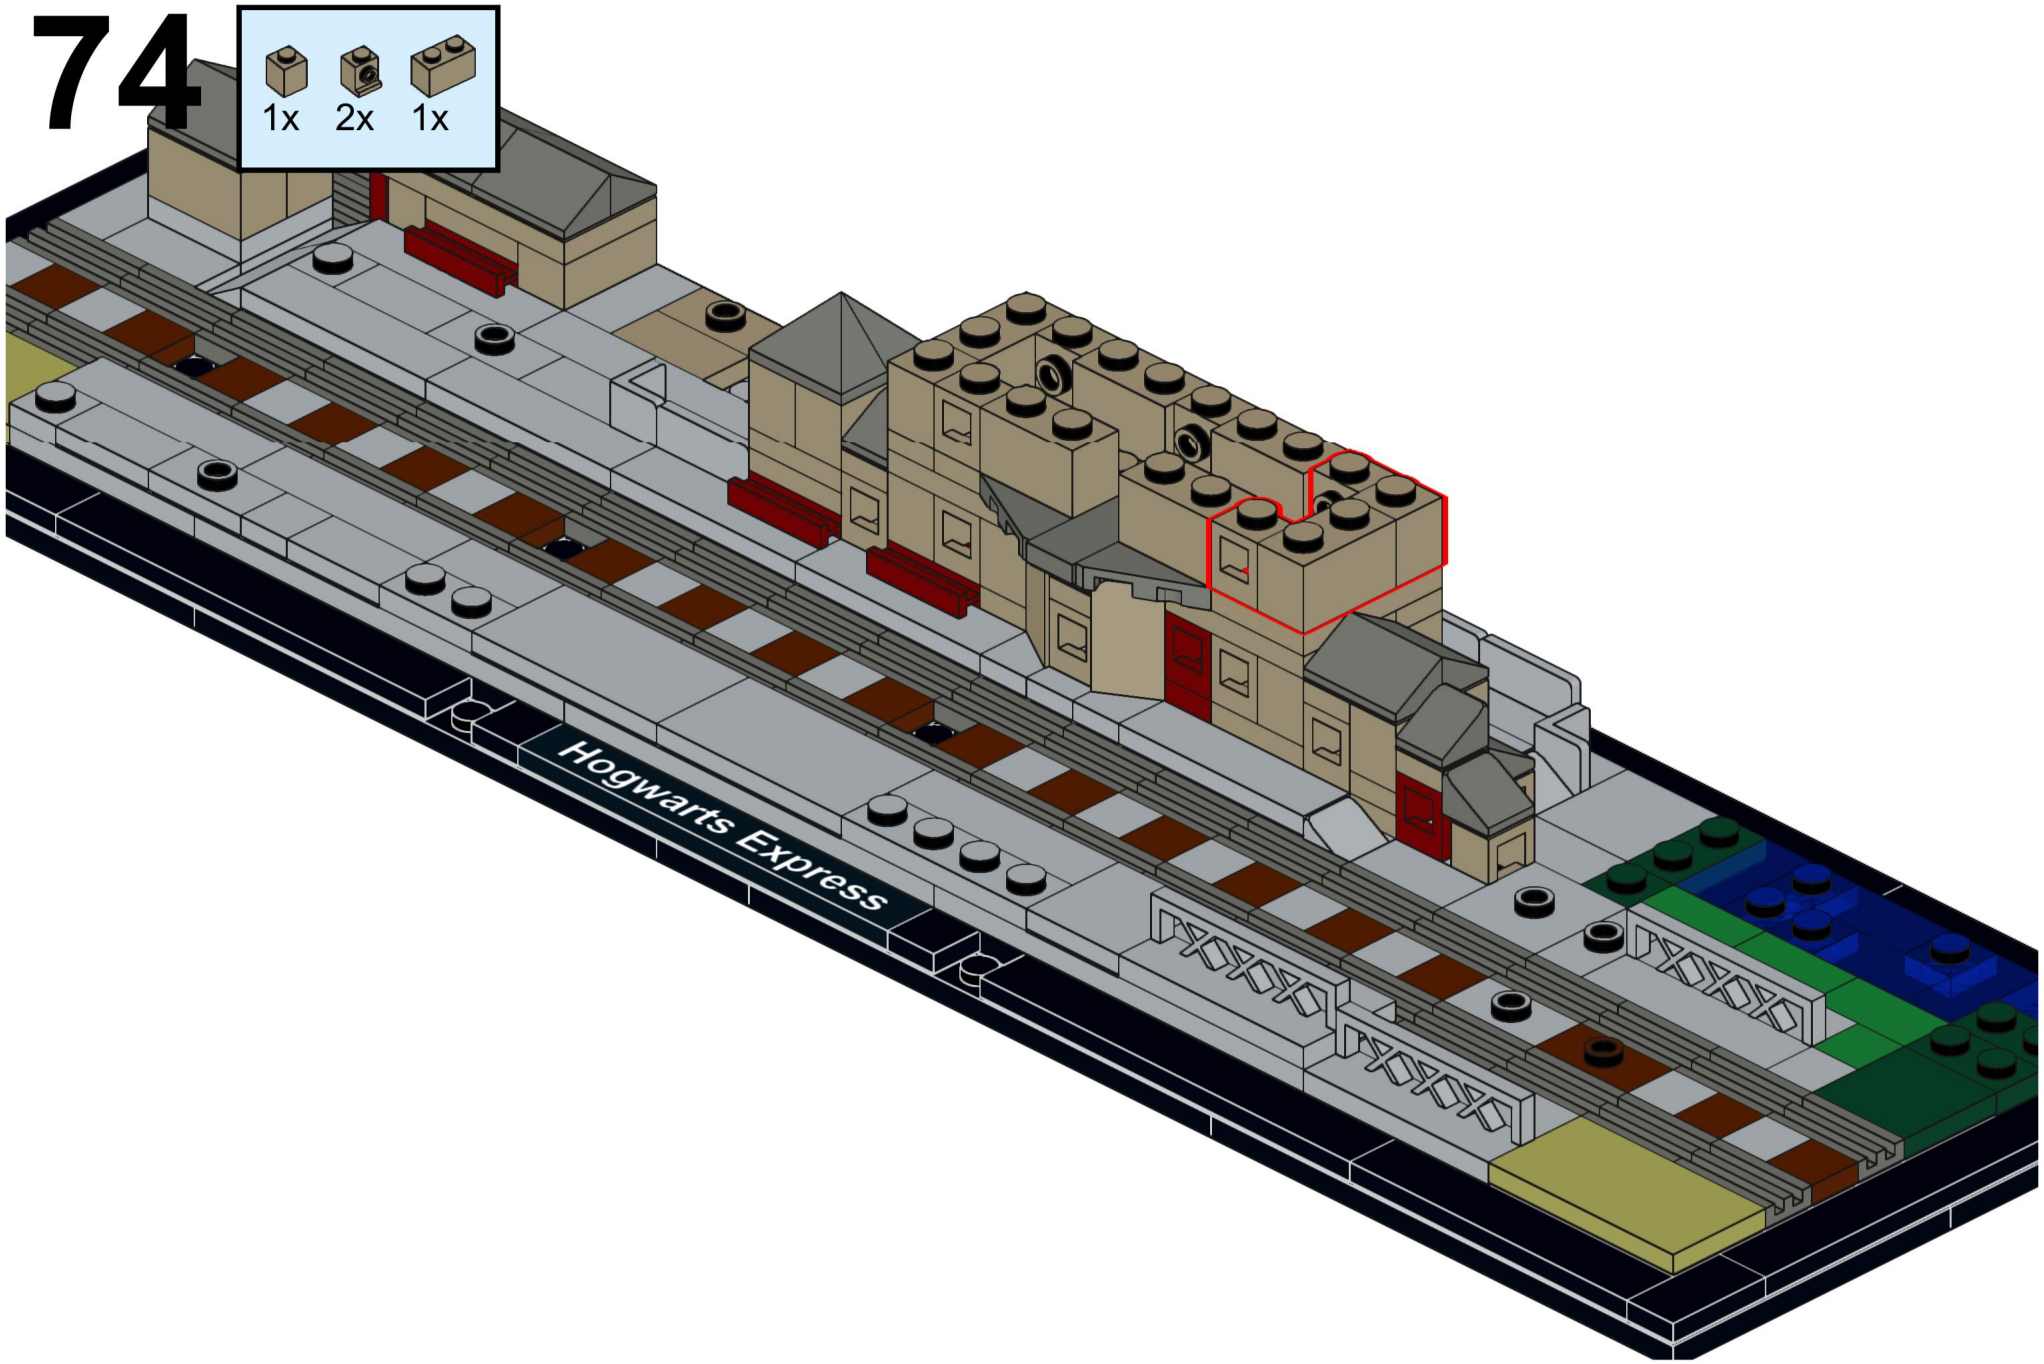

73

1x 4x

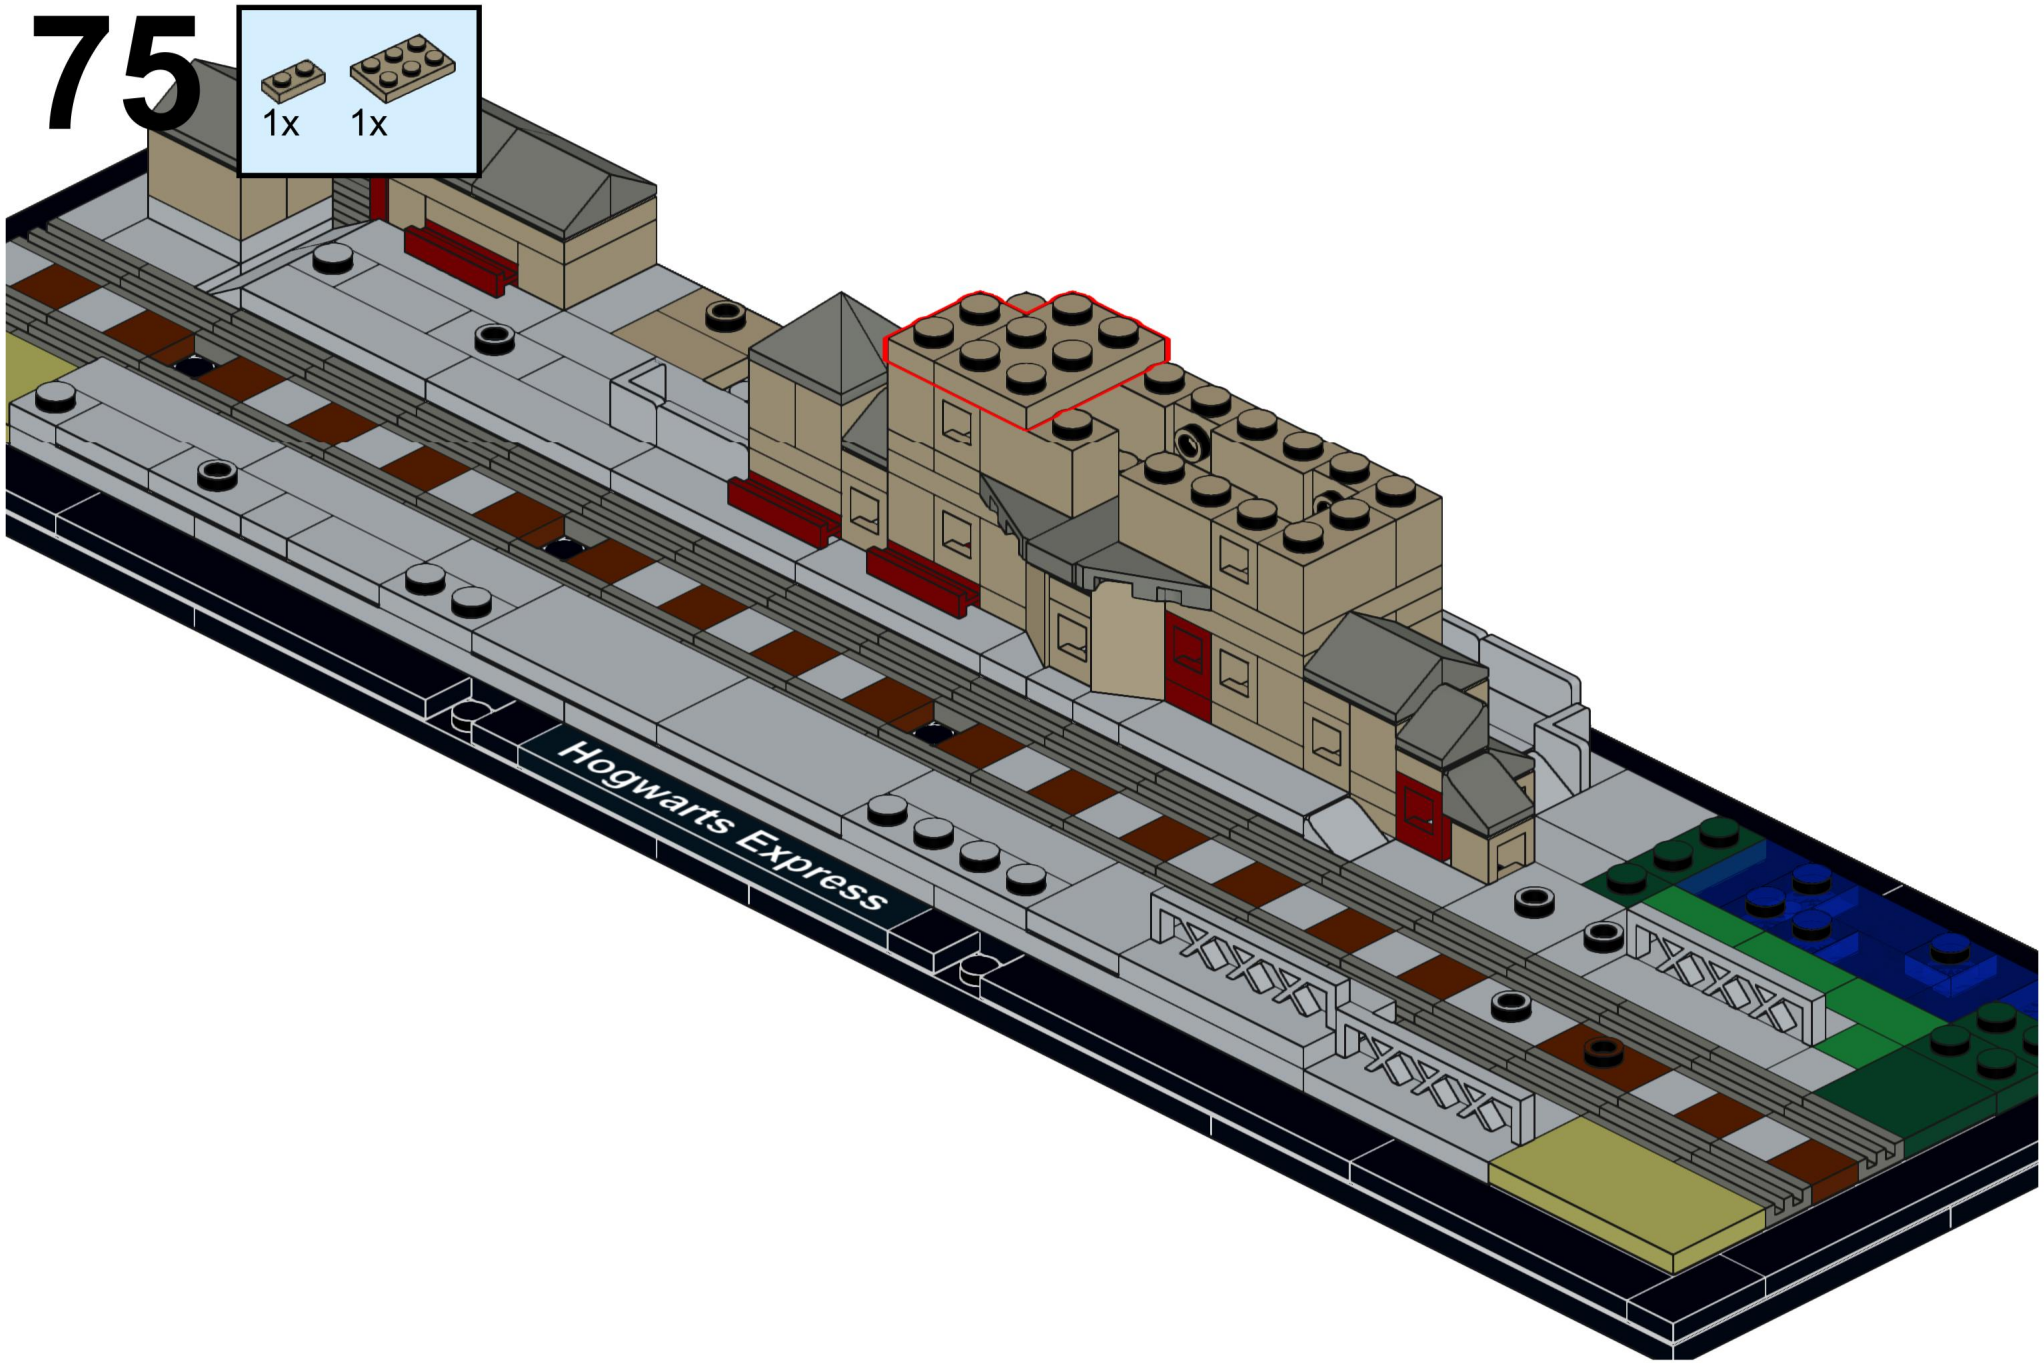

74

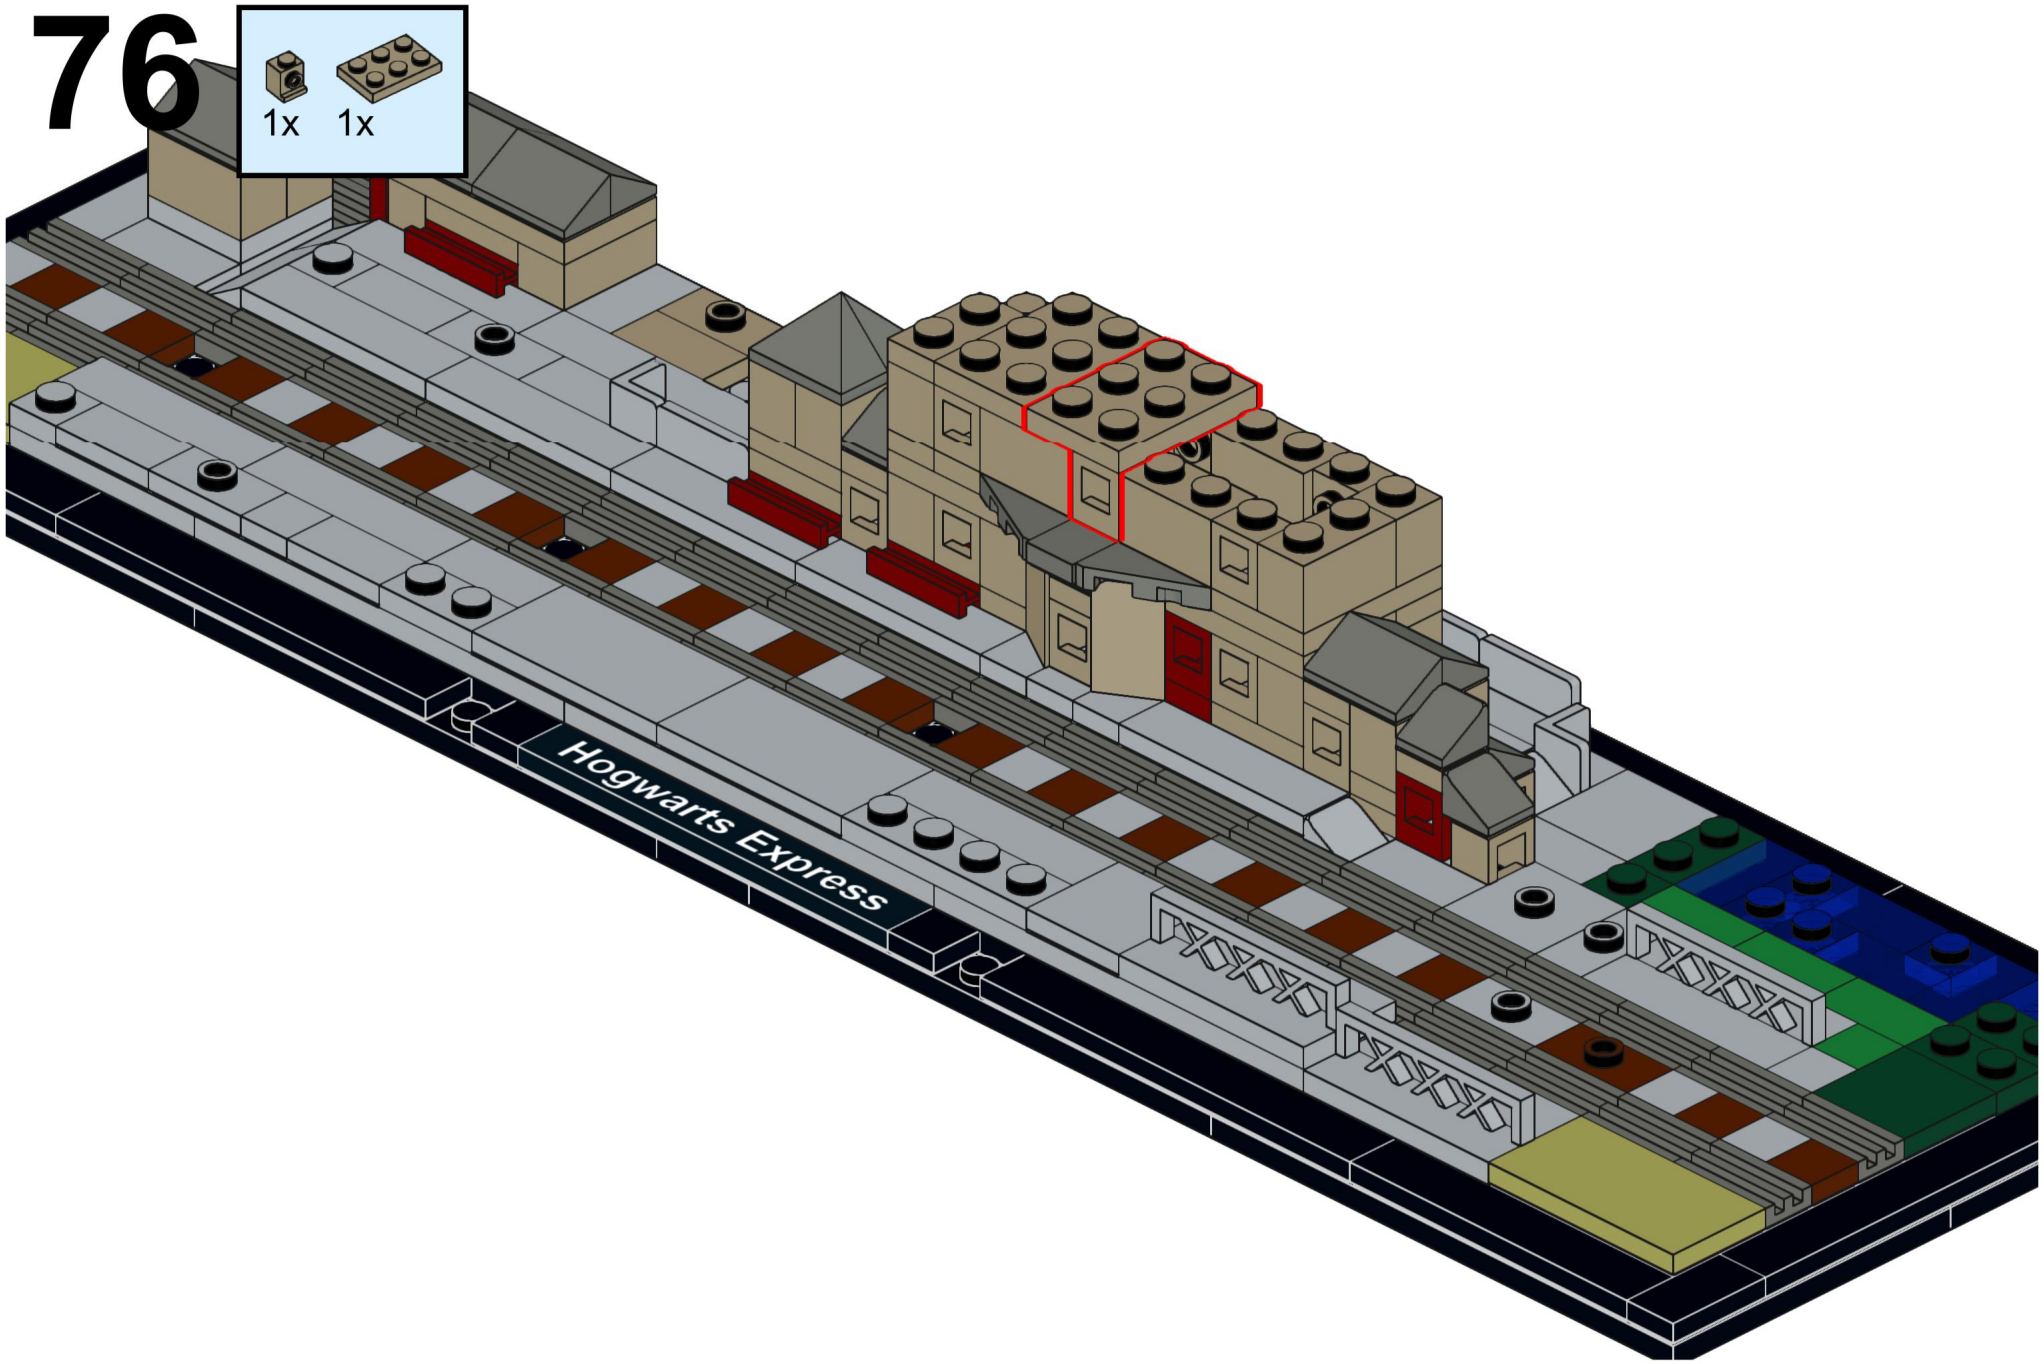

75

1x 1x

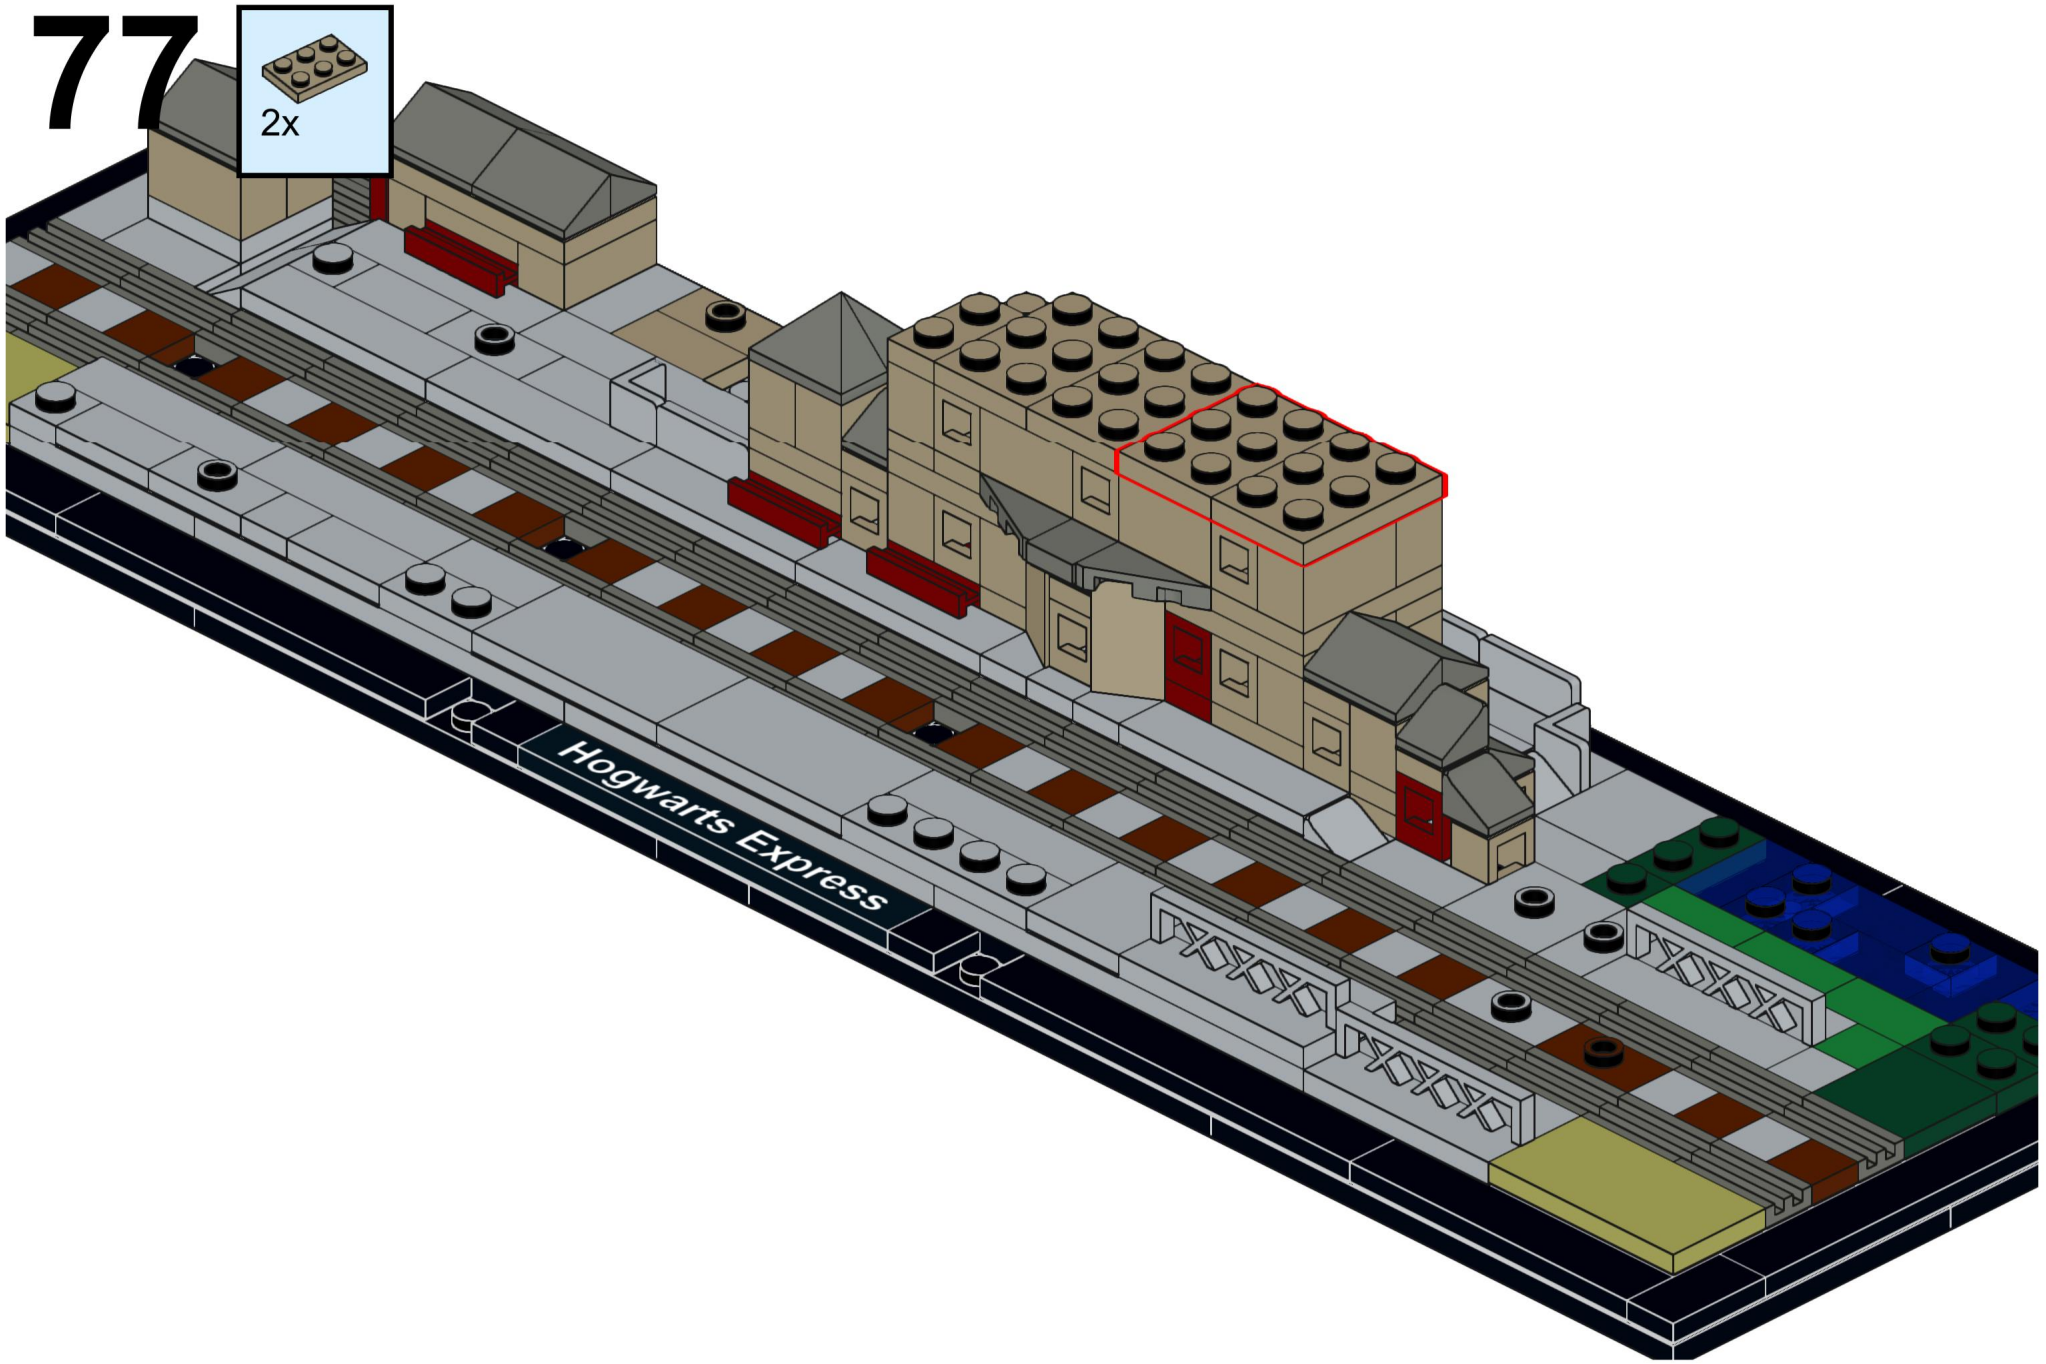

76

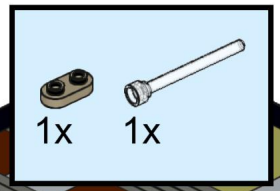

1x 1x

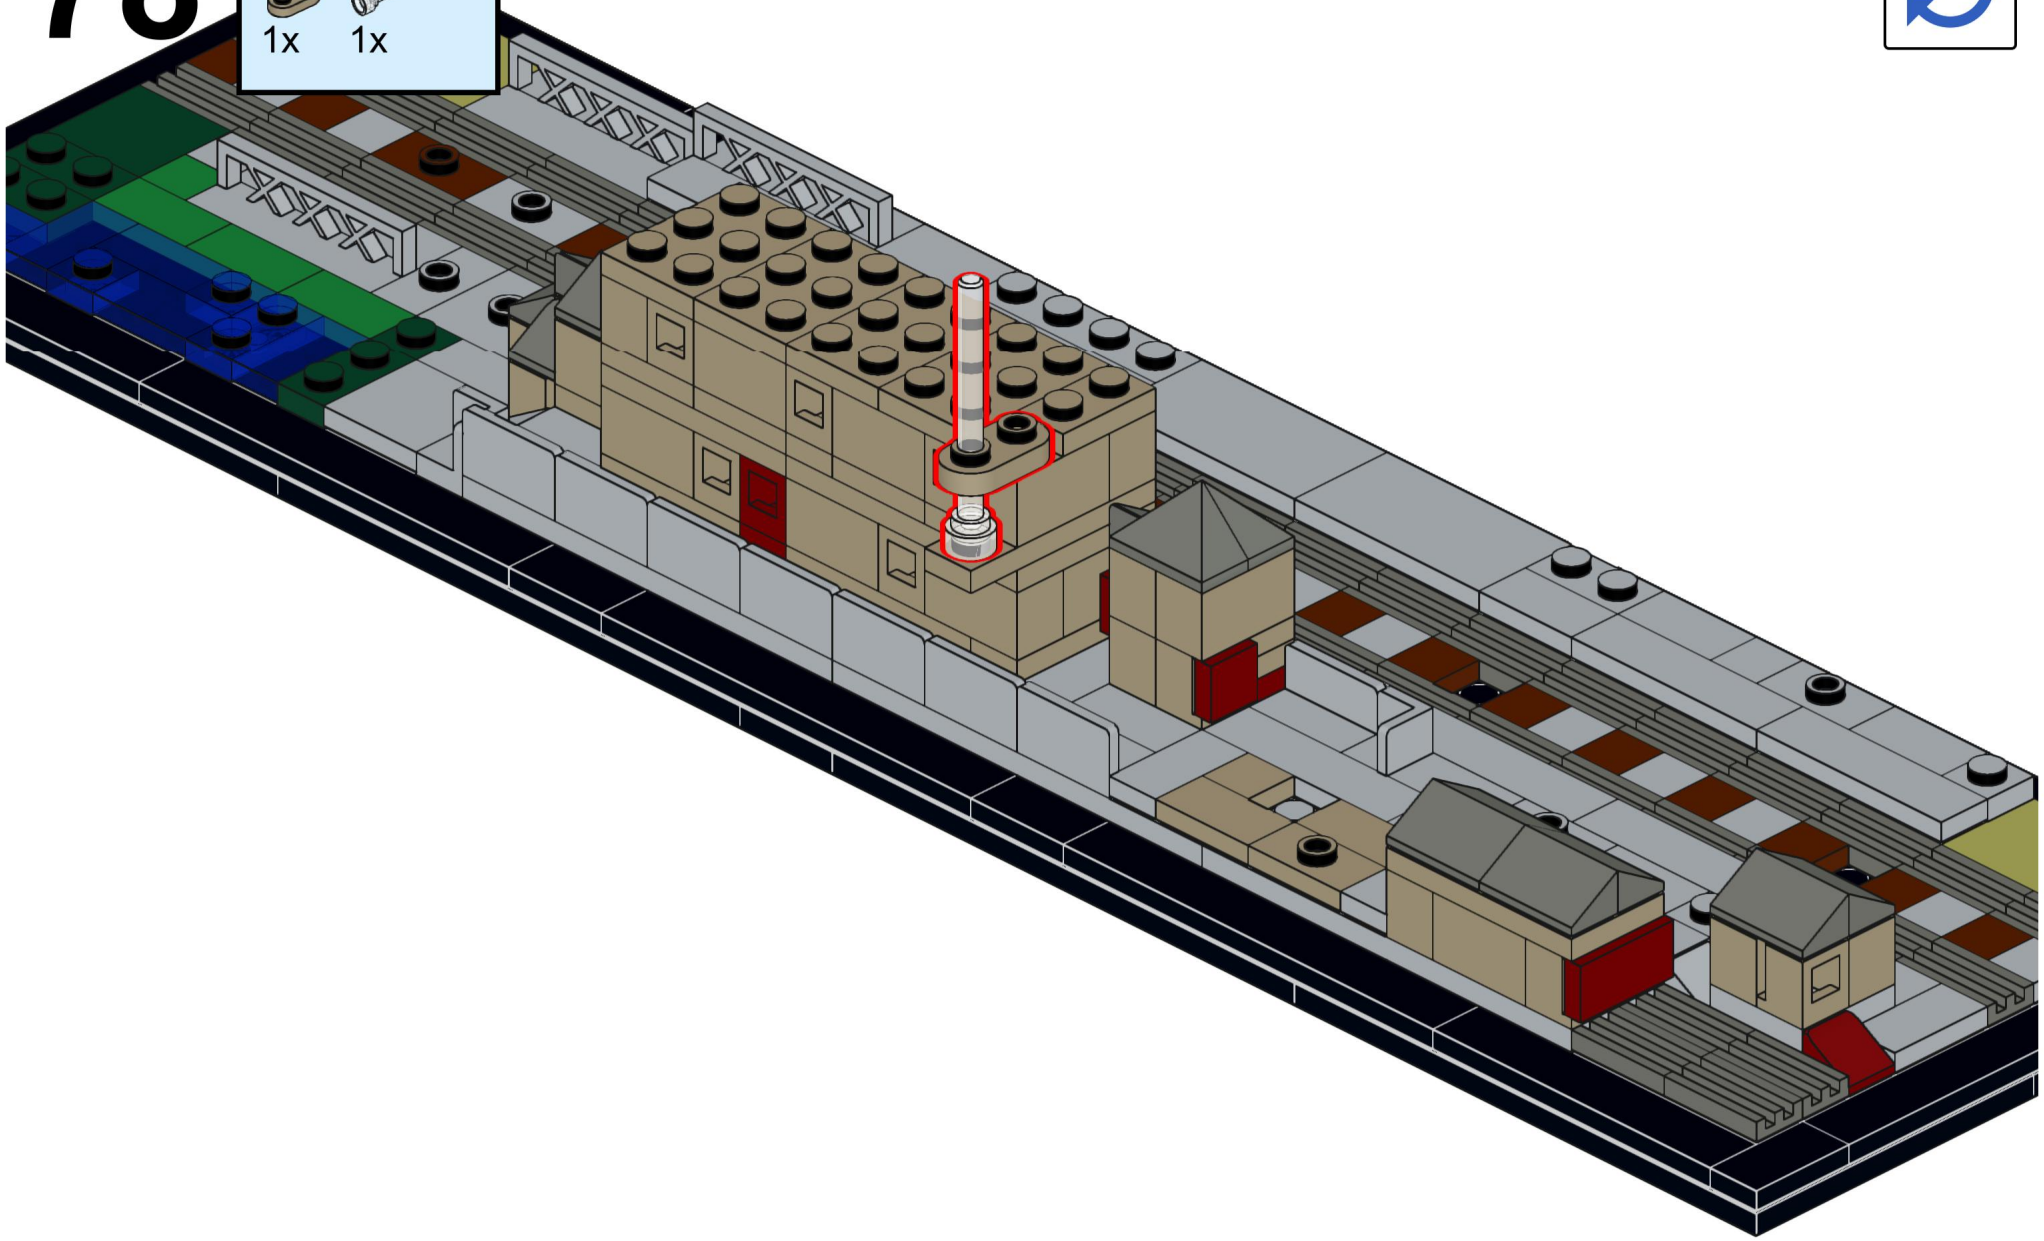

77

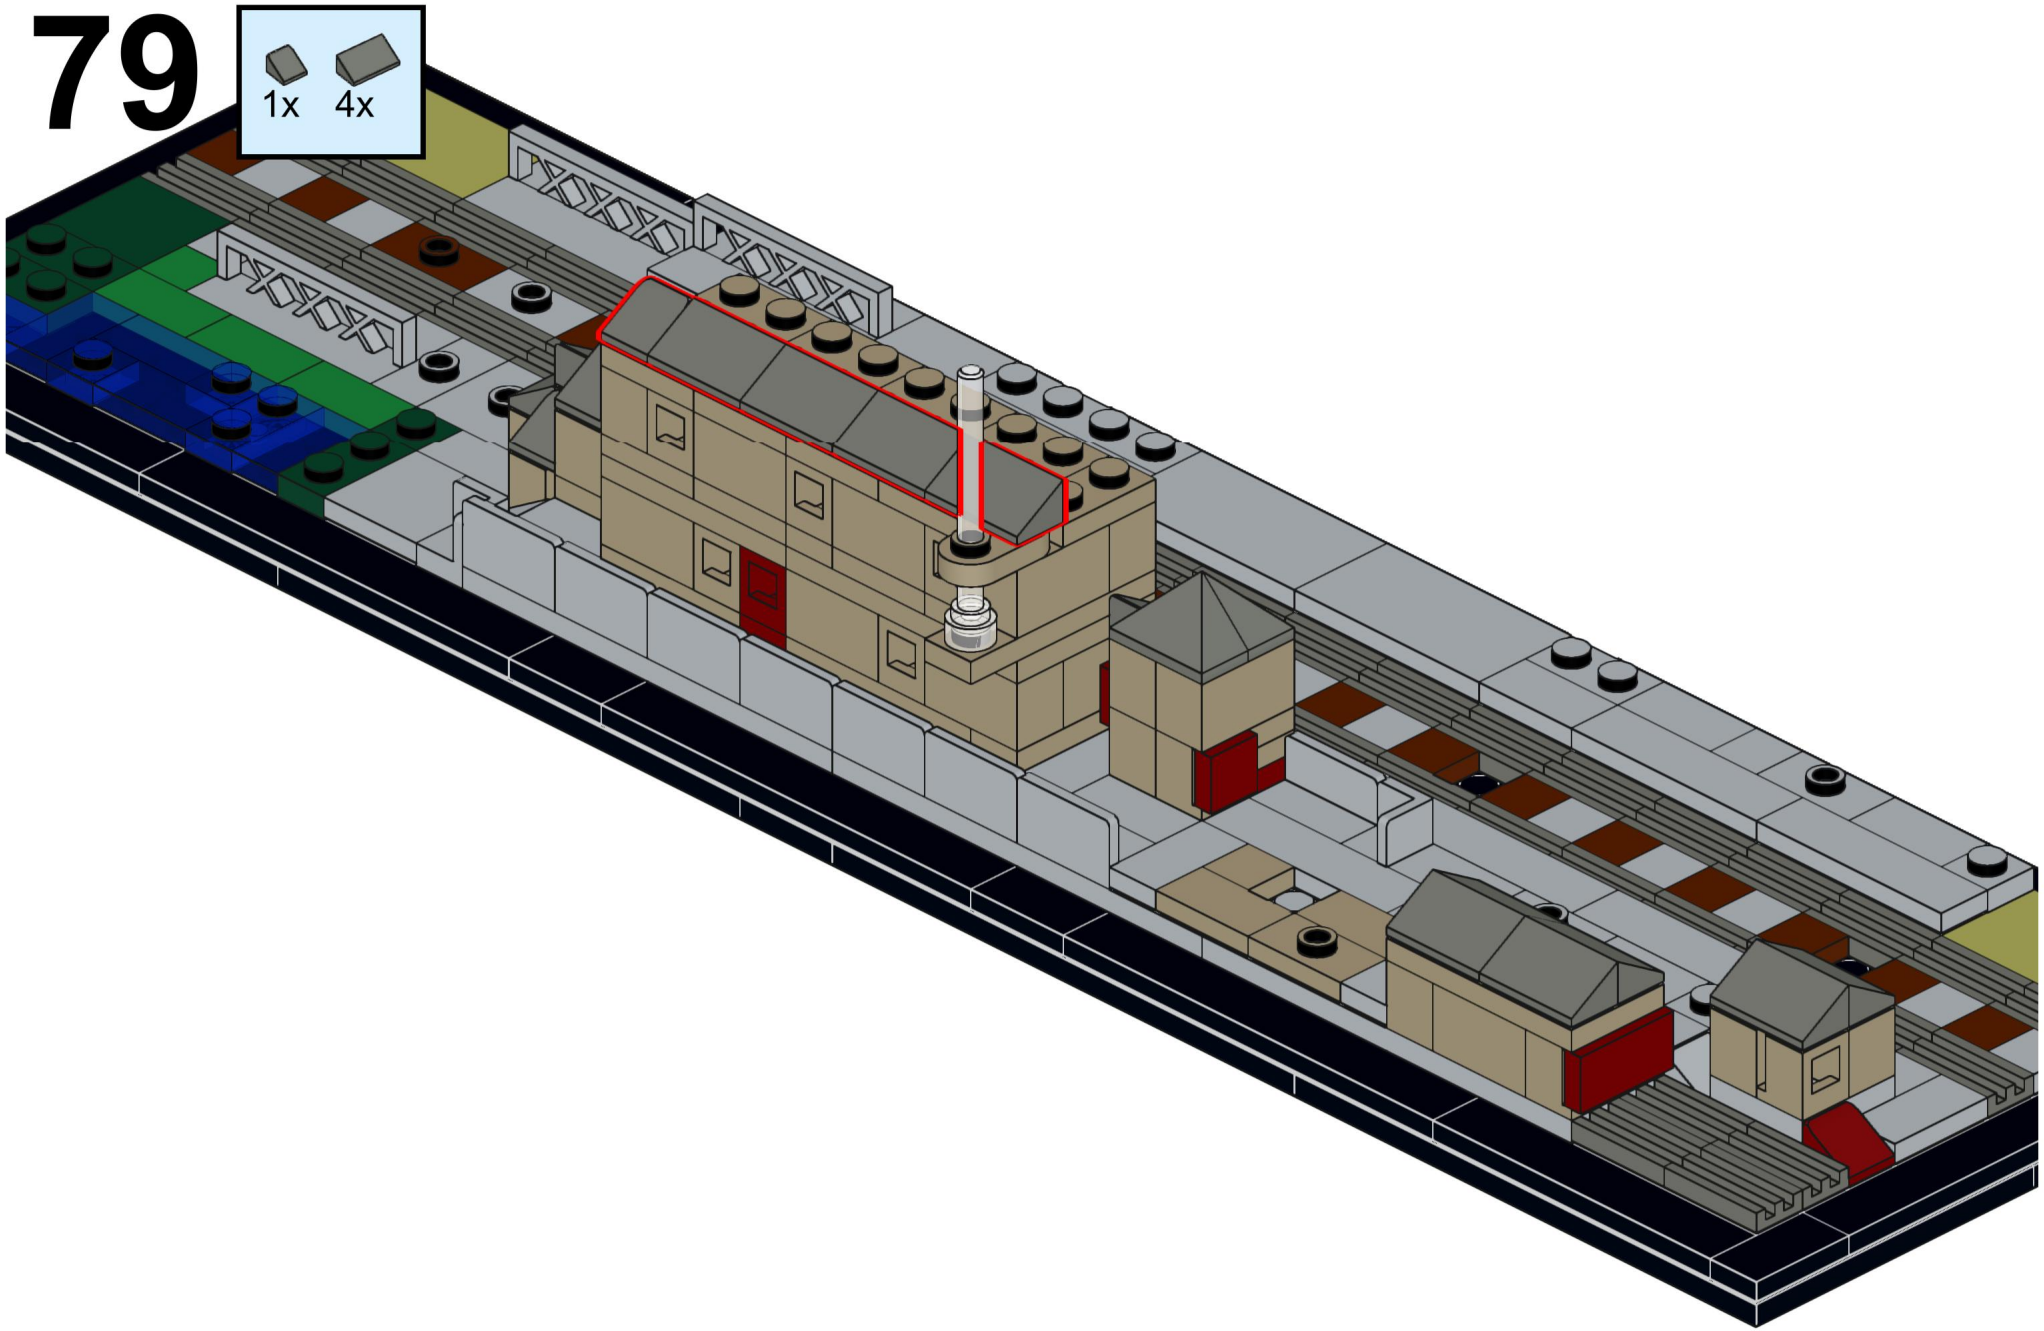

78

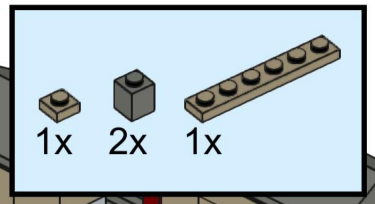

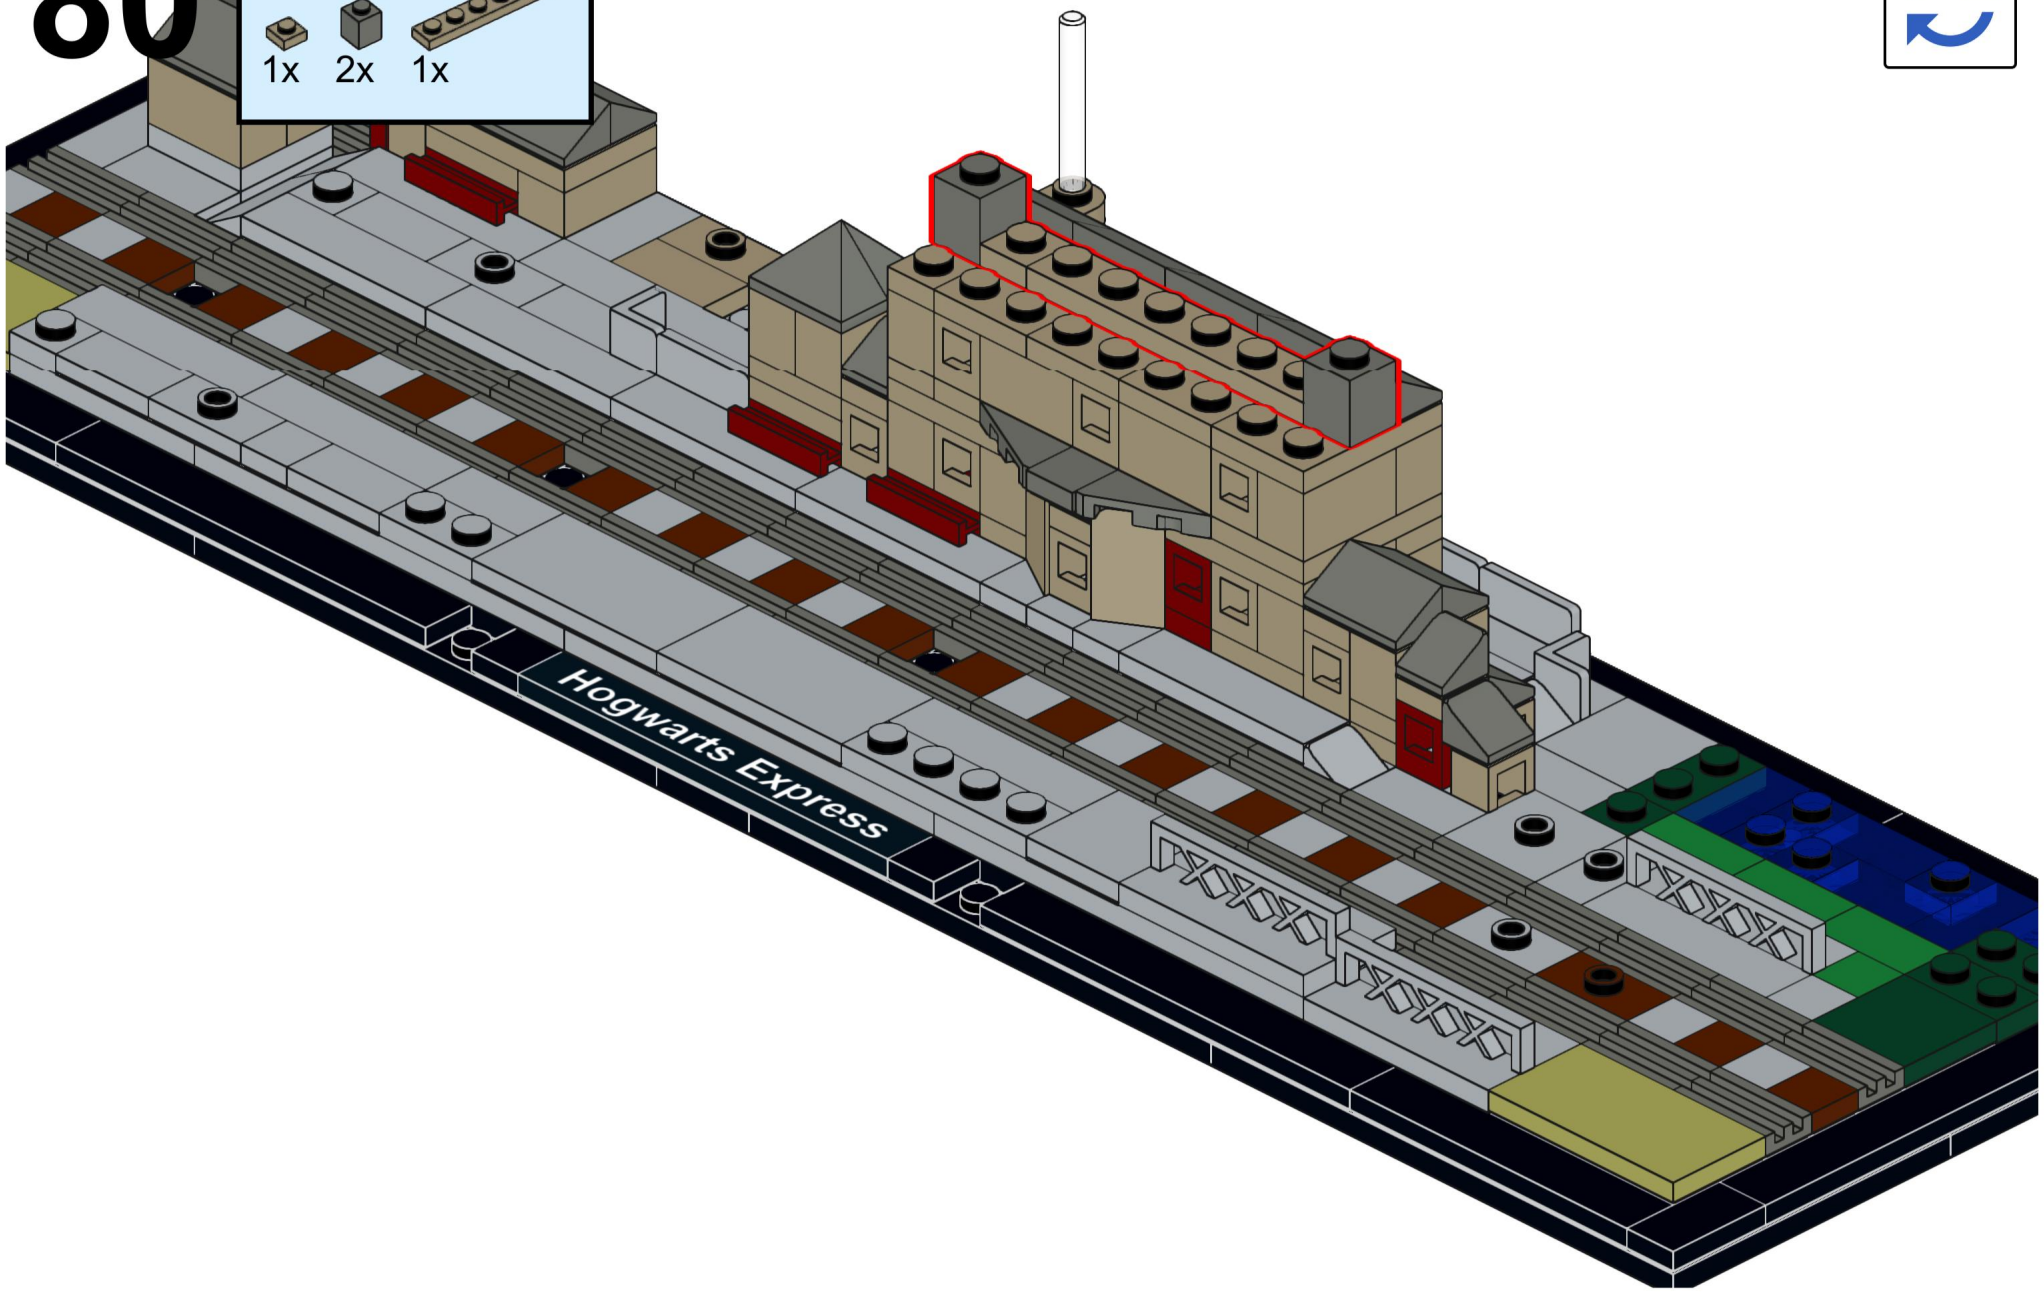

79

1x 4x

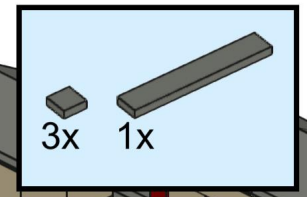

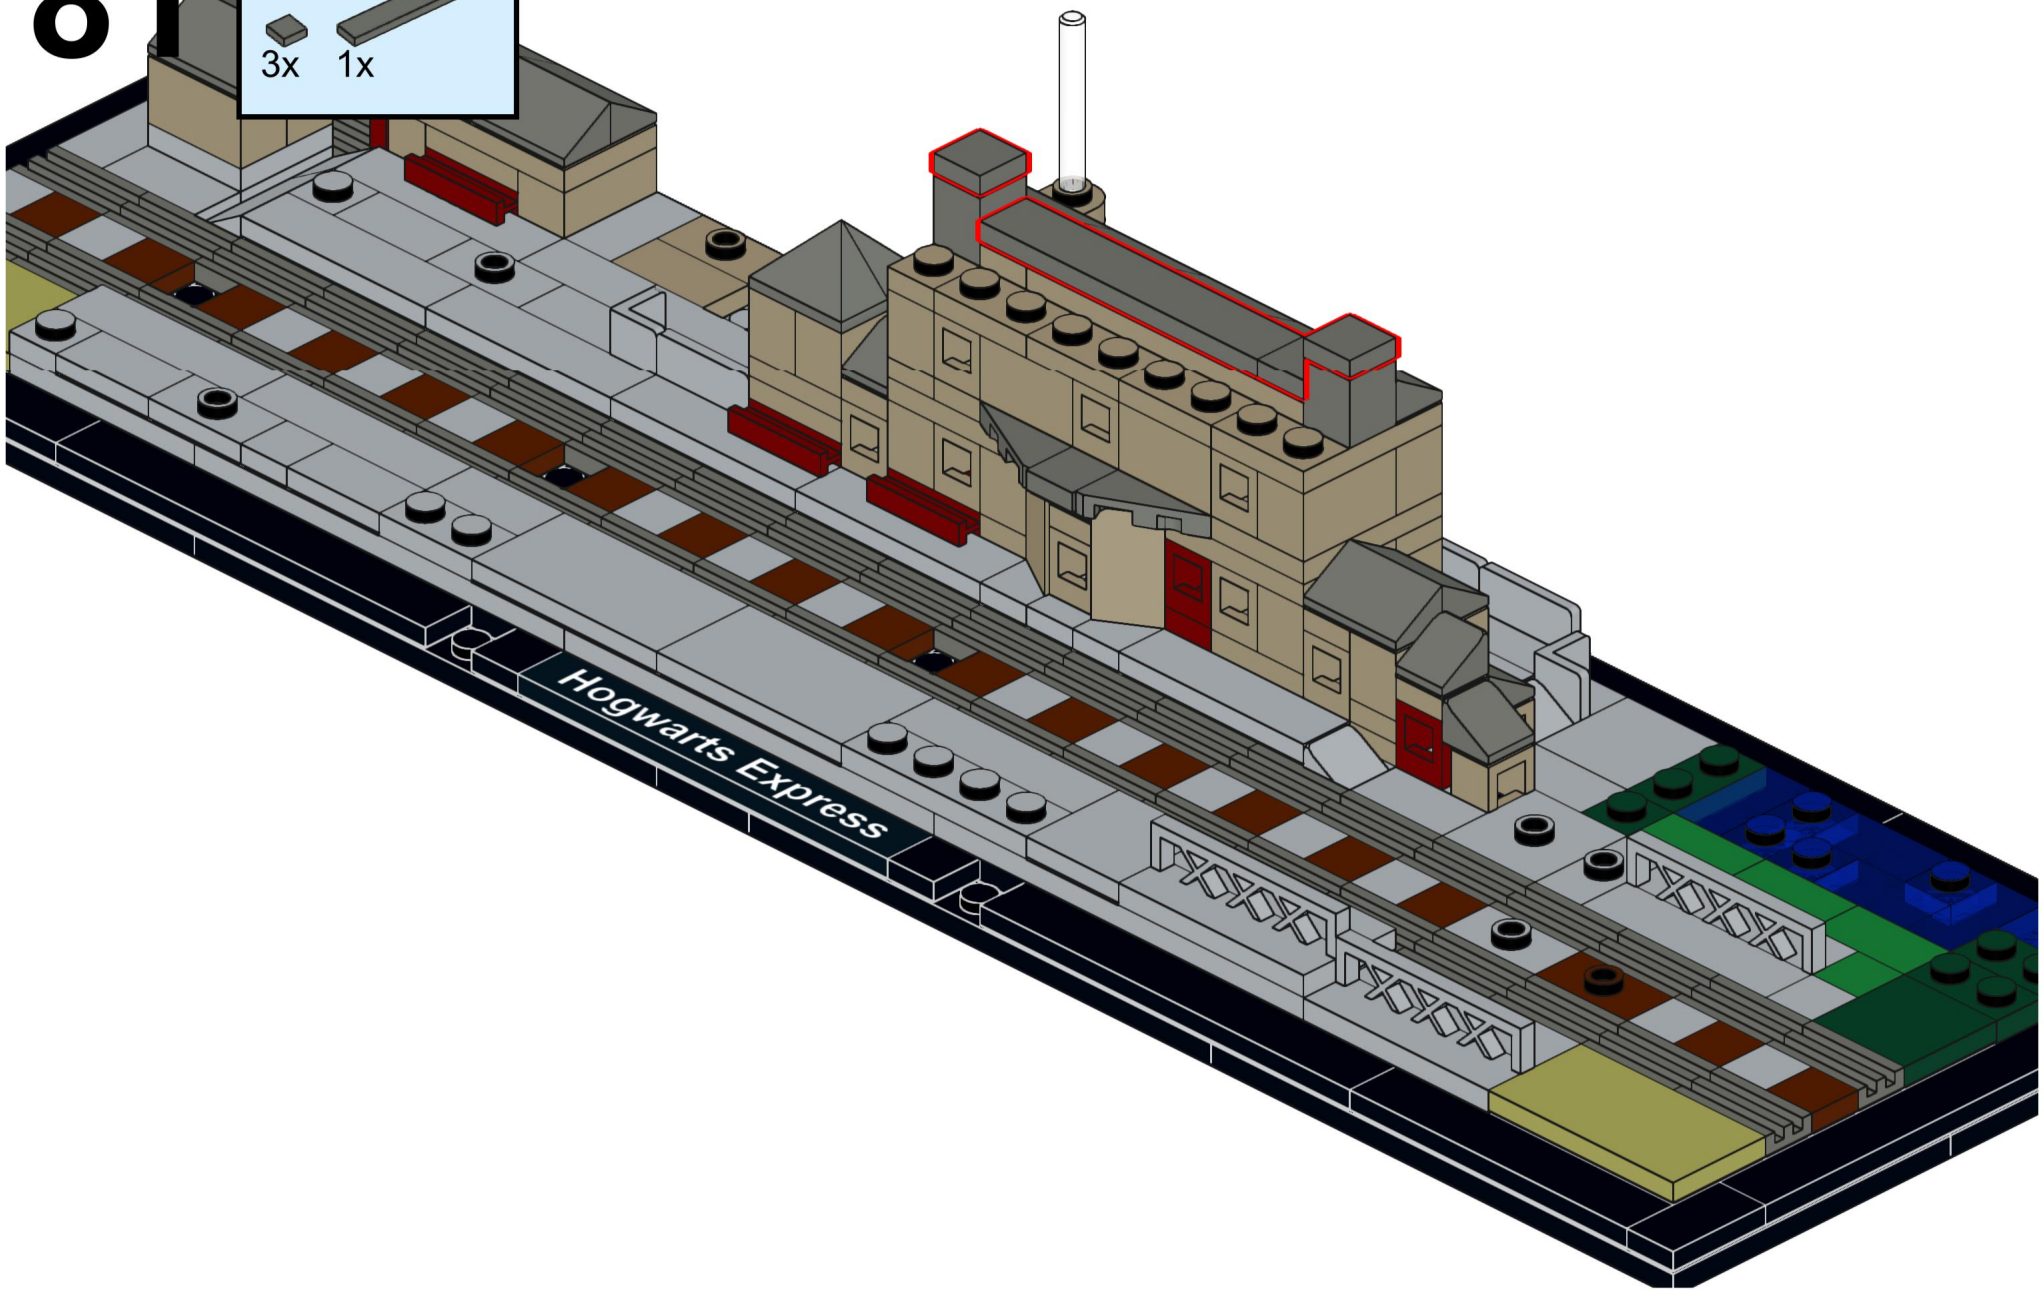

80

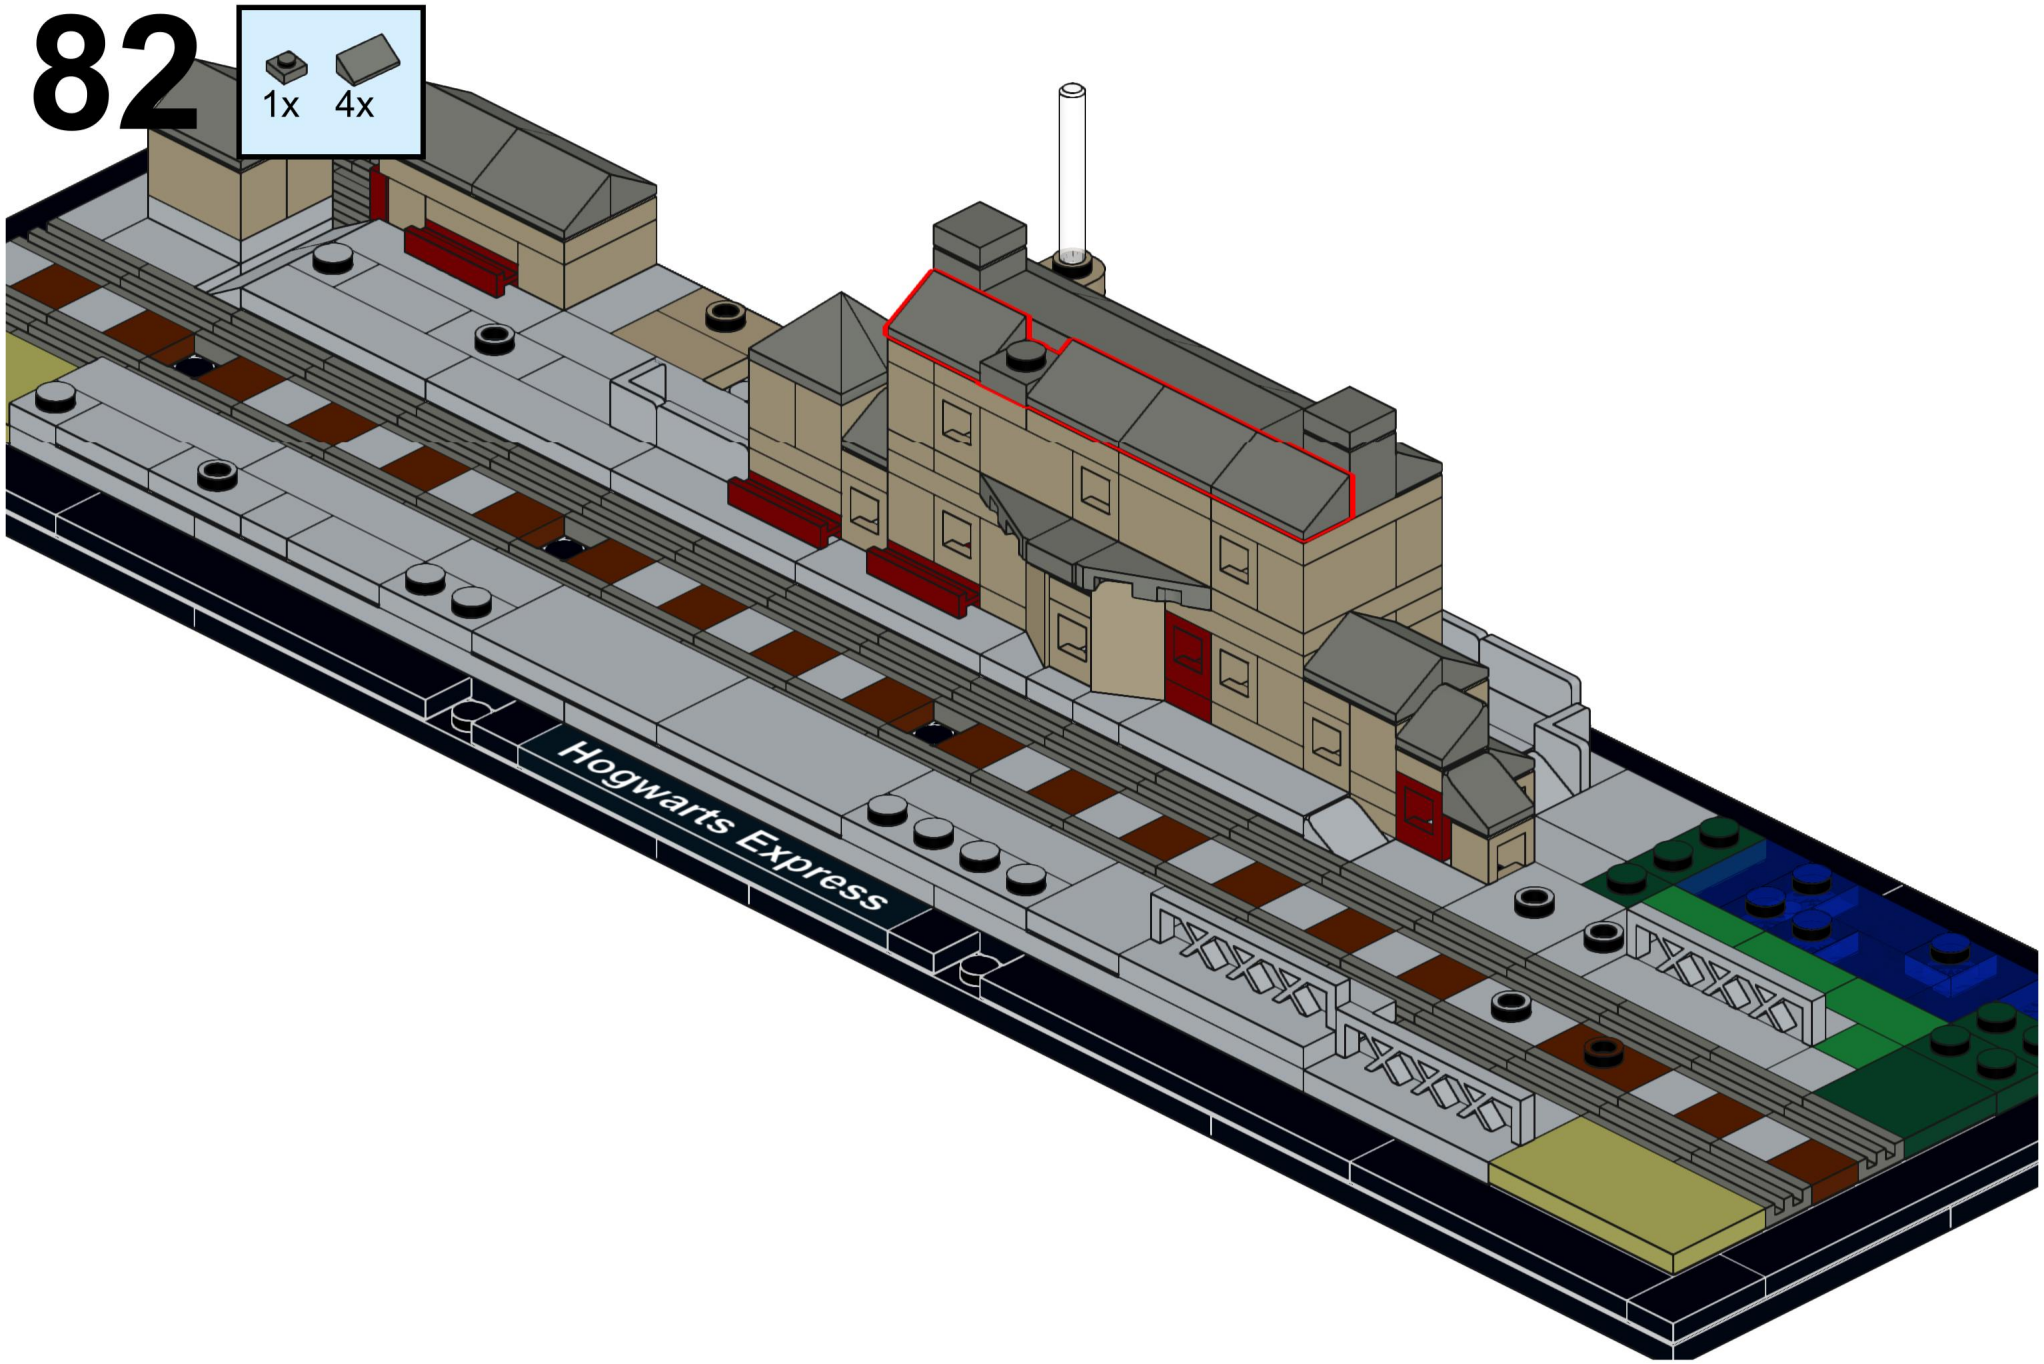

81

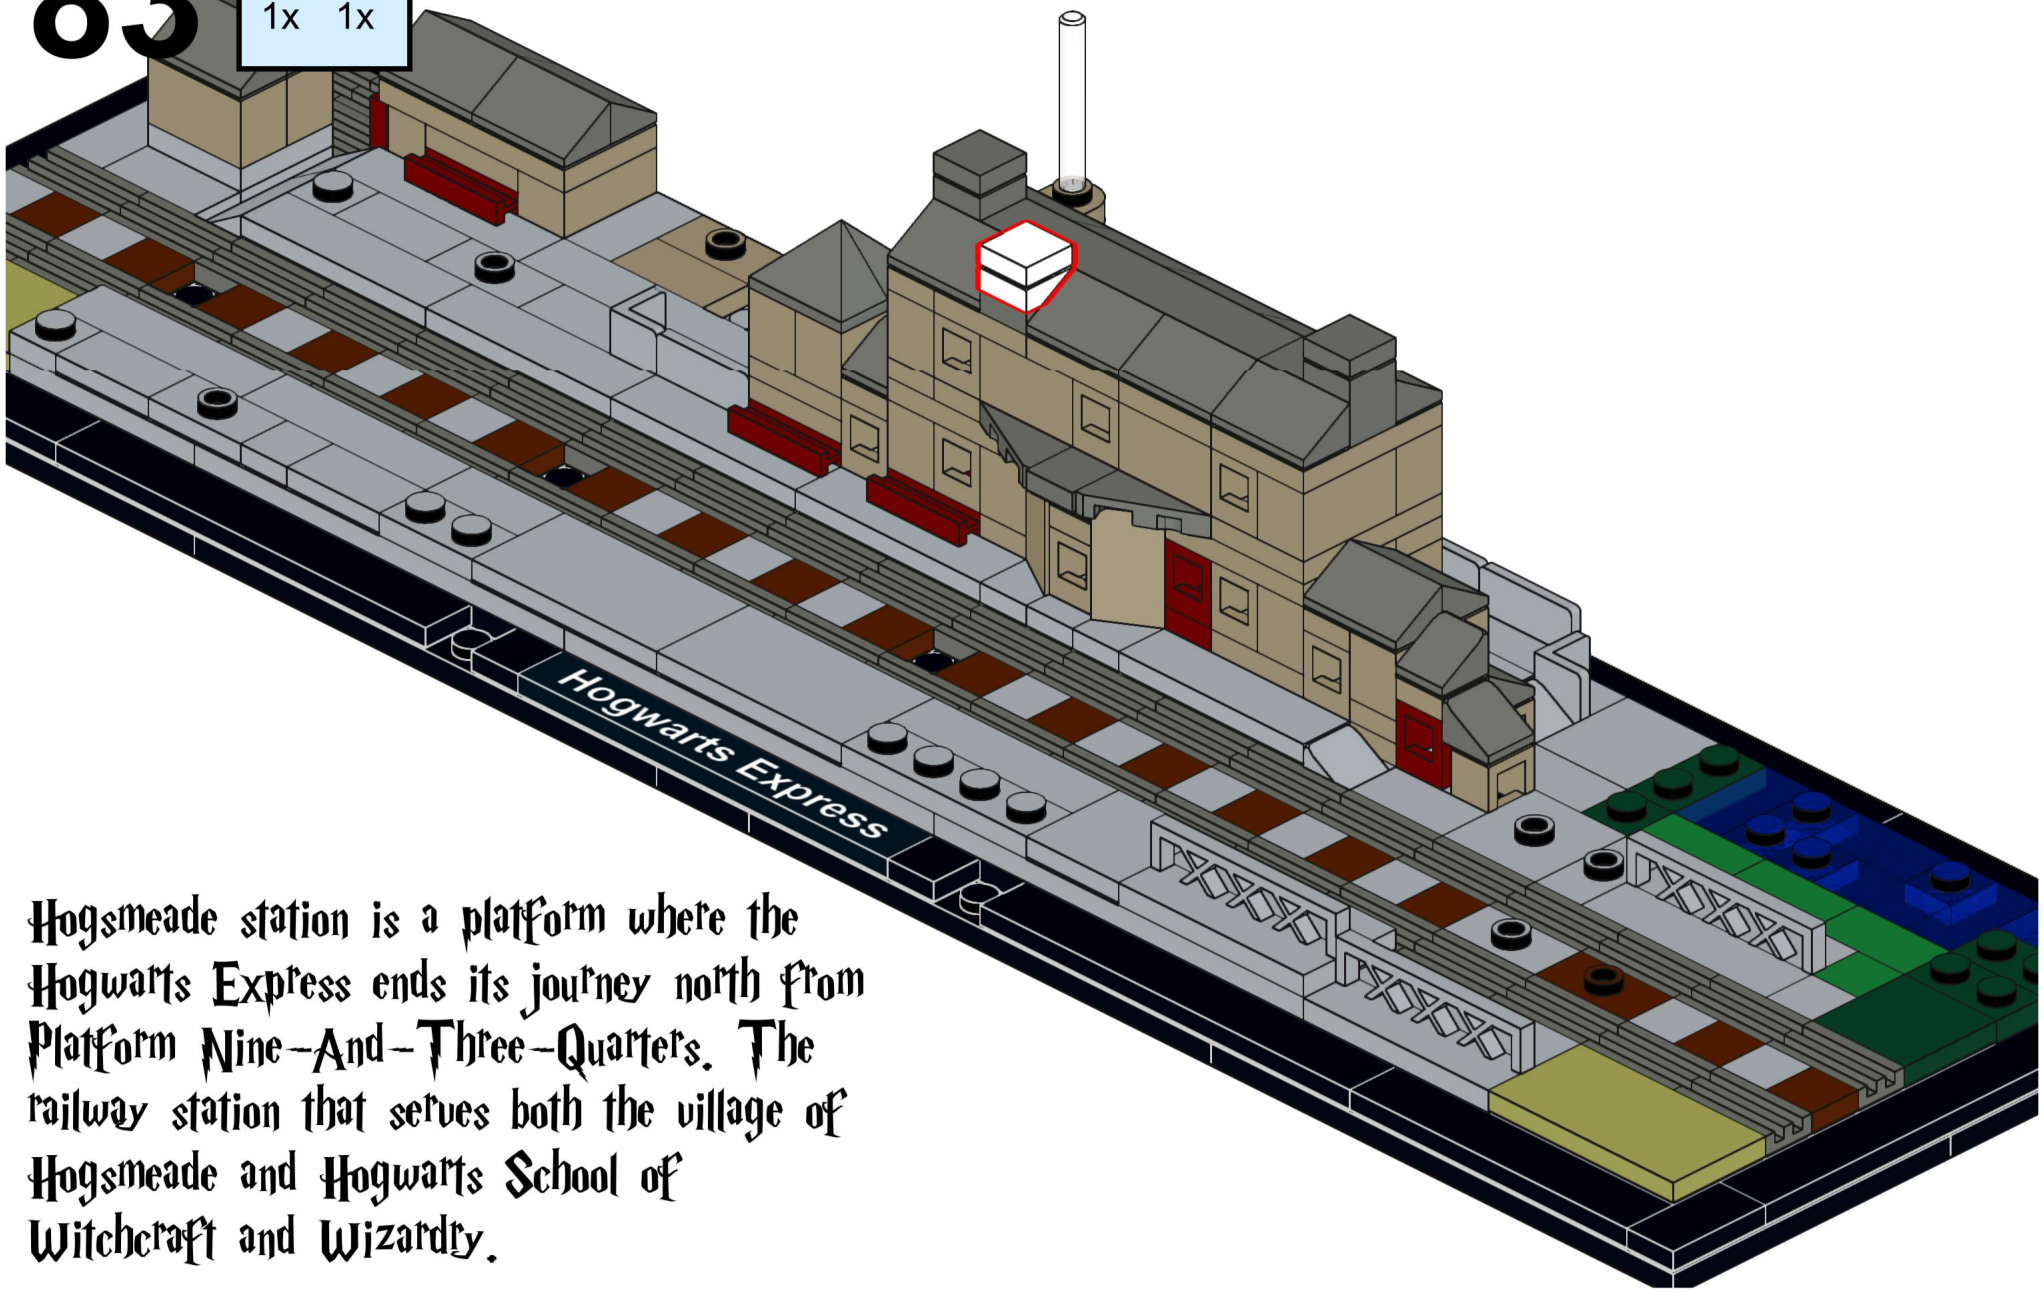

82

1x 4x

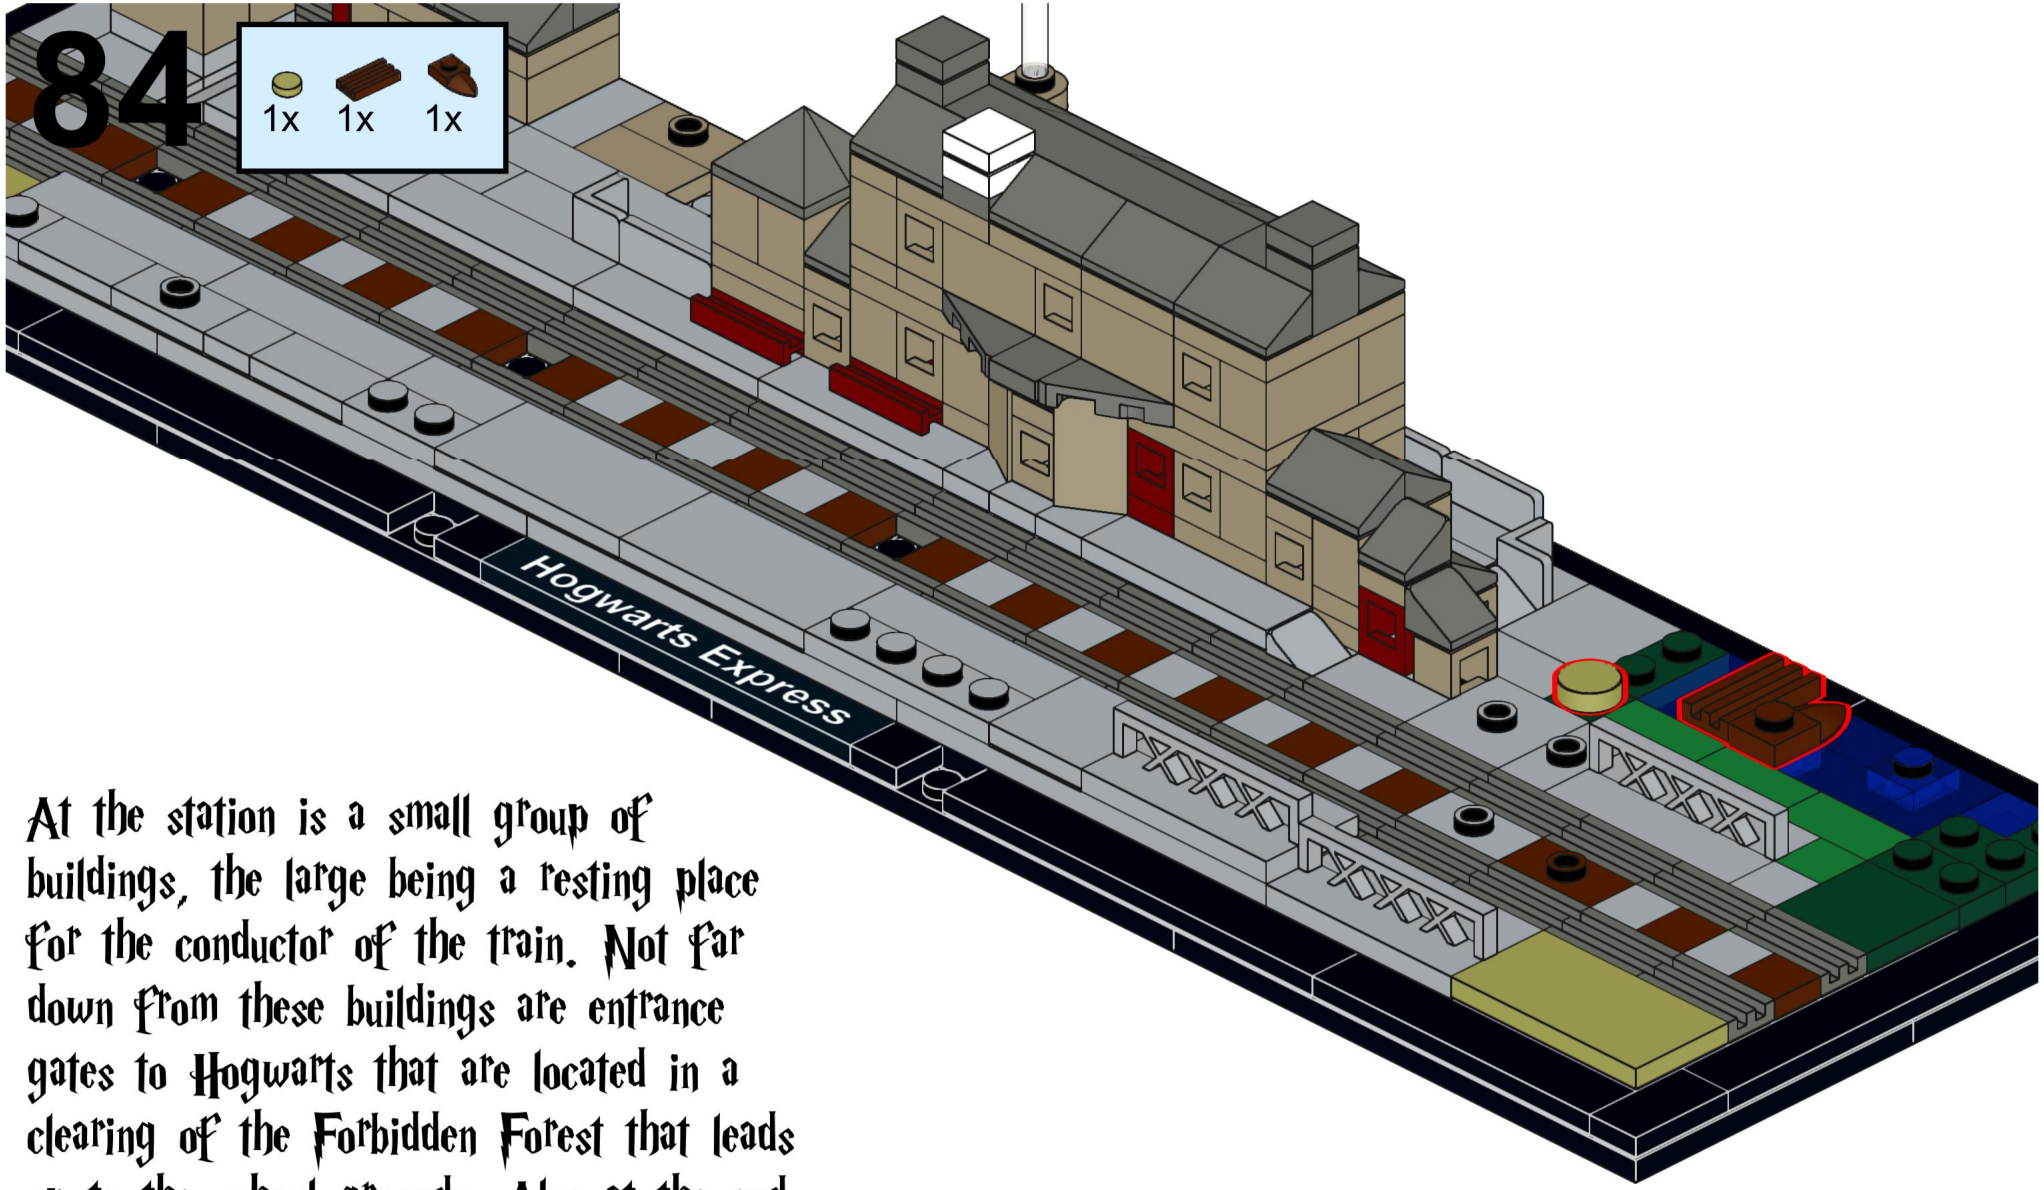

83

1x 1x

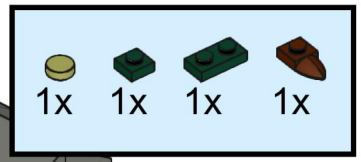

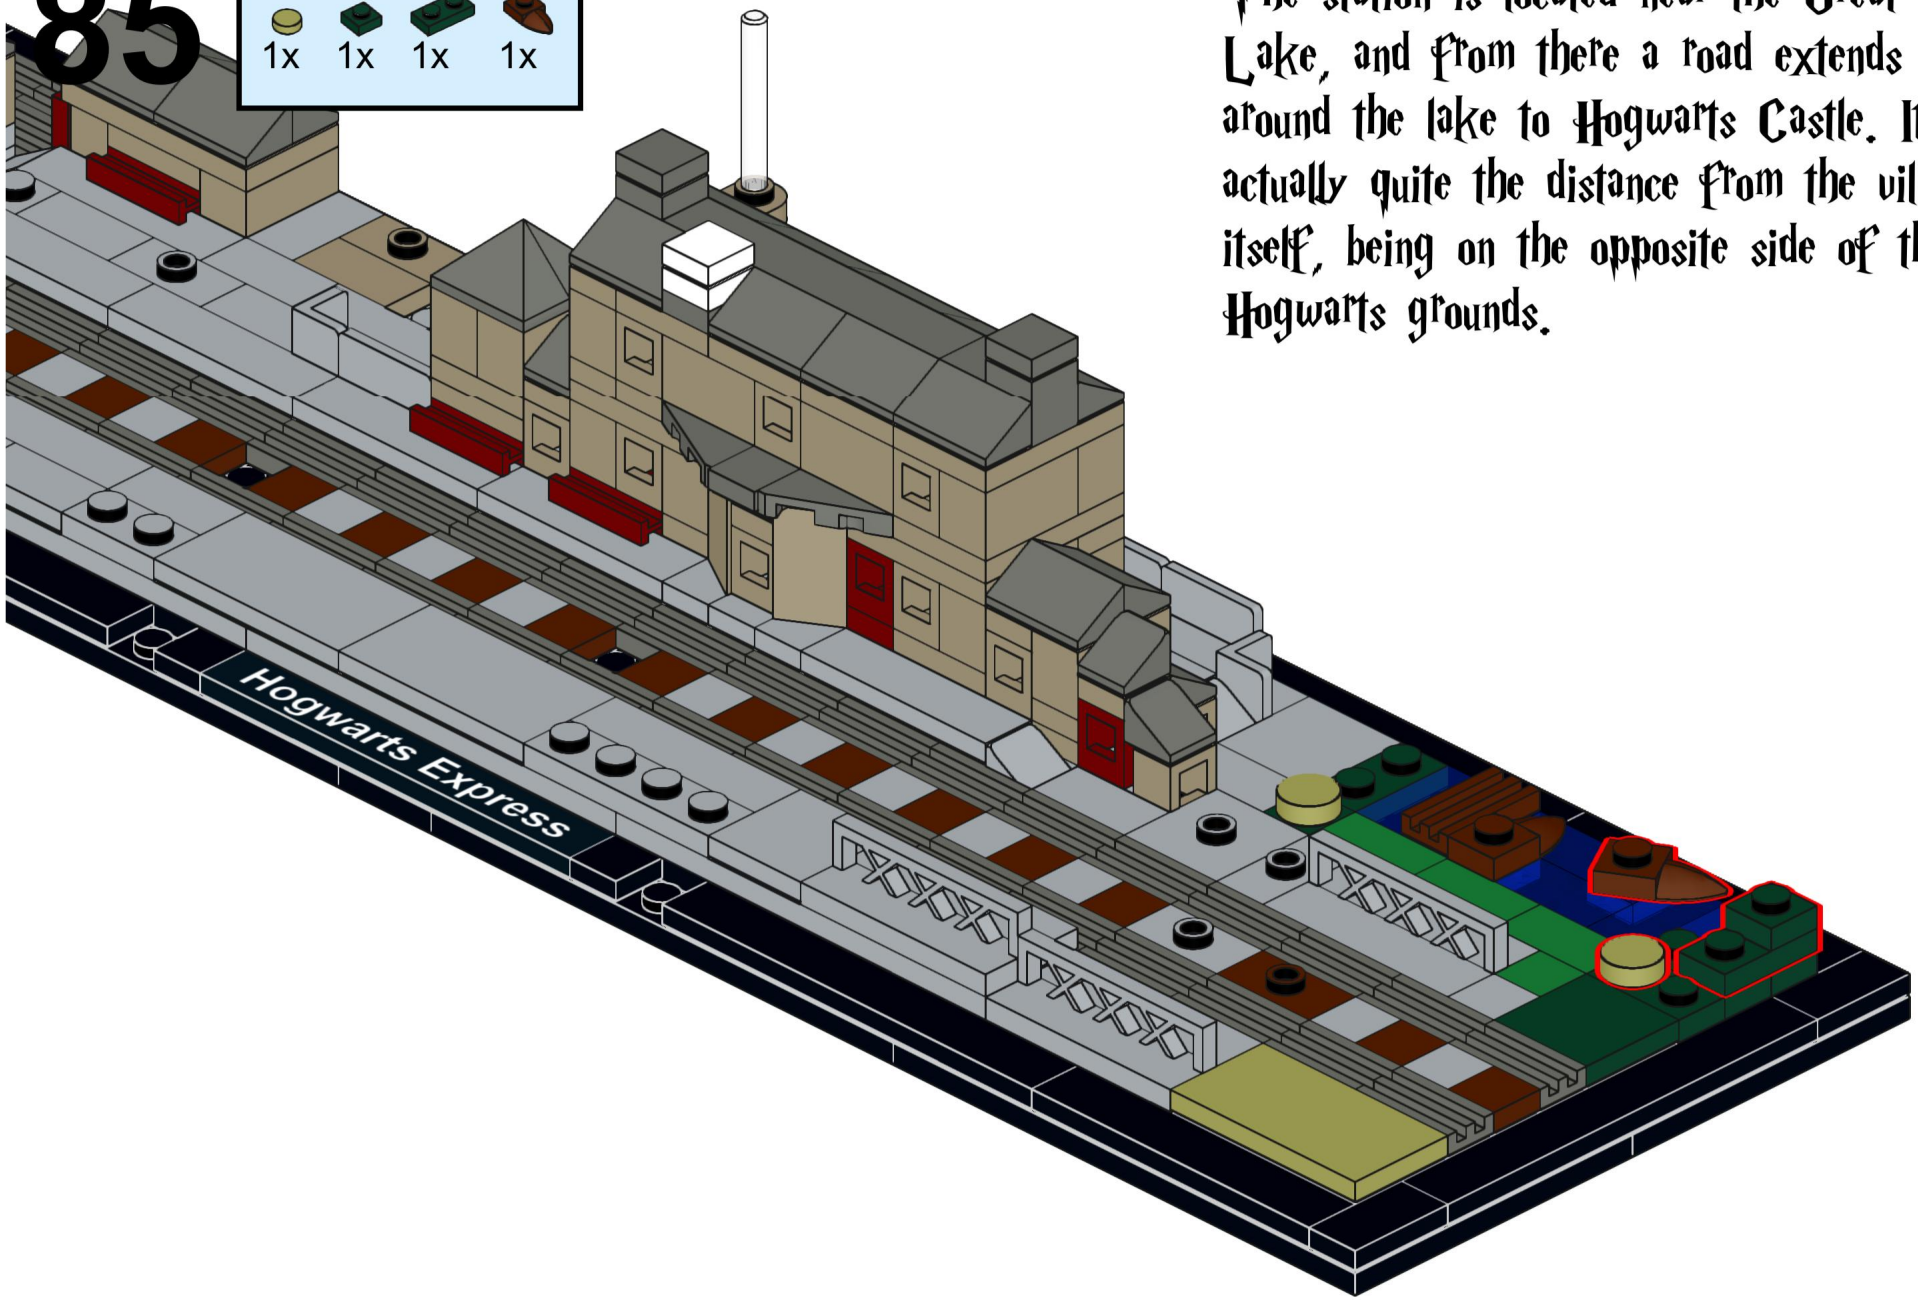

Hogsmeade station is a platform where the Hogwarts Express ends its journey north from Platform Nine-And-Three-Quarters. The railway station that serves both the village of Hogsmeade and Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry.

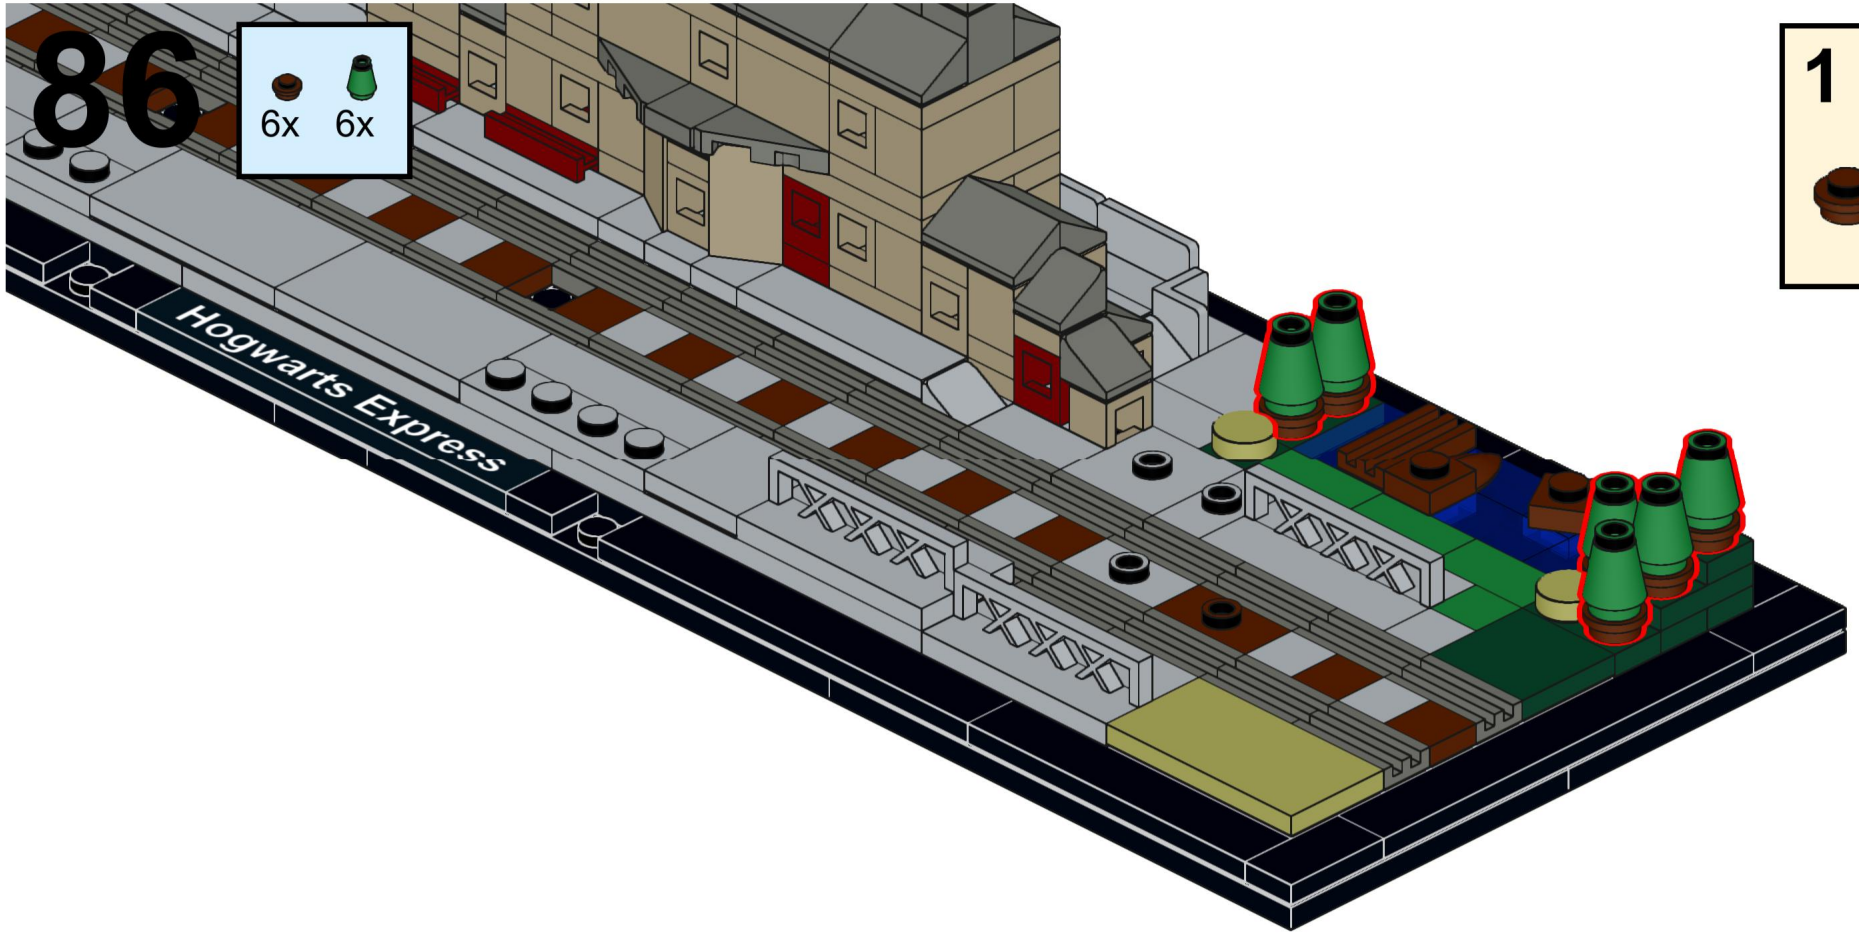

At the station is a small group of buildings, the large being a resting place for the conductor of the train. Not far down from these buildings are entrance gates to Hogwarts that are located in a clearing of the Forbidden Forest that leads up to the school grounds. Also at the end of the platform, boats are docked awaiting the arrival of Groundskeeper Rubeus Hagrid and the First years.

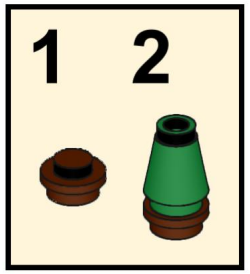

85

The station is located near the Great Lake, and from there a road extends around the lake to Hogwarts Castle. It is actually quite the distance from the village itself, being on the opposite side of the Hogwarts grounds.

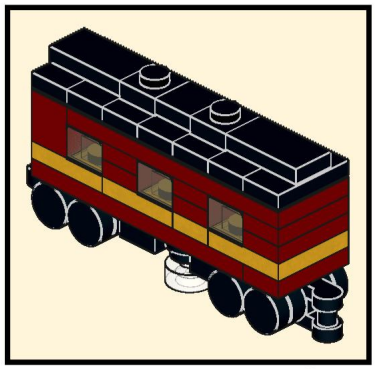

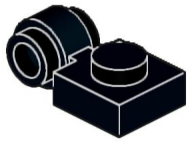

The Great Lake (alternatively known as the Black Lake) is a large body of water, freshwater and landlocked, located to the south of Hogwarts Castle. It is about half a mile in diameter and the castle's plumbing network drains into it. Every school year at Hogwarts, after the Hogwarts Express arrives at Hogsmeade Station, Rubeus Hagrid calls the first year students to follow him to the lake shore and the magic boats. Whereupon Hagrid occupies one boat and each other boat carries up to four students. The boats then self-propels across the lake to a dock under Hogwarts Castle as per tradition.

87

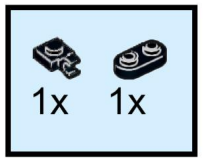

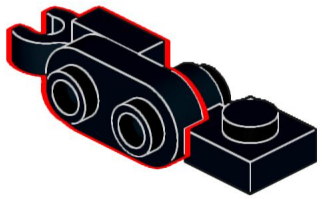

3x

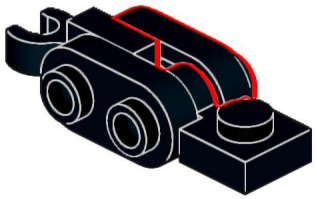

88

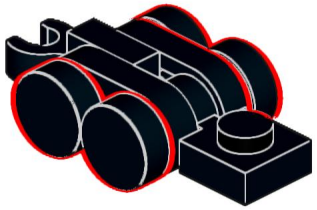

89

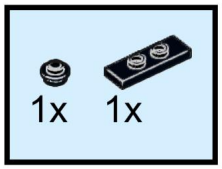

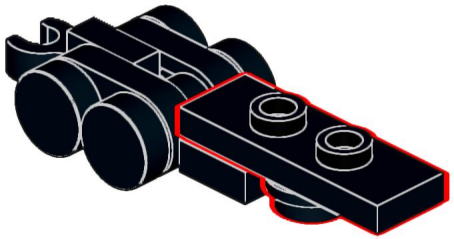

90

4x

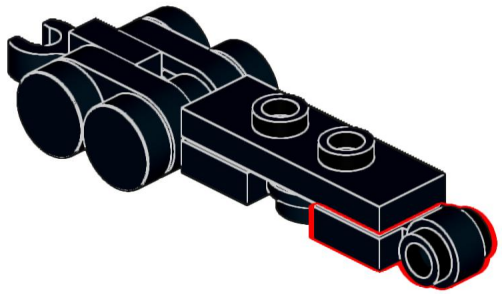

91

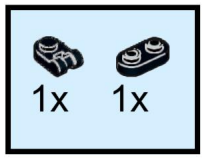

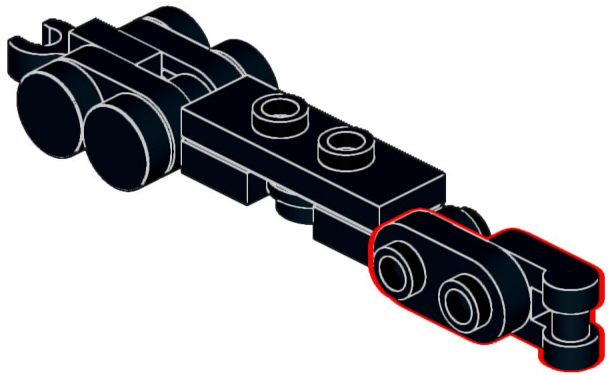

92

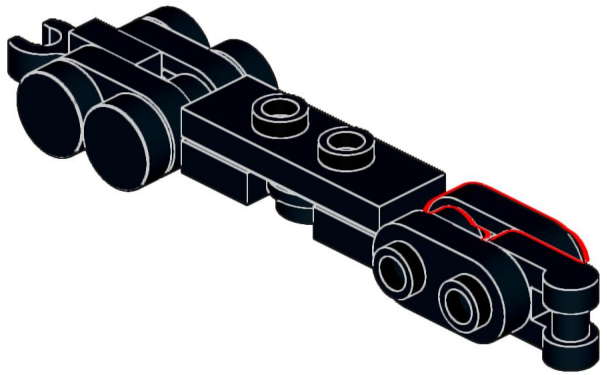

93

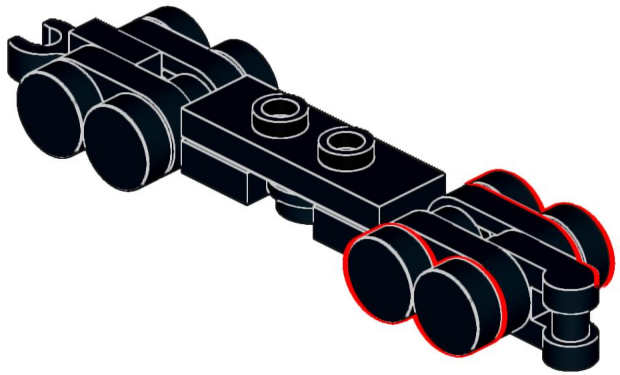

94

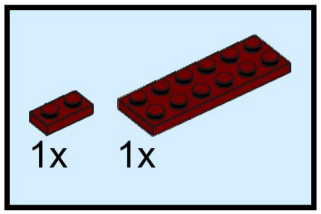

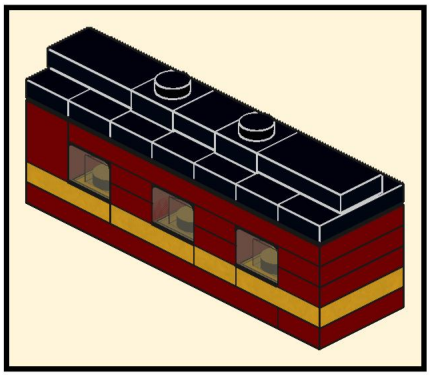

95

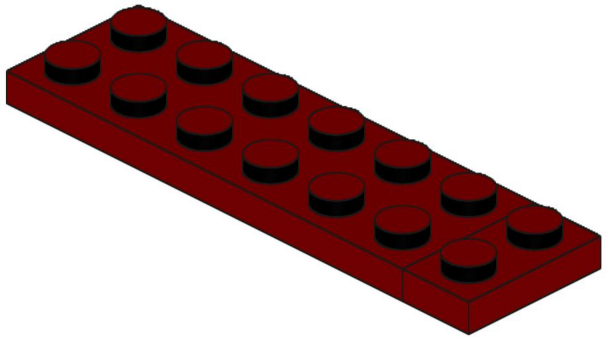

4x

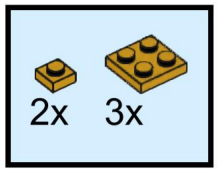

96

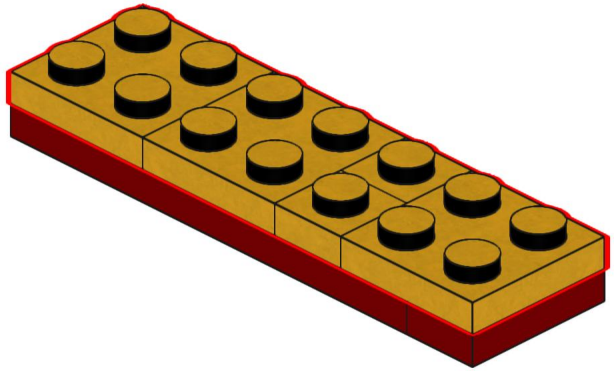

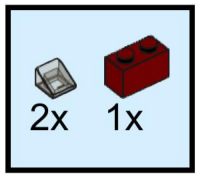

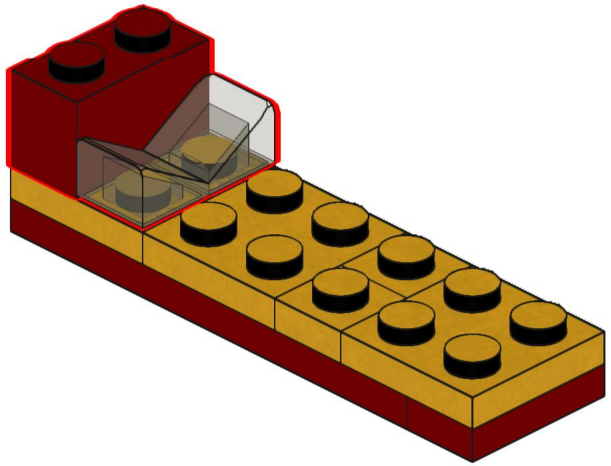

97

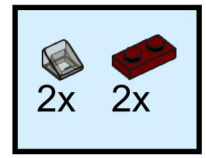

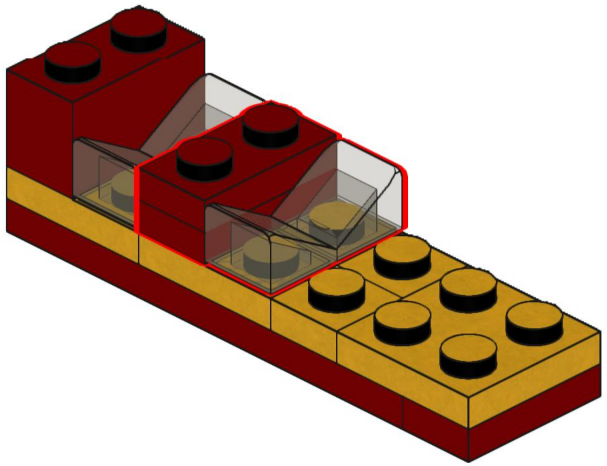

98

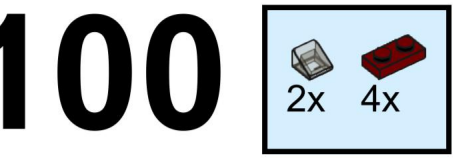

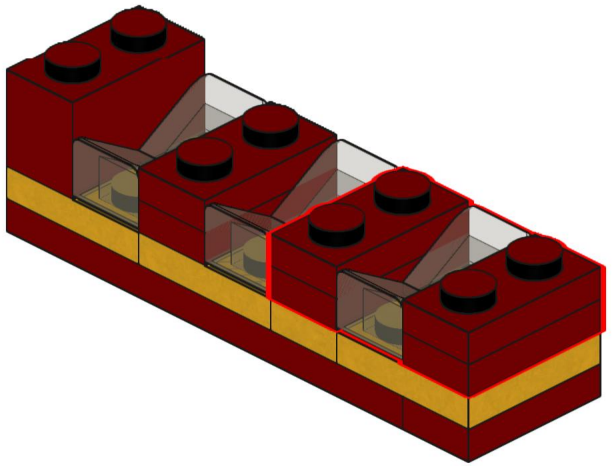

99

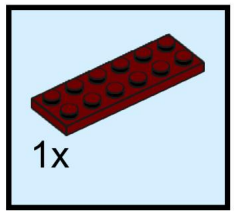

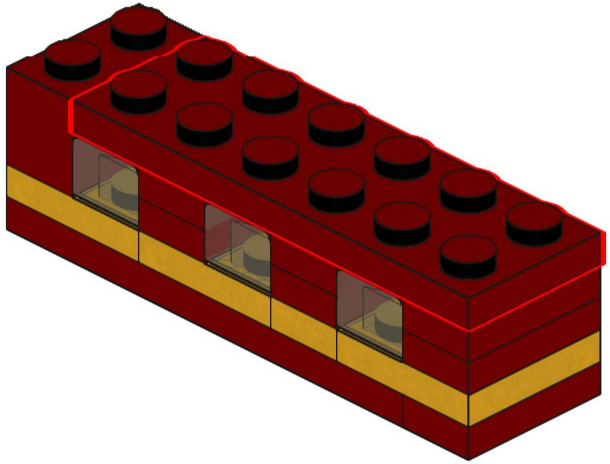

100

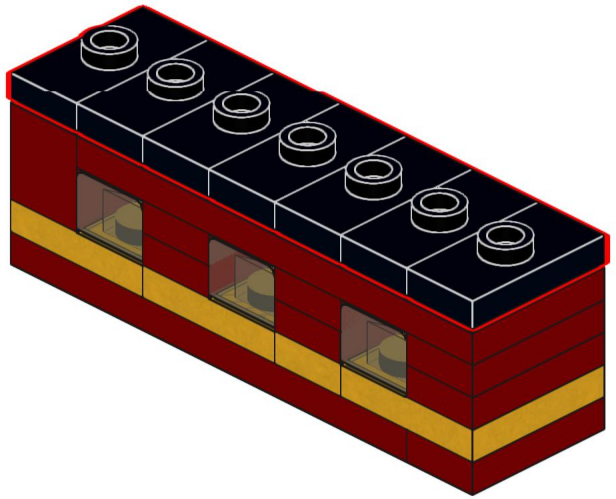

101

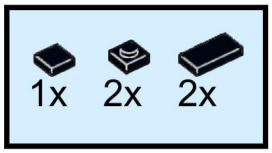

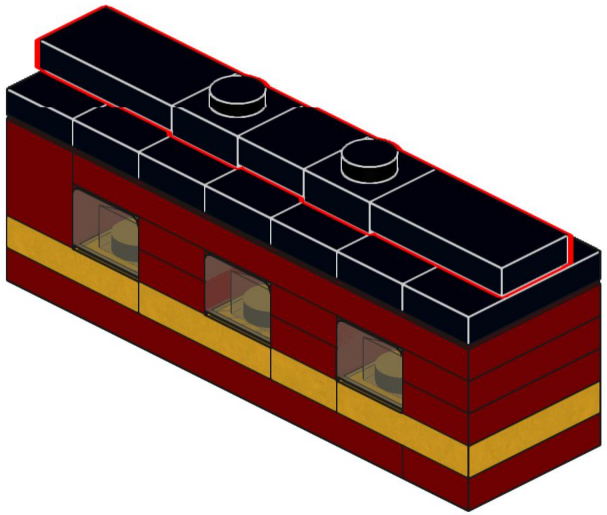

102

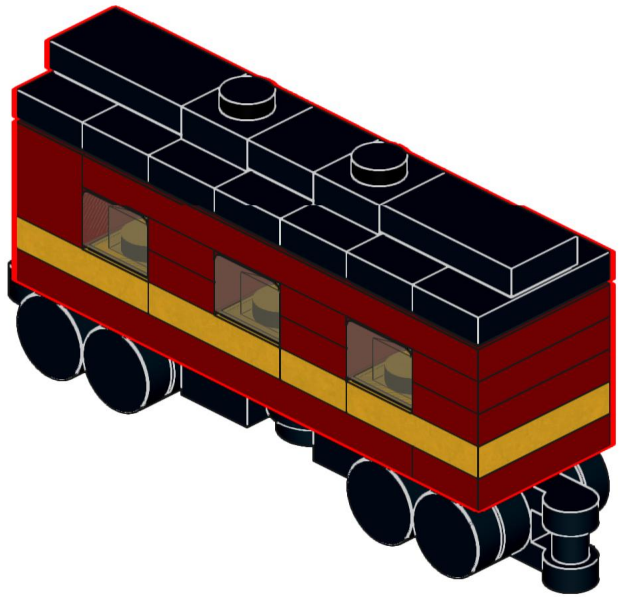

103

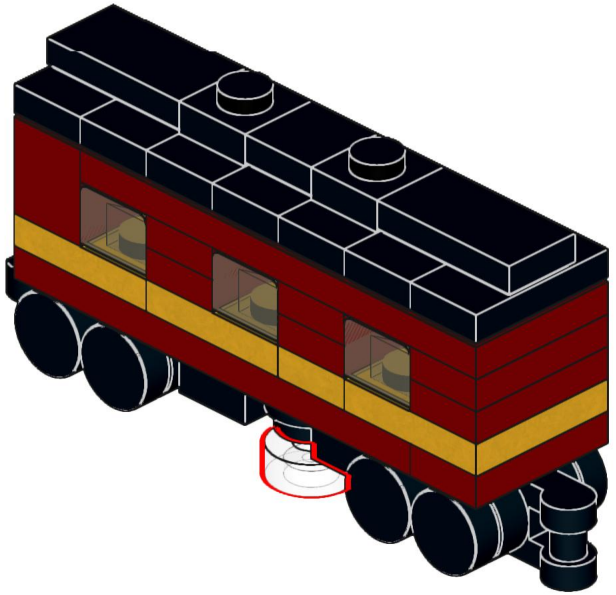

104

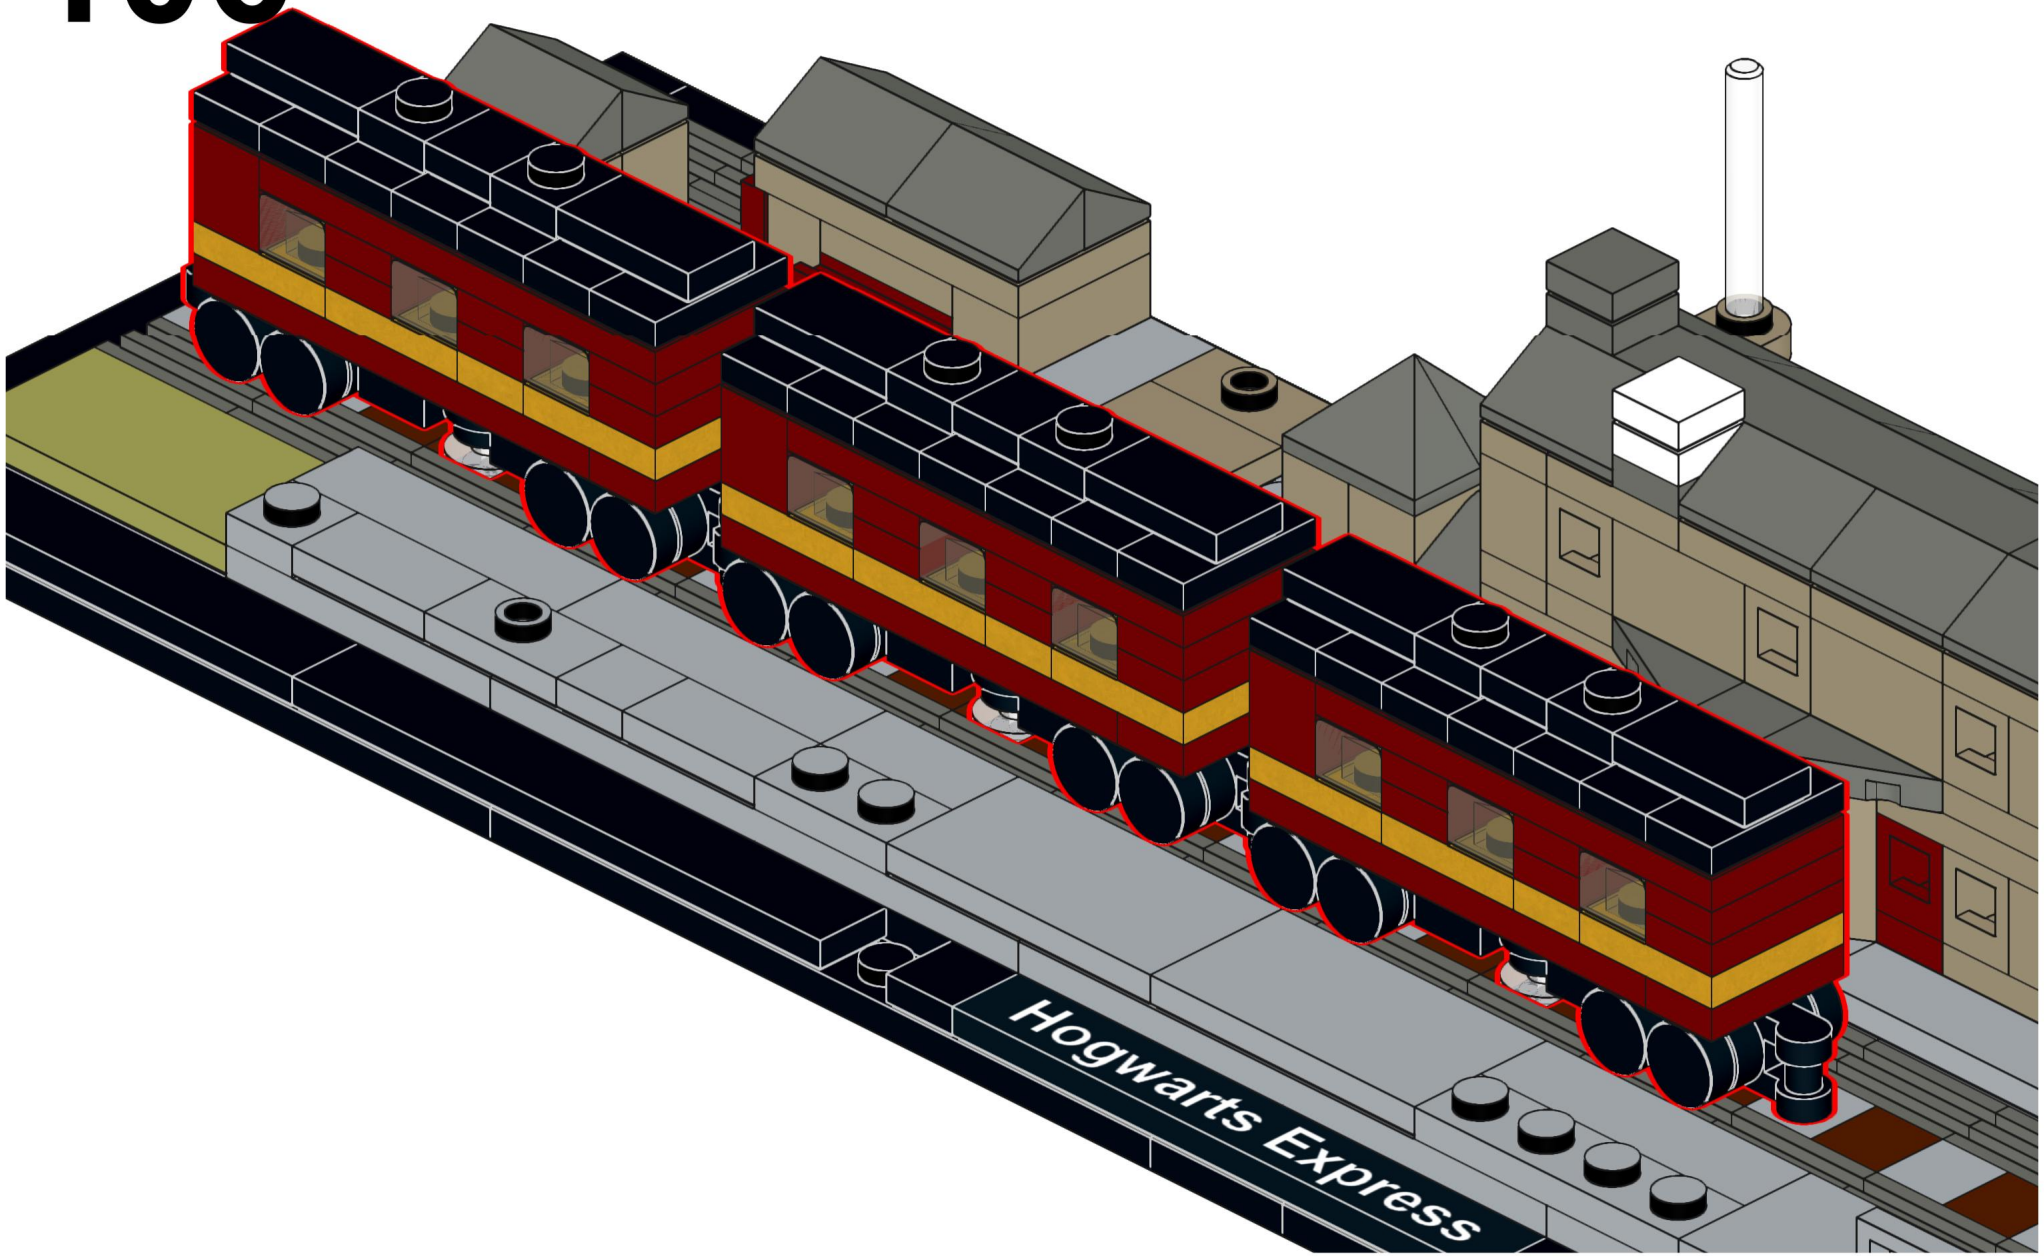

105

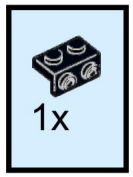

1x

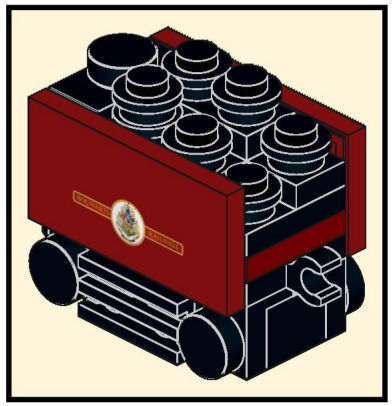

The passenger carriages hold compartments set off a corridor, allowing each compartment to function as a self-contained stage within the larger train. Prefects of the school ride in a separate carriage near the front of the train.
During the long journey to Hogwarts, students may enjoy treats from a trolley, such as Pumpkin Pasties and Chocolate Frogs; in addition, there is also a Buffet Car.
There are usually no adults aboard the Hogwarts Express except the witch with the tea trolley and the driver. Occasionally new teachers (such as Remus Lupin and Horace Slughorn) could be found aboard the train as well.
According to the trolley witch, the train "doesn't take kindly to students who try to leave when it is moving", possibly implying that it has some form of sentience.

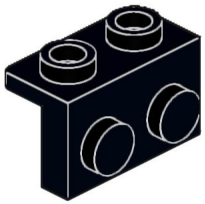

Hogwarts Express

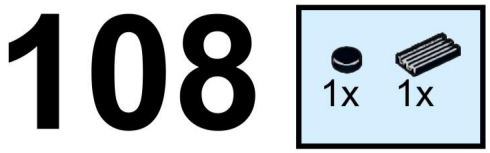

107

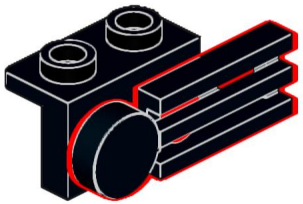

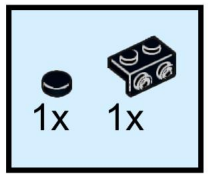

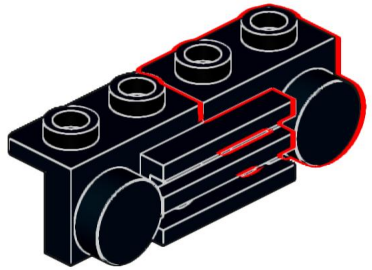

108

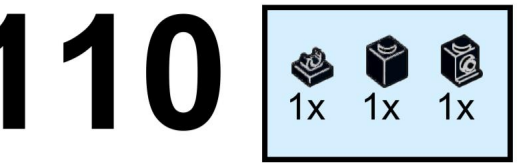

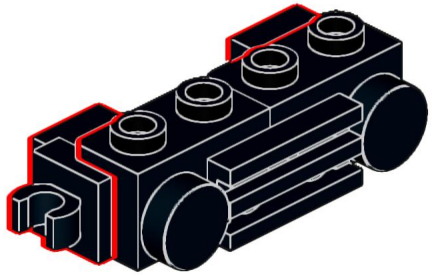

109

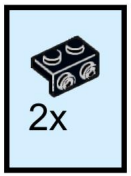

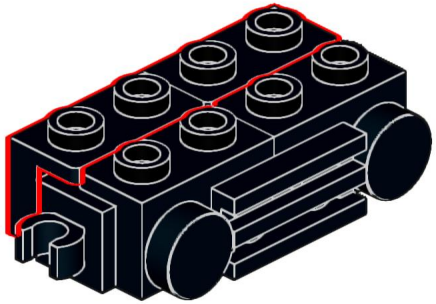

110

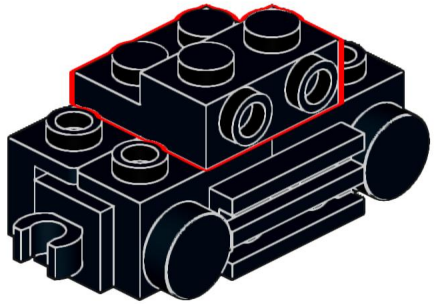

111

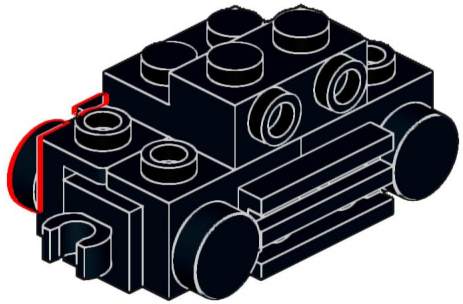

112

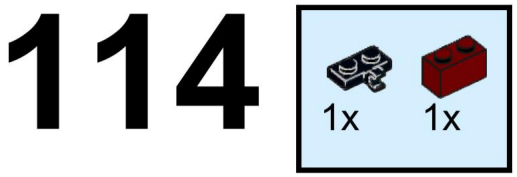

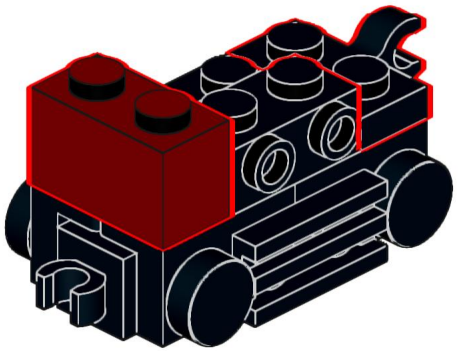

113

2x 1x

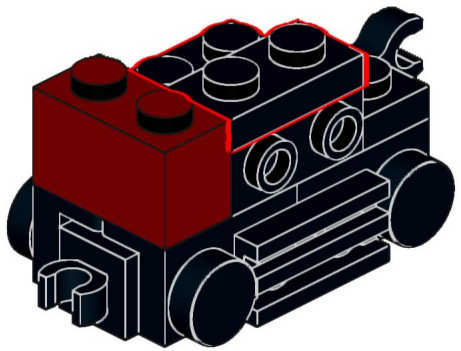

114

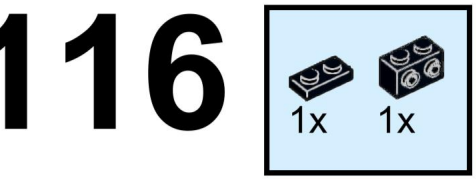

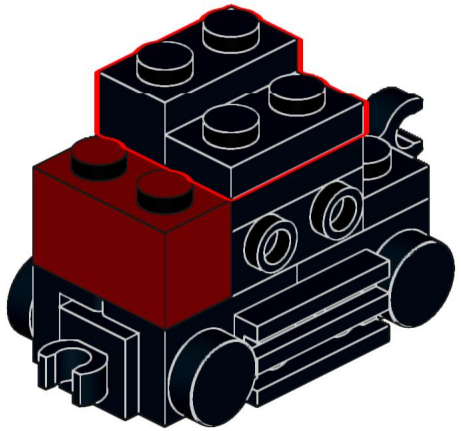

115

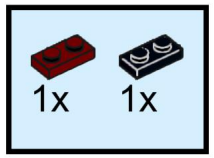

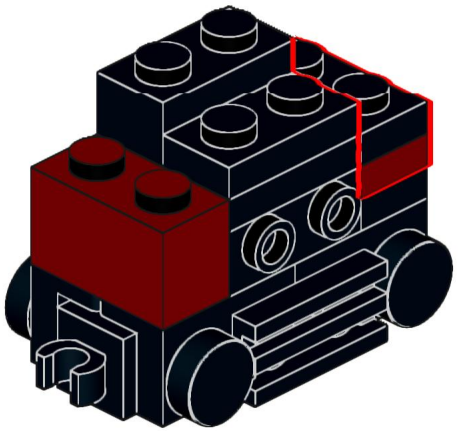

116

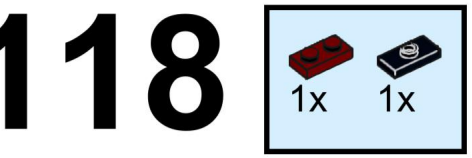

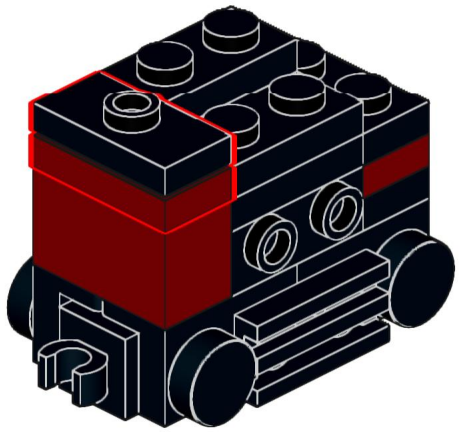

117

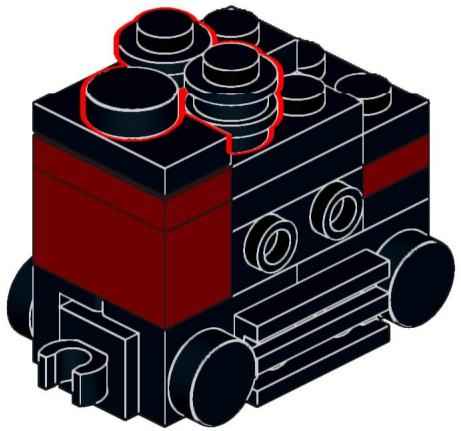

118

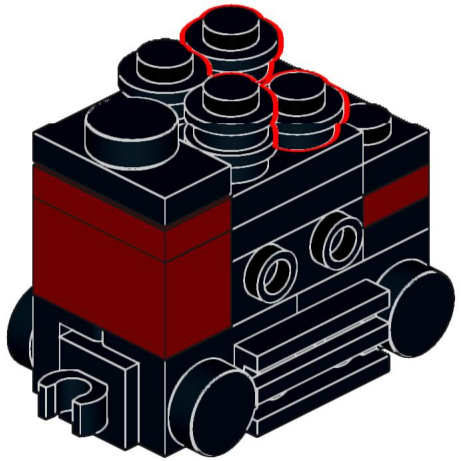

119

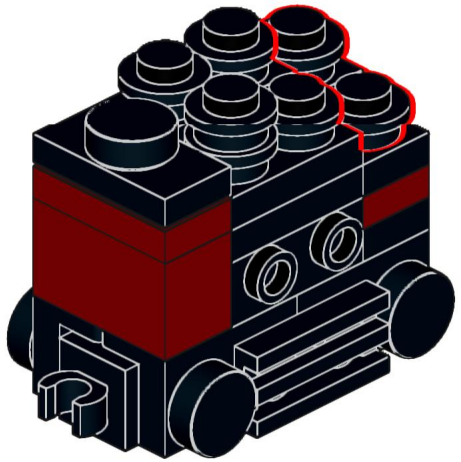

120

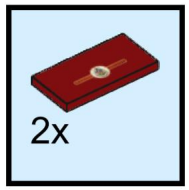

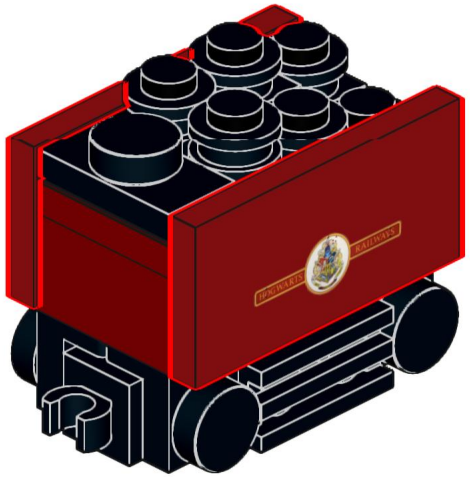

121

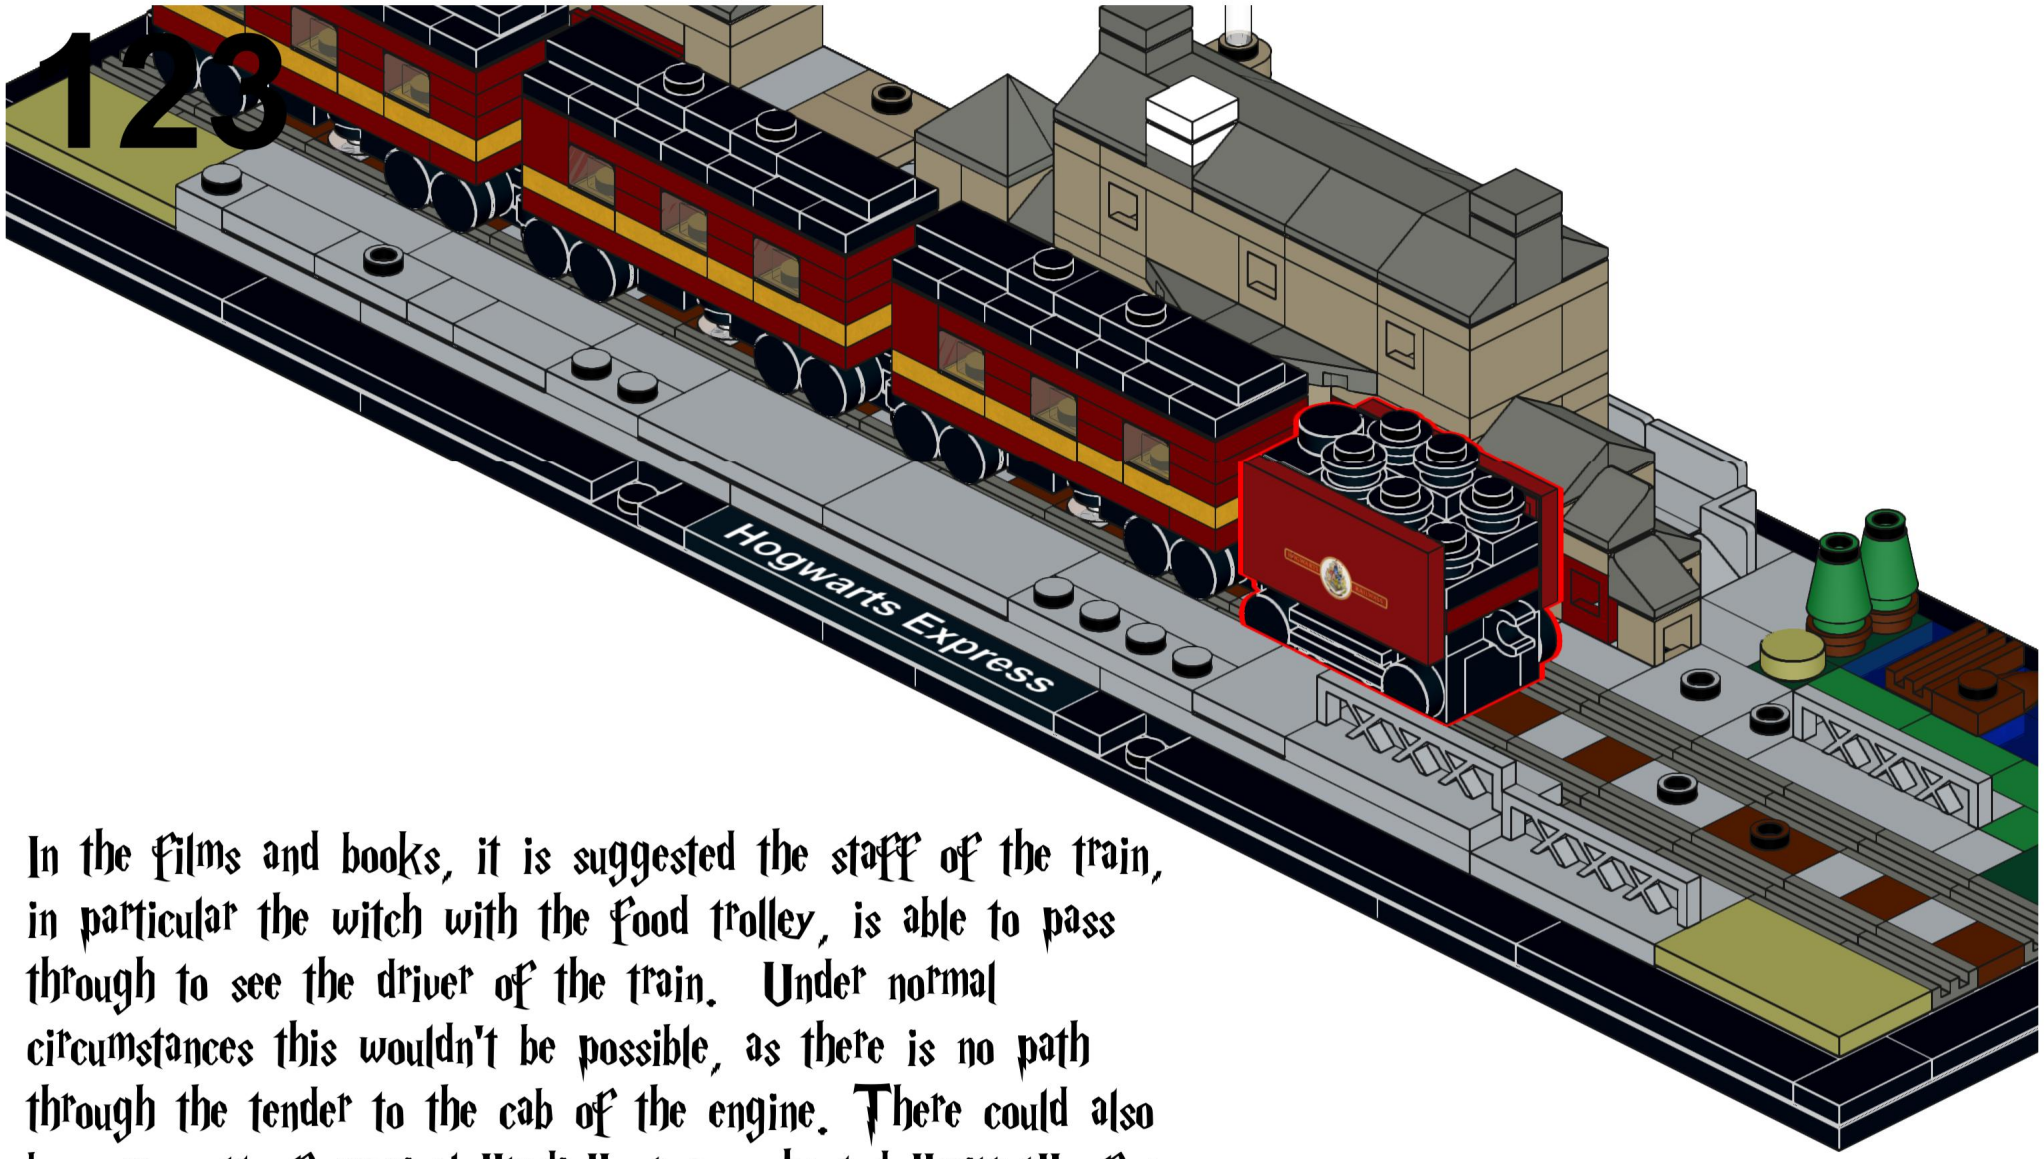

1x 2x

122

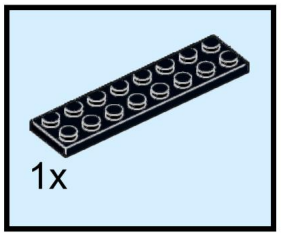

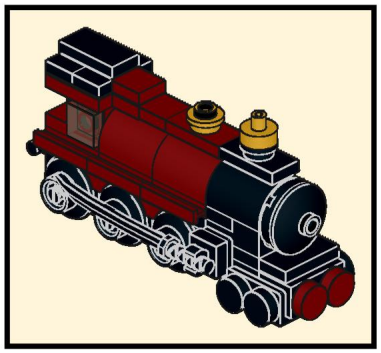

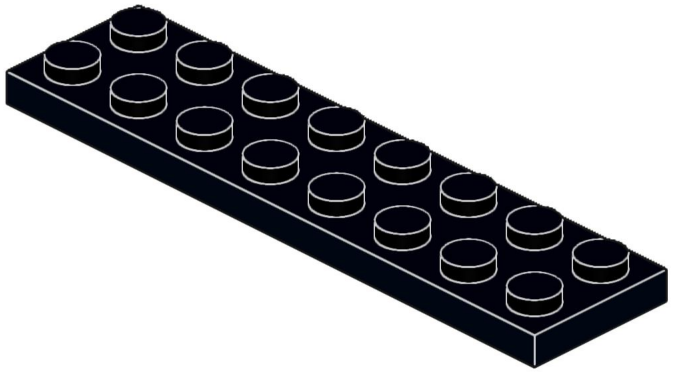

In the films and books, it is suggested the staff of the train, in particular the witch with the food trolley, is able to pass through to see the driver of the train. Under normal circumstances this wouldn't be possible, as there is no path through the tender to the cab of the engine. There could also be some sort of magical "radio" or a enchanted "mirror" of a sort, where the train crew and passengers can speak through it (or see through) to the driver.

124

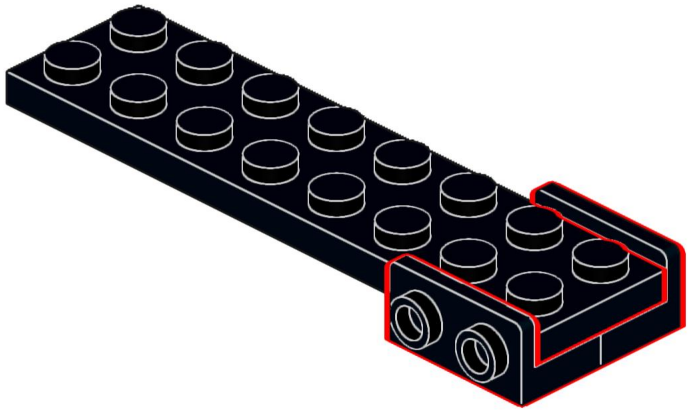

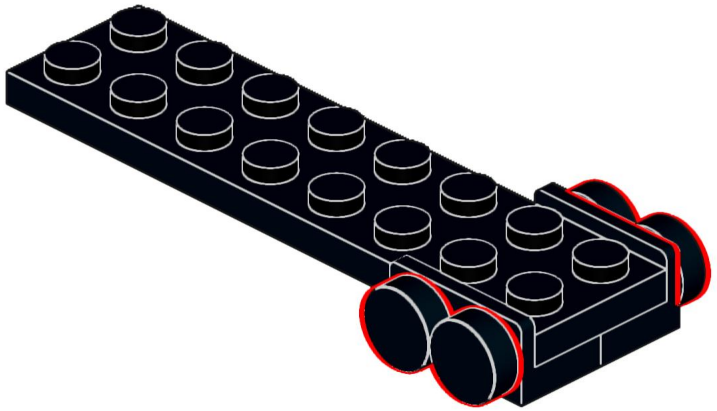

125

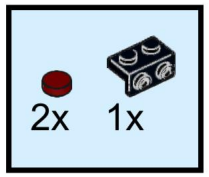

2x 2x

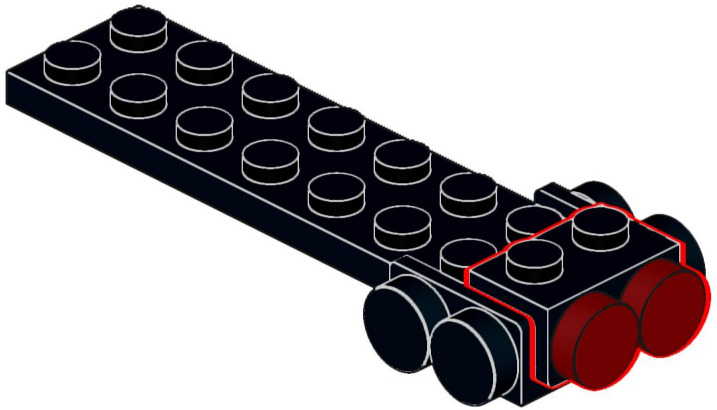

126

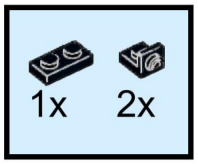

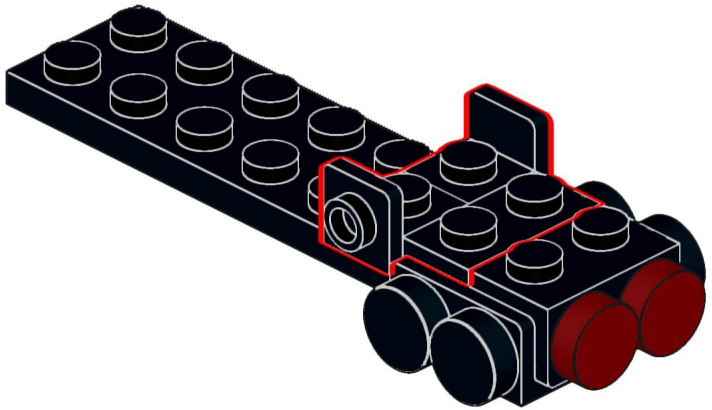

127

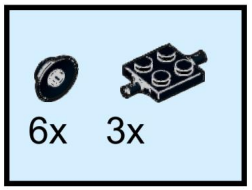

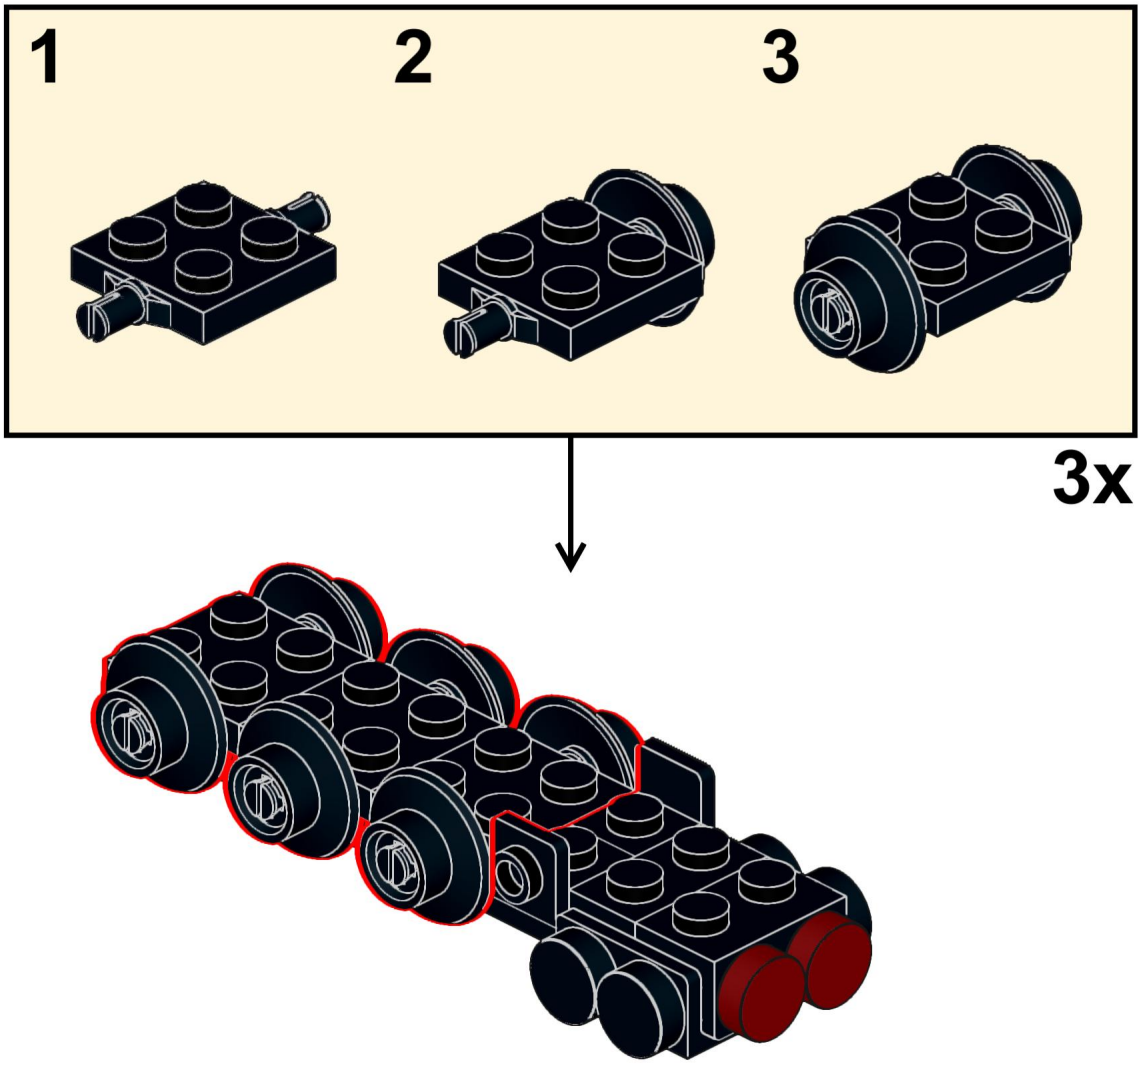

128

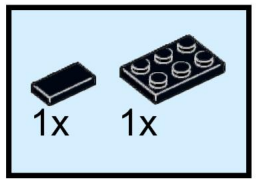

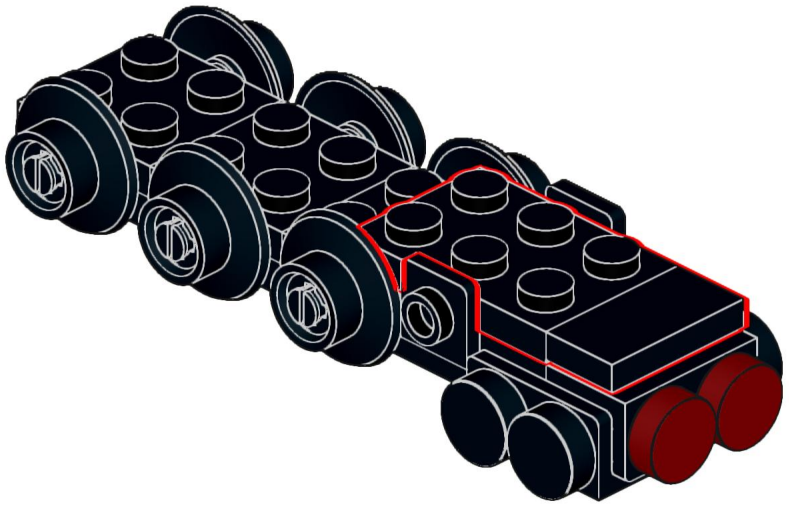

129

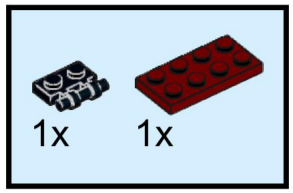

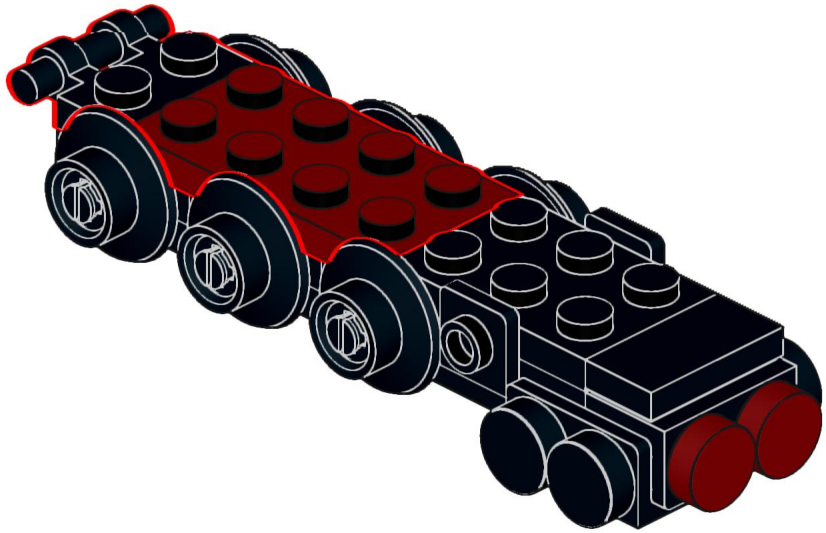

130

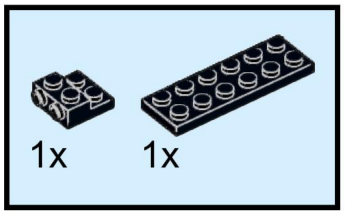

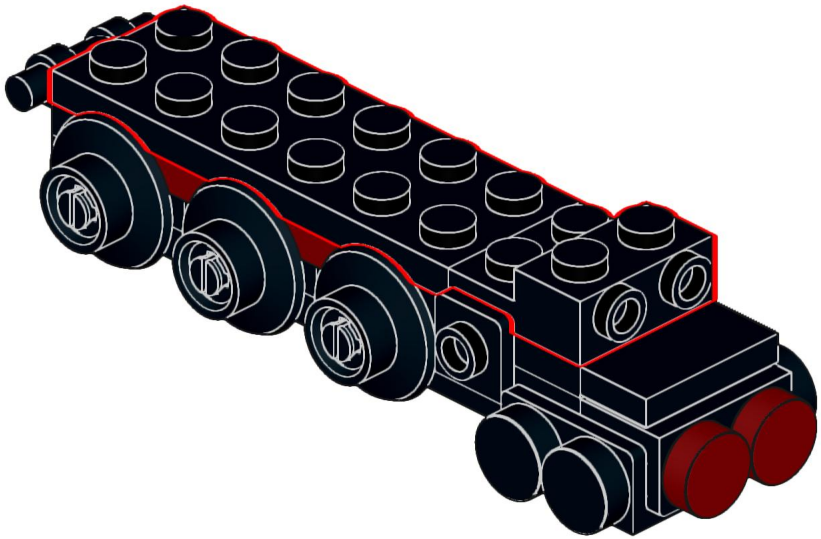

131

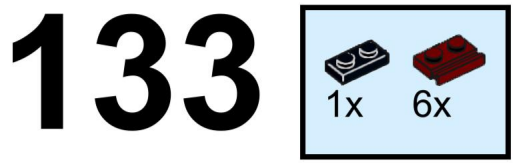

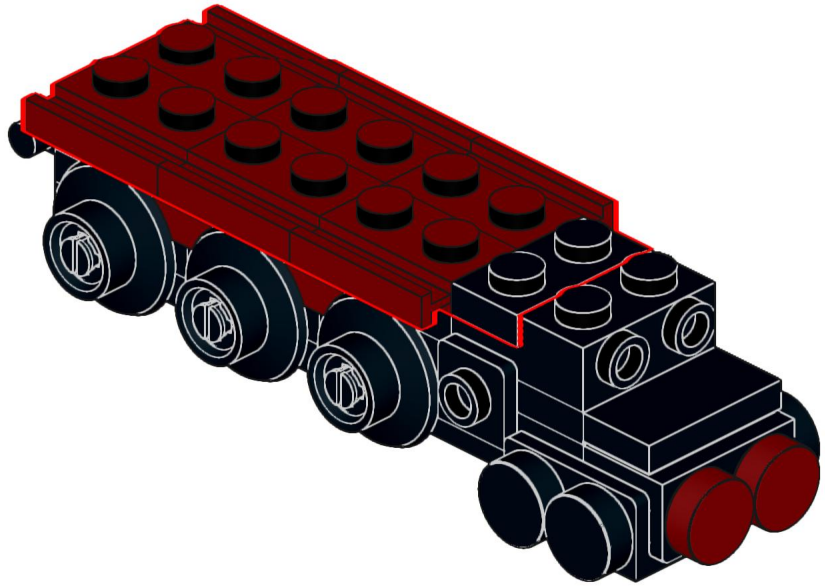

132

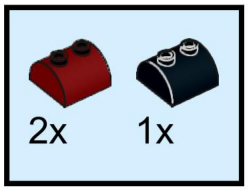

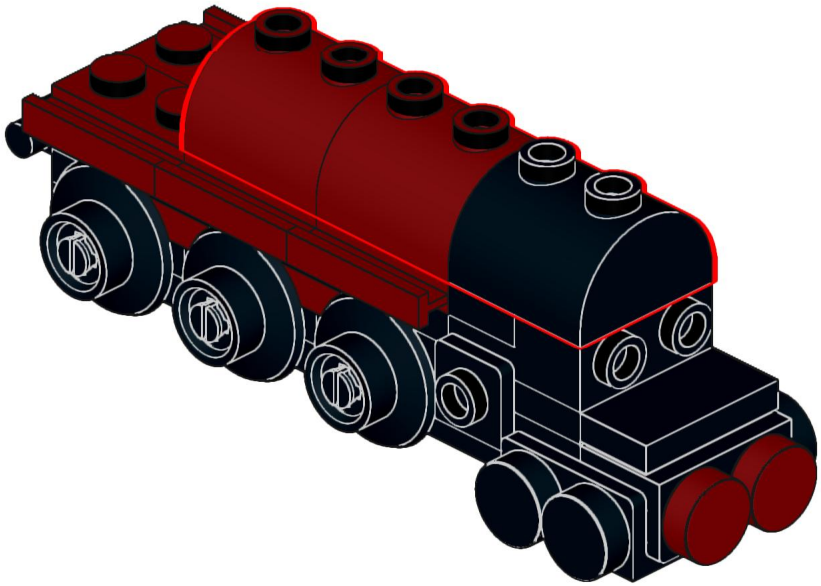

133

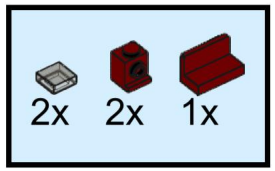

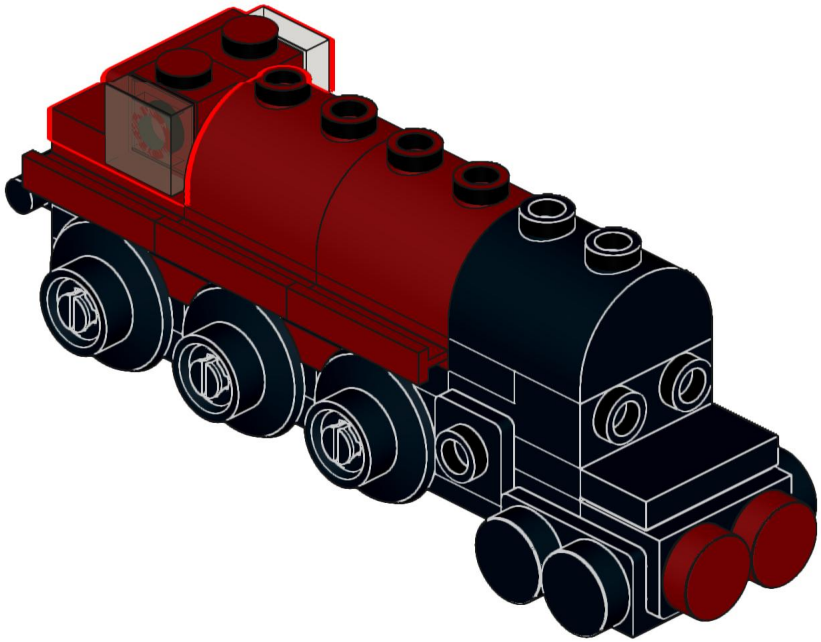

134

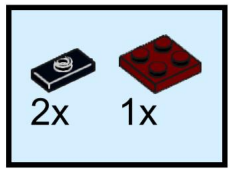

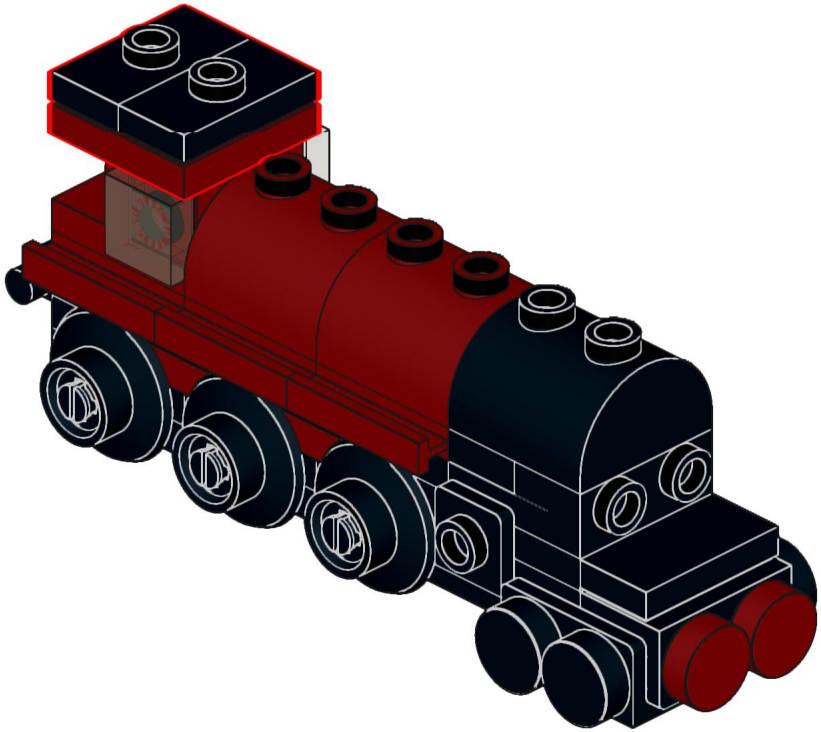

135

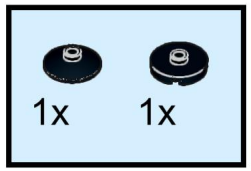

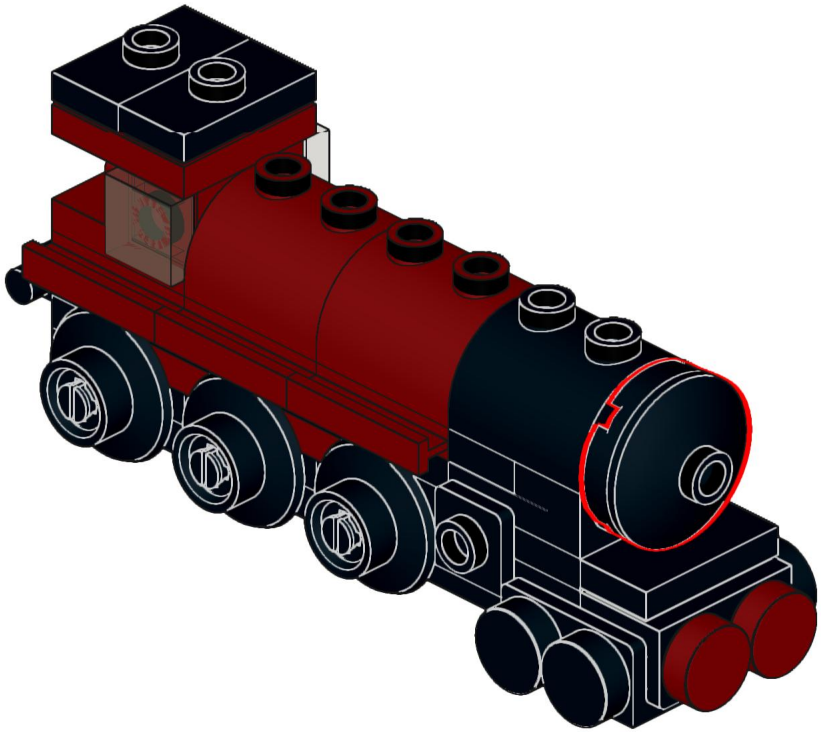

136

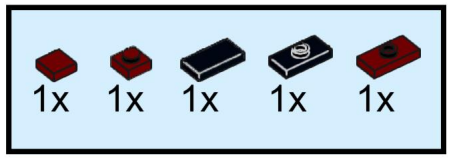

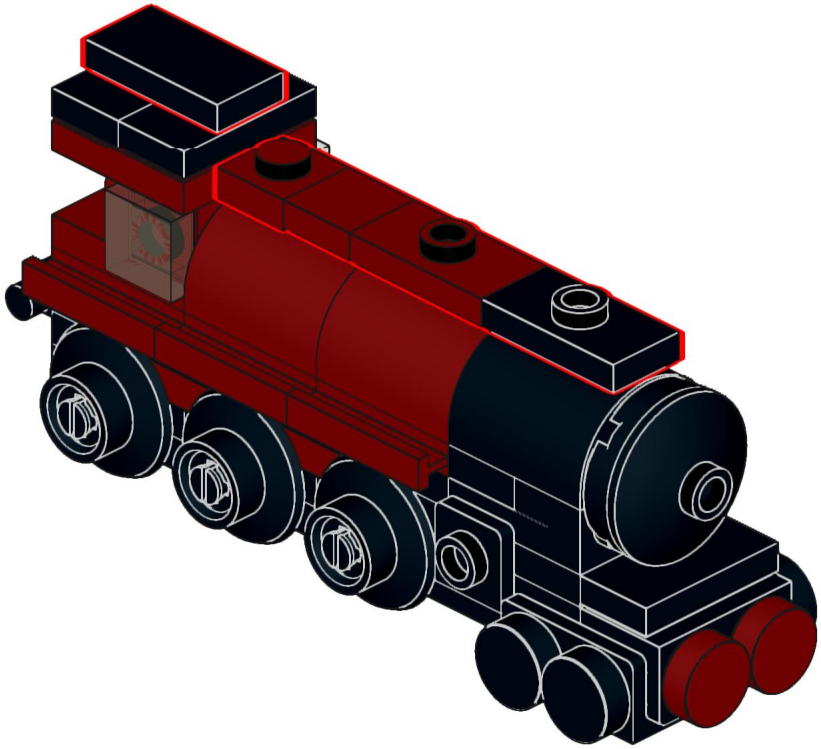

137

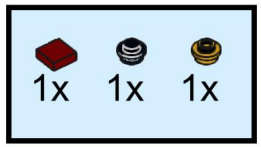

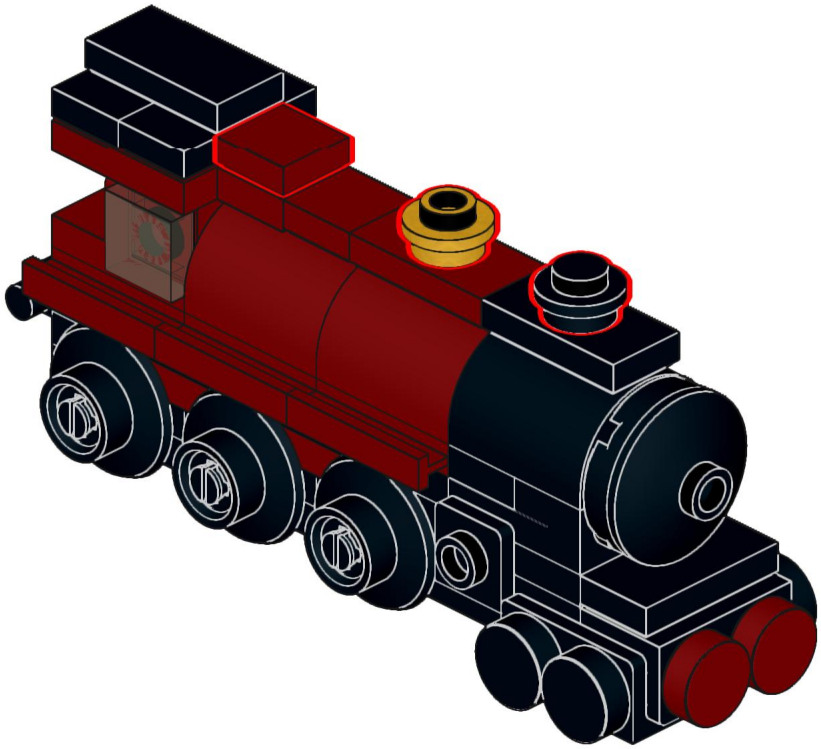

138

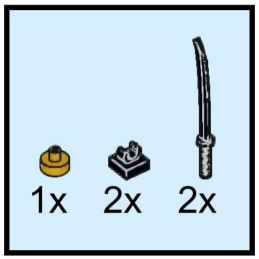

139

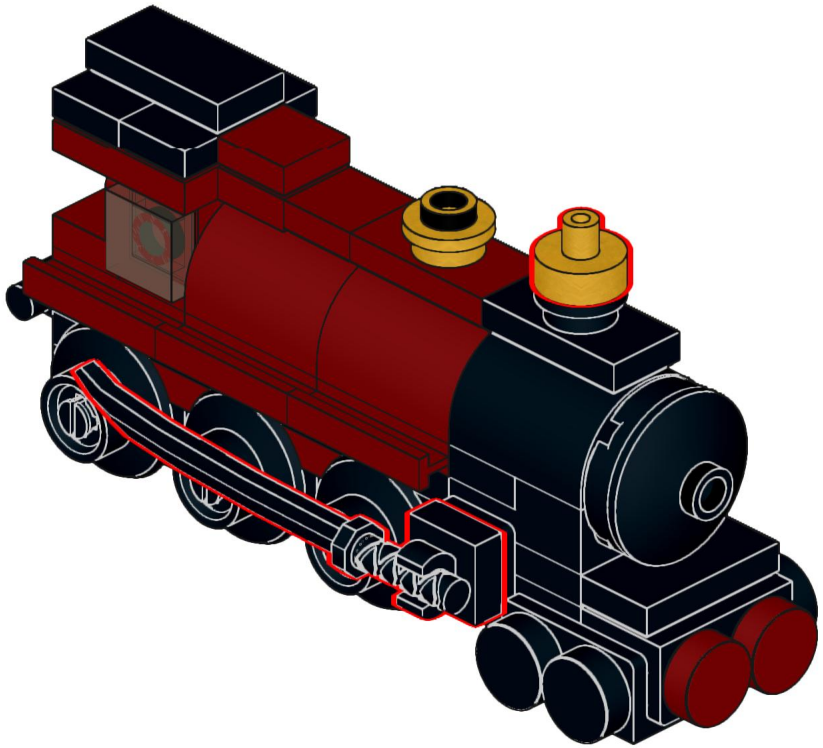

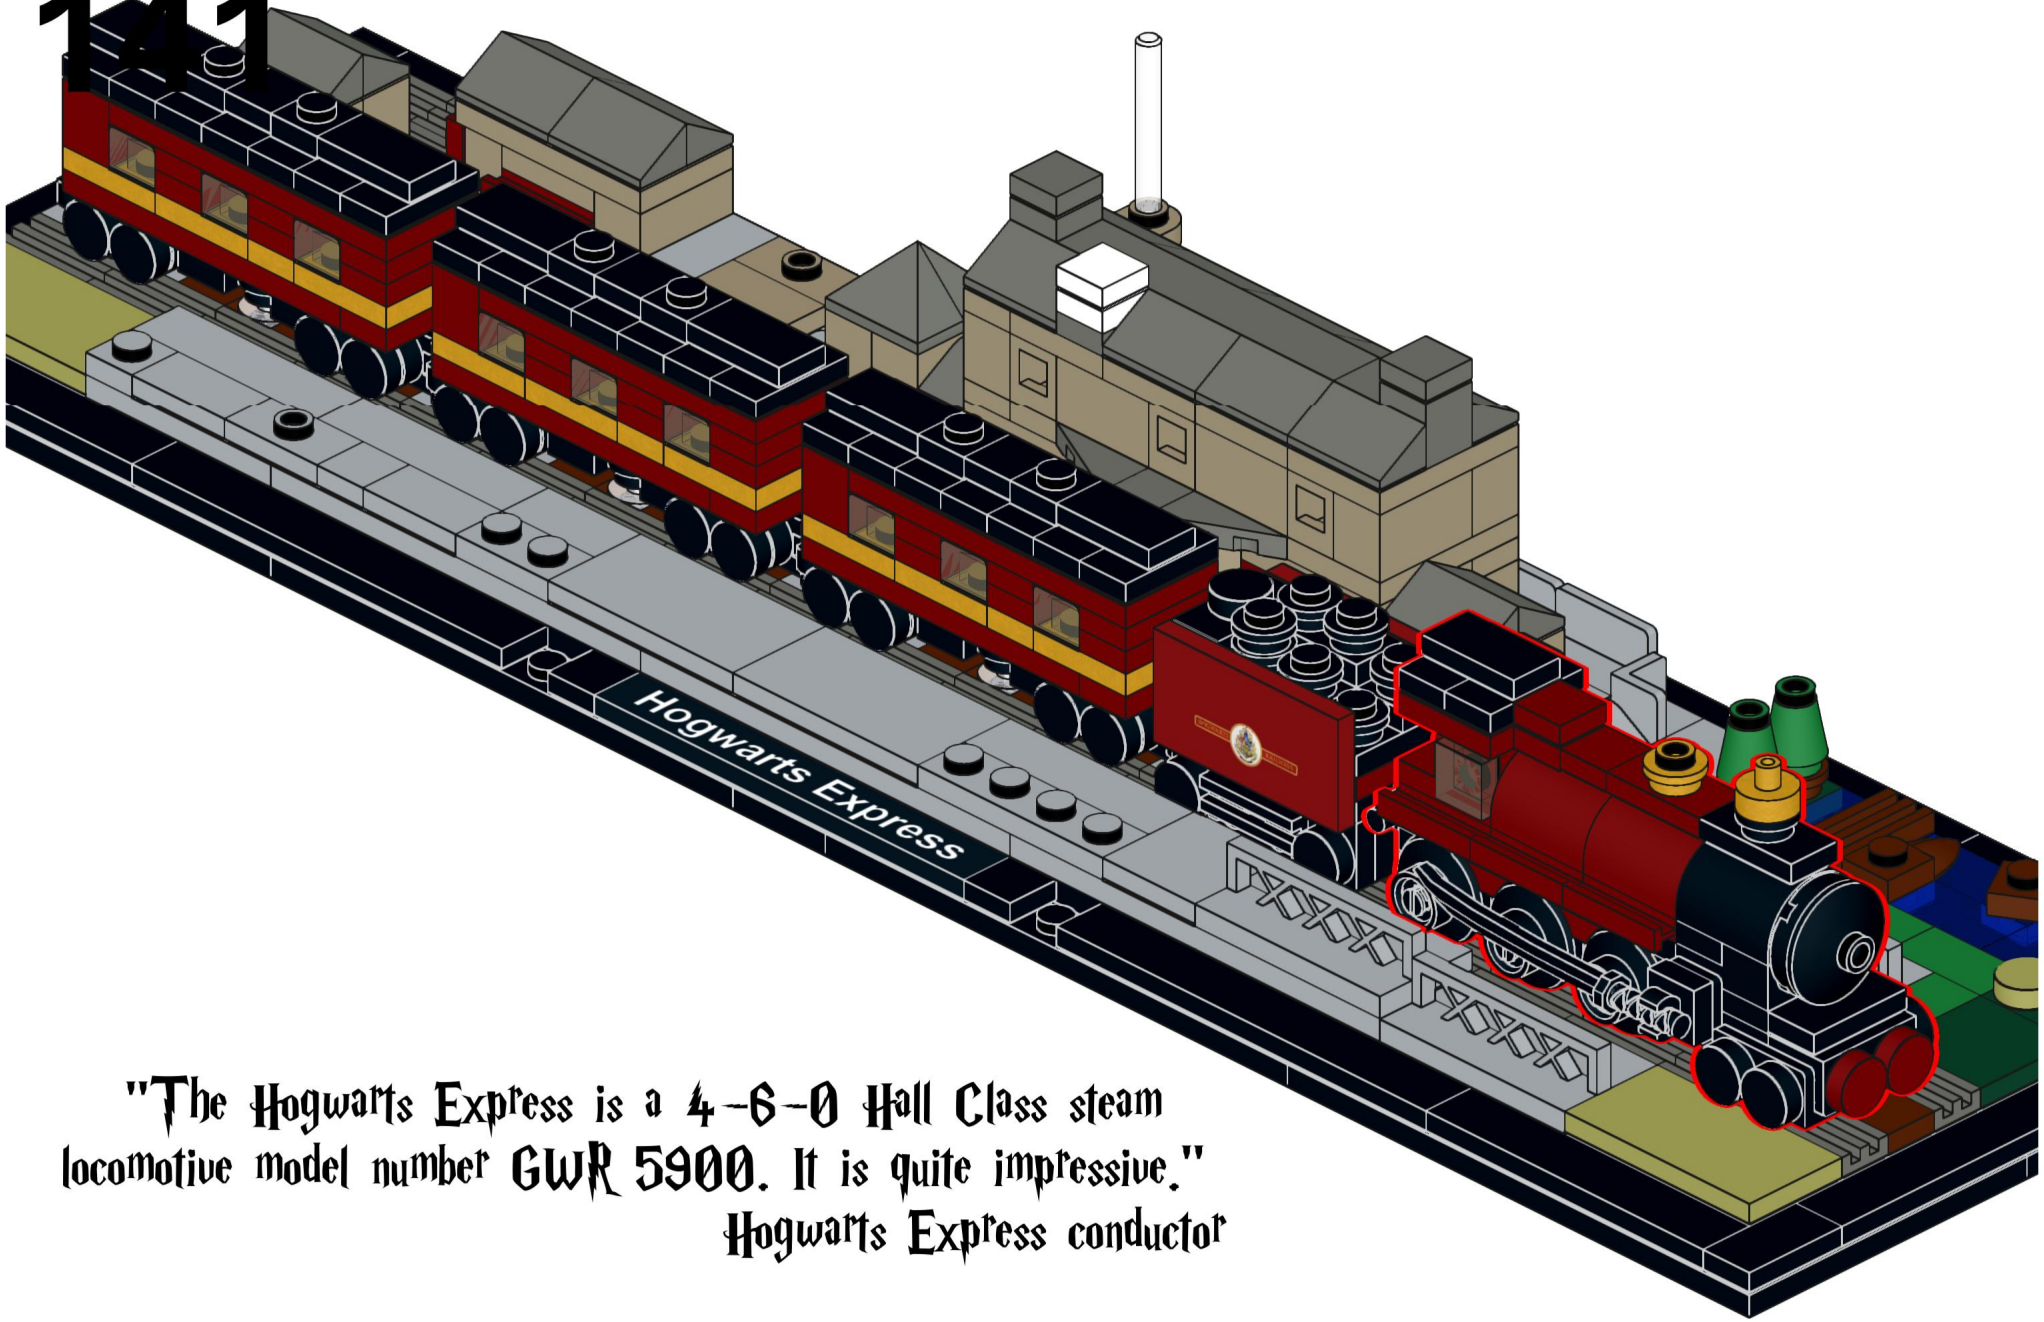

140

The Hogwarts Express takes the form of a large red, 4-6-0 steam engine. Originally steam fitted by the Muggles who built it, the Hogwarts Express now runs exclusively on magic.

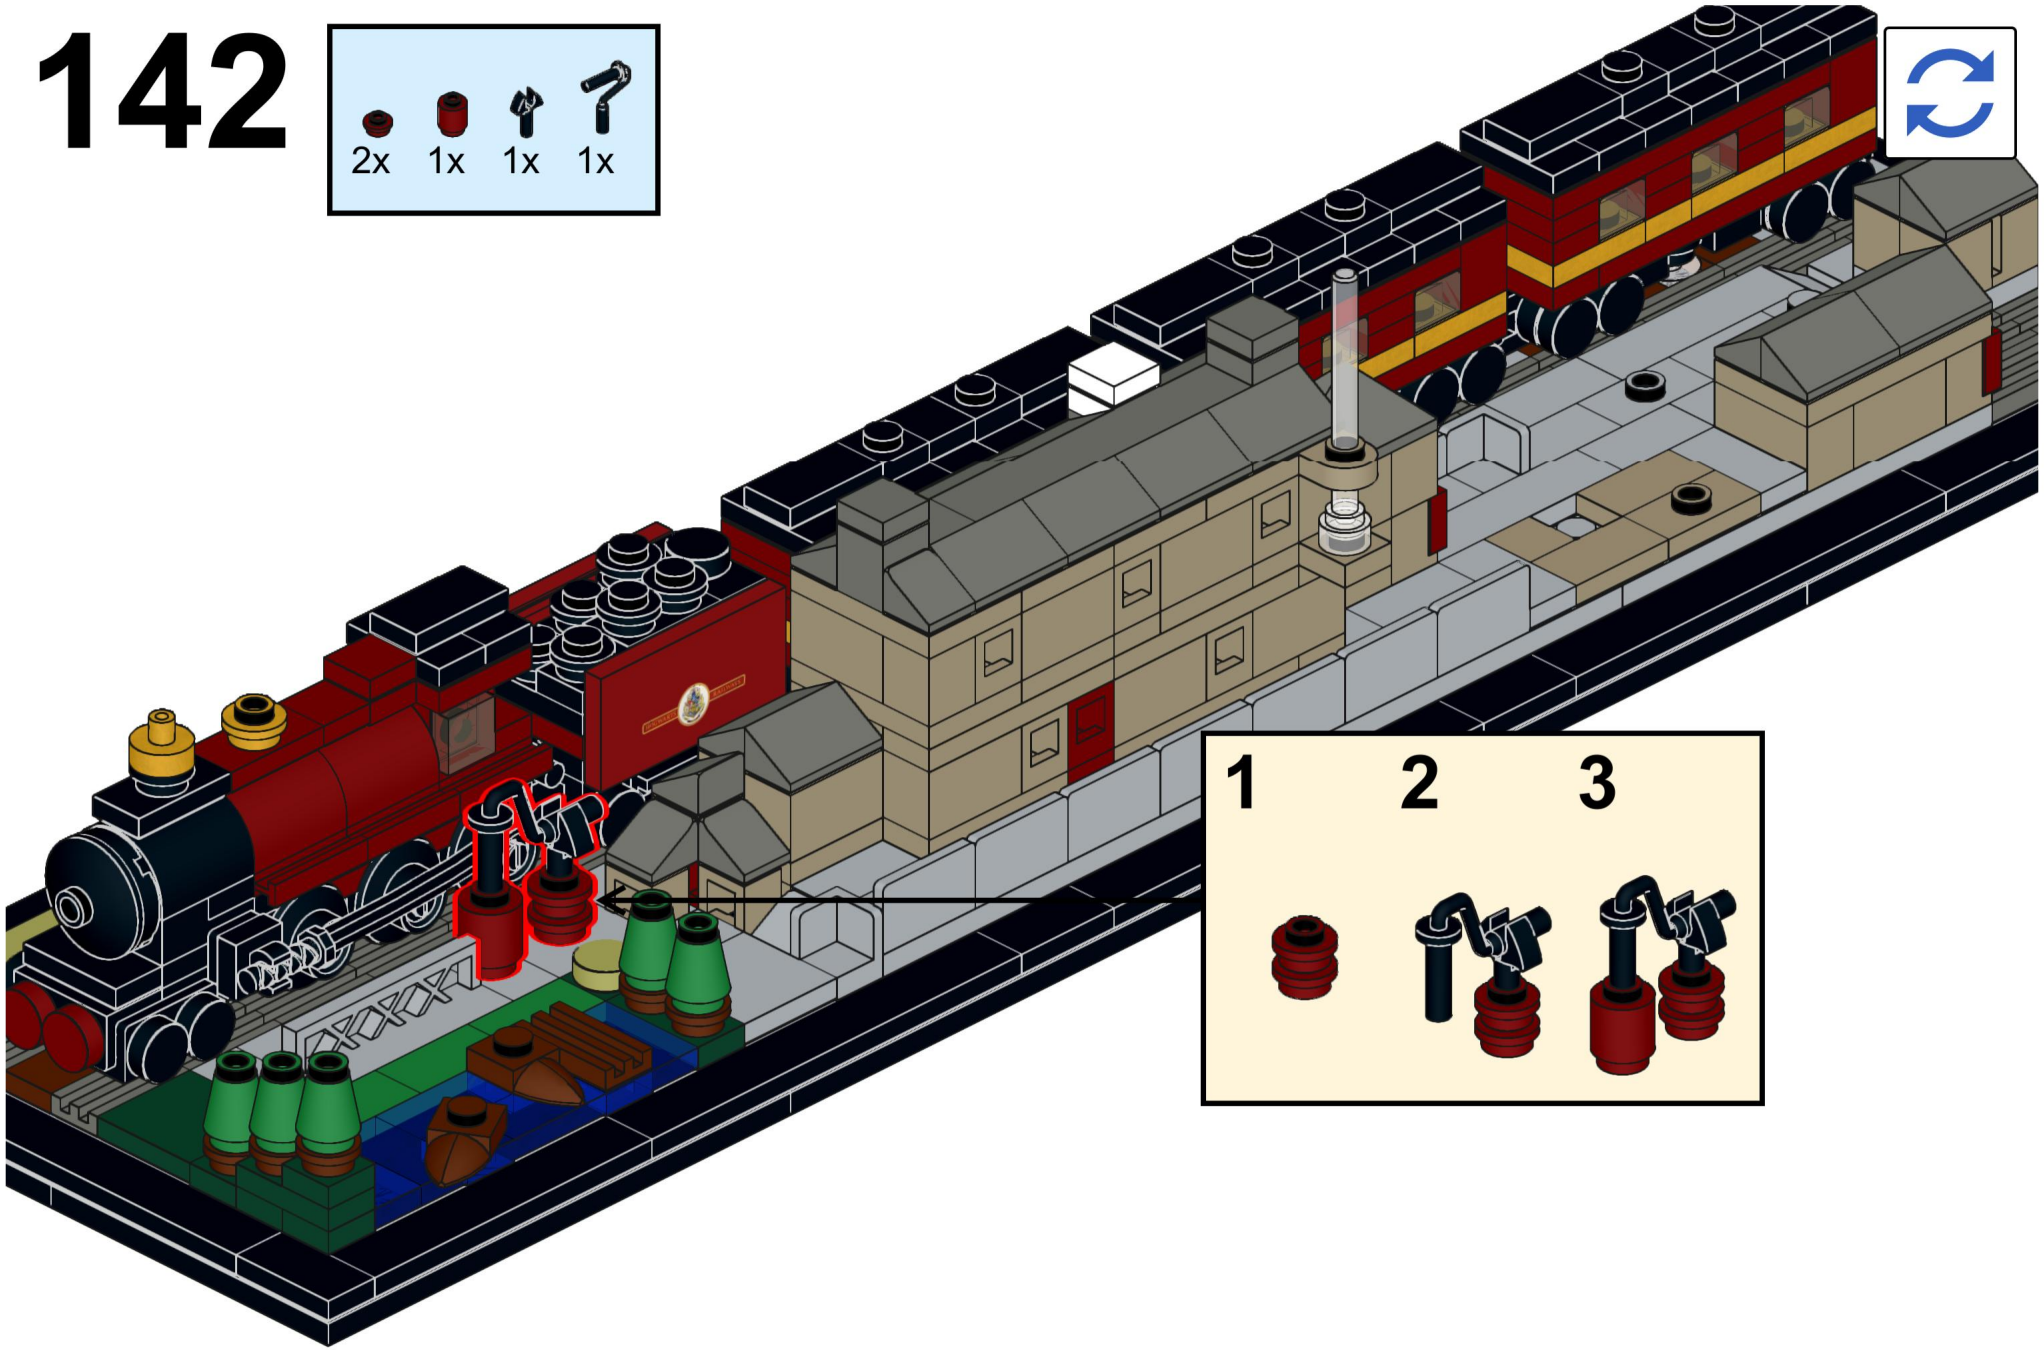

"The Hogwarts Express is a 4-6-0 Hall Class steam locomotive model number GWR 5900. It is quite impressive."

Hogwarts Express conductor

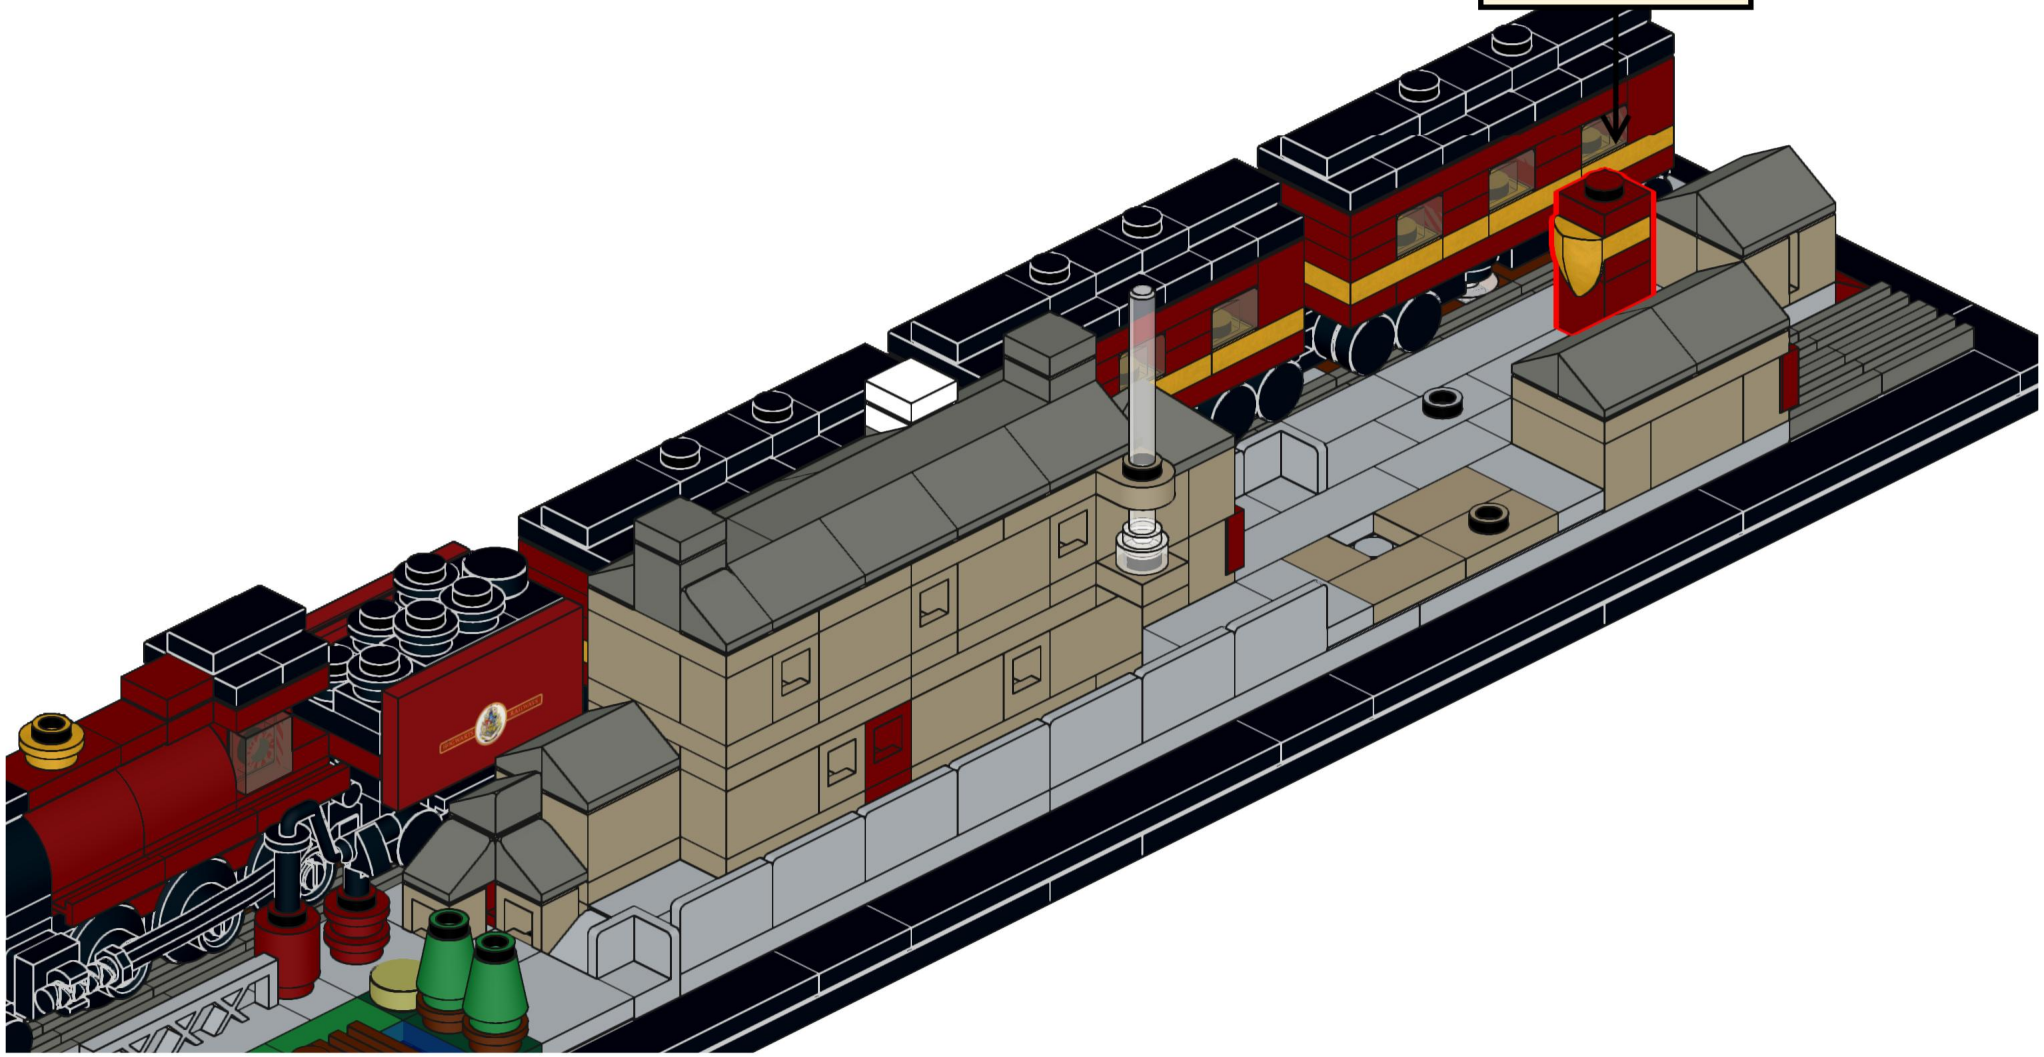

142

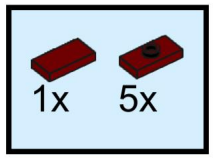

143

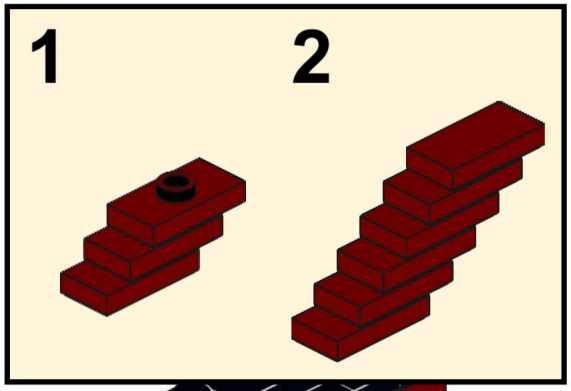

2x 1x 1x

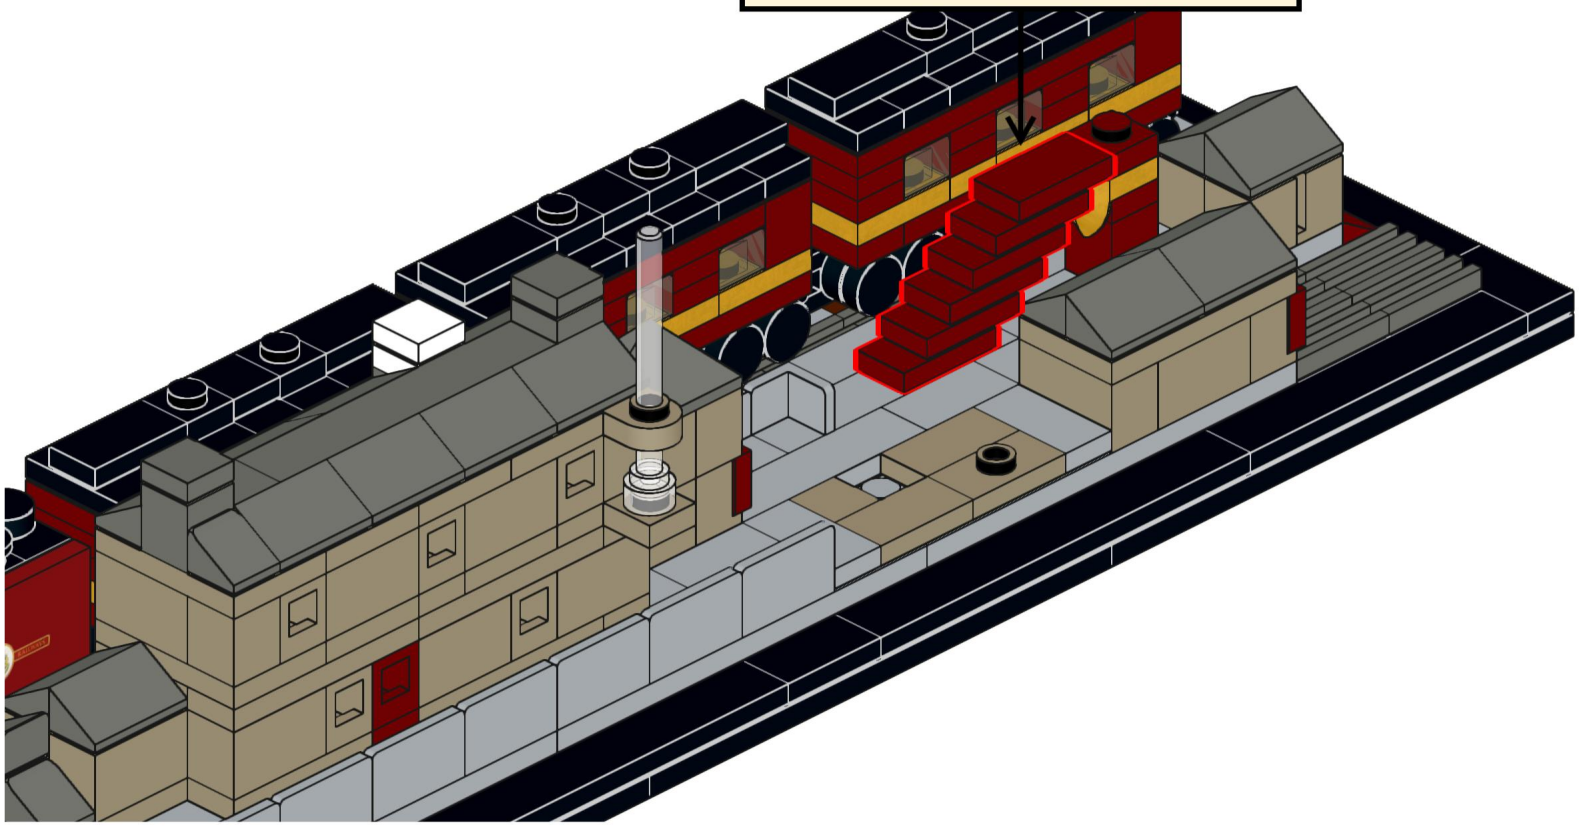

1 2

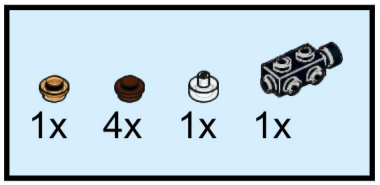

144

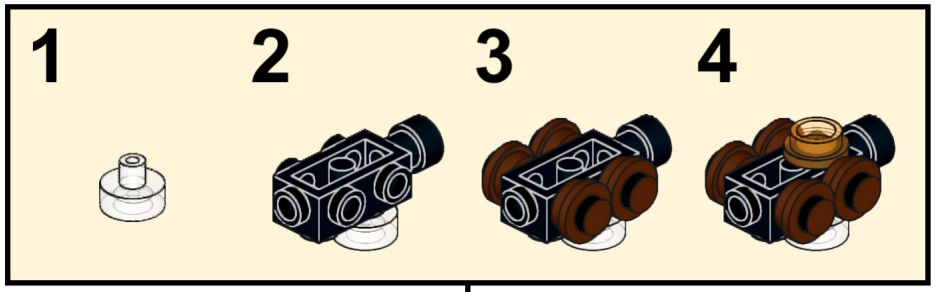

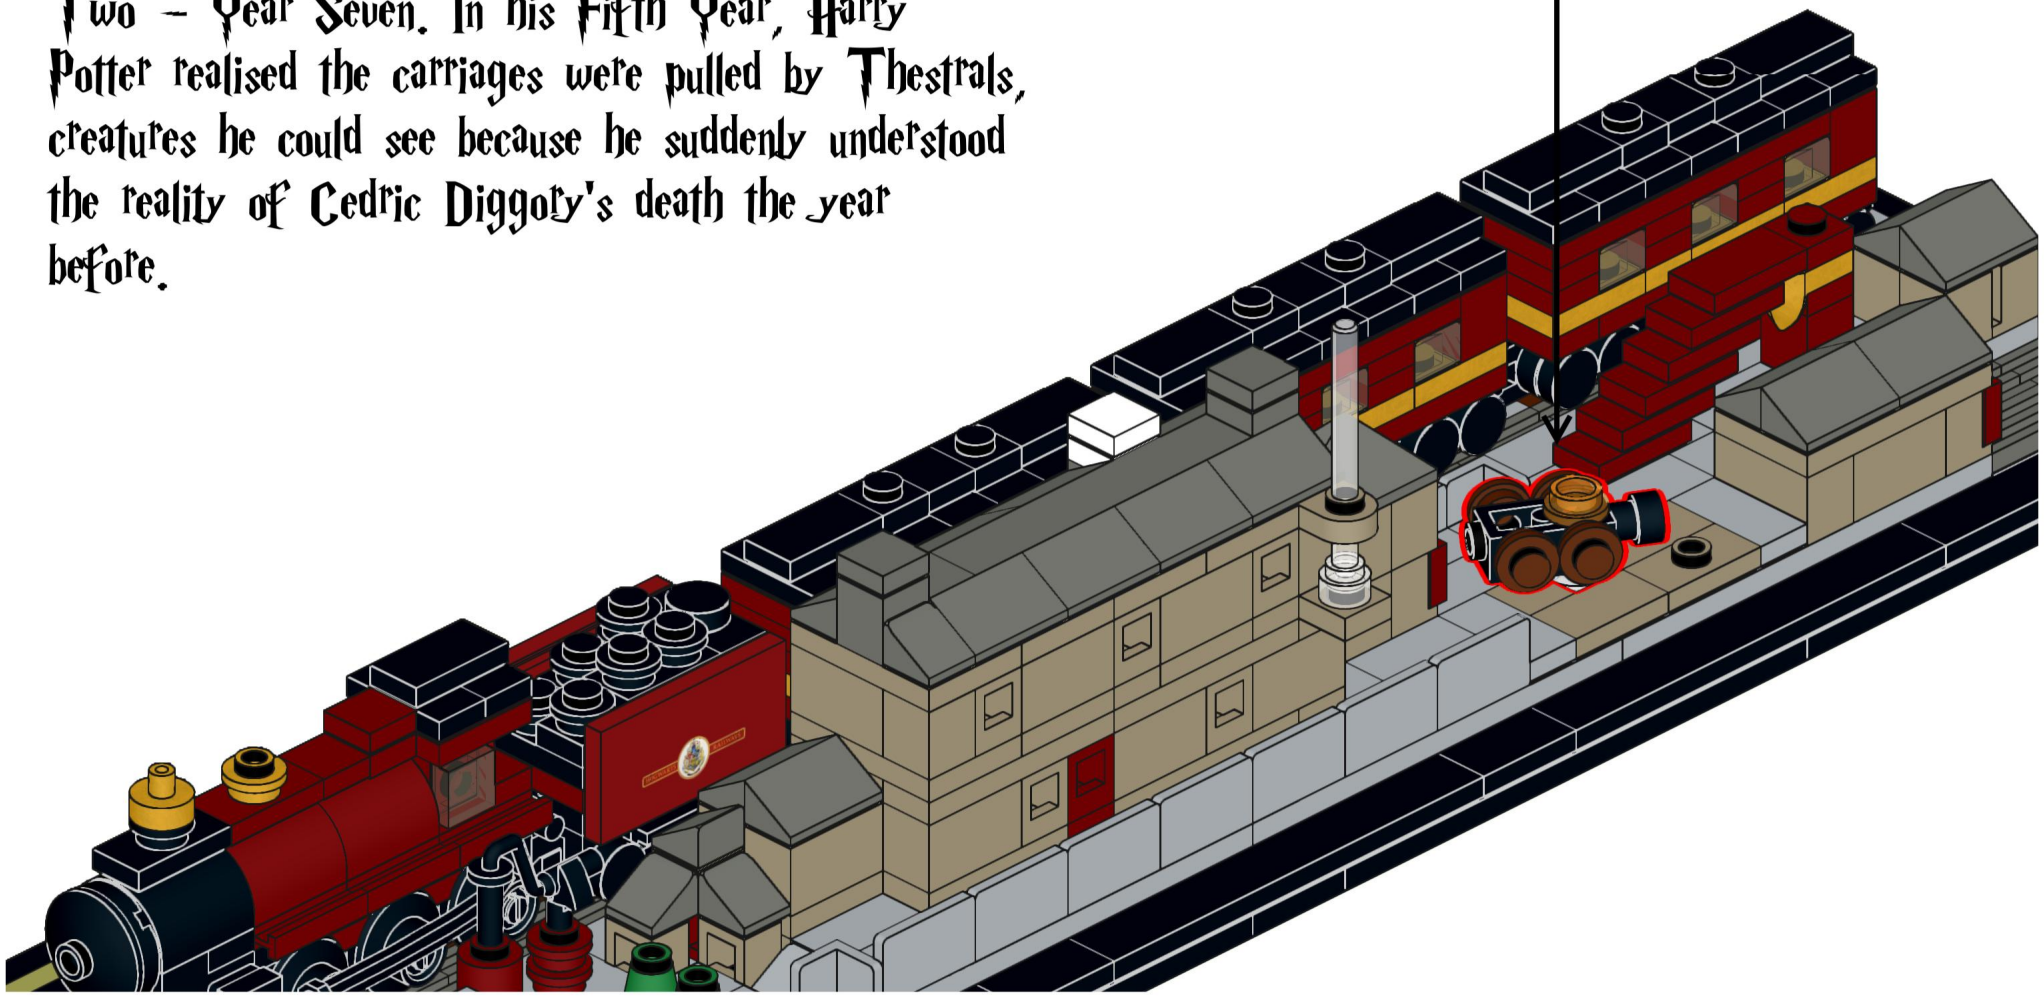

145

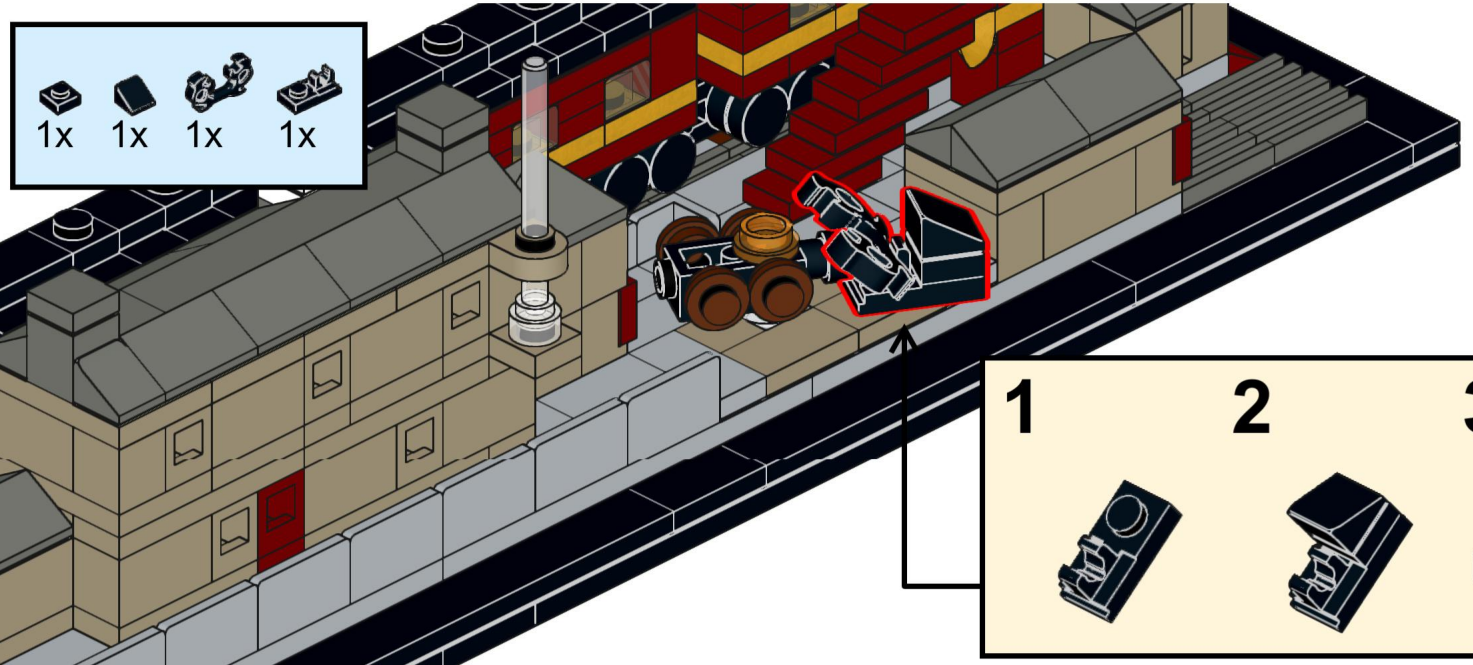

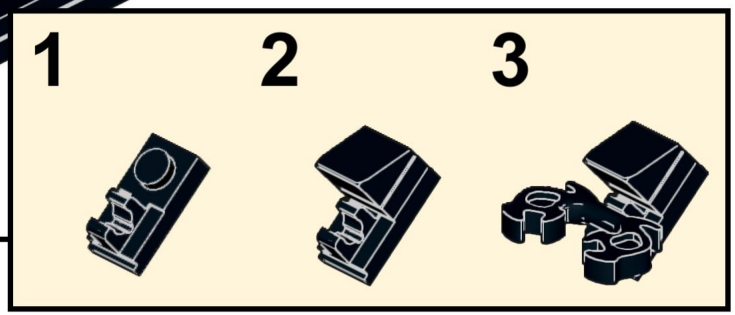

"Horseless" carriages pulled line up along a "mud track" near the Station for the students of Year Two – Year Seven. In his Fifth Year, Harry Potter realised the carriages were pulled by Thestrals, creatures he could see because he suddenly understood the reality of Cedric Diggory's death the year before.

146

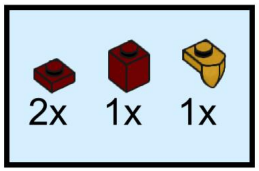

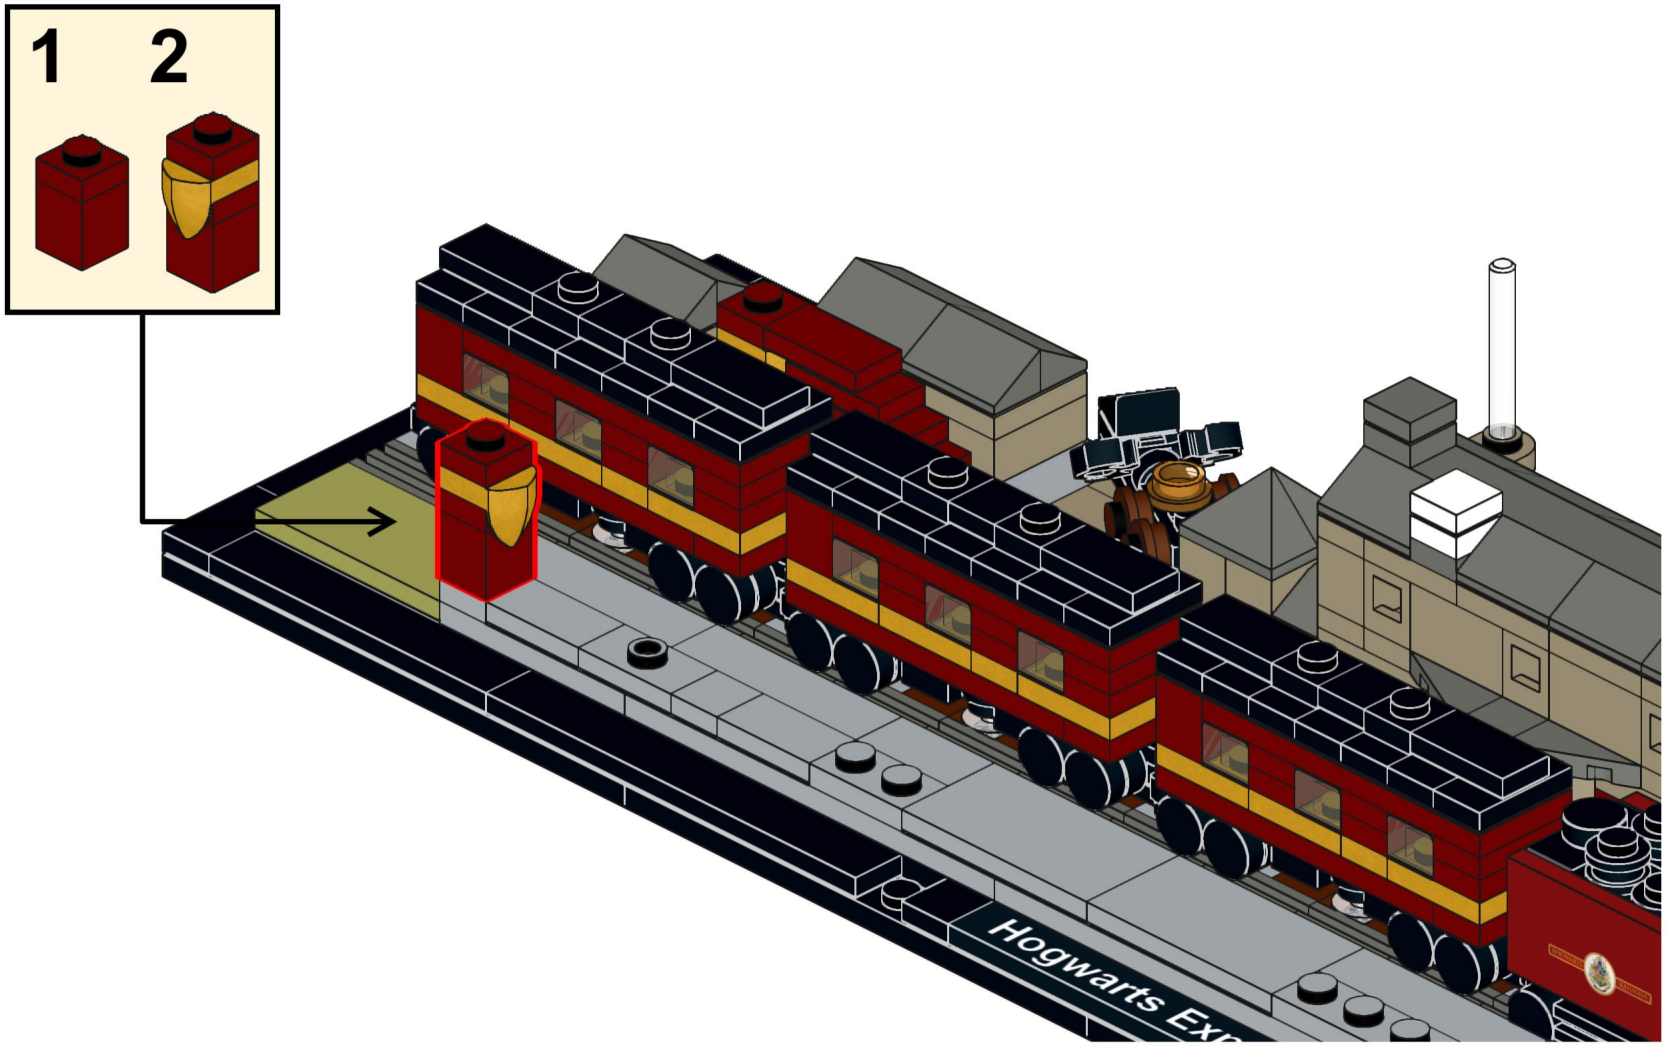

The Thestral is a breed of winged horse with a skeletal body, face with reptilian features, and wide, leathery wings that resemble a bat's. They are native to the British Isles and Ireland, though they have been spotted in parts of France and the Iberian Peninsula. They are very rare, and are considered dangerous by the British Ministry of Magic.

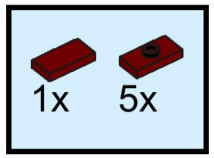

Thestrals are, undeservedly, known as omens of misfortune and aggression by many wizards because they are visible only to those who have witnessed death at least once or due to their somewhat grim, gaunt and ghostly appearance.

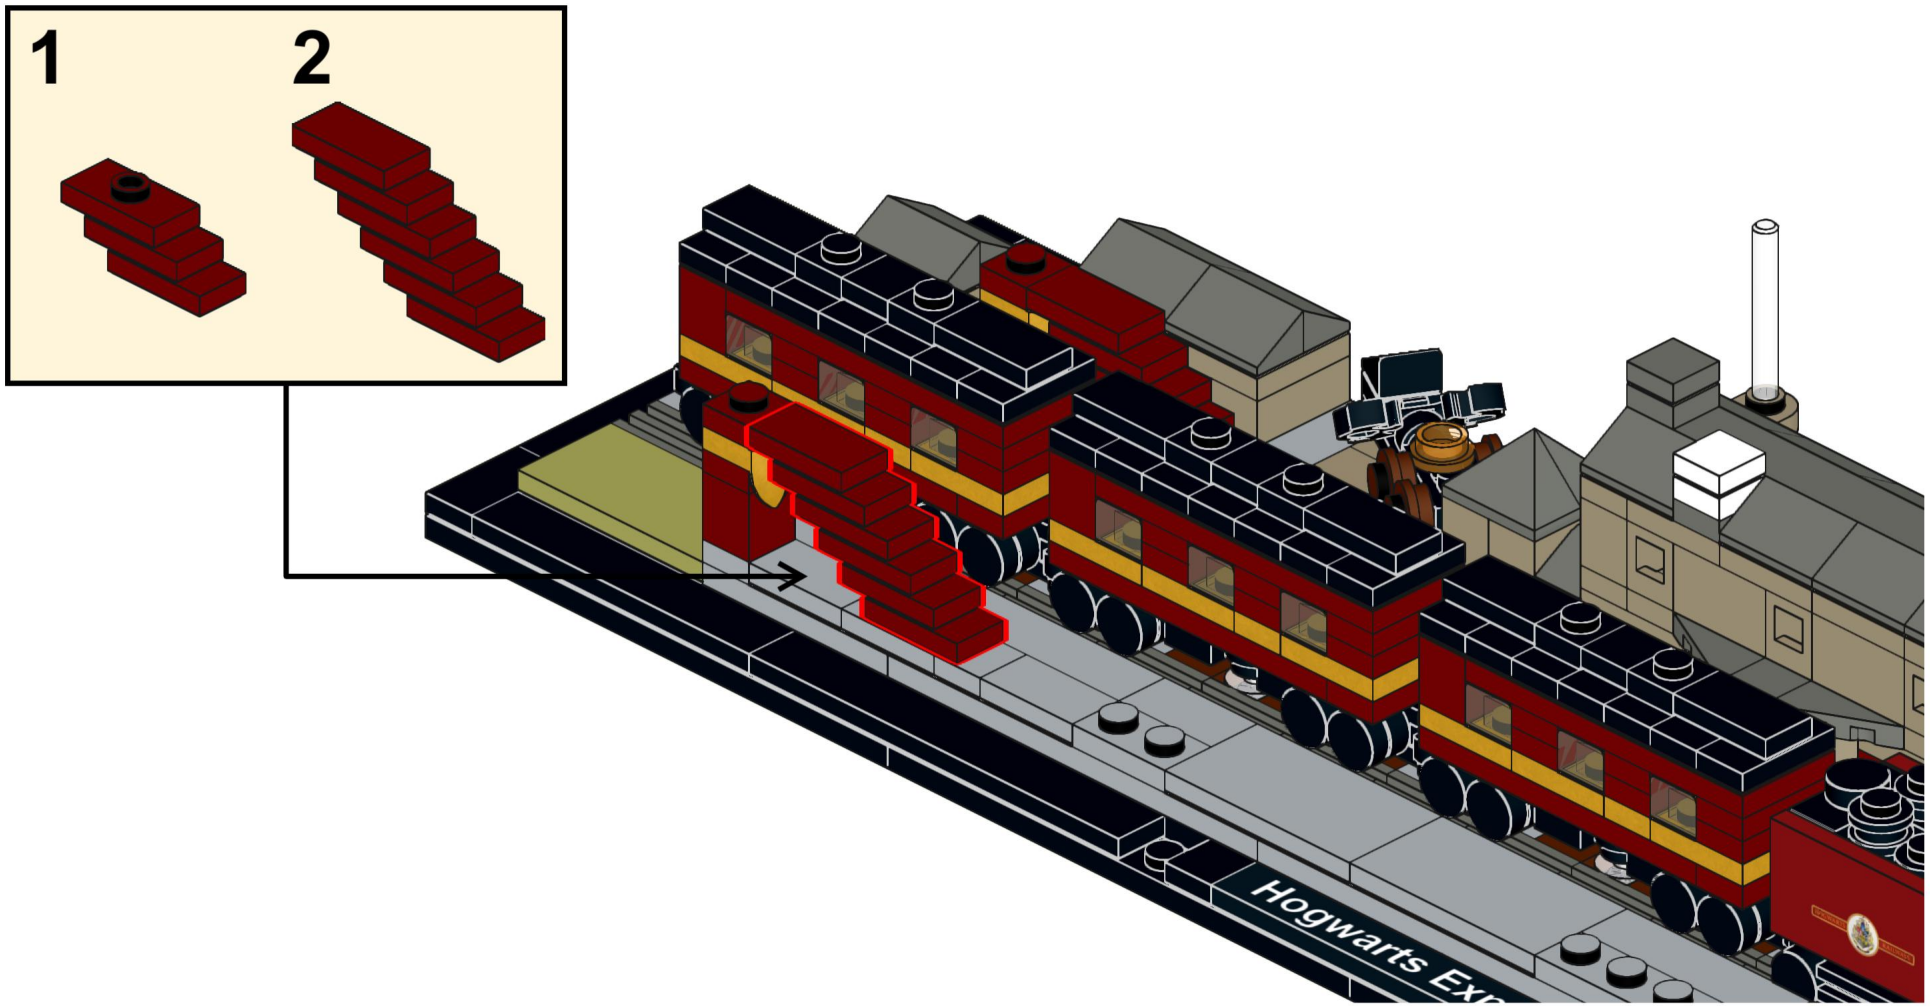

147

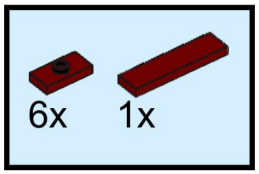

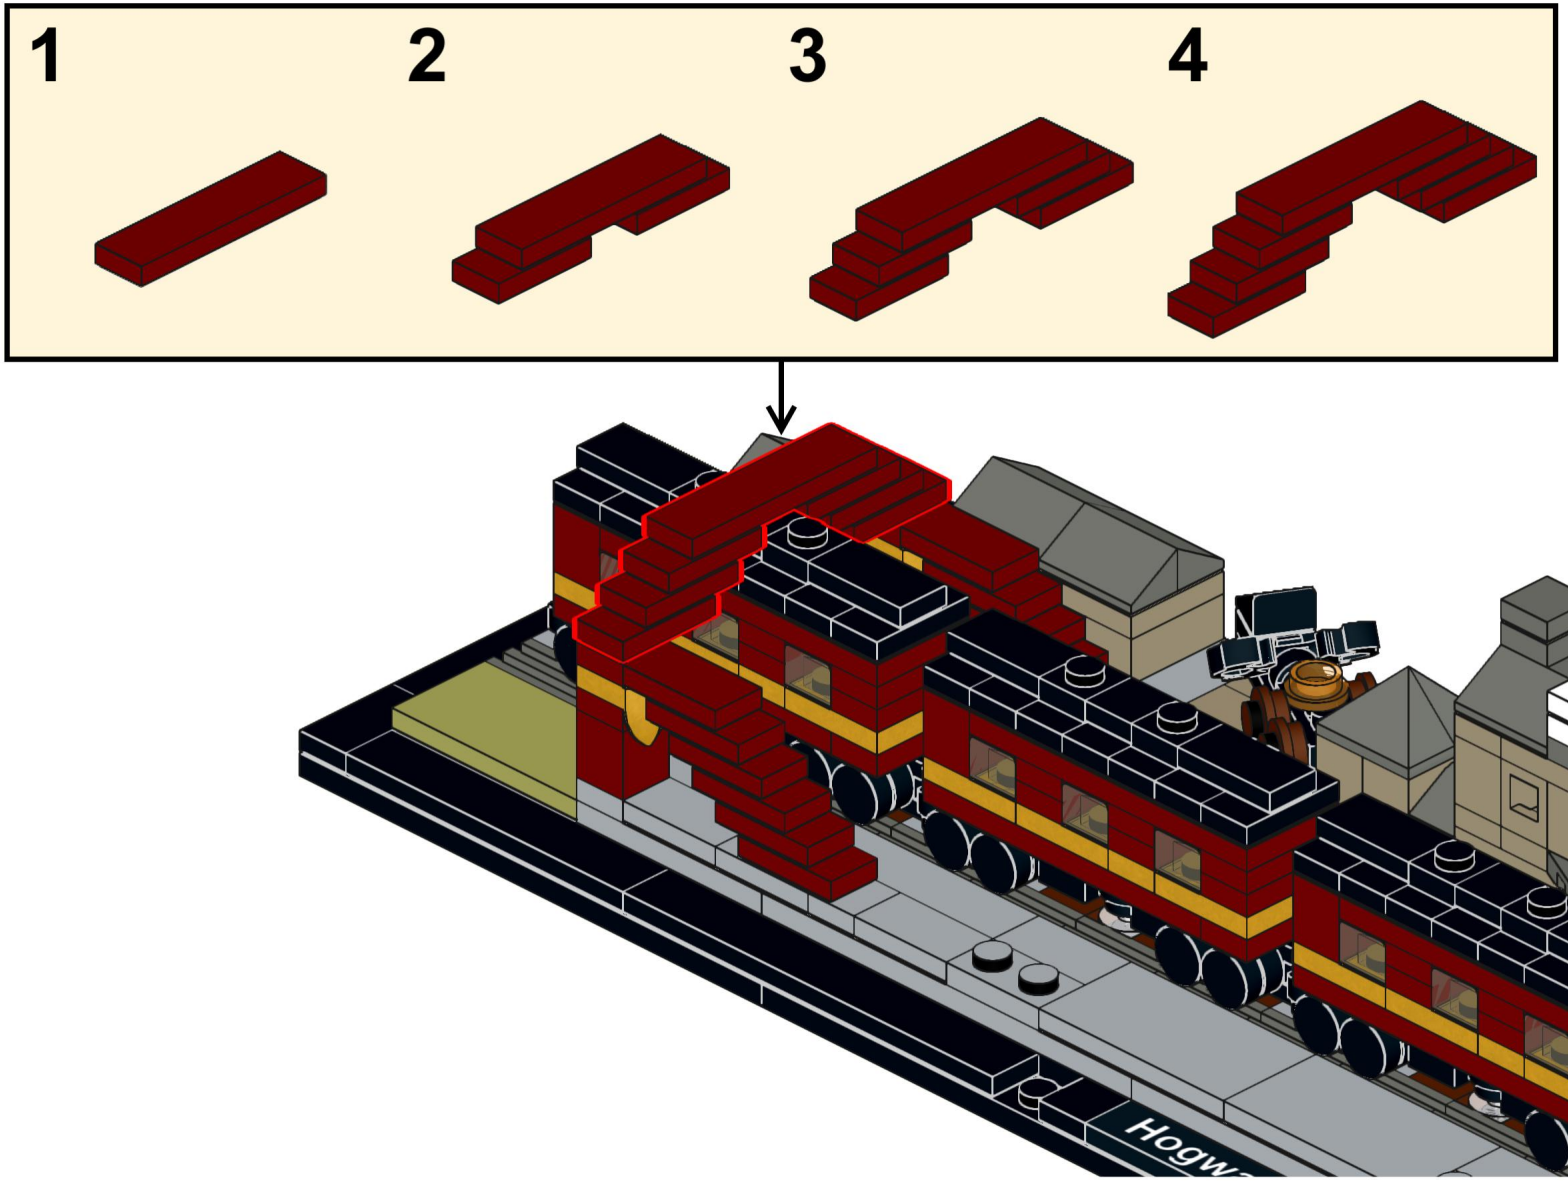

148

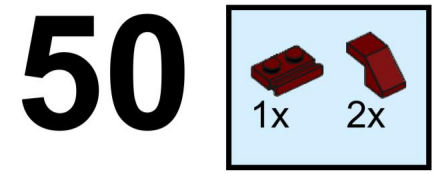

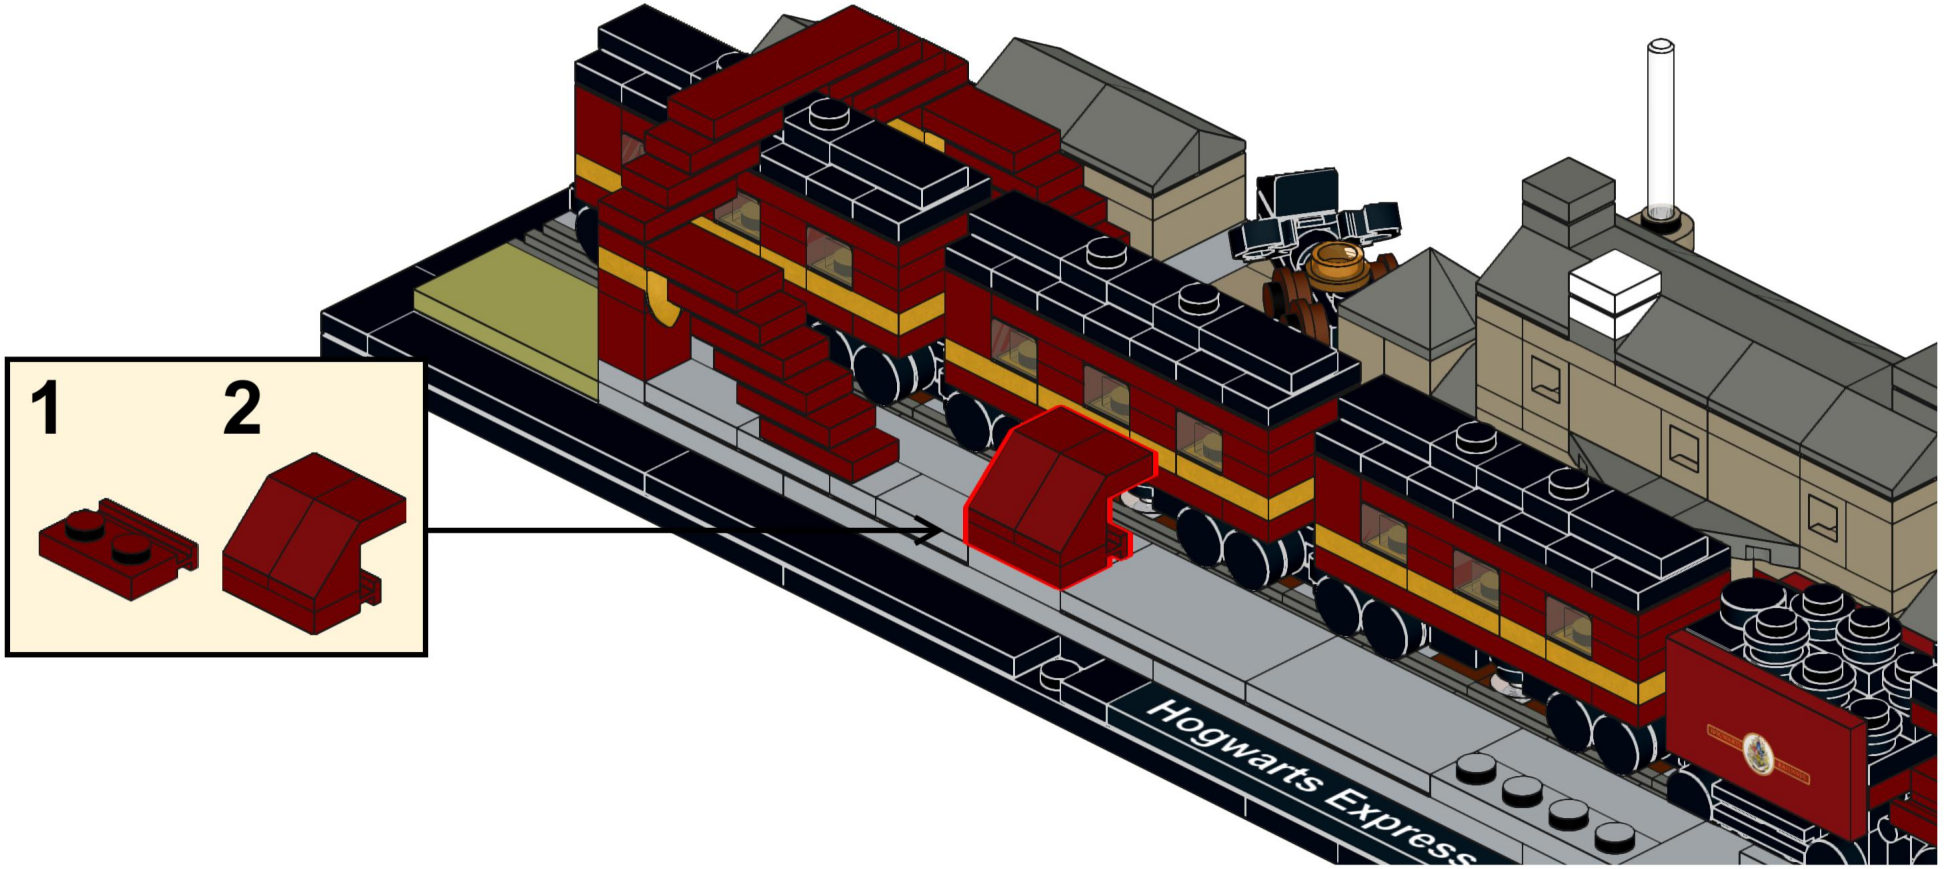

149

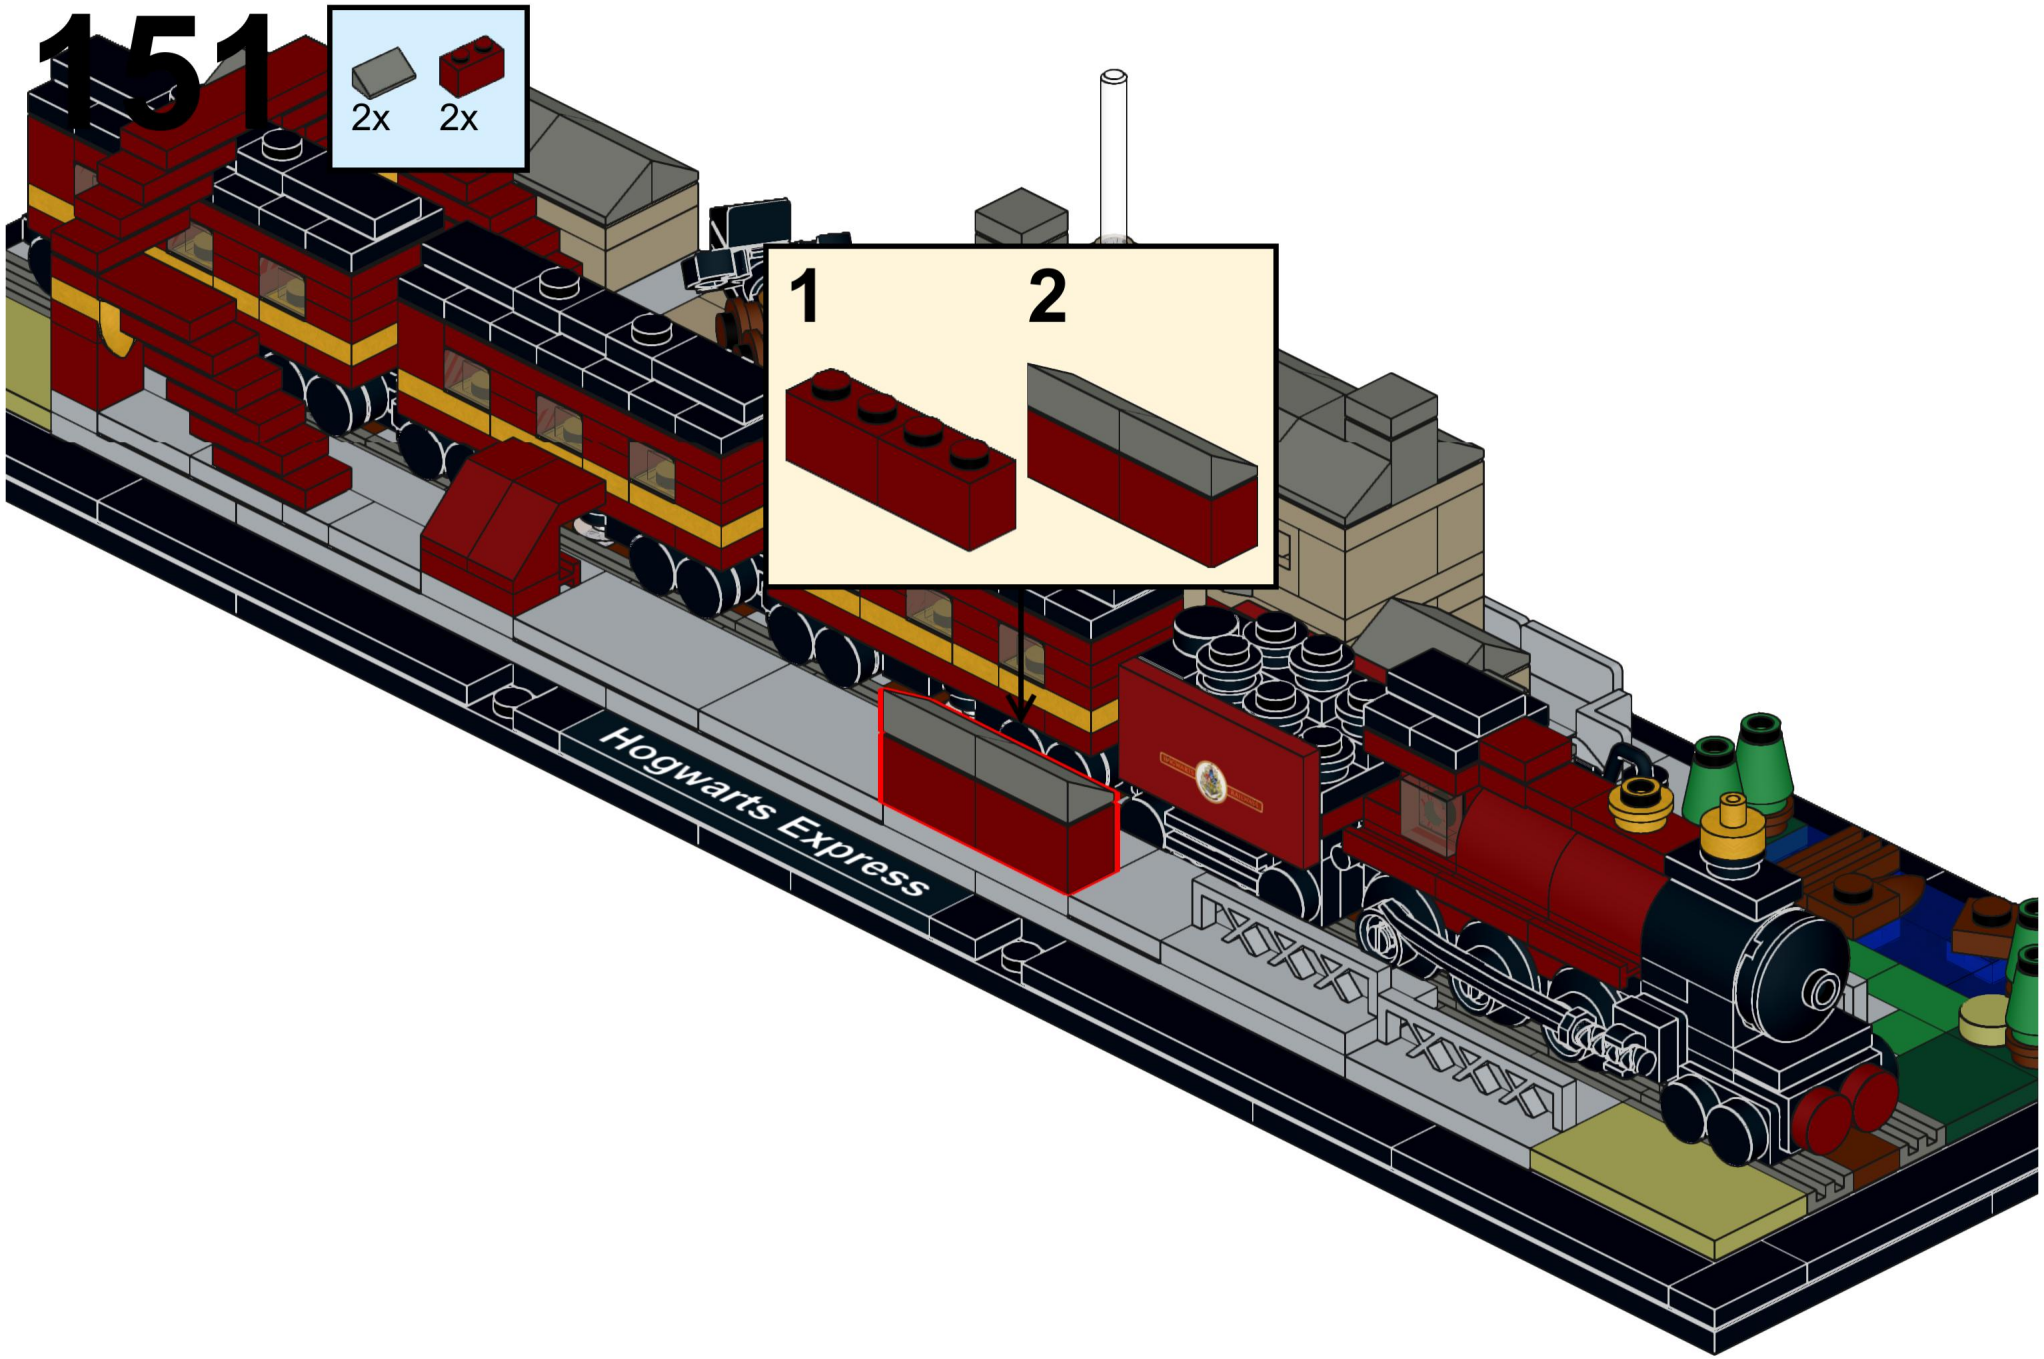

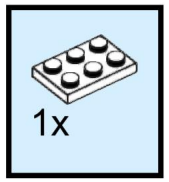

150

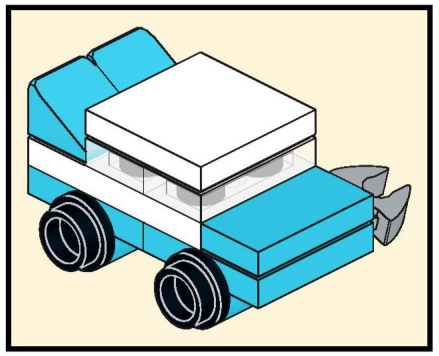

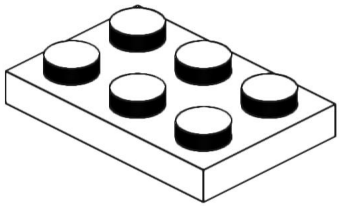

151
2x
2x
1
2
Hogwarts Express

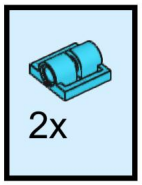

152

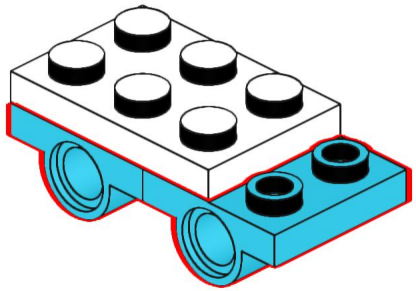

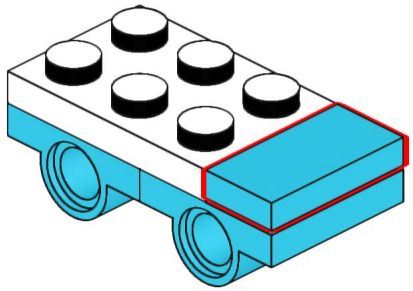

153

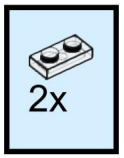

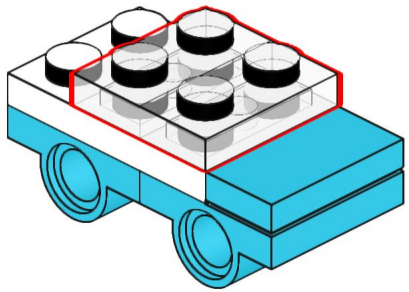

154

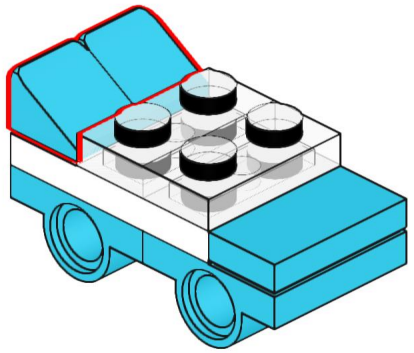

155

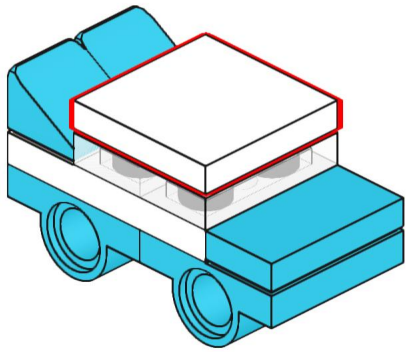

156

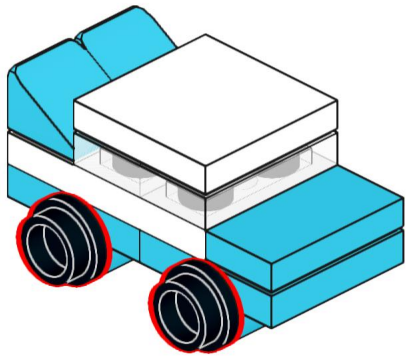

157

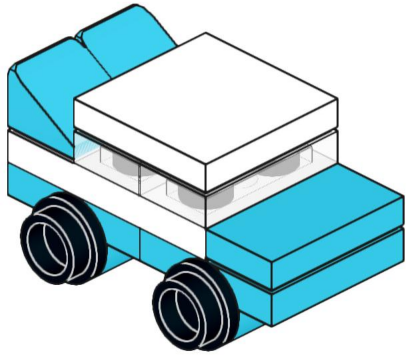

158

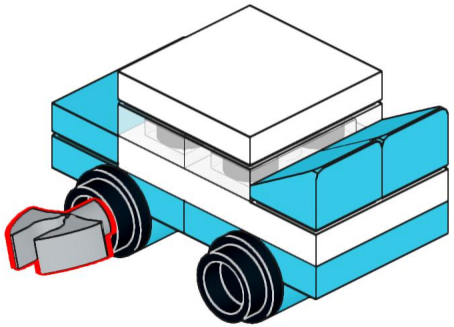

159

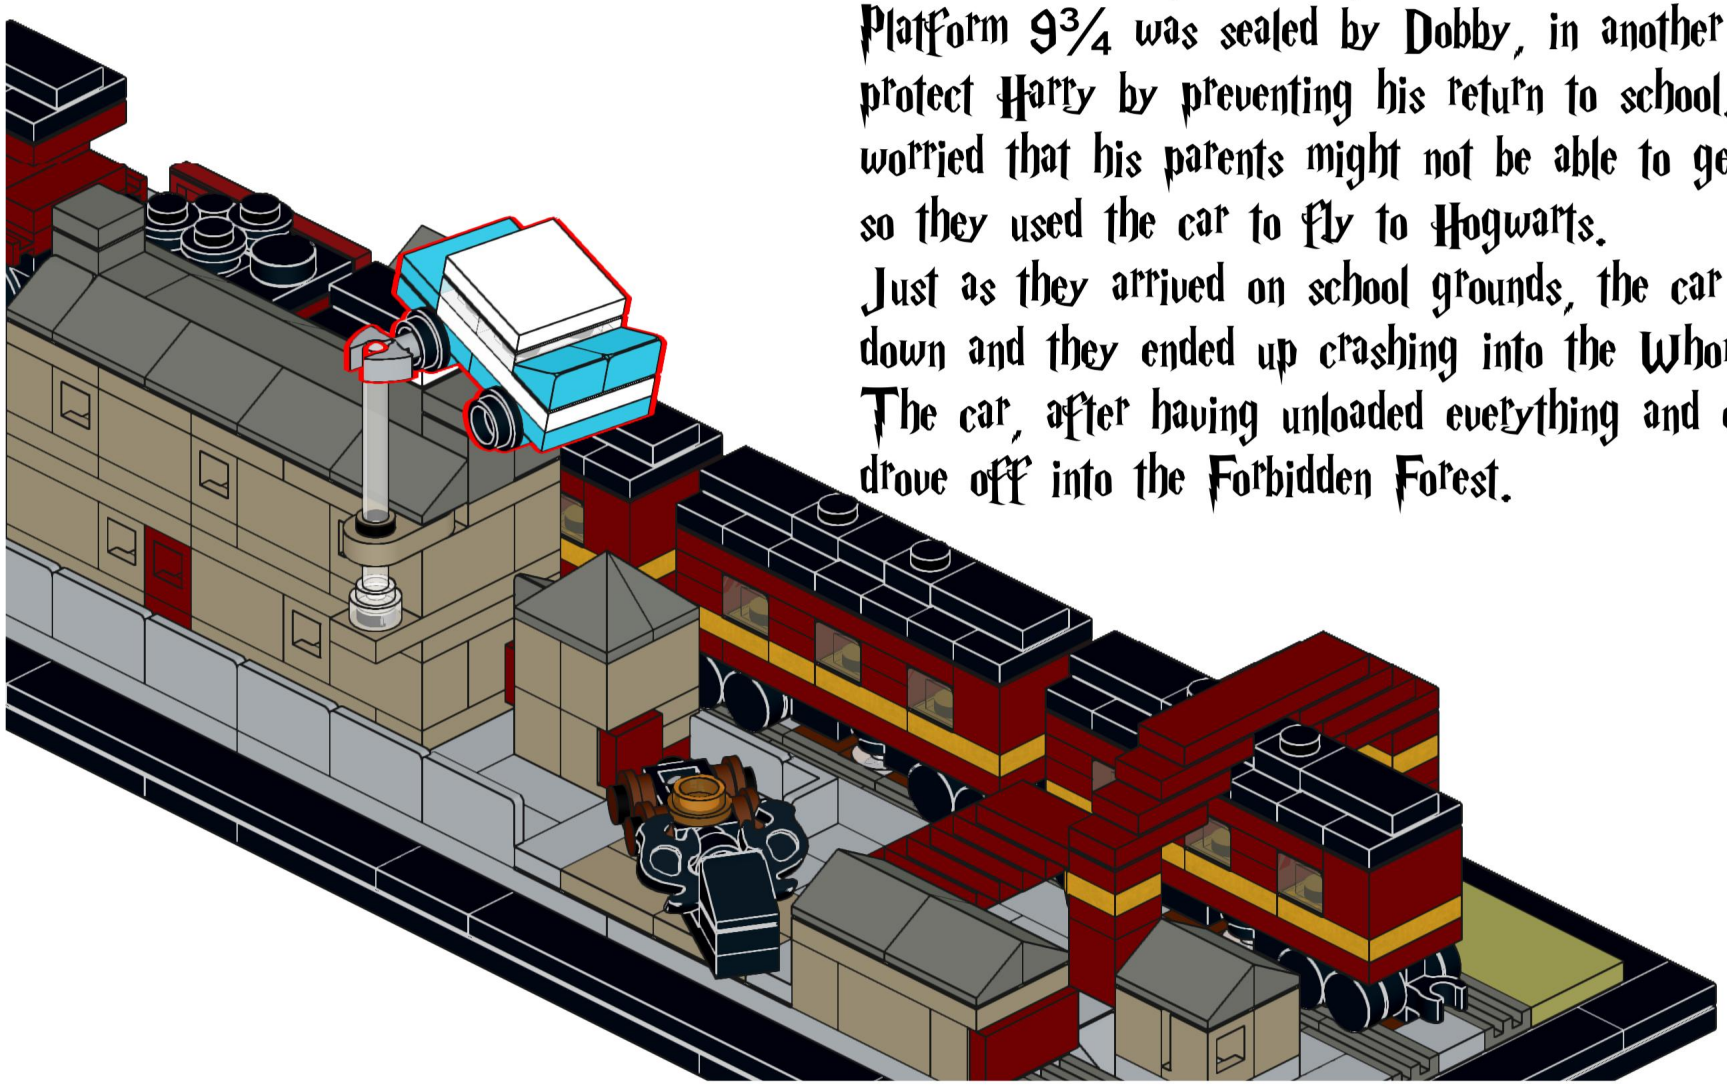

The Flying Ford Anglia was a light blue Ford Anglia 105E Deluxe that was enchanted by Arthur Weasley to fly, as well as to become invisible, with the use of a specially installed device called an Invisibility Booster. It was also modified so that it could fit eight people, six trunks, two owls, and a rat comfortably.

160

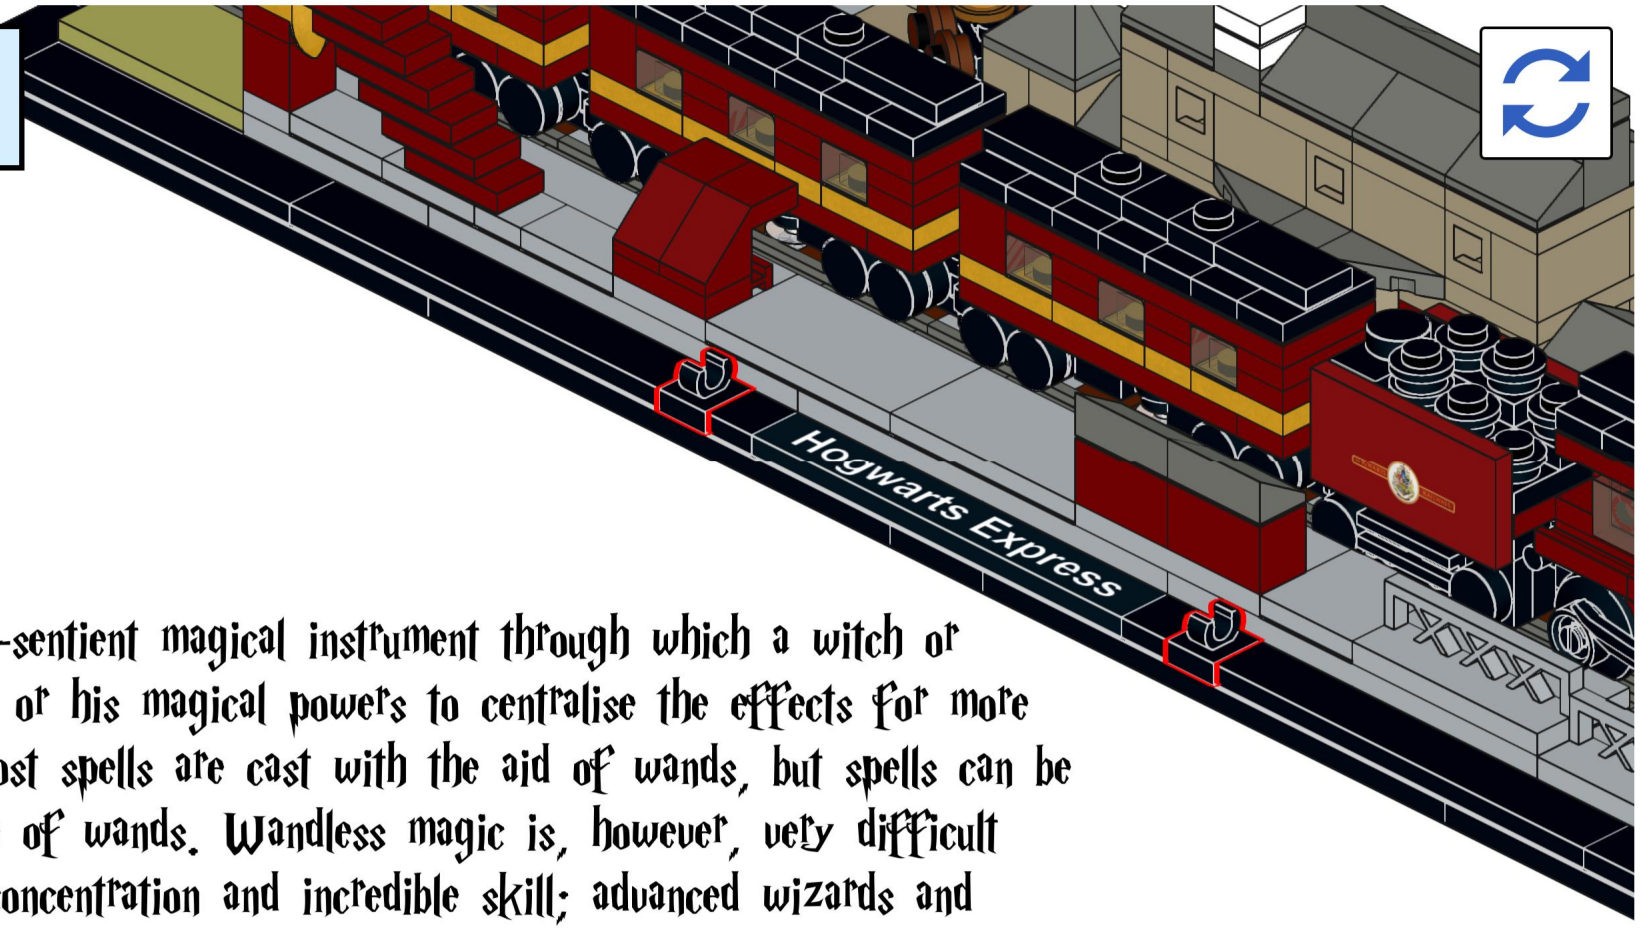

161

At the start of their second year, Harry and Ron used the enchanted car to get to Hogwarts when the entrance to Platform 9¾ was sealed by Dobby, in another attempt to protect Harry by preventing his return to school. Ron was worried that his parents might not be able to get back through, so they used the car to fly to Hogwarts.
Just as they arrived on school grounds, the car began to break down and they ended up crashing into the Whomping Willow. The car, after having unloaded everything and everyone in it, drove off into the Forbidden Forest.

162

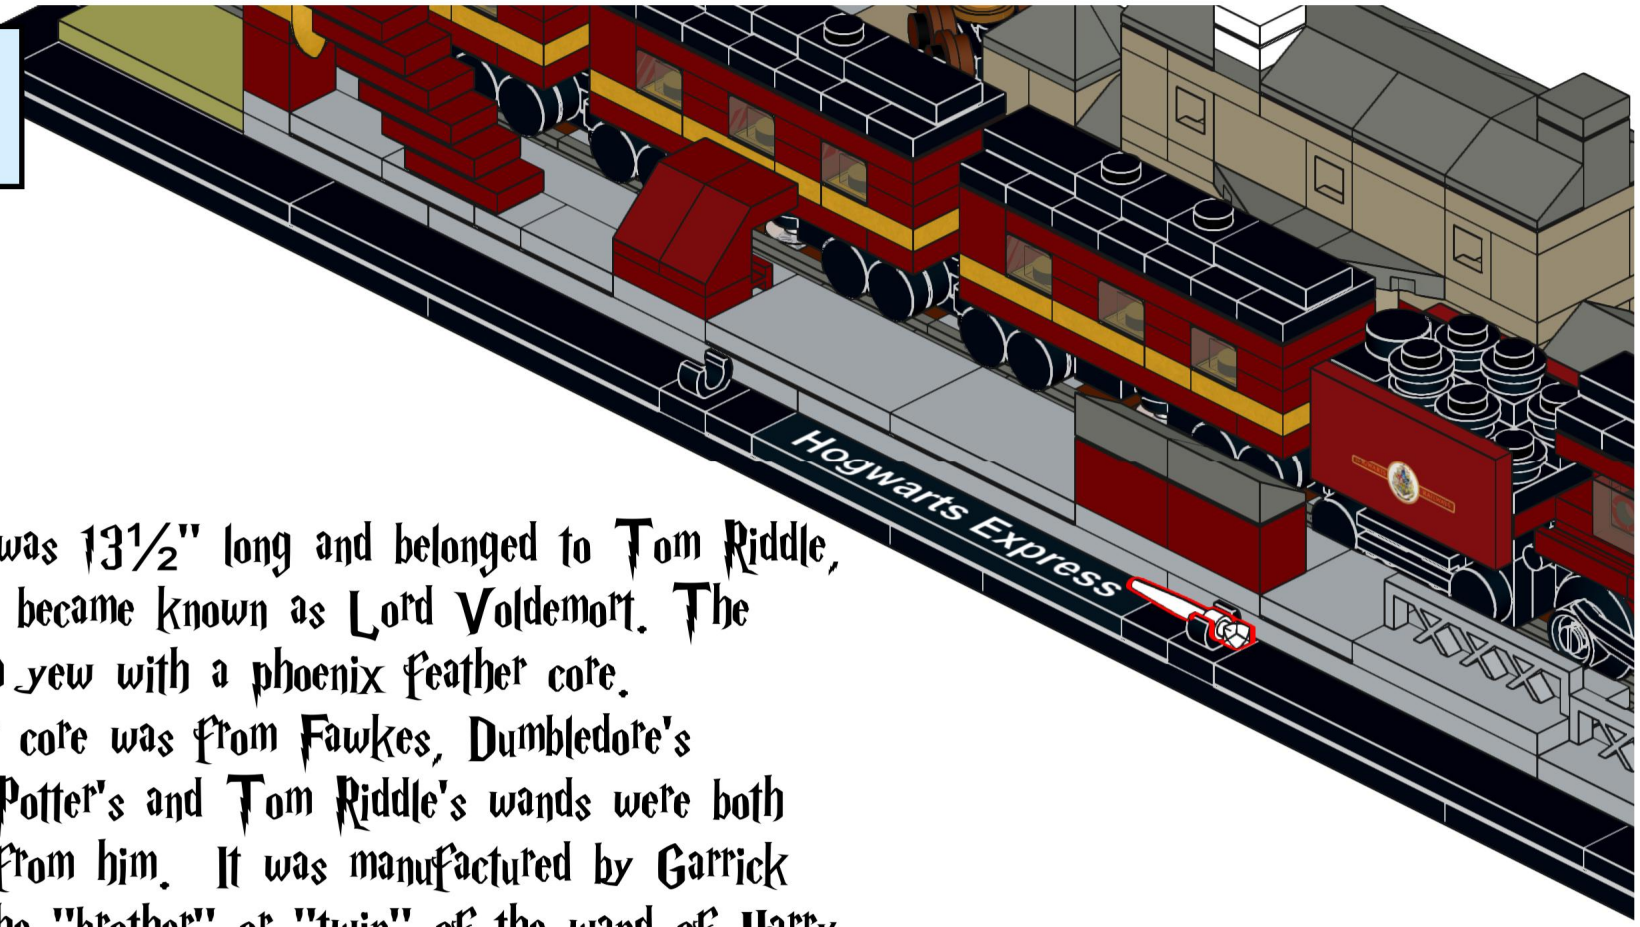

2x

A wand is a quasi-sentient magical instrument through which a witch or wizard channels her or his magical powers to centralise the effects for more complex results. Most spells are cast with the aid of wands, but spells can be cast without the use of wands. Wandless magic is, however, very difficult and requires much concentration and incredible skill; advanced wizards and some magical creatures such as house elves are known to perform such magic.Wands are manufactured and sold by wandmakers, the most famous of these in Great Britain being Ollivander. Each wand consists of a specific type of wood that surrounds a core of magical substance. Although the wand cores may come from the same creature, or the wood may come from the same tree, no two existing wands are exactly alike. The study of the history and the magical properties of wands is called wandlore.

163

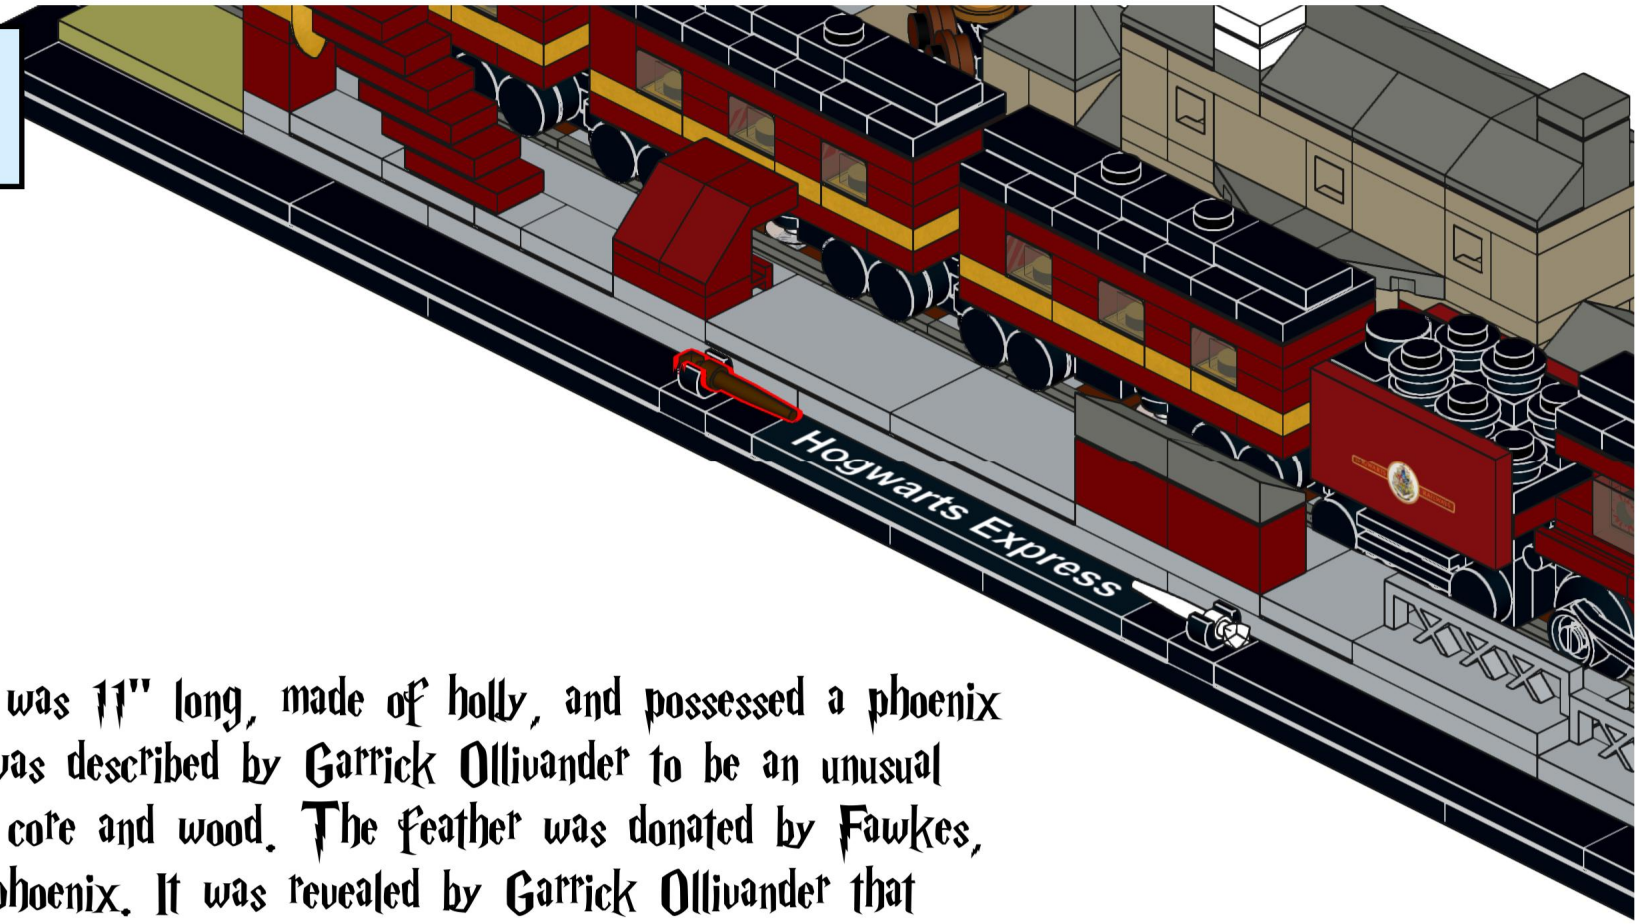

1x

Tom Riddle's wand was 13½" long and belonged to Tom Riddle, the wizard who later became known as Lord Voldemort. The wand was made from yew with a phoenix feather core. The phoenix feather core was from Fawkes, Dumbledore's phoenix, and Harry Potter's and Tom Riddle's wands were both made from feathers from him. It was manufactured by Garrick Ollivander and was the "brother" or "twin" of the wand of Harry Potter, as their wands share cores. It was with this wand that Riddle murdered James and Lily Potter and countless others, including Muggle Frank Bryce, Amelia Bones, and Ministry of Magic ex-employee Bertha Jorkins. On Voldemort's orders, Peter Pettigrew used this wand to kill Cedric Diggory in June of 1995 as well.

164

1x

Harry Potter's wand was 11" long, made of holly, and possessed a phoenix feather core. This was described by Garrick Ollivander to be an unusual combination of wand core and wood. The feather was donated by Fawkes, Albus Dumbledore's phoenix. It was revealed by Garrick Ollivander that Tom Riddle's wand core also came from Fawkes, making the two wands "brothers". Harry's wand was described as being "nice and supple". Harry's wand was broken in 1997, but was repaired by him after the 1998 Battle of Hogwarts. Usually the repair of a wand is impossible, but with the use of the Elder Wand it was achievable.
It can be assumed that Harry still uses this wand today, as he was incredibly fond of it.

165

